No. 189.—With reference to Notification No. 189R, dated 5th August 1873, the following Regulation is hereby re-published :—

BENGAL EASTERN FRONTIER REGULATION I OF 1873.

A Regulation for the peace and government of certain districts on the Eastern Frontier of Bengal.

WHEREAS the Secretary of State for India in Council has by resolution in Council declared the provisions of Act XXXIII Vic., Cap. 3, Section 1, to be applicable to the districts of Kamroop, Durrung, Nowgong, Seebsaugor, Luckimpore, Garo Hills, Khasi and Jynteah Hills, Naga Hills, Cachar, and Chittagong Hills;

And whereas the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal has proposed to the Governor-General in Council a draft of the following regulation, together with the reasons for proposing the same, for the peace and government of the said districts;

And whereas the Governor-General in Council has taken such draft and reasons into consideration, and has approved of such draft, and the same has received the Governor-General's assent;—

The following regulation is now published in the Gazette of India, and will be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and will thereupon have the force of law, under the thirty-third of Victoria, Chapter III :—

1. This Regulation shall extend to the districts named in the preamble, and shall come into force on the 1st of November 1873.

2. It shall be lawful for the Local Government of Bengal, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, to prescribe, and from time to time to alter by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, a line to be called "The Inner Line" in each or any of the above-named districts.

The Local Government may, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, prohibit all British subjects, or any class of British subjects, or any persons residing in or passing through such districts, from going beyond such line without a pass under the hand and seal of the chief executive officer of such district, or of such other officer as he may authorize to grant such pass; and the Local Government may from time to time cancel or vary such prohibition.

3. Any British subject or other person so prohibited, who, after "The Inner Line" has been prescribed and notified in accordance with Section 2 of this regulation, goes beyond such line without a pass, shall be liable on conviction before a Magistrate to a fine not exceeding Rs. 100 for the first offence, and to a fine not exceeding Rs. 500, or to simple or rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, or to both, for each subsequent offence.

4. The Local Government may, from time to time, prescribe by notification in the Calcutta Gazette a form of pass for each district, and may in such form fix such restrictions or conditions as the Local Government may deem fit, and may require the payment of such dues and fees for such passes as to the Local Government may seem proper. Any holder of such a pass shall, on breach of any such restriction or condition, be liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding Rs. 100 for a first offence, or to a fine not exceeding Rs. 500, or to simple or rigorous imprisonment, which may extend to three months, or to both, for each subsequent offence.

5. Any rubber, wax, ivory, or other jungle product found in the possession of any person convicted of an offence under this regulation, may be confiscated to Government by an order to be passed at the time of conviction by the Magistrate.

6. The chief executive officer of any district comprised in any notification as aforesaid may, subject to the approval of the Local Government, authorize, by a written instrument under his hand, any public servant to arrest and bring before him with the least practicable delay—

Firstly.—Any person prohibited from crossing "The Inner Line" prescribed for such district, if such person shall be found beyond the line, and when asked to produce his pass shall refuse or be unable so to do.

Secondly.—Any person to whom a pass may have been granted, and who has committed any infraction of its conditions.

7. It shall not be lawful for any British subject or other person, not being a native of the district comprised in the preamble of this regulation, to acquire any interest in land or the product of land beyond the said "Inner Line" without the sanction of the Local Government or such officer as the Local Government shall appoint in this behalf. Any interest so acquired may be dealt with as the Local Government or its said officer shall direct. The Local Government may also, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, extend the prohibition contained in this section to any class of persons, natives of the said districts, and may from time to time in like manner cancel or vary such extension.

8. Whoever, without the written permission of an officer authorized by the Local Government to grant such permission, kills or captures, or attempts to kill or capture, or abets within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, the killing or capturing of a wild elephant in any of the districts to which this regulation extends, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 200 for every such elephant, and any elephant so killed or captured shall be confiscated to Government: Provided that no person who kills, or attempts to kill, or abets the killing of an elephant in protection of himself, his houses, or his crops, shall be liable to punishment under this section; and provided also that every person who in the like case captures, or attempts to capture, or abets the capture of an elephant, shall be exempt from fine under this section, but shall, if the elephant be captured, be bound to surrender it to Government, or to pay such royality thereon as the Local Government may from time to time direct.

9. It shall be competent for the Local Government to make rules for the issue of licenses to kill or capture elephants, and for all purposes connected with the capture of elephants.

10. The prosecution for every offence punishable under section 8 of this regulation shall be commenced within six calendar months after the offence is committed.

11. Offences against this regulation may be tried by Magistrates of the first or second class, and shall be bailable.

LEAVE AND ALLOWANCES.

The 30th September 1873.

No. 3379.—The Governor General in Council directs that the following words be inserted after "Courts" in the example under Section 19(a) of the Acting Allowance Code, "who are not members of the general subordinate judicial service," and that the following be substituted for Rule 1 under the same section :—

> Officers of the Classified list of the Financial Department, and Judges of Small Cause Courts who are graded as members of the subordinate judicial service, do not come under this clause, but under the next clause.

PENSIONS AND GRATUITIES.

The 29th September 1873.

No. 3374.—The Governor General in Council directs that the following rule be substituted for that relating to Case III in Chapter XI of the Civil Leave Code :—

> The officer will obtain a last-pay certificate from the treasury where his pay and allowances were last disbursed to him, and if he proceeds to another Presidency or Province, he must get the counter-signature of the Accountant General who has jurisdiction over the treasury from which he obtained his last-pay certificate.

The 30th September 1873.

No. 3395.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to order the amendment of the definition of "Local Government" in—

Section 1 (a) of the Civil Pension Code,

Section 4 (e) of the Civil Leave Code,

Section 1 (a) of the Acting Allowance Code, as follows :—

> In each case omit "and" and add "and the Agents of the Governor General in Rájputána and Central India."

SEPARATE REVENUE.
(POST OFFICE.)

The 30th September 1873.

No. 3427.—There is reason to believe that the special privileges in respect to postage of official correspondence are not everywhere understood, and that sufficient attention is not paid to economy in the official use of the post.

The special privileges of official correspondence which affect ordinary transactions are as follows:—

(1).—An official cover of which the weight exceeds half a tolah, but does not exceed ten tolahs, may be sent by letter post for one anna only.

NOTE:—First.—For heavier covers, the charge by packet post is very much cheaper than by letter post.

Secondly.—It costs the Post Office Department less to carry packets (which are sent by banghy post) than letters.

(2).—An official packet may be sent in a closed cover.

The postage on a packet is one-half of that on a parcel; and the only advantages obtained by sending an official cover by parcel post rather than by packet post are (1) that a parcel is registered, while a packet is not registered; and (2) that, as pre-payment of the postage on a packet is compulsory, a packet cannot be sent "Service bearing."

The following rules should be observed:—

A.—Attention should be paid to reducing the weight of official covers sent by post, whenever this can conveniently be done. For instance, a whole bundle of papers should not be sent when a part will suffice.

B.—A cover of which the weight exceeds ten tolahs should be sent by packet* post, and not by letter post, unless it is important to save the extra time (never long) that it may, on some lines, and for long distances, take to transmit a packet by banghy post.

C.—An official cover should never be sent by parcel† post, unless—

(1.)—The contents are so valuable that, if sent by letter post, it would be registered, or

(2.)—The postage is a proper charge upon the individual or public body to whom it is addressed, and not upon the general revenues.

Whenever an official cover is received in any office which is wrongly stamped, or which (its weight being over ten tolahs) appear to have been needlessly sent by letter post instead of by packet post, or which (whatever its weight) appears to have been needlessly sent by parcel post instead of by packet post, the receiving officer should invariably remind the despatching officer of the instructions contained in this notification. This may be done, simply, by the use of skeleton forms; and it is hoped that all public officers will soon be so trained as to need no further reminding.

A copy of this notification should always be posted in each office before the officer whose duty it is to despatch the correspondence of the office, and also before the chief ministerial officer.

* NOTE.—It will usually be convenient to make it a standing order in every office, that no cover weighing more than ten tolahs shall be sent by letter post without the express permission of the Registrar or other chief ministerial officer, which permission should never be given without special reasons.

† NOTE.—It should probably be a standing order in every office, that no cover shall ever be sent by parcel post without the express permission of the Registrar or other chief ministerial officer, which permission should never be given without special reasons.

The schedule of official postage rates is appended for convenient reference :—

ALLOWANCE FOR REGIMENTAL BANDS.

(Issued as a special Army Circular on 27th March 1873.)

VICTORIA R.

Clause 35.—Whereas we have taken into our consideration the system under which the cost of maintaining Bands of Music in the Cavalry and Infantry Regiments of the Line and Colonial Corps is at present defrayed; and whereas we deem it expedient that a reasonable contribution towards the expenses of providing instruments and music for these bands be made from public funds:

Our will and pleasure is that an allowance, not exceeding £80 a year, be paid to each regiment of Cavalry and Battalion of Infantry of the Line and Colonial Corps maintaining a band.

Given at our Court at Windsor, this 26th day of March 1873, in the 36th year of Our Reign.

By Her Majesty's Command,

(Signed) EDWARD CARDWELL.

Secretary of State's Instructions.

1. The allowance of £80 for the year 1872-73 may be drawn at once in the case of regiments serving elsewhere than in India, and charged in the current account of the agent, who will credit the same to the Band Fund. In future the charge of £20 a quarter may be made by the Agent, vouched by the receipt of the President of the Band Committee.

2. Further instructions will be issued with regard to regiments in India.

TELEGRAPH DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

Simla, the 1st September 1873.

INADMISSIBLE COMBINATIONS OF WORDS IN TELEGRAMS.

The attention of the Bureau International des Administrations Telegraphiques having been directed to the increasing frequency of the practice of joining together words which do not admit of such combination, it has been decided that any Telegraphic Administration over whose lines a message passes, has the right to demand that the cost of extra words chargeable shall be recovered from the sender and credited in the international accounts.

2. In accordance with article 49 of the Rome Convention and with the notice printed on the back of receipts for foreign messages, under-charges are recoverable from the sender. In the case of a message charged for as a full single group of 20 words containing two words unauthorizedly joined together, the extra charge recoverable would be that for a half group of 10 words. Senders are accordingly hereby cautioned as to the necessity for the exercise of care in the selection of words used in Code or otherwise.

HIGH COURT.

NOTIFICATION.

Rules for Admission of Vakeels in the High Court

1. Every person, before being admitted to practise as a vakeel in the High Court, shall have obtained the Degree of Bachelor of Laws in the University of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay.

2. Except as mentioned in Rules 20 and 23, every person, before being admitted as a pleader in the High Court, shall serve a regular clerkship to some attorney or vakeel of the High Court to be approved by the Court before the contract is entered into, under articles of clerkship by contract in writing pursuant to the rules hereinafter contained for the full period of two years.

3. The term of service required by the last preceding rule need not be all under one and the same contract, nor to one and the same person, but may be to different persons by virtue of an assignment or assignments, or by virtue of successive independent contracts, upon the dissolution of the original or succeeding contract.

4. The person under whom the articles shall be served shall during the whole period of the service be actually practising as an attorney or vakeel in the High Court.

5. No person who is himself acting as clerk to an attorney or vakeel shall be able to take any clerk for service under articles.

6. No person shall be capable of service under these rules until he shall have passed the B. A. examination of the University of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay.

7. The contract in writing whereby a person shall engage as aforesaid to serve as a clerk to any attorney or vakeel shall be filed with the Registrar of the High Court on the Appellate Side within one calendar month after the execution of the same, together with an affidavit by such attorney or vakeel that he has been himself duly admitted, and has been practising for five years as an attorney or vakeel, and that such contract has been duly executed by himself and by the clerk therein mentioned. And in every such affidavit shall be specified the name of the attorney or vakeel and his place of abode or business, and the name of the clerk and his place of abode, together with the day on which the contract was actually executed.

8. In case the articles of clerkship shall be assigned, the assignment shall be in writing, and shall be in like manner filed within one calendar month after the execution thereof, together with an affidavit that the same has been executed by all the necessary parties. And in every such affidavit shall be specified the name of the attorney or vakeel to whom the articles are assigned and his place of business, together with the day on which the assignment was actually executed.

9. If by reason of death or for any other good and sufficient reason an assignment of the articles cannot be obtained, a fresh contract in writing shall be entered into by the clerk with the person under whom the service is continued, which shall be filed in the manner and with the affidavit prescribed by Rule 8.

10. In case the contract or assignment, together with the necessary affidavit, be not filed within the time specified, the same may be filed with the said Registrar after the expiration thereof; but the service of such clerk shall be reckoned to have been commenced or renewed from the date of filing such contract or assignment unless the Court shall otherwise order.

11. Every person who shall be articled to serve as a clerk to a vakeel or attorney for the purpose of being admitted as a vakeel shall during the whole period of such service continue, and be really and actually employed by such attorney or pleader in the proper business, practice and employment of an attorney or vakeel.

12. Before any person shall be admitted as a vakeel in the High Court, he shall sign and file with such Registrar as aforesaid answers to the questions contained in the Schedule A, hereunto annexed; and the person or persons under whom he shall have served his articles shall sign and file answers to the questions contained in the Schedule B, hereunto annexed, as also a certificate in the form given therein.

13. In case the applicant should shew sufficient cause to the satisfaction of the Court why the last rule cannot be fully complied with, it shall be in the power of the Court to dispense with any part of this rule which it may think fit and reasonable.

14. The applicant shall in all cases produce satisfactory testimonials as to his good character.

15. The applicant shall also, if required, sign and leave with the said Registrar answers in writing to such other questions as shall be directed by the Court touching the service and conduct of the applicant, and also, if required, attend the Court personally for the purpose of giving further explanation touching the same; and shall also, if required, procure the attendance of the person or persons with whom he shall have served his clerkship as aforesaid to answer either personally or in writing any questions touching such service or conduct, or shall make proof to the satisfaction of the Court of his inability to procure the same.

16. Upon compliance with the aforesaid rules, if the Court shall be satisfied as to the fitness and capacity of the applicant, a certificate shall be granted to him in the following form:—

> In pursuance of the rules of the High Court relative to the admission of vakeels, it is hereby certified that A. B. has complied with the requirements of the said rules, and that he is a fit and proper person to be admitted to practise as a vakeel in the High Court.
> (Signed) C. D.,
> A Judge of the High Court.

17. Any person intending to apply to be admitted to practise as a pleader in the High Court shall also give one month's notice in writing to the Registrar aforesaid stating his intention, and shall also insert in the Calcutta Gazette a like notice for four successive weeks prior to his application.

18. Any person who has been admitted to the Degree of B. L. in the University of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, and who shall produce the certificate mentioned in Rule 16, shall, after giving the notice required by Rule 17, be enrolled as a vakeel of the High Court.

19. Any person who has been admitted to the Degree of B. L. in the University of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, and who shall prove to the satisfaction of the Court that he has bonâ fide practised for four years as a pleader in one or more of the Courts of the Mofussil subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court, and that he is a person of good character, may after giving the notice required by rule 17 be admitted to practise in the High Court as a vakeel without service under articles.

20. Every person applying to be admitted under the last rule shall one month prior to admission leave with such Registrar, as aforesaid, answers to the questions contained in the Schedule C hereunto annexed, and also a certificate or certificates in the form contained in Schedule D hereunto annexed.

21. In case the applicant should shew sufficient cause to the satisfaction of the Court why the last rule cannot be complied with, it shall be in the power of the Court to dispense with any part of this rule upon such terms as it may think fit and reasonable.

22. An applicant under Rule 19, shall in all cases produce satisfactory testimonials as to his good character; and shall also, if required, leave with the said Registrar answers in writing to such questions as the Court shall direct touching the qualification of such person to be admitted as a vakeel in the High Court; and shall, if required, attend the Court personally for the purpose of giving further explanation touching the same.

23. Any attorney of the High Court who shall establish to the satisfaction of the Court that he has bonâ fide practised as such for the period of three years, and that he is a person of good character and ability, may be admitted to practise in the High Court as a vakeel.

24. These rules shall come into force on the first day of January 1874.

SCHEDULE A.

Questions as to due service of articles to be answered by the applicant.

1. What was your age at your last birthday?

2. Have you served the whole term of your articles at the place where the person or persons to whom you were articled or assigned carried on his or their business? and, if not, state for what reason.

3. Have you at any time during the term of your articles been absent without the permission of the person or persons to whom you were articled or assigned? and, if so, state the length and occasions of such absence.

4. Have you during the period of your articles been engaged, or concerned, in any, and, if any, what profession, business or employment, other than your professional employment as clerk to the person or persons to whom you were articled or assigned?

5. Have you since the expiration of your articles been engaged or concerned, and for how long a time, in any, and, if any, what profession, trade, business or employment, other than the profession of an attorney or vakeel?

SCHEDULE B.

Questions to be answered and certificate to be given by the person or persons with whom the clerk may have served any part of his time under articles.

1. Has A. B. served the whole period of his articles at the place where you carry on your business? and, if not, state the reason.

2. Has the said A. B. at any time during the period of his articles been absent? and, if so, state the length and occasions of such absence.

3. Has the said A. B. during the whole period of his articles been engaged or concerned in any, and, if any, what profession, business, or employment, other than his professional employment as your articled clerk?

4. Has the said A. B. during the whole period of his clerkship, with the exceptions above mentioned, been faithfully and diligently employed in your professional business of an attorney [or vakeel, as the case may be]?

5. Has the said A. B. since the expiration of his articles been engaged or concerned, and for how long a time, in any profession, trade, business or employment, other than the profession of an attorney or vakeel?

And I do hereby certify that the said A. B. has duly and faithfully served under his articles of clerkship [or assignment of articles, as the case may be] bearing date, &c., for the term therein expressed, and that he is a fit and proper person to be admitted as a vakeel of the High Court.

SCHEDULE C.

1. What was your age last birthday?

2. What is the date of your enrolment as a pleader, and where were you enrolled?

3. Have you practised in one or several Courts? State the periods during which you practised in each, and the dates of the beginning and end of each period.

4. Have you at any time been engaged or concerned in any, and, if any, what profession, business, or employment, other than that of a pleader? If so, when and for what period?

SCHEDULE D.

I, C. D., District Judge [or Subordinate Judge or Moonsiff, as the case may be] do certify that to the best of my belief A. B. practised in my Court regularly as a pleader from the day of 18 to the day of 18 , and that he was diligent and faithful in the performance of his duties, and that he is a fit and proper person to be admitted as a vakeel of the High Court.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA

HOME DEPARTMENT.

GOOD CONDUCT OF HONORARY ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER AGHA JAN, TALOOQDAR OF OORANGABOO IN OUDH.

Extract from a Report by the District Superintendent of Police, Sitapur, in Oudh, dated 1st May 1873, in the matter of a Dacoity at Phulpur.

Nothing could be more self-sacrificing than the conduct of Honorary Assistant Commissioner Aghá Ján, Tálooqdar of Oorangáboo. He proceeded to the place directly he heard of the Dacoity, and remained there until the Police declared the investigation to be completed. There can be no doubt that the Police are indebted to him in a very great measure for the bringing home of this Dacoity to the three Passees, who have been apprehended. During the whole time the investigation was going on, Aghá Ján took up his quarters, as the Police did, under a few trees, and it is to his influence in a great measure that the case has terminated so satisfactorily Extract from a Letter, dated 5th May 1873, from the Deputy Secretary to the Chief Commissioner of Oudh, to the District Superintendent of Police, Sitapur.

I am directed to request that you will convey to Honorary Assistant Commissioner, Aghá Ján, Tálooqdár, the cordial thanks of the Officiating Chief Commissioner for his excellent conduct in this case of Dacoity.

Extract from a Letter from the Officiating Under Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department, to the Chief Commissioner of Oudh, No. dated September 1873.

I am desired to request, that you will be good enough to convey the thanks of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council, to Honorary Assistant Commissioner Aghá Ján, Talooqdár of Oorangaboo, for the energy and public spirit he displayed on the occurrence of the Dacoity at Phulpur.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, REVENUE, AND COMMERCE.

Reports on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ending the 2nd October 1873.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Prospects in Madras continue unchanged. In Sindh the river is falling rapidly, and reports are not favorable. In Gujarat there has been very little rain, but in Khandesh and the Deccan districts enough has fallen; also in the South Mahratta country, except in Dharwar. In Bengal the fall during the week has been very slight, and more rain is required for the late rice crop in almost all districts. In the North-Western Provinces there has been no rain; reports are generally fair, except from Goruckpoor, where the rice has suffered considerably; some damage to this crop is also reported from Rohilkund. In Oudh the rice crops have also suffered from deficient rain. In the Punjab there has been hardly any rain: prospects are good. In the Central Provinces there has been a slight fall in the western districts, and reports are favourable. In Berar prospects are good. In Central India and Rajputana there have been occasional showers, and reports are generally fair, except from Bickaneer. In Mysore a good fall has relieved anxiety over the greater part of the province.

Presidency or Province and District.	Rain-fall for week preceding.	State of agricultural prospects.	Remarks of Local Government or Administration.
Madras. (Oct 2nd)
Kistna (1st)	0·26 at Masulipatam.	Rain-fall slight elsewhere; seven and half feet water over anicut; canal and rain supply insufficient in the Delta and upland taluqs; dry crops being sown and paddy transplanted; standing crops in good order; outturn below the average; markets well supplied; prices tending to rise; pasture barely sufficient; dry fodder exhausted; small-pox in mild form; cattle healthy.	General prospect tolerably satisfactory.
Kurnool "	1·28 in one day in Kurnool.	Rain-fall good throughout the district, especially in Koilkoontla and Serwell; cultivation commenced in Koilkoontla; crops generally good; markets well supplied; prices steady; pasture and water generally sufficient; men and cattle healthy, but for dengue in Nandikattur; seven feet water over Sunkesala anicut.
Negapatam "	0·36 at Negapatam.	Rain-fall scanty elsewhere; rain wanted; freshes in rivers; supply to tanks moderate; cultivation progressing; standing crops not thriving in some parts for want of sufficient rain; inferior paddy and some dry crops harvested; outturn below the average; markets well supplied; prices steady; pasture not abundant; health generally good; cattle disease here and there.
Trichinopoly "	.....	Rain-fall slight all over the district; water-supply sufficient, except in some dry villages; condition of crops good except in dry villages where they are drooping; outturn below the average; markets well supplied; prices steady; pasture scarce; health good, but for small-pox; condition of cattle good.
Malabar ...	.....	No report received.
Calicut ...	Nil	Want of rain injurious to second crop and other minor cultivation; markets well supplied; prices steady; pasture withering; small-pox and fever slightly prevalent; cattle healthy.
Bombay. (Oct 2nd)	.....
Sindh.
Kurrachee (1st)	.....	River at Kotree 10 feet 10 inches, and falling rapidly; crops in Dadu suffering from want of rain; prospects of the season very bad; prices unchanged.
Hyderabad "	.....	Indus rose, but has again fallen; weather cool and healthy; khureef reaping commenced; ploughing for rubbee general; early cotton being picked; quality good.
Shikarpoor "	.....	Crops suffering from want of water; cotton picking in progress; river falling daily; fever prevalent; days hot; heavy dews; floods nearly subsided: wheat 13 sers.
Upper Frontier "	.....	Rubbee sowing progressing; fever and cough prevailing throughout the district; wheat 17 sers.
Gujarat.
Ahmedabad "	.....	Rain in the district; harvest begun; slight fever.
Kaira "	.....	Crops and weather good; fever prevalent.
Surat "	.....	Weather hot; crops and health good; wheat 12 75 sers.
Broach "	0·53	Rice crops suffered slightly; bajra crops reaped.

LEAVE AND ALLOWANCES.

The 9th October 1873.

No. 3551.—The Governor General in Council directs that the following be added to the exception under Section I of Supplement F. to the Civil Leave Code:—

"A peon belonging to the Inland Customs Department, and a police constable in the Central Provinces, sick in hospital, is entitled to full pay for one month. Provided that this indulgence may not be repeated for a year, save with the special sanction of the Local Government, which should be given only when the sufferer has been posted in a notoriously unhealthy district."

The 10th October 1873.

No. 3601.—The Governor General in Council directs that the following be added as Section 2 A. of the Civil Leave Code:—

If an absentee makes over charge of his office before noon, his leave begins on and includes that date, otherwise it begins on the following day.

But if the absence of the absentee does not involve the deputation of any officer from another station; or any formal transfer of charge in the way of taking over money, or the like, then the Local Government may, by a special order, permit the absentee to leave his station at the close of the last day on which the office is open for business before his leave begins. In such case the several transfers of charge dependent upon the departure of the absentee shall take effect from the close of the last working day as aforesaid. But the leave of the absentee and the re-arrangement of allowances, if any, depending upon his departure, shall begin from and include the first day thereafter on which the office is open for business.

[NOTE.—This section applies to leave granted under any of the supplements to this Code.]

PENSIONS AND GRATUITIES.

The 9th October 1873.

No. 3598.—The Governor General in Council directs that the following be added as Rule 8 to Section 34 of the Civil Pension Code:—

An officer who is paid from a local fund may, on first appointment, with the permission of the Local Government, and upon production of a medical certificate under Section 49, Rule 2, subscribe for a pension or gratuity under this section.

The rules of the Code would then apply to such officer so long as he continued to subscribe for pension or gratuity, as if he were paid from the general revenues.

The 10th October 1873.

No. 3566.—The Governor General in Council directs that the following be substituted for Rule 1 of Section 114 of the Civil Pension Code:—

The heirs of native soldiers killed in action succeed in the following order—son, widow, daughter, father, mother

To a male the pension is given as follows:—

If the pensioner is under six years of age, till he is eighteen years old.

If above six and under fifty years; for twelve years.

If above fifty years; for life.

To a female the pension is for life.

This order need not be followed absolutely in the Civil Department, but it should not be lightly rejected.

The pension of a male should not ordinarily be continued after he is eighteen years old. The pension of a female should last only until marriage, but on marriage she may have a dowry equal to five years' pension.

SEPARATE REVENUE—POST OFFICE.

The 10th October 1873.

No. 3657.—RESOLUTION.—The attention of the Government of India has been directed to the report of a suit in the Divorce Court (Hogg versus Hogg and Cordery), from which it appeared that Mr. Hogg, when filling the office of Post Master General of Bombay, withdrew from the Post Master a letter written by Mrs. Hogg.

2. Mr. Hogg, on his return from leave, was called upon to offer an explanation of his conduct in the matter; and, pending the receipt of that explanation, he was directed not to resume charge of the Office of the Director General of the Post Office. The explanation has now been received.

3. The facts are as follows: In September 1868, Mr. Hogg being Post Master General of Bombay, Mrs. Hogg wrote a letter to Mr. Cordery, which was committed to a lady for the purpose of being posted. The lady showed the letter to Mr. Hogg, who, without opening it, directed her to carry out Mrs. Hogg's instructions. Subsequently Mr. Hogg, by the exercise of his power as Post Master General of Bombay, obtained possession of the letter.

4. Mr. Hogg states that he interpreted the law and regulations to vest the property in letters sent by the post in India in the sender, and not in the person to whom a letter is addressed, and that he considered at the time that he was justified in withdrawing this letter from the post.

5. Mr. Hogg states that he had no doubt as to the legality of his action in the matter, or he would not have allowed the letter to have reached the post, and that he would have exercised his powers as Post Master General in the same manner upon the application of any other person similarly situated. In the year 1871, however, the legality of his action was questioned, and he took the proper course of further considering his legal powers and of reporting the circumstances officially to Mr. Monteath, the Director General of the Post Office, his immediate superior.

6. Mr. Monteath expressed his opinion that Mr. Hogg was wrong in his view of his legal powers, but that his conduct was not open to any moral blame.

7. His Excellency in Council agrees with Mr. Monteath that Mr. Hogg took an erroneous view of his powers as Post Master General.

The Indian Post Office Act 1866 (Section 27), expressly bars the right of the sender of a letter to recall it, and only allows the Governor General in Council to make regulations under which a letter may be re-delivered to the sender. Mr. Hogg was, therefore, in error, in supposing that the property in letters sent by the post in India is, by law, vested in the sender.

The Regulation made under the 27th Section of the Act is as follows:—

28. "Unless by an express order of the Government or Director General of the Post Office, or a Post Master General, no letter, parcel, or packet, which has been delivered into any Post Office, shall be restored to the sender thereof, except in the manner described in Section 29 of the Post Office Act" (this section refers to unclaimed letters); "and except in the case of a letter or other article addressed to a place beyond the limits of British India, which, for any reason, cannot be forwarded to its destination."

This Regulation does not define the circumstances under which the discretion given to the high authorities authorised to restore a letter to the sender should be exercised; but to extend the discretion to a letter written by any other person than the sender—even although such person be a wife—appears to His Excellency in Council to be beyond what was contemplated by the Act or by the Regulation.

8. Sir James Hannen, the Judge who tried the suit, expressed his opinion, in summing up the case, as follows:—

"Possibly, opinions might differ as to whether Mr. Hogg exceeded his rights in availing himself of his opportunities as Post Master General. Certainly, if a husband had reason to believe that his wife had written such a letter as we now discover this was to Mr. Cordery, he would not be condemned by any one, I should imagine, very harshly, if he made use of any means within his power to obtain possession of it."

9. Taking into consideration, the circumstances under which Mr. Hogg was placed, that he believed himself to have been acting within his legal powers, and that some doubt may have been reasonably entertained by him as to the extent of these powers, the Governor General in Council agrees with Mr. Monteath in thinking that Mr. Hogg's conduct is not open to any moral blame.

His Excellency in Council is pleased to direct that Mr. Hogg be informed that he committed a serious error in judgment in using, without sufficient consideration, powers which he believed himself to possess, in a case in which he was personally interested, and that he be permitted to resume his office as Officiating Director General of the Post Office from this date.

10. In order to prevent doubt as to the cases in which a letter may be returned to the sender, Regulation 28, above quoted, will be revised.

ORDERED that the foregoing Resolution be published in the Gazette of India, and that a copy be forwarded to Mr. F. R. Hogg.

No. 3658.—Mr. F. R. Hogg resumed charge of the Office of Director General of the Post Office, after noon, on the 10th October 1873.

TELEGRAPH DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATIONS.

Simla, the 1st September 1873.

INADMISSIBLE COMBINATIONS OF WORDS IN TELEGRAMS.

The attention of the Bureau International des Administrations Telegraphiques having been directed to the increasing frequency of the practice of joining together words which do not admit of such combination, it has been decided that any Telegraphic Administration over whose lines a message passes, has the right to demand that the cost of extra words chargeable shall be recovered from the sender and credited in the international accounts.

2. In accordance with article 49 of the Rome Convention and with the notice printed on the back of receipts for foreign messages, under-charges are recoverable from the sender. In the case of a message charged for as a full single group of 20 words containing two words unauthorizedly joined together, the extra charge recoverable would be that for a half group of 10 words. Senders are accordingly hereby cautioned as to the necessity for the exercise of care in the selection of words used in Code or otherwise.

3. The following examples of inadmissible word combinations which have been used in messages, are published for general information :—

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, REVENUE AND COMMERCE.

CONDITION OF INDIAN IMMIGRANTS IN JAMAICA AND TRINIDAD.

No. 92 (Public), dated India Office, London, the 6th August 1873.

From—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India,

To—The Government of India.

I FORWARD, for the information of Your Excellency in Council, copies of the reports* of the Agent General of Immigrants and of the Sub-Intendant of Crown Lands in Trinidad for the year 1872. Paragraphs 30 to 40 of the latter report relate to the settlement of Indian immigrants in that colony.

* Two printed reports.

2. I also transmit copy of a despatch† from the Governor of Jamaica, with its several accompaniments, enclosing the annual report on immigration in that Colony for 1871-72, together with returns shewing the deaths and births for that year and the three preceding years.

† No. 48, dated 4th April 1873.

Dated February 1873.

From—H. MITCHELL, Esq., Agent General of Immigrants,

To—The Right Honorable the Colonial Secretary.

I HAVE the honor to submit, for His Excellency's information, the usual summary of immigration statistics for this colony for the season 1871-72, together with some explanatory remarks on its more prominent features.

1,598 souls were landed out of 1,618 embarked, the mortality on the voyage having been 20, or 1·13, discarding from the calculation 8 births at sea. This rate is even lower than that of 1·7 in 1870, and gives an average for the last three years of 1·6. This is exceptionally low for Indian immigration from Calcutta, and will altogether prove to the credit and advantage of the colony when the coolies are, as they have been last year, well selected. A low mortality, however, at sea, may, under other circumstances, while shewing the skill and care on board ship, simply preserve many a frail life to be debited afterwards to the risks of acclimatisation here.

2. Number of coolies resident on estates :—

	Men.	Women.	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
Not under contract	3,399	1,400	2,279	1,965	9,043
Bounty contract	1,377	334	.....	.....	1,711
Working out lost time under endorsation	861	496	.....	.....	1,357
Under indenture of original contract	5,417	2,532	.....	.....	7,949
					20,060

Mortality on Estates, &c.

The mortality among the last class, those who are still under original contract of five years, is shewn in the following table :—

	1868.	1869.	1870.	1871.	1872.
Arrived	1,655
Died	126
Rate	7·4
Remained	1,529	1,829
Died	109	75
Rate	7·1	4·1
Remained	1,420	1,754	2,211
Died	56	162	77
Rate	3·9	9·2	3·4
Remained	1,364	1,592	2,134	1,823
Died	46	83	165	70
Rate	3·4	5·2	7·7	3·8
Remained	1,318	1,509	1,969	1,753	1,400
Rate	2·2	3·7	3·3	7	1·9	per cent.

This gives 302 deaths on a total of 7,949 = 3·8 as against 4·5 in the preceding year. Among coolies in their second year it will be observed that some improvement has taken place, but not to the extent that might have been expected from the constantly-decreasing rate of mortality among the first year's residents, which for last year was under the average for England—while the general rate for all under original indenture was nearly the same as reported on November 21st by the Registrar General for Madras, viz., 3·7. Why should the first year, formerly the most fatal, shew a death-rate lower than that of England? The season, say, was favorable, the people well selected, and something also was due to the number introduced being considerably less than usual; but the same arguments apply with equal or greater force to the people in their 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th years, among all of whom the rate was higher. These figures establish the fact that although a gradual improvement has taken place in the health of indentured coolies during the contract, yet that in proportion as life appears to have been saved during the first year by the mode of rationing adopted, this advantage is more than lost during the second year, inasmuch as the laborer's diet is left to his own resources. As no coolies were struck off the ration list at the close of their first year, except those who were clearing at least $1 per week to the satisfaction of the inspecting officers, and as many of these rapidly sunk into a low form of cachexia, complicated with dirt-eating, it will be necessary, should further experience confirm these results, to extend the discipline of the first year and make the rationing absolute for the second year also.

The deaths among 1,357 coolies, working out original indentures endorsed for lost time, were 44 on 1,357 = 3·2 per cent.

And on 1,711 men and women who had terminated their original contracts and renewed their engagements for one year on receiving from employers a bonus or bounty of from £2 to £3, the deaths were 34, or 1·99 per cent. This is a singular identity of result with that of the first year, for it must be borne in mind that bounty coolies select their employer where they please, and also in most cases the kind of work they prefer.

The total average death-rate, therefore, on contract servants over whom the control of the employer extends has been 380 on 11,017, or 3·2 per cent. during the year ending 30th September 1872.

The death-rate on boys was 50 on 2,279=2·2

Ditto on girls was 33 on 1,965=1·6.

As regards adults not under contract but resident on estates, viz., 3,399 men and 1,400 women, they form a floating population among whom the death-rate cannot be precisely ascertained, but may be presumably accepted as under 2 per cent.

3. These figures are specially interesting at present. During the year which has just elapsed, the colony has been ravaged by a terrible epidemic. While at its height it was learned with dismay that on the arrival of the Ganges with 376 souls on board, the Health Officer had reported that scarcely any of the passengers were sufficiently protected by vaccination from the reigning epidemic. If this were the state of the new arrivals, what might be the fate of the coolie laborers already here, and that of the colony itself, with its Creole population already wild with fright and a rigorous quarantine excluding communication with the neighbouring ports? Instructions were issued by His Excellency the Governor to the Inspecting Medical Officer that he should, in addition to his usual examination of the immigrants on board the Ganges as to their fitness for labor, ascertain at the same time how far each individual had been protected from small-pox before embarkation. The result of this inspection, carefully conducted, was that, out of 376 passengers, 284 were protected by previous small-pox, 61 by full vaccination, 31 doubtful, and 2 unvaccinated,—born at sea. This evidence of minute precaution on the part of the Indian authorities dispelled to a great extent the uneasiness created by Dr. Bakewell's report as Health Officer.

The quarterly returns for September shewed that similar vigilance with regard to this terrible malady had characterised the Indian Government in all former years. On 11,017 indentured laborers, there were only 9 deaths from small-pox, and these were of bounty coolies who had all been more than 8 years in the colony; among the 7,949 who had not terminated their original indentures of 5 years, not one death was returned from small-pox, and the annual average had fallen from 4·7 to 3·8.

4. Guided then by the experience of the last four years, it may be affirmed that the legislation during that period on behalf of the Indian laborer has produced a satisfactory result,—and that this is principally due to the feeding ordinance is now admitted by some of those who most warmly opposed its enactment. Of course, like any other regulation, its success will depend on the spirit in which it is carried out. As already mentioned in a special report, there are gentlemen here who use the rationing as a sort of competitive prize system,—making a free gift of their food to every individual who work six days' average task per week for two successive weeks. On a late inspection, 25 hands out of a lot of 29 were found to have thus cleared their fortnight's rations. This is a remarkable success, and will be appreciated by those who know how seldom the new immigrant averaged a full week's work out of crop; it is a system which, in the hands of judicious employers, must spread, and by spreading intimately bind together the interest of the coolie with that of the service he is introduced to meet. Its adoption must shut up the complaint of the less industrious, who, at the instigation of the coolie trader, clamor for full payment in money that they may buy their own rations, and what is of more importance, it will raise the position of the indentured above that of the outsider to the great advantage of the employer. Some of the immigrants complain that the ration does not sate their appetites; this is no doubt true, as the ration was limited in quantity, and so low priced that, while it stood between the laborer and want, it enabled every workman to earn a fuller cash payment to spend as he chose. Any proposal then to increase the measure of the ration and its cost at the same time would create discontent among the parsimonious coolies. A slight improvement, however, might be made in the diet without altering the price now charged. It will be found on enquiry that the average price of the articles composing the coolie diet has so far fallen during the last three or four years as to make a difference against the coolie of at least one cent on the market price,—this should be at once equalised by a proportionate addition of rice. Any attempt to do so by a fractional allowance of dried meat or fish, although desirable in a dietary point of view, would be defeated by the uncertain supply of such articles in the colonial markets.

5. Notwithstanding the prevalence of small-pox, and the ports having been closed to the usual influx of labor from the other colonies, the crop has been secured. Although smaller than that of 1871, it was necessarily taken off with difficulty. Employers paid in some cases 50 to 100 per cent. higher wages than usual to catch any outside or transient labor; this was chiefly supplied by the time-expired immigrants, and affected most severely those estates which habitually paid a much higher price to the non-resident than to the contract laborer—that is, to the workman who could pick his work and refuse what he disliked than to him who was bound to carry out orders received. This error in political economy produced its natural result; the bait was irresistible, and Indian immigrants in greater numbers than usual bought the balance of their time to secure the current outside wages.

6. Numbers who during the year 1872 purchased or redeemed portions of their industrial residence.

It has been already stated in these reports that no Indian free from contract will work either for himself or for another as long as any neighbouring proprietor offers him higher money wages. The evidence of Mr. L' Abadie, the Warden of Montserrat, shews that most of the ten-acre men contribute a large amount of labor to sugar estates, even when these last are at an inconvenient distance. This may be held to be universally the case. But the conditions change at once when applied to men under contract,—say at the close of their third year; they have then barely surmounted the social difficulties inseparable from change of climate and occupation. When, in contrast with these and other minor, but daily incidents of contract pressure, a third party steps in and offers the coolie the means of acquiring immediate freedom from that contract and a tempting partnership in land, whose fruits he may enjoy—working only when and how he pleases—he accepts, and thoughtlessly exchanges one or two years' terminable contract under Government protection for a galling and more indefinite yoke. The money he has borrowed must be paid with usurious interest, and during the course of repayment he is bound to purchase the necessaries of life from his creditor. The nature and extent of this debt may be gathered from the fact that the usual terms on which such loans are effected include 5*d*. per month on each dollar advanced, or about 120 per cent. per annum, besides the usual profit on articles of consumption. The dealers in these loans are men of higher caste and of sufficient influence to prevent their traffic coming under the magistrate's eye.

In 1870, 76 coolies bought the balance of their time; this figure is somewhat over the average of previous years. In 1871, 178 bought time, and during the year 1872 just terminated the number rose to 312, which is somewhat more than 23 per cent. on the 1,400 coolies who were in that year introduced from India. To a certain extent this redemption of a portion of the contract time represents the well-earned independence of the coolie—the fruit of habitual industry and frugality fostered by liberal terms of contract. Were this the case altogether, or generally so, it would be a false move to discourage it even indirectly; but, as shewn above, the Indian who purchases the balance of his time by borrowed money injures himself socially even more than he does the employer, who loses the servant's labor at the very time his training has made him most valuable. It is worth enquiring whether, under these circumstances, the rights of the immigrants might not be reconciled with the claims of the employer, so as to give full justice to both parties. The purchase of balance of time might be limited to the last of the five years, and regulated in either of the two following modes: either by purchase as at present, under proviso of working out such days as may have been lost under a magistrate's conviction, or by proof that 1,400 days' work, the legal amount required during a five years' contract, has been finished. If the immigrant be an agriculturist of average physical power, he can, during his first two years, perform his daily task and have 80 days to spare, besides 102 Sundays at his own disposition. During the two ensuing years if, with the aid of 80 more spare days, he can finish a task and a half daily, he will, at the end of the fourth year, have completed the 1,400 tasks of his contract, and be entitled to a certificate of industrial residence without running into debt or disbursing one farthing of his saving: that this is a prize fairly within reach may be inferred from the fact that on the "Orange Grove" Estate all the bounty women averaged 280 days annually.

7. The sanitary statistics of the year owe somewhat of their improving features to the law which transferred the payment of the medical visitors of estates to the treasury, thus rendering their duties in a great measure independent of local influence. No small influence was also due to the law which was passed, guaranteeing a minimum rate of payment for the ordinary day's work or task. This amount of piece work, varying as it does with the varying nature of soil and season, may be accepted as the usual time work of the colony, and is finished by the average field laborer in between five and six hours, sometimes less, sometimes more. This work is paid at the rate of 25 cents; as the vast majority accomplished it even in the wet season. More than the usual amount of money has been earned by the individual laborer, and as his wants unprovided for by contract are few, the savings have been large, and a more than usual feeling of content, if not of comfort, pervades their mass. This is evident from the low rates of mortality during the past year, which are lower than in the chief towns of the three presidencies, and among coolies in their first year compare favorably with the English rates as given by the latest Board of Health returns.

8. In two late reports the questions of food and wages have been entered into very fully, and it only remains to add with regard to them that the wages guarantee has been very fairly carried out by employers. Now and then cases of evasion occurred, but these, amounting altogether to four, came under the Inspector's notice, and were equitably balanced. There has been only one complaint of non-payment of wages; it was on a limited scale under peculiar circumstances. The proprietor being in difficulties had disappeared along with his books, owing the coolies, as they alleged, six weeks' wages. This matter was settled by the next in succession paying the coolies a sum equivalent to redeem the balance of their time, about six months, when the indentures were cancelled, and each man received his certificate of industrial residence.

Coolies returning from India.

9. Another indirect result of a minimum rate of wages having been guaranteed by law for the usual day's work appears in the increasing number of Indians who, after having finished their ten years' residence in the colony and returned to India, make there but a flying visit and pay their passages back again to Trinidad. This voluntary and independent migration bears but a trifling proportion to the ordinary or assisted passage; still its existence prove that some solid advantages to be attained here more than counterbalance the deep-seated home feeling of the Indian!

The number of people who paid their return passages from Calcutta to Port of Spain in 1872 was 12 men, 8 women, and their families, including 6 boys, 1 girl, and 2 infants=29 in all. There were besides these 46 coolies who returned from India, having previously served out industrial residences in other colonies; these two classes numbered 75 in all, or nearly 5 per cent. on the total adult immigration for the season.

Commutation of return passages.

10. This, as regards the welfare of the Indian, is perhaps the brightest page in the history of his immigration to Trinidad. The ineradicable love of possessing land has been in nine cases out of ten the cause of monied coolies returning to India: this being the case, why do they ever return here at their own expense?

The reason may be given in few words, as the substance of a declaration made by a young man lately from Calcutta at some special class gathering in Victoria [Trinidad]:—The speaker, whose earlier years were spent in Trinidad, told the others that "there was no use in those who were accustomed to the ways of this country returning to India—that this held especially in regard to the young—that the manners of the East were different and utterly opposed to that freedom of life to which they were accustomed here; in fact, that the position of the lower classes, however well to do, was insupportable to men, who in this country met their employers on an independent footing, and sold their labor in the best market." It is unnecessary to travel far for indications of this change of character from servility to independence. A white sailor just arrived from Calcutta had an altercation with a coolie lately before the doors of this office: the origin of the dispute did not transpire, but the sailor said to the coolie, "If you were in India I would strike you; you know you would not dare to speak to me in this way there." He then added to another sailor who stood near, "That coolie is only trying to make me angry that I may strike him, and then he will have a charge against me." Whether these sentiments prevail now to any extent there is no means of ascertaining; but it does appear that the wish to hold land in this island is gradually becoming widespread among the Indian laborers. There are at present no less than 367 men who are already in possession of 10-acre lots granted to them as equivalent for a return passage. As, by a late regulation, any woman whose husband has been so settled is entitled to $24 on her own account, in place of return passage, it is probable that about an equal number of wives may with their cavalieri servanti be shortly added to the others as a permanent addition to the fixed industry of the country;—this important branch of immigration statistics will no doubt be fully considered in the report of the Sub-Intendant of Crown Lands,—it is unnecessary then to enter further into its details beyond remarking that the policy of the colony in granting these settlements coincides curiously with the latest recommendations of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal (George Campbell, D. C. L.), who, after a careful and personal scrutiny of the agricultural wants of India, came to two conclusions—of which the first was that the Indian was incapable of farming successfully on any large scale, but that the prosperity of the country would be greatly promoted by the rural districts being as much as possible farmed out in lots of from five to ten acres.

Absentees from Estates on 30th September 1872.

11. Number absent while their original indenture was incomplete.

	1st year.	2nd year.	3rd year.	4th year.	5th year.
Number allotted	1,400	1,823	2,211	1,829	1,655	8,918
Number absent	7	20	21	42	47	137 =1·5o/o

The vagrants on bounty are 18 on 1,711=1 per cent., while those on the number working out endorsations for lost time are 127 on 1,357=9·4 per cent. The difference between this last rate and the two former sufficiently indicates the feeling of dislike with which the Indian regards the repayment of lost days. However wholesome may be the penalty, the infliction is so unpleasant that the culprits have in these cases absconded with little chance of return, either as regards the days lost or the coolies themselves. They for the most part speak French or English well enough to pass themselves off under borrowed names in distant districts as old immigrants, or, if looked after too sharply by the employer, retire as a last resource to the Spanish Main. The indenture or original agreement seems to be somewhat more sacred in the Indian's eye than its extension under endorsation. During the last year no less than five coolies, who had been absent for periods varying from eight to ten years, returned and satisfied in full the claims against them due to the estates they had deserted at the beginning of their contract. In one of these cases the runaway lived on the Spanish Main; he sent through this department to learn whether in the event of returning and making the full legal pecuniary compensation to the estate to which he had been assigned all proceedings for breach of contract would be dropped. Such instances show that even in extreme cases a certain amount of forbearance characterises the employer, as well as confidence on the coolie's side. He relies on the protection of the Crown, and seeks its shelter, although at the time in independent circumstances under a foreign flag and beyond the grasp of the law he had broken. The passage to the nearer parts of Venezuela may be made from this in a few hours, the communication is frequent, and the cocoa estates there, to a certain extent, depend for labor on a supply of Asiatics from Trinidad. Were these last as well paid by the Venezuelan landholder as they are well-fed, the defection from the indentured population here would be much greater than it is: fortunately for Trinidad the Spanish Main is proverbial for anything but cash payments, and there is something too a little more deterent in the dark tales current of what has happened to strangers on its lonely shores.

Disqualification Clause.

12. The clause which excludes those estates from receiving fresh allotments of coolies which have lost more than 7 per cent. of their five years' contract people during the preceding year has now been in operation for four years, and its efficiency so far tested. The number of estates thus affected has fallen from 20 in 1869 to 9 in 1872, fully endorsing Lord Granville's approval of its application here and Mr. Scott's recommendation that it should be accepted as law in Demerara. Of the beneficial results to the immigrants of this regulation there can be no question. The only plausible objection made to its enforcement is, that it strikes with peculiar hardship the small estates, receiving only 10 coolies say at a time,— to any of which the loss of one hand would cause a mortality of 10 per cent. The answer to this supposition is, that these small estates are usually managed by a resident proprietor and with much better average results than those which are larger. That this is really the case appears from the statistics of the preceding year, 1871, where it will be seen that no less than 22 estates did not exceed a mortality of 1 per cent., and of these, 15 had no deaths whatever; on 8 of these last the number of indentured immigrants ranged from 8 to 18. On one of them there remained alive an original allotment of 9 coolies who were just concluding their 5th year of indenture. While of 13 estates which came under the 7 per cent. or mortality clause, 9 had over 100 indentured immigrants, and the remaining 4 averaged over 50. The incidence of this clause was said to press with peculiar hardship on the cocoa planters, on account of their limited supply of labor. This, however, is not the case. Of 26 estates cultivating this staple, and on which indentured immigrants have at various times been located under the surveillance of this department, only two continue to employ them,—the others have in some instances allowed their original contracts to expire without replacing them by fresh ones, and in some few cases the immigrants were removed, owing to breach of contract on the part of the employers. As a general rule, however, these estates are for the most part still cultivated by coolies, but the owners find it to their advantage to employ none but those seasoned hands who have already served their apprenticeship on sugar estates. Of the two remaining cocoa estates which continue to employ new immigrants, one has to date avoided the mortality clause, and the other has only come under its pressure this year—an exception which, if anything, proves the rule to be rather unexceptionable.

It is, however, possible to devise an excluding rate of mortality not open to theoretical objection, a rate which shall depend on the averages of so many successive years that one unhealthy season or even the losses from an epidemic shall not bear unequally on any given estate. For this purpose take the five years immediately previous to the 30th September of any current year when allotments are due. On these, suppose the mortality among all five years contract coolies has been 5 per cent., this will give 25 per cent. for the lustre. Take then in like manner the mortality of each estate for the same period, and if in any case it exceeded that of the colony, then in such case no allotment to be allowed for the year following such 30th September. This course would make ample allowance for accidental deaths, &c., while it would exercise no pressure, except where desirable, because in 1871, when the death-rate was 4·5 on the total number of 8,879 laborers under a five years' contract, it was only 3·7 per cent. on 75 estates which employed 6,485 of the same class of coolies; the good reputation of these 75 estates for care and salubrity being thus completely lost in the heavier death-rates of a comparatively smaller number.

Wife-murder among Indians.

13. This most unpleasant of all topics connected with Indian immigration is referred to in deference to the requirements of a circular from the Colonial authorities calling for an annual statement and analysis of such of these murders as may occur here. For this purpose a tabular analysis for our guidance is given of the eight districts of India, showing their respective population, the murders committed in each, the number of the murdered who were females, and the number of the last who were killed by their husbands, with the average percentage which each class bears to the other and to the whole population. From this it appears that during the five years ending in 1871 on a population of 147,835,898 the actual number of women killed was 2,480, and of these the number slain by their husbands was only 1,152=·0016 per cent. This is marvellously low when contrasted with similar proportions elsewhere. Even in England the Registrar General gives the murders for 1871 as 341 on 20,000,000=17 per million, and one-half at least of these are probably murders of women by their husbands or sweethearts, if their frequent mention in the daily papers may justify the surmise. In a late editorial of the "Times," it is stated that in one of the northern circuits "the frequency and ferocity of the murders recall the old stories of the Fijian barbarities, and that, as usual, one of the most savage was that of a woman by her husband." Perhaps, were females scarcer among them and more difficult to obtain, they might run a chance of better treatment, for even among Indian immigrants whose impassibility shows no symptoms of remorse after the bloodiest of these domestic sacrifices, the murder of women was comparatively rare in the earlier years when the female immigrants were not half so numerous as they have been subsequently. The passions that impel the Indian to this kind of violence are more complex than those which blind the European; they may be, and are occasionally, calmed or dispelled by a money payment when proffered in time. As has been more than once mentioned in these reports, the Indian woman is looked on by the husband as a chattel over which his authority is paramount—he has bought her, and may sell her if he please. In most cases of violence it will be found to result, not from the feeling of jealousy and hate which prompt the European to slay the aggressor, but from wounded self-esteem and cupidity, inasmuch as the woman has sold her offices to another, without his leave—she is the offender, and pays the penalty, not for the act itself, but for its manner. A curious family arrangement sometimes exists; 1*st*, of man and wife; 2*nd*, of a sort of "khunsamah" or house-steward, who is allowed certain privileges in return for various domestic services; 3*rd*, there may be outsiders who pay according to their privileges—these last cease with the payments, and any attempt at their clandestine continuance is visited with prompt severity which falls always on the woman. Tribes who for ages have slaughtered their female infants as almost a religious rite will attach little sanctity to a female life they have bought. The proportion of deaths of this kind recorded in India for a single year is undoubtedly small—so very small indeed as to excite suspicion that there may be some other means open to vindictive husbands to get rid of their wives other than by a savage butchery which may bring them under the iron hand of English justice. In many places the villager has merely to lock his wife out at night to be free of her in the morning; or where wild beasts are scarce, cobras, &c., may be cheap and plentiful. By either mode the unpleasant companion may be shaken off without exciting suspicion beyond the fact that the sufferer may have been one of the 25,000 Indians who were returned in 1871* as having been carried off by beasts of prey or killed by venomous reptiles. A clergyman, known and respected here for his indefatigable exertions among the coolies, told me lately that having remarked among his people a young man of superior standing, he asked him whence it happened that he had left India as a common laborer? The reply was, "that his father had died, leaving him some property, which, with himself, was taken charge of by an uncle; that in the exercise of authority, the latter ordered him to fetch water from the spring after dusk; as leaving the house for such a purpose, at such an hour, was simply an offering to the tiger, he refused, and next day joined the nearest recruiting depôt."

During the year 1872 there were no deaths of women from violence among the 28,000 Indians settled here. Any average drawn, however, from this statement must be inconclusive when compared with the mighty population of India; besides, in the three preceding years, there were no less than five such deaths, followed by four convictions. It is therefore clear that whatever allowance be made for secret or untraced murders in the Presidencies, the proportion of violent deaths appears to be greater here, and if the population of India, by the last census, really shows an unexpected excess of 40,000,000, the contrast is still more marked. These cases of violence here have for the most part occurred among coolies in the earlier stages of their indenture, when their habits and prejudices have been but little modified by a sojourn among strangers; they enjoy too, apart from the hours of work, an amount of personal freedom apt to turn into license when in the receipt of higher wages, and of a freer indulgence in rum, bhang, and other stimulants than was their wont in India.

No doubt the extreme secrecy which veils the internal economy of the meanest Indian household may cover varieties of the "Happy Despatch" which altogether elude the eyes of the outer world; this will probably long continue among races who look upon our admirable penal code as a genuine grievance, and who, in some of their street songs, declare that life in India has become intolerable since the English criminal laws have begun to treat women and children as if they were men. This last fact, cited on the reliable authority of "Maine," throws some light on the occasionally savage outbursts of the usually mild Hindoo, for, of the men in question, all were Hindoos and none were Mussulmans.

Hospitals, Houses, and Water-supply.

14. Hospitals.—Under this head it may be said that matters remain much as they were reported last year. One or two new buildings have been added to those already in use, and in others greater attention is being paid to the inmates. Still, much remains to be done. Several joint hospitals are yet used for two or more estates, although their disadvantages are daily more apparent, and the surgeons of both Port of Spain and San Fernando hospitals report, at times, the reception of cases, particularly of ulcerated extremities, which earlier attention might certainly have mitigated if not have cured. It may be expected that such evils will gradually disappear when the number of district medical officers shall have increased in proportion to the necessity for their attendance. At present the medical visits are made bi-weekly; this may of course be sufficient for mild cases, but is altogether inadequate to meet more serious maladies, which run their courses here with a speed unknown in higher latitudes among hardier races. The medical circuits in this colony are far too wide, and cause valuable time to be spent on the roads which should be devoted to professional skill at the bedside. A smaller beat, more frequently gone over even at the same remuneration, will serve the public better and more economically when it results in saving life.

House accommodation.—This is ample, as no distribution of immigrants is allowed unless there be a room at least for each married couple or for every three men. These rooms average about 100 superficial or square feet, with a height varying from 8 to 10 feet to the plate.

* This return, according to Dr. Fayrer, comprised only about one-half of our Indian population.

Their condition and quality is usually unexceptionable, but the arrangement is occasionally objectionable, being laid out in barracks extending 100 feet, and divided into 10 rooms, sometimes, though rarely, these are doubled, containing 20 rooms ranged back to back. This style is more economical than the cottage system; it is physically healthy enough, and easily superintended, but it has been altogether discountenanced by Sir John Grant in Jamaica, where the cottage system prevails as it did here during the earlier years of immigration, being in fact the old negro yard plan of the separate house for each family. To this it is desirable to return as soon as possible, because it is the style of living to which the Indian villagers are attached from childhood. It is a feature prominently noted by Maine in his late treatise on Indian village communities as due to that inviolable secrecy of family life supposed to have been peculiar to Mahomedan custom, but which in reality pervades the humblest grade of human life among the Hindoos. As this feeling is common to all immigrants, it is well that employers should join in fully respecting it, and thus add another to the many disabilities which the employer's common sense has already brushed off his contract without external interference. Even now the erection of houses having only 3, 4, or 5 rooms is common.

The water-supply on each estate, as reported in October 1871, is sufficient, on most estates abundant, although here, as in India, it is found impossible to guard the open springs or ponds from the careless or filthy habits of the immigrants themselves. The introduction of Norton's pumps for the use of the people has been attended with marked improvement in health where they can be induced to use them, but, as a rule, the Indian will always dip in the pond rather than try the pump, and if the dirty water be near, prefer it to the clean, which may be a little further off; yet where available and suitable, the Norton pump should always be adopted.

15. Influx of Creole labor from the other colonies.

This source from the reason assigned in the opening paragraph has been altogether closed for the crop of 1872. It may, however, soon be re-opened, and to a great extent from the neighbouring island of Barbadoes. There, it would appear, population presses far too rapidly on the means of subsistence—so much so indeed that Sir Graham Briggs and others deeply interested in the welfare of the colony have come to the conclusion that systematic emigration is absolutely necessary to relieve the pressure; in other words, that the number of mouths to feed is far in excess of the wages to buy food, consequently that numbers must steal or starve, and the misery of the people increase with their number. Under these circumstances it is most desirable to devise some method by which a portion of the Barbadian surplus population may be introduced into this colony with mutual advantage. As the legislature of Barbadoes will for its own sake establish an Agent to superintend the departure of their emigrants, we should be prepared to offer them here such terms as will secure their willing acceptance, and at the same time guard against future discontent or cavil. The prevailing view here is to engage such laborers as may wish to come, for terms varying from one to three years, to pay the expense of introduction, and secure to them while at work a fair rate of pay for themselves and families, with a free grant of land to each head of family when his contract shall have been fulfilled. Any attempt, however, to carry out such a scheme would be probably frustrated by the intense aversion of all Creole field-hands to sign written contracts of labor. The following plan, as suggested by the Sub-Intendant of Crown Lands, appears to present the fewest objectionable features, and be at the same time well adapted to the habits and wishes of the Barbadian Creole.

"In the Annual Report for 1871, I advocated the advantages of encouraging emigration from Barbadoes of the superfluous labouring population by the offer of free grants of Crown lands under liberal conditions. The certainty of acquiring a small freehold of 5 or 10 acres after an industrial residence of a few years, untrammelled by contracts or agreements to which, since emancipation, the native laboring population of the West India islands have a rooted antipathy, might prevail over that strong attachment to home which, even under the pressure of famine, weds the Barbadian peasant to his native island.

"To carry out the proposed system for the encouragement of emigration from Barbadoes, the following plan might be adopted: To each immigrant on landing, a pass-book might be issued from the Immigration Department which the immigrant would have the option of using or not as he thought fit. If, at the end of three years, the book showed that 900 tasks had been completed, or 900 full days' pay earned, the immigrant should be entitled to a free grant of not less than 5 acres of Crown land. The passage of emigrants to and from Barbadoes, amounting altogether to about £1, might also be defrayed by the Government.

"To ensure the successful working of the system and guard against fraud, the employers of these laborers should sign the pass-book every pay day, or at least once a month. As a fuller guarantee, the Warden or Stipendiary Magistrate of the District, on payment of a small fee, should countersign the book at least once a quarter, in attestation of the genuineness of the manager's signature."

This proposal, coming as it does from a person practically acquainted with the subject, merits serious attention from the proprietary body of this colony, especially as regards provision for a return passage to all who had fulfilled their contract. These last, returning to Barbadoes as independent yeomen, would form a body of recruiters superior to any other, and their services might be continued or not according to circumstances. The Barbadian Creole, whatever his peculiarities, is a more suitable addition to the laboring population of Trinidad than would be the Chinaman, till some less objectionable scheme for the introduction of the latter be found than the present proposal, which among other items secures him $4 in gold and rations which cannot cost less than $4 more per month, in return for an amount of task-work now finished by the coolie contract laborer for $6 per month—an arrangement which would cause widespread discontent among the very class to whom the colony owes its present position, till their own wages were raised at least 60 per cent.

Agriculture and Manufacture.

16. Both of these branches are extending and improving, slowly perhaps, but surely.

Steam ploughs, adapted to climate and locality, with alterations suggested by the experience of one of the ablest agriculturists, have succeeded the earlier machines. Along with this, sub-soil drainage has been recommenced. These two steps united will not only yield the usual increase of nearly 50 per cent. in the field, but render the planter, who is in a position to adopt them, greatly independent of those climatic vicissitudes of flood or drought which interfere so ruinously with cane culture. The cane-carrier, that indispensible adjunct in lessening the most laborious branch of manufacture, may be seen now in every district, and tramways are being multiplied in connection with the Mammoth mills which have here and there displaced the toy-like mechanism introduced some twenty years since.

Road-steamers, too, of various build, may be met on the highways.

But the manufacture of sugar has not quite kept pace with these improvements; little has been done to remedy its defects, or to arrest the waste due to the old method of frying the cane juice in iron vessels. A few steam tayches for open air concentration, but which rarely work at a low temperature, expedite somewhat the process without improving much the quality. These last may be taken as indicating the ultimate stage of progress reached here in the boiling house. What that stage actually represents in the history of sugar manufacture may be gathered from Stammer's exhaustive work on this subject, finished since the fall of Paris. Speaking of the present mode of extracting sugar from the beet, he says—"In some antiquated establishments may still be seen a few open pans heated by steam, but these are being rapidly disused."

This, then, is the ground on which the great staple of the colony now rests. It is in vain, I apprehend, to assert and re-assert the fact that ripe canes contain double the quantity of sugar yielded by the beet, and that average soil produces twice the weight of canes that it does of beet, if the cane planter is unable to bring any more efficient mode of manufacture than his old iron kettles in competition with the economical and scientific arrangements of the triple effet by Cail and others. There is, however, the dawn of better things at hand—in the complete separation of manufacture from agriculture by the Colonial Company, Limited, at their great central Usine at St. Madelaine's. This step was alone required in the British West Indies to place a portion at least of its crop abreast of the rival beet, and with corresponding advance in agriculture the sugar-cane may hold its own. The Usine of St. Madelaine is a triumph of capital, skill, and energy. It is expected to be at work in a few weeks, and will be the pioneer of other establishments in pouring forth a crystallised sugar for the million.

Of its success there can be no more question than of that of kindred establishments in the French islands, which have wisely adopted the suitable points of their national beet factories. These Colonial Usines are reported, on good authority, to have cleared, according to circumstances of position and management, from 25 to 45 per cent. on the capital invested.

This refers to the manufacture alone. As regards the cultivators of the cane, all of whom were more or less deeply involved, they are now, as regards at least one Usine Centrale, unembarrassed and mostly in receipt of fair revenues. There is therefore every inducement to lead the capitalists of this colony to embark at once in the double but separate businesses of realising the profit both of agriculture and manufacture. Should they, however, leave this desirable ground to be occupied by capitalists unconnected with and apart altogether from the acreage supplying the canes, the error will be irremediable.

To the above table remains to be added for the year 1872 the number of resident Creole laborers on sugar estates, together with the number of non-resident coolies and Creoles who worked, whether regularly or not, on these estates during the crop season. These last figures are of course liable to vary much, but as the returns were taken as nearly as possible at a given date for all estates, they give a tolerable approximation to the number of people who were employed to raise the sugar-crop for the year 1872, and thus form a fair basis for future estimates with regard to immigration.

The value of immigration to this colony, moderate as the amount has been (under 1,600 annually), appears from the preceding table. During the last ten years exportable produce, viz., sugar, cocoa, cocoanuts, and asphalte, has greatly increased, nor is this all—prior to immigration, labor had almost retired from the cane-field; the little procurable desultory, and not to be depended on for more than two or three days out of six, had risen to 150 per cent. over the usual rates. The introduction of Asiatic labor, although attended at first by much that was unpleasant to both employer and employed, carried out under ever-changing laws and regulations, has at length settled down into a system mutually beneficial and understood by both parties; abused sometimes a little by either side, but on the whole as near fair play as is compatible with labor on the one hand and capital on the other. Concurrent with this material progress of the last decade there has been a marked advance in other important respects. The social tone of the rural districts has improved in a manner and degree highly creditable to its chief promoters, the clergy of different denominations. To the labors and example of these gentlemen much is due; they have leavened the upper crust of society to an extent that has greatly facilitated the spread of education throughout the rural districts, and of that training without which education itself is comparatively worthless. They are now supported in their benevolent efforts by men who formerly looked on the instruction of the laboring classes with an indifferent, not to say, a jealous, eye. The following schools and institutions are the most prominent:

18. The Orphan Home and Training School at Tacarigua, in which there are now 45 inmates, viz., 26 boys and 19 girls. In its immediate neighbourhood, and under the superintendence of the Rector of St. Mary's, Mr. Burnley, in addition to his usual liberality, has provided an Industrial School, where forty children from the Orange Grove Estate receive two hours' schooling without interfering with their usual work.

The Belmont Orphan Home* established on a somewhat broader basis receives children, whether coolie or Creole, and these, according to sex, are trained to trades or household work. On El Socorro, belonging to the Colonial Company, Limited, a school has also been opened for the estates' children. The same has been done on Mr. Leroy's estate of Mount Pleasant.

The Reverend Mr. Morton of San Fernando has favored us with the following list of enrolment and attendance at the different schools whose institution and superintendence he has undertaken :—

The epidemic of small-pox affected all the schools, except that of San Fernando, most seriously."

* The present numbers at Belmont are coolies, 5 boys and 6 girls, Creoles, 14 boys and 15 girls.

In next year's report fuller details of these educational efforts will be attempted; in the meantime it is to be borne in mind that the above-mentioned schools are in addition to, and quite independent of, the usual Ward or District Schools, where the general teaching and acquirements, as reported by the Inspector of Schools, are rather above than below the general average elsewhere.

Extract, paras. 30 to 40, from the Report of the Sub-Intendant of Crown lands in Trinidad for 1872.

30. Indian immigrants.—The desire to possess landed property inherent in all civilized races is strongly developed in the natives of India, and has in a great measure overcome the desire to re-visit their kindred and their native land. A considerable number have already commuted their right to a return passage to India at the expense of the colony for an equivalent in land. In India itself, the question has been mooted of allowing the native population to redeem lands hitherto held under a quit-rent tenure; should this point ultimately be conceded by the Indian Government, a strong incentive to emigration to this island would be done away with.

31. The following is the total number of 10-acre allotments applied for and occupied by Indian immigrants in lieu of return passage to India, viz., 367 since 1869. 340 acres were applied for and granted in 1872 :—

32. In the principal settlements at Montserrat and Chaguanas, villages have been laid out which are now occupied by the owners of the adjacent 10-acre allotments, who dwell together on the Indian system. The village communities will exercise a civilizing influence on the people, unfelt before when the inhabitants lived scattered over their 10-acre holdings.

The immigrants located in the settlements find themselves in a position analogous to that which they filled as agriculturists in their native villages, with the further advantage that the lands they now cultivate are their own in freehold.

33. The planting of areca palms and other plants indigenous to the soil of India in these villages, familiar to the coolies from childhood, is a matter of some importance. To secure their being successfully transplanted, the young plants might be sent down in bamboo pots at the commencement of the rainy season. In some parts of India the trade in areca nuts is considerable, the nuts commanding a price nearly equal to that of the nutmeg.

34. In the Montserrat Ward, about one-half of those who occupy lands work on an average 5 days in the week on the sugar estates, and this is not confined to plantations in the immediate neighbourhood, for gangs of men find their way early in the week to the estate from which they originally came, 6 or 8 miles distant, returning on Saturday to their homes.

In the village of Poona there are 27 dwellings, and others are in the course of construction. At the Chandernagore settlement, in the Chaguanas Ward, there are 32 houses.

A coolie settlement and village, numbering 20 blocks, have been laid out at Oropouche at the request of one of the principal proprietors of sugar estates in that quarter.

35. Besides the village settlements laid out under the supervision of the Government, there exist, in different neighbourhoods, village communities formed within the ten years, almost entirely occupied by Indian immigrants. These settlers rent small plots of land and erect cottages. The lessee of the lands generally builds a house or hut for his own accommodation, and another which he lets to his countrymen, sometimes to Creoles. One of these settlements of coolies not far from Port of Spain is occupied by about 750 inhabitants, who live in 150 houses or huts. A very kindly spirit in general exists between the owners of the land and their Indian tenants. As an instance, I may mention the following case: Some months ago, the proprietor of one of these coolie settlements, a mile from the chief town of this island, had occasion to dispense with his horse and carriage and travelled on foot; on several occasions he was expostulated with by one or other of his tenants on the impropriety of travelling on foot as derogatory to his position as proprietor. At length the headman of the village took the matter in hand, called on the owner of the land, and pointed out what he considered the great impropriety of the owner of so much land walking instead of driving to his business. He was informed by the proprietor that at the moment he could not afford to purchase another horse, and therefore made his journey on foot. Shortly after, to the no small astonishment of the proprietor, a deputation of coolies waited on him, and some £35 sterling were handed to him by the headman of the village, who acted as spokesman, together with a list of the subscribers, and he was requested to lose no time in procuring a horse.

36. It has been my endeavour in settling Indian immigrants on Crown lands to place the locations in such positions that not only should their labor become available on the sugar plantations, but that in the event of the establishment of large centres of manufacture the coolies might find it profitable to cultivate the sugar-cane on the Martiniquan and Cuban systems for shares of the produce.

In America, on the authority of the Chief Commissioner of Indian Affairs, every one who becomes a naturalized American is entitled to a free grant of 160 acres.

In Montserrat and Chaguanas, where the Wardens have devoted much time and attention to the settlement of Indian immigrants, a difficulty has been occasionally experienced in placing Indian immigrants in possession of their proper allotments, especially where after a few months the lines of survey have been overgrown with bush. In other districts confusion is even more likely to arise from the same cause. To preclude the possibility of mistakes of this kind happening in future, each 10-acre block should be marked with a balata or other hardwood post, with the number of the lot deeply cut upon it; and the Warden in placing the Indians in possession should be careful that the number of the lot corresponded with the number mentioned in the petition.

37. The permission lately granted to female Indian immigrants to commute their return passage to India for a pecuniary consideration of £5 is, perhaps, the most important measure yet adopted to secure the settlement, in this colony, of a large proportion of those who might otherwise return to India at the expiry of their 10 years' industrial residence. The social customs of the Indians are of such a nature that it is not too much to expect that for every woman who consents to make this country her home several men may elect to remain permanently. The advantages to this colony from a labor point of view can hardly be estimated; even pecuniarily they are considerable. The return to India of 100 women, involving that of at least twice as many male adults, would cost not less than £4,000, but, to replace 200 seasoned laborers (women not included), the colony would have to pay for the importation of 500 new coolies, equal to £10,000 more, altogether about £14,000. Whereas, by a timely disbursement of £500 to the women, this heavy outlay would be avoided, and the services of the people permanently retained in the island. It seems hard to pay £14,000 to make up for the loss of 200 acclimatized agriculturists.

38. In San Fernando, at the Iëre village, and on several sugar plantations in the counties of Caroni and Victoria, the intellectual wants of the children of Indian immigrants have not been uncared for; schools have been established, and young Hindoos trained as teachers under the experienced care of Messrs. Morton and Grant, whose labors among the Indian population of these districts have borne fruit in many ways, but more particularly in the erection of a church at San Fernando, chiefly from the voluntary offering of the Indians themselves. The subjoined tabular list gives the number and situation of the schools :—

Names of Schools.	Where situated.	Number on the rolls.	Average daily attendance.	Names of the Proprietors where schools are situated.
San Fernando ...	Town of San Fernando ...	116	30
Iëre	Iëre Village... ...	22	13

Union	Union " ...	25	10	ditto.
Esperanza	Esperanza " ...	32	18	W. F. Burnley, Esquire.
Sevilla	Sevilla " ...	28	21	Gregor Turnbull, Esquire.

The attendance has been most seriously affected by the small-pox epidemic. On the rolls of these schools, with the exception of Esperanza, there are 69 children of Creole parentage and an average attendance of 29. It is pleasing to note the gradual disappearance of prejudices between the different races, as evinced by the attendance at the schools.

39. In the county of St. George, the St. Mary's Coolie Orphan Home, under the care of the Reverend Henry Richards, Rector of St. Mary's, provides for the training and education of 26 boys and 19 girls. These children are trained chiefly as domestic servants. Two of the boys, of more than average ability, have, through the liberality of Mr. Burnley, been enabled to enter Codrington College, Barbadoes, to pursue their studies.

* On this estate, through the liberality of the proprietor, the children are fed as well as taught; this system—under consideration in England—has, in this colony, been carried into effect.

In Port of Spain, under the auspices of His Grace Archbishop Gonin, a Home has been provided for orphans without regard to class or race. There are now 38 children in this establishment, of whom 12 are of Indian extraction.

40. In a letter dated 13th April 1872, the Acting Sub-Intendant drew the attention of His Excellency the Intendant to the small number of petitions by Indian immigrants for 10-acre allotments in lieu of return passage to India, filed in this office, as compared with the number of Indians in occupation. This was due to the fact that at first it was considered neither essential nor expedient to compel the immigrants to make petitions; their names were merely noted on a list certified by the Agent-General of Immigrants, and the land allotted immediately after its survey. When, however, the movement had been fairly organized, it was thought right, as a matter of form, to impose on the Indian immigrants the duty of petitioning for the lands, when suitable forms of petition were printed for their special use.

No. 48, dated King's House, Jamaica, the 4th April 1873.

From—Sir J. P. GRANT, Governor of Jamaica,

To—The Secretary of State for the Colonies.

I have the honor to transmit herewith the annual report* for 1871-72 on immigration, accompanied by printed tables showing the number of deaths and births which have taken place annually amongst coolies, who arrived during each of the years from 1868-69 to the year now under report inclusively, and who came, therefore, completely under the protection of the new law, as no coolies arrived during the year 1867-68; these tables include all the coolies now under indenture, seeing that the term of indenture is for five years only.

* 8th January 1873.

2. The printed mortality tables will be found more full and better arranged than any similar tables heretofore have been; they show the mortality in every year during the period since the passing of the new law, not only of all coolies in the aggregate to whom the law completely applied, but of each one of the annual importation of coolies within this period distinctly. And thus the fate of each annual importation up to last year inclusive can be readily traced.

The principle of arrangement, which will not be fully developed for five years to come, is, beginning with the earliest year of the last quinquennial period, to show the deaths in that year, first, of the coolies introduced during the fifth preceding year (fifth year coolies), next, of the coolies introduced during the fourth preceding year (fourth year coolies), and so on for each of the five years. Afterwards continuing with similar tables showing the deaths in the year next succeeding the earliest year of the period, and so to the year especially under report inclusive.

3. As no coolies embraced in the present tables arrived more than four years ago, even the set of tables which show the deaths last year seem incomplete, but they are not really so, because five years ago no coolies were actually introduced, and those which show the deaths in preceding years are really undeveloped. But they are all more complete, so far as the coolies embraced in them are concerned, than any tables furnished before last year. And I hope they are an improvement on those furnished last year.

The synopsis at page 11* will be found a new feature of value and interest, so also the summaries at the bottom of the several tables, especially that at page 10.†

4. I would respectfully ask Your Lordship to glance at the synopsis at page 11.* It will show that things have been improving latterly, as the new law was coming more and more into practical effect; for, not only has it taken time to build union hospitals, but it has taken time to procure and allot suitable medical men, and to get the sub-agents employed to understand and work in the spirit of the new law.

5. It will be seen that the deaths of first year coolies having been at the rate of 9·08 per cent. per annum in 1868-69, has been lessening every year since, till last year it fell to the rate of 2·52 per annum; and that the deaths of all coolies under the new law have fallen from 9·08 to 2·45 per annum in the four years.

This is only in part owing to a smaller proportion of new coolies in the later years. It is mainly owing to a general decrease of mortality, as an examination of the columns containing only new coolies will show.

6. Considering the small proportion of new coolies before 1866, there can be no doubt that things were not so bad in 1868-69 as they had been. But the practical impression made by the new system did not begin to tell strongly till after 1869-70.

7. Adverting to Your Lordship's despatch No. 390, dated the 9th of July last, and the previous correspondence, on the subject of mortality amongst newly-arrived coolies, and especially amongst those allotted to the parish of St. Thomas, I beg to call Your Lordship's attention to the 5th paragraph of the report of the Agent-General of Immigration, in which he states that he attributes, to a certain degree, the decrease in the death-rate last year to the refusal to allot coolies to estates in St. Thomas and elsewhere, in which the mortality of newly-arrived coolies in the previous years had been excessive.

8. The most striking feature in the Agent-General's report for last year is the remarkably large proportion of coolies who preferred taking the bounty and settling here as colonists, to obtaining a free return passage to their own country, after their 10 years' residence in Jamaica. The numbers were 1,179 bounty coolies to 420 return passage coolies, the free settlers being nearly three-fourths of the whole number. The largely increasing proportion of bounty coolies is very satisfactory. It shows that at the end of their term they are contented with their position here. Nothing can more plainly show how well this island suits the natives of India when acclimated.

9. It is gratifying to find that Mr. Alexander can report, and can do so, to the best of my knowledge, with perfect justice, that in the year 1871-72 "the general treatment of immigrants on estates has been highly satisfactory."

No. 98, dated the 8th January 1873.

From—A. H. ALEXANDER, Esq., Acting Agent-General of Immigration,

To—The Honorable the Colonial Secretary.

I have the honor to present, for the information of His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, the annual report on the Immigration Department from the 1st of October 1871 to the 30th September 1872.

2. During the year three ships arrived from Calcutta with immigrants, as follows:—

Ships.	Date of arrival.	Number embarked.						Died at sea.						Number landed.
		M.	F.	B.	G.	I.	Souls.	M.	F.	B.	G.	I.		M.	F	B.	G.	I.

3. It is gratifying for me to be able to state that the immigrants who arrived by these three vessels are, generally speaking, healthy and strong, and this is no doubt attributable to their having been embarked in good sanitary condition, and properly treated during the voyage. No complaints were made to me by the immigrants, and they appeared in every case to be perfectly satisfied with the treatment they had met with during the voyage.

4. The mortality on board the Merchantman was 2·28 per cent., and on board the Salisbury it was 2·12. The mortality, however, on board the Humber was very great, there having been no less than 61 deaths, equal to 13·20 per cent. It must be borne in mind, however, that the Humber had an unusually long passage, 163 days, and this, added to the different degrees of temperature to which the coolies were exposed in rounding the Cape, seems to be the only reason for the high mortality. As I have already reported, there is no reason to suppose that the coolies were treated in any other way than with care and attention, both by the Surgeon Superintendent and the officers of the ship.

5. The immigrants by these three vessels have been located in the following parishes: Merchantman in St. Mary, Salisbury in Clarendon, Humber in St. Mary.

6. There have been few deaths amongst them since location, and although, generally speaking, some time must elapse before new immigrants can be expected to engage actively and regularly in the labor required of them, yet the coolies by these ships have given great satisfaction to their employers.

7. I may mention that six coolies who left Jamaica last year returned in the Merchantman and Salisbury and are found by their employers to be most valuable laborers, not only as far as they themselves are concerned, but from the influence they exercise over the others.

8. During this year only one vessel, the Merchantman, sailed for Calcutta with time-expired immigrants; this vessel took—

81 women,
45 boys,
47 girls,
12 infants,

being 420 souls. These coolies deposited with the Government the amount of £3,855 sterling, for which they received treasury bills payable in Calcutta on arrival. Besides this they took with them an amount of jewellery, &c., the value of which it is impossible to estimate.

9. During this season, the coolies who arrived in the year 1862 completed the term of their industrial residence; of these coolies, 1,179, including women and children, have accepted the bounty, while only 420 have returned to India.

10. The total immigrant population on the 30th September last was, as nearly as can be ascertained, about 10,985; of this number, 4,452 were serving under indenture, while 2,156 had not completed their industrial residence of ten years. The remaining 4,377 must, therefore, be regarded as permanent colonists.

11. I am glad to be able to report that the general conduct of these people has been very good.

12. From the mortality returns* which are annexed, it will be seen that there has been an improvement in the health of the immigrants, when compared with last year, and that while deaths have been less numerous, there has been an increase in the births:—

13. Owing to the continuance of the heavy mortality amongst new immigrants in the parish of St. Thomas, to which I adverted in my last report, it was deemed advisable to send no more new coolies to that district, and also only to locate new immigrants on the healthy estates in other parishes; to this step, therefore, in a certain degree, must be attributed the reduction in the death-rate.

14. During this year another union hospital has been opened. There are now ten of these hospitals in active operation in this colony.

15. Of the patients treated in the coolie depôt at Spanish Town—

177 were discharged cured.
41 „ „ relieved.
71 were returned to India.
15 died.
48 remained in depôt on 30th of September 1872.

352 being the total number treated in the institution during the past year.

16. Applications were forwarded to India for 2,400 coolies for last season, but of that number only 1,188 have been received. The number to be supplied during the coming season is 2,666.

17. During next season the coolies who arrived from Madras in the year 1863 will have completed their term of industrial residence, and be entitled either to a return passage or bounty. As far as I can learn, very few of these people are desirous of returning to India, most of them having already decided on accepting the bounty.

18. The general treatment of the immigrants on estates has been highly satisfactory. I am glad to say that I have observed strong indications of increasing forbearance and confidence between employers and employed, and this I think is strengthened by the prompt attention which is given by the local sub-agents to their respective grievances. There can be no doubt that the successful management of Indian immigrants depends greatly on the temper and judgment of the employer; for a kind word here, a concession there, and a painstaking solicitude for the instruction of the people through the daily routine of plantation duty, may lessen, if not altogether remove, the difficulties which are almost inseparable from the settlement of laborers who are entirely ignorant of the habits, language, and customs of the country in which they are placed.

Acting Agent General, Immigration.

IMMIGRATION OFFICE,
The 16th January 1873.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, REVENUE AND COMMERCE.

IMMIGRANTS IN BRITISH GUIANA.

No. 95 (Public), dated India Office, London, the 6th August 1873.

From—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India,
To—The Government of India.

I FORWARD, for the information of Your Excellency in Council, copy of a letter* from the Colonial Office, with its several enclosures, relating to the consolidated returns of immigrants for 1872 in British Guiana.

* 9th July 1873.

2. It is satisfactory to observe that the rate of mortality among the immigrants during the first and subsequent years of their residence has been reduced from 3·54 per cent. to 1·06 per cent. At the same time, Your Lordship in Council will notice, with regret, that the disproportion between the number of complaints preferred by masters and the number proceeded with continues as great as ever. It is to be hoped, however, that the efforts of Governor Scott to check this evil by exercising the power vested in him of refusing further allotments may be more successful.

3. It is the intention of the Earl of Kimberley, as Your Excellency in Council will observe, to take into consideration the constitution of the Immigration Department and the magistracy, in order to make more effectual provision against this and other abuses.

Dated Colonial Office, London, the 9th July 1873.

From—R. G. W. HERBERT, Esq., Under Secretary of State for the Colonies,
To—The Under Secretary of State for India.

I AM directed by the Earl of Kimberley to transmit to you, for the information of the Secretary of State for India, a copy of a despatch* from the Governor of British Guiana, transmitting the consolidated returns of immigrants for 1872, with the report of the Immigration Department.

* 17th May 1873, No. 75.

2. I am also to transmit to you a copy of a despatch† which his Lordship has addressed to the Governor respecting the issue of summonses against the immigrants which are not proceeded with by employers, and are often compounded for by the immigrant paying the cost of the summons, and a copy of a minute by the Emigration Commissioners on the Governor's despatch and enclosures, and I am to request that the consolidated returns may not be sent to India in original, but that they may be returned to this department.

No. 75, dated Georgetown, the 17th May 1873.

From—The Hon. J. SCOTT, Governor of British Guiana,
To—The Secretary of State for the Colonies.

I HAVE the honor to transmit the consolidated immigration returns for the two half-years ending respectively the 30th of June and the 31st of December of the past year, together with the report* thereon of Mr. King, second Sub-Immigration Agent, who, in consequence of Mr. Crosby being temporarily acting as Puisne Judge, and the first Sub-Agent being engaged in making the half-yearly inspection of the estates, is now in charge of the department.

* 13th May 1873.

2. As regards the unusual and objectionable delay in forwarding the earlier of these returns, Your Lordship will observe that Mr. King reports that it was completed on the 21st of October, and that its detention has arisen from the inability of the Immigration Agent General to find time to prepare his report upon it. In justification of myself I may state that I have on several occasions pressed the Immigration Agent General for his report. I cannot admit the excuse of want of time, as the preparation of such a report, with all the data set forth in the return already compiled, does not involve any great labour, and under all circumstances, admitting that there might have been a pressure of work, such a document should have had precedence over minor matters.

3. My attention was drawn in Your Lordship's despatch No. 381 of the 11th of November to a communication from the Government of India commenting upon the consolidated return of immigrants for the half-year ending the 31st of December 1871, and the report of the Immigration Agent General thereon. The death-rate for the year, stated to be 35·80 per thousand, was regarded as high; but, as I have elsewhere pointed out, the death-rate of the entire population of the colony was in 1871 unusually high, having reached 37·8 per thousand. The death-rate amongst the immigrants, therefore, compares favorably with the general rate of mortality. By the returns now forwarded, it will be observed that the mortality amongst the immigrants working on the estates was for the half-year ending June 30th 15·5, and for the half-year ending December 31st 14·2 per thousand, and that in no case on any estate has the death-rate reached 7 per cent., the maximum fixed by Your Lordship, which, if reached, would exclude an estate from having a fresh allotment of immigrants.

Blue book report for 1871.

4. The Indian Government expressed a desire that the tables of mortality should exhibit the percentage of deaths separately for both indentured and unindentured immigrants, and that the mortality among the former class should be analysed with reference to the period of residence. With the view of complying with this demand, two tables have been attached to the consolidated return for the half-year ending the 30th of December last. From the first of these it will be seen that the death-rate for the half-year was amongst indentured immigrants 1·26, and amongst unindentured immigrants 1·92 per cent. This shews in favour of the indentured labourers a result which might be expected from the circumstance that the unindentured coolies consist of the older residents who are more advanced in life, and amongst whom, as a general rule, a larger number of deaths may be looked for. Both classes, I may remark, are treated the same as regards cottage accommodation and medical treatment in the estates hospitals, although under the Ordinance indentured immigrants are alone entitled to this latter privilege; in the new Ordinance I obtained an alteration in the draft sent out, by which all immigrants residing on the estates are entitled to medical treatment. Under these circumstances I confess that I do not attach much importance to this separation of the death-rate between indentured and unindentured immigrants. It was recommended by the Immigration Agent General in his report dated the 23rd of April 1872, on which the comments of the Government of India are based, on the ground that because there was a greater equality of the sexes amongst the unindentured labourers, and, therefore, reasonable to suppose a greater amount of domestic comfort and happiness and possible moral improvement, it was important to ascertain whether this produced a correspondingly decreased mortality. The unindentured immigrants, as I have stated, are the older resident coolies, and have the greater number of females amongst them, and for the same reason it may be presumed that the mortality may be expected to be greater, and not less, as anticipated by the Immigration Agent General. In my despatch No. 101 of the 20th of July 1872, I stated that I did not consider this distinction was of sufficient value to compensate for the additional labour it imposed on the managers of estates, and that it needlessly introduced another difficulty to those existing in obtaining accurate returns from the estates on which the statistics of the Immigration Department are founded. My own view is, that while obtaining all possible useful statistics as regards the immigrant class of the population, all complication in the managers' returns should be avoided as likely to lead to the introduction of errors.

5. The second table gives an analysis of the mortality amongst the Indian immigrants under indenture for periods of residence from one to four years. This information is of a most useful character, and instructions had been given, before receiving the request of the Government of India, to supply it with each half-yearly return. The mortality amongst the immigrants of one year's residence or under is stated to be 3·54 per cent. during the six months ending the 30th of December last. This is a high rate, but perhaps not greater than might be expected amongst a people many of whom have impaired constitutions on arrival; of those who had been over one, but less than two years in the colony, the mortality is 1·4 only for the six months, showing a large decrease in the death-rate; and as the mortality does not greatly decrease in succeeding periods, it would appear that the first year's residence is sufficient to accustom the coolie to the change and place him as regards health on an equal footing with the older residents.

6. These returns shew, I regret to state, the same objectionable features as former returns with regard to the large number of cases brought by employers against immigrants, or rather cases in which summonses are taken out, and greater number withdrawn. In my despatch No. 101, of the 20th of July last, I stated that I had personally brought this objectionable mode of procedure on the part of managers before several of the influential proprietors and attorneys, and that I hoped by their influence to see the practice checked if not entirely abandoned, but the returns I have recently received shew that although in some instances there has been an improvement, in most of the others it continues as heretofore. The managers assert that it proceeds from a feeling not to press upon the coolie for punishment when he has expressed contrition for any offence he has committed, and I am not prepared to say that this feeling does not actuate many of them; but they overlook the evils which attend this system of condoning offences, by allowing the immigrants to pay to them the cost of the summonses, to such a large extent as these returns shew to be the practice. On the one hand, I believe that practically it induces a carelessness in committing offences which would be avoided if in all cases where a summons had been taken out it was imperative on the manager to bring the immigrant before the magistrate, and on the other hand managers are likely to take out summonses with less discrimination, knowing that in many instances the immigrants will repay the cost, and that they thus with very little trouble to themselves indirectly inflict upon them a moderate fine without the intervention of the magistrate.

The Government of India, in the despatch transmitted to me by Your Lordship, express a hope that the new Ordinance will put a stop to this unsatisfactory state of things, and suggest that I should enquire closely into the working of the magistrates' courts so far as their action in regard to immigrants is concerned. The magistrates, I may remark, are in no wise concerned in the practice alluded to. The summonses against immigrants are granted on the application of managers on written statements of the offence with which the immigrant is charged, and it depends solely upon the manager whether he attends to prosecute or not at the magistrate's court. The new Immigration Ordinance has no provision bearing on this subject. In one of my communications to Your Lordship I suggested that the remedy to prevent these objectionable compromises would be to prohibit by legislation the acceptance of any payment by a manager from an immigrant in connection with any matter pending in a magistrate's court. If a manager deemed it expedient to forgive an immigrant, he might do so, but in such a case the estate should bear the cost of the summons. I am aware, as I then stated, that a legislative provision of this kind would be somewhat anomalous.

8. I may state that I am having prepared a printed copy of that portion of the consolidated return which gives for the past twelve months the cases for breaches of the labour laws, shewing, as regards each estate, those withdrawn, acquitted, and convicted, and that it is my intention to forward a copy to each manager, accompanied with a circular pointing out the objections taken by Her Majesty's Government and the Government of India to the practice adopted, and I trust this may have the effect of putting a stop to it; if not, then it will have to be considered whether the Government should not refuse to grant allotments of immigrants to managers who should continue a system which is, when rightly considered, neither beneficial to the immigrant nor to the manager.

No. 1064, dated British Guiana, the 13th May 1873.

From—C. W. KING, Esq., Sub-Immigration Agent,

To—The Governor of British Guiana.

I HAVE the honor to forward to Your Excellency the consolidated half-yearly return of immigrants under indenture of service or residing on plantations in the Colony of British Guiana for the half-year ending 30th June 1872, and also a similar return for the half-year ending 31st December 1872; also a statement shewing the length of residence in the colony of all those indentured immigrants who died on the different plantations during the half-year ending 31st December 1872.

2. The return for the half-year ending 30th June 1872 was completed on Monday, 21st October. Its detention until the present moment arose from the inability of the Immigration Agent General to find time to prepare his report on it. The preparation of this return, and also of that for the half-year ending 31st December, was delayed by the necessity of sending back so many of the estate returns for correction. Each half-year this same complaint has to be made, and the work of preparing the consolidated return is very much impeded by the careless manner in which the estate returns are sent in.

Immigrant Population.

3. Immigrant population on the 30th June 1872 was as follows :—

	Under indenture.		Not indentured.		Total.		Grand Total.
	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.

Africans and Creoles of African descent ...	209	24	699	445	908	469	1,377

On the 31st December 1871 there were 33,940 Indian immigrants, including those from Calcutta and Madras, under indenture on the estates, and 8,823 not under indenture but resident on the estates. On the 31st December 1872 there were 34,691 under indenture and 9,305 not under indenture but resident on the estates, thus exhibiting an increase of 751 under indenture and 482 not under indenture but resident on estates, or a total increase of 1,233.

There were 3,556 Indian immigrants introduced into the colony during the year 1872, and 58 Indian casuals are registered as having arrived. If to these there be added 473 births, we have a total increase of 4,087 to the Indian immigrant population during the year 1872. Against this must be put 983 who returned to India in the Enmore and Rohilla in September and October, and 1,427 deaths. These figures would leave an actual increase of 1,677, of which number 1,233 appear as indentured or resident on the estates. There are therefore 444 not accounted for in the consolidated return, but this is easily explained by the fact that each year many of the immigrants whose terms of service have expired leave the estates and settle in the towns and villages, or on abandoned estates, in either of which cases they remain unaccounted for in the consolidated return, which takes notice of those only who are indentured or resident on the estates. There is every reason to believe that the registers of deaths on the estates are now kept with care and accuracy, and it is therefore a fair presumption that the greater number of the 444 who do not appear in the consolidated return have become merged in the general population of the colony in one or other of the ways above mentioned. The close of 1872 exhibits a decrease of 101 in the Chinese immigrant population under indenture or resident on estates, as on the 31st December 1871 there were 5,948, including both those under indenture and those not under indenture but resident on the estates, and on the 31st December 1872 there were 5,847. In September and October 139 returned to China.

4. The proportion of males to females on the 30th June was as follows :—

On the 31st December 1871 the proportion of males to females amongst the Indian immigrants, including both those from Calcutta and Madras, under indenture was as 100 to 37 22. The above statistics give a proportion of 100 to 38·18 on December 31st, 1872, including both those from Calcutta and Madras. Amongst those not under indenture, but resident on the estates on December 31st, 1871, the proportion was as 100 to 64·11, and on December 31st, 1872, as 100 to 64·24; the relative proportion of the sexes is therefore more favorable than at the close of 1871.

MORTALITY.

5. The mortality amongst the immigrants in reference to their being under indenture or not under indenture service is not shewn in the return for the half-year ending 30th June. In compliance, however, with the instructions contained in the despatch of the Secretary of State dated November 11th, attention has been paid to this distinction in the return for the second half-year.

The mortality during the half-year ending 30th June was as follows :—

	Population.	Deaths.	Mortality in 1,000.
Calcutta and Madras	42,984	674	16·43
Chinese	6,180	83	13·57
Africans	1,323	2	1·51

During the-half year ending 31st December 1872—

Under indenture.

	Population.	Deaths.	Mortality in 1,000.
Indians	34,691	454	12·92
Chinese	4,394	46	10·36
Africans	233	1	4 27

Not under indenture

Indians	9,305	207	21·76
Chinese	1,554	25	15 83
Africans	1,144	3	2 62

Total mortality of indentured and not indentured.

ndians	43,996	661	14·8
Chinese	5,948	71	11·8
Africans	1,377	4	2·9

There were four estates the mortality on which exceeded 3·50 during the half-year ending June 30th, and on these four estates the mortality in the half-year ending 31st December was reduced to ·79, 1·12, 2·13, and 2·23 respectively. During the half-year ending 31st December 1872, there were six estates in which the mortality exceeded 3·50. Throughout the colony the death-rate for the half-year ending 30th June was 1·55, and for the half-year ending December 31st, 1·42. It will be observed that the mortality was less among the immigrants under indenture than amongst those not under indenture.

I have furnished a statement shewing the length of residence in the Colony of British Guiana of all those indentured immigrants who died on the different plantations in the colony during the half-year ending December 31st, 1872.

The analysis of the mortality has not been carried beyond the fourth year of residence on account of the impossibility of ascertaining the number of immigrants under indenture who had been in the colony for periods exceeding four years, without the expenditure of more time and labour than could be devoted to it, and without this information, no deductions could be drawn and the analysis would be of no practical utility.

The immigrants who arrived in the latter part of 1872 were excluded from the analysis as they had been in the colony only a few weeks.

The columns which represent the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th year of residence, include respectively all immigrants introduced in seasons 1871-72, 1870-71, 1869-70, and 1868-69.

It will be observed that the death-rate in the first year is, as might be expected, very much higher than in the other periods, and that each succeeding year exhibits a gradual decrease. There is a slight increase in the death-rate among the total number of those who had been resident in the colony for periods exceeding four years. The increased average would probably be found among those immigrants who came to the colony from 15 to 25 years ago.

It may be expected that future returns will afford evidence of the beneficial effects of the rationing system by exhibiting a reduction in the death-rate amongst the newly arrived immigrants. This system has been in operation since the commencement of the present season.

BIRTHS.

6. The number of births among the Indian immigrants during the half-year ending June 30th was as follows :—

	Males.	Females.	Total.
Indians	227	294	531
Chinese	18	18	36
and for the half-year ending December 31st—
Indians	260	206	466
Chinese	17	11	28

Cases involving offences against the Labour Laws.

7. The population of the three counties and throughout the colony, and the number of prosecutions instituted and complaints made, and their percentage in reference to the population, are as follows :—

Half-year ending June 30th—

	Population.	Complaints
		Withdrawn	Convicted.	Acquitted.	Total.
Demerara	23,031	973	1,318	343	2,634
Essequibo	8,981	500	455	64	1,019
Berbice	6,202	376	368	40	784
TOTAL ...	38,214	1,849	2,141	447	4,437

Half year-ending December 31st—

Demerara	23,558	878	1,325	544	2,747
Essequibo	9,362	532	519	60	1,111
Berbice ...	6,398	392	318	36	746
TOTAL ...	39,318	1,802	2,162	640	4,604

The percentage of prosecutions or complaints in proportion to the population is as follows :—

In 1st half-year 11·61 per cent.

There were five estates in Demerara, one in Essequibo, and one in Berbice in which the percentage of prosecutions exceeded twenty per cent. during the half-year ending June 30th, and there was one in Demerara, one in Essequibo, and one in Berbice in which the prosecutions exceeded twenty per cent. during the half-year ending 31st December.

The percentages of withdrawals, convictions, and acquittals are as follows :—

During the half-year ending June 30th—

	Convicted.	Withdrawn.	Acquitted.
Demerara	50·04	36·94	13·02
Essequibo	44·65	49·07	6·28
Berbice	46·94	47·96	5·1
During the half-year ending December 1872—
Demerara	48·23	31 97	19·8
Essequibo	46·71	47·89	5·4
Berbice...	42·62	52·55	4·83

Immigrants against employers.—During the half-year ending June 30th, in Demerara on one estate there were four cases, all of which resulted in acquittal. On another, one case which was withdrawn before trial. In Essequibo on one estate there was one case which resulted in acquittal. In Berbice there were no cases.

During the half-year ending December 31st, in Demerara on six estates there were twelve cases, nine of which resulted in conviction and three in acquittal. In Essequibo on four estates there were nine cases, two of which were withdrawn and seven resulted in acquittal.

The statistics given above present a very large proportion of cases withdrawn, and also of prosecutions in proportion to population.

8. The visits paid to the estates by the Medical Inspector and the Sub-Immigration Agents and the reports sent in by them with regard to the condition of the estate hospitals, and of the dwellings of the immigrants, and also with regard to the extent of the accommodation both as to hospital and dwellings on each estate, shew that a continued improvement has been taking place, and that great additions have been made to the cottage accommodation on the estates throughout the colony.

9. The Sub-Immigration Agents have received instructions to enquire into and report at each visit upon the wages earned by the immigrants at the different kinds of work, the amount of work performed for those wages, and the time occupied in the performance of it; also the price of different articles of food in the different districts throughout the colony. The first of those reports was forwarded to Your Excellency on the 4th instant.

Minute by Sir T. W. C. MURDOCH, dated the 17*th June* 1873.

THE returns enclosed in Governor Scott's despatch are for the two half-years of 1872. They are so fully analyzed by the Sub-Immigration Agent that I only reproduce here the general results.

2. The number of immigrants on estates on 30th of June 1872 was 50,487, of whom were Indians—

	Males.	Females.
Under indenture	24,260	9,072
Not under indenture	5,806	3,846
	30,066	12,918	42,984
Chinese	...	...	6,180
Africans and Creole Africans	...	...	1,323
		TOTAL ...	50,487

The number on 31st December 1872 was 51,321, of whom were Indians—

	Males.	Females.
Under indenture	25,107	9,584
Not under indenture	5,527	3,778
	30,634	13,362	43,996
Chinese	...	...	5,948
Africans and Creole Africans	...	...	1,377
		TOTAL ...	51,321

Comparing the number of Indians on estates on 31st December 1871 and 31st December 1872, there was an increase at the latter date of 751 under indenture and 482 not under indenture.

3. During the half-year ending 31st December last, the mortality among Indians is said to have been at the rate of 14·8 per 1,000, but of those under indenture at the rate of only 12·92 per 1,000; while among those not under indenture, it was at the rate of 21·76 per 1,000 (these numbers are not strictly accurate; they should be 13·15 and 22·2 respectively). The great difference in the mortality between those under and those not under indenture is accounted for, the Governor says, by the circumstance that among the unindentured are a large proportion of old people. I should think it more likely to arise from the laxer discipline under which the unindentured laborer lives, and the greater freedom he probably allows himself when not in the field. At all events it shows that indenture is, in a sanitary point of view, an advantage to the immigrant.

4. But the most striking return attached to the despatch is, that which shows the mortality among Indians during the first and subsequent years of their residence. From this it appears that during the last half of 1872 the mortality among immigrants who had been less than one year in the colony was at the rate of ... ... 3·54 per cent.

Of those in their second year	1·40	„
Ditto ditto third „	1·31	„
Ditto ditto fourth „	1·06	„

It will be remembered that in Trinidad, which is generally considered a healthier colony than British Guiana, the mortality among new immigrants has till recently been much higher than this. And that even in 1872, though the mortality of those in their first year had been much reduced by the rationing system, it was still very heavy among those in their second year. This return, if correct, which I see no reason to doubt, must, under these circumstances, be regarded as satisfactory.

5. The disproportion between the number of complaints preferred by masters and the number proceeded with continues as great as ever. The whole number preferred during the year was 9,041.

Of these there were withdrawn	3,651
Proved	4,303
Not proved	1,087

The Governor states that he has remonstrated on the subject with influential proprietors and attorneys, but with no effect. It is an indirect way of inflicting fines on the immigrants by compelling them to pay the cost of the summons as the condition of not proceeding with it.

6. The Governor is fully alive to the objectionable nature of this mode of proceeding, but feels great difficulty in dealing with it by legislation. It would no doubt be difficult to frame a law prohibiting the practice, which would not be on the one hand oppressive or on the other easily evaded. The Governor proposes to address a circular to the managers of estates on the subject, and if that has not the desired effect, he would then consider the propriety of refusing new immigrants to estates where the practice is followed. An announcement of that nature would probably be more effectual than any law on the subject.

7. The returns are, I believe, for the India Office, but the information they contain is so valuable for future reference that I would suggest that they should not be allowed to be sent to India in original.

No. 84, dated Colonial Office, London, the 7th July 1873.

From—The Right Honorable the EARL OF KIMBERLEY,

To—The Governor of British Guiana.

I HAVE received your despatch No. 75, of the 17th of May, transmitting the consolidated returns of immigrants for 1873, with the report of the Immigration Department.

2. I concur with you in thinking that it is necessary to endeavour to check the practice which, from the report of the Commission, as well as from your remarks, appears to be too prevalent, namely, the taking out of summonses against immigrants which are not proceeded with by their employers, and are in many cases compounded for by the immigrant paying the cost of the summons, and that it would be preferable that the Governor should for this purpose exercise his power to refuse further allotments of immigrants, rather than that an attempt should be made to deal with the evil by legislation. The most efficient remedy, however, will probably be found in the appointment of a sufficient staff of officers to visit the estates frequently, and to determine disputes on the spot; and I propose to take into consideration shortly the constitution of the Immigration Department and the magistracy, with a view to making more effectual provision against this and other abuses which, without the necessary administrative improvements, will not be sufficiently prevented by the recent amendment of the immigration law.

3. I have in another despatch requested that returns of the kind enclosed in your despatch may be forwarded in duplicate.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

[IRRIGATION.]

REVENUE REPORT OF THE IRRIGATION DEPARTMENT OF THE PUNJAB FOR 1871-72.

No. 660-74 I, dated Simla, 22nd September 1873.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, PUBLIC WORKS DEPT.

Read—

Letter from the Government of the Punjab, No. 2458 I of the 19th June 1873, and accompaniment as above noted.

OBSERVATIONS.—This report was due on the 15th November, and having been received only on the 21st June 1873, is in consequence over seven months in arrears. Though submitted two months earlier than the report of the previous year, yet there is still much room for improvement, and Superintending Engineers should be urged to greater punctuality in the submission of their reports. Paragraph 86 of the Chief Engineer's review shows that none of them submitted their reports until early in November, the time at which they were due in the office of the Public Works Department to the Government of India, and several were much later. Last year it was said the Controller was behindhand, and that the camping season having commenced, it was difficult for executive officers to compile their returns. This year the Controller, though still somewhat late, sent in the last returns on 24th August, and therefore the returns should have been in much earlier from Executive officers.

2. It is explained by the Accountant General that one of the many causes of delay is the attempt in offices of Superintending Engineers and Chief Engineer to reconcile the figures received from Executive Engineers' offices with those received from the Controllers' offices. But the Account Department is responsible for the accuracy of its figures. As a rule, calls for explanation generally result in the Controller's figures being shown to be accurate, and it is, therefore, desirable that the Superintending Engineers, as well as the Chief Engineer, should be required to accept the Controller's figures, unless where they are obviously inaccurate, in which case the Controller and not the Executive Engineer should be called on for explanation Another cause of delay is the printing of unnecessary documents, but this matter will be separately reviewed and dealt with.

General results.

3. The aggregate capital invested in canals in the Punjab has been increased during the year by Rs. 29,86,022, of which sum Rs. 28,79,972 were expended on separate projects, additions to existing series, and preliminary surveys for new projects, from which no return is obtainable until the completion of the works.

4. The area irrigated in the year under review amounted to 1,163,204 acres against 1,206,216 acres irrigated in the previous year, so that there was a falling-off in area of 43,012 acres, but it was slightly in excess of that of the year 1868-69. It is worthy, however, of remark that though the areas irrigated in 1868-69 and 1871-72 are nearly the same, there is a considerable falling-off (Rs. 1,47,593) in revenue, thus showing a diminution since the former year, of irrigation of the superior staples (see table in paragraph 3 of Punjab Government's Resolution), and there is an increase in working expenses of Rs. 1,49,157, which can hardly be considered satisfactory. These two causes combined have reduced the percentage of profits from 7·52 on direct only, and 14·06 on direct together with indirect returns in 1868-69, to 4·99 and 10·65, respectively, in 1871-72. The growth of expenditure under "working expenses" should, the Governor General in Council considers, be more carefully watched by the local Government.

5. The areas irrigated by the respective works are as follows:—

	Acres.
Western Jumna Canal	444,385
Baree Doab "	287,070
Inundation Canals, Upper Sutlej	87,043
" " Lower Sutlej and Chenab	188,465
" " Indus	144,334
Delhi and Goorgaon Works	7,794

Considering the adverse conditions of the rain-fall and river-supply,—deluge of rain in some localities, while the fall was little or none in others,—floods of extraordinary magnitude in the middle of the irrigating season, but an unusually small supply in the inundation canals just when required—the operations of the year appear fairly successful.

6. The nett financial results of the year shows a profit of 4·99 from direct income, and 10·65 per cent. if the indirect returns are included. The percentages for the previous year being 6·5 and 12·54, respectively, there is therefore in direct returns upon the capital outlay a falling-off of 1·51 per cent., and in indirect and direct taken together, of 1·89 per cent.

7. Taking into consideration the unfavorable nature of the floods and rain-fall in the year under review, the direct income, which aggregates Rs. 20,78,965, compares favorably with the average gross revenue of the past four years, which amounts to Rs. 21,11,768, the difference being only Rs. 32,800. But a comparison with the wet year 1867-68 affords a better criterion of the permanent progress made; for, though the rain-fall was greater than in that year, there is yet an increase of Rs. 2,94,000 in the revenue. The working expenses have, however, been augmented by Rs. 1,85,473, and so to a great extent neutralize that increase.

8. The indirect income which aggregates Rs. 9,41,738,* though higher than that of 1869-70, is not so large as in the two preceding years, nor as that of 1870-71. The figures, except for those of the Baree Doab Canal, are approximations only, and probably below the true amount which may be fairly credited to the irrigation works in the province. As soon, however, as the land settlements now in progress are completed, correct results will be arrived at in each case.

	Rs.
* Direct and indirect income	30,20,703
Direct income ...	20,78,965
Indirect income ...	9,41,738

9. The working expenses show an increase of Rs. 34,232 over that of the previous year, due chiefly to charges for establishment employed on the new projects, and also to a large debit on account of "Direction," caused by the introduction of expenditure not hitherto entered in these accounts.

The aggregate working expenses amount to 60·13 per cent. of the gross direct revenue, but only to 41·38 per cent. of the gross direct and indirect income. This percentage is too high in a canal whose receipts have increased so much within the last few years.

10. The foregoing results appertain to the irrigation works of the entire province: the details will now be entered upon.

Western Jumna Canal.

11. The area irrigated on this canal amounted to 444,385 acres, which, though less by 18,322 acres than that of the previous year, does not contrast unfavourably with the maximum results obtained prior to the last year of drought (1868-69); the rain-fall having been above the average of the past four years, i. e., 22 inches above the maximum.

12. The areas irrigated in the autumn and spring, respectively, were 187,647 and 256,738 acres, the operations of the past seven years being as follows :—

YEARS.	Acres	Gross revenue.	Net profits.	Percentage on capital outlay.
		Rs.	Rs.
1865-66	397,963	4,90,468	2,37,319	...
1866-67	447,171	7,50,497	5,10,451	...
1867-68	331,037	8,66,963	5,42,973	23·5
1868-69	486,878	12,21,072	8,65,966	37·51
1869-70	496,542	12,53,012	8,75,994	35 82
1870-71	462,707	12,02,848	8,40,718	32·36
1871 72	444,385	11,30,957	7,24,084	26·22

A considerable improvement has taken place in the revenue since 1866-67, in which year and the one under review the irrigated area was nearly the same.

13. The indirect revenue is a fixed sum, and the same as in previous years, viz., Rs. 3,72,563.

14. The area of the principal crops irrigated during the past six years is shewn in the following table :—

	1866-67.	1867-68.	1868-69.	1869-70.	1870-71.	1871-72.
Sugar-cane ...	19,773	27,209	38,908	45,122	39,877	31,325
Rice ...	62,071	39,455	34,883	46,705	45,863	32,974
Cotton ...	140,796	98,800	74,942	80,093	98,446	100,951
Wheat ...	150,233	100 937	213,226	177,300	182,072	181,573
	Inches.	Inches.	Inches.	Inches.	Inches.	Inches.
Rain-fall ...	35·06	53·56	15·30	30·97	47·77	70·17

Comparing the results of the two wet years, 1867-68 and 1871-72, a marked increase is observable in the latter in all the crops but rice.

15. The following table shows the proportion of autumn to spring crops for the past three years :—

1869-70 ...	230,274	256,846	47·3	52·7	30 97
1870-71 ...	215,717	239,950	47·3	52·7	47 77
1871-72 ...	184,842	252,430	42·	58·	70·17

The effect of copious rains in diminishing the autumn irrigation is thus very evident.

16. Of the whole irrigated area amounting to 454,385 acres, 60,014 acres were irrigated twice, thus showing that the actual area irrigated was 384,371 acres. The percentage of twice cropped lands amounts to 16 per cent.; last year it was 14 per cent.

17. The average water-rate calculated on crop acreage amounted to Rs. 2·46 per acre during the autumn, and Rs 2·17 during the spring, giving an average for the year of Rs. 2·31. The figures for the previous year were Rs. 2·83 and Rs. 2·18 per acre, respectively.

18. The water duty, according to page 5 of the Chief Engineer's report, was for the autumn 102 acres, and for the spring 114 acres, per cubic foot per second of utilized supply, which in 1870-71 were 127 and 126 acres, respectively, thus showing a considerable decrease in the figures for the previous year.

19. The gross income of the canal, according to the Chief Engineer, amounted to Rs. 11,30,957 against Rs. 12,02,848 in the previous year, or a falling-off of Rs. 71,891. The Superintending Engineer, at page 2 of his report, gives it as Rs. 11,31,284, while the Controller, in his general statement of income (A), returns the gross revenue at Rs. 11,08,435. It is explained in paragraph 7 of Superintending Engineer's report that his figures have all been taken from Controller's corrected returns with the exception of the water-rent, which has been taken from the demand statement shown in Appendix A. Turning to this statement it is observed that the net assessments, after deducting "remissions and free grants," amount to Rs. 10,64,789, while in both the Superintending and Chief Engineer's revenue account currents, Rs. 10,82,758 is credited under "water-rent." These discrepancies require explanation.

20. There is a slight increase in the water-rate per cubic foot of supply for the spring, and a falling-off of that for the autumn, as compared with the previous year; the figures being—

		1870-71.	1871-72.
Autumn	Rs.	345	316
Spring	"	274	279

21. The demands for 1871-72 amounted to Rs. 12,43,753, and the realizations to Rs. 10,38,126, leaving an outstanding balance of Rs. 2,05,627. This, though a considerable improvement on 1869-70, when Rs. 5,05,638 were left unrealized, is still not satisfactory; and contrasts unfavorably with the realizations in the North-Western Provinces, where the outstandings on the largest canal amount to only a few hundred rupees. His Excellency in Council trusts arrangements will be made for more promptly realizing the outstanding demands.

Delhi and Goorgaon Works.

22. The revenue account of these works shows a net loss during the year of Rs. 6,339, or 3·44 per cent. on a capital outlay of Rs. 1,83,830, the expenditure being Rs. 11,522, and the income Rs. 5,183. If, however, the enhancement of land revenue, which is calculated at Rs. 24,528, is taken into account, there is a profit of Rs. 18,189, equivalent to a return of Rs. 9-8 per cent. on the total investment.

23. The revenue accounts of the Superintending Engineer and Chief Engineer are not supported by the Controller's demand statement A. The amount credited in the revenue accounts referred to under "water-rates" is Rs. 3,173, whereas from the Controller it would appear that the demands amounted to Rs. 2,803 only. Explanation should be furnished of this discrepancy.

Baree Doab Canal.

24. The area irrigated in the year under review amounted to 287,070 acres against 279,210 acres in the previous year, showing an increase of 7,860 acres. There was a decrease of 12,231 acres in the autumn irrigation as compared with the previous year, but it was more than compensated for by an increase of 20,091 acres in the spring. The proportion of the former to the latter is 26·6 to 73·4 per cent.; the figures for the previous year were 31·75 and 68 25 per cent., respectively.

25. The principal crops irrigated during the past eight years are compared in the following table :—

	1864-65.	1865-66.	1866-67.	1867-68.	1868-69.	1869-70.	1870-71.	1871-72
	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.	Acres	Acres.	Acres.	Acres	Acres
Rice ...	29,212	53,564	57,615	63,961	41,256	76,709	24,535	11,598
Cotton ...	13,881	5,236	12,511	21,101	8,205	11,671	10,640	20,387
Sugar-cane ...	9,878	9,181	9,156	10,600	9,811	11,623	6,994	6 287
Wheat ..	97,722	59,827	108,707	122,720	175,619	87,399	156,375	167,211

The great falling-off in rice and sugar-cane is considered by the Superintending Engineer to be due to the increased rates for water which came into operation last year. The decrease, however, in rice occurs principally in the upper reaches of the canal, and is not to be regretted, as it will admit of an increase of irrigation in the lower districts, where the water is more urgently needed. There is a marked and satisfactory increase in the irrigation of wheat, the breadth being very nearly equal to that in the famine year 1868-69, but in cotton there has been considerable fluctuation during the past eight years.

26. The irrigated area and the gross revenue on this canal will be seen from the following table. Both show a considerable and progressive increase, which is encouraging :—

Year	Acres	Gross revenue.	Net revenue.
		Rs	Rs
1865-66	175,979	4,25,256	1,12,535
1866-67	228,427	5,54,910	2,67,646
1867-68	262,455	6,24,654	2,69,166
1868-69	299,835	7,06,234	3,73,527
1869-70	233,927	6,85,439	3,36,863
1870-71	279,210	7,34,090	3,13,124
1871-72	287,070	7,10,279	3,37,172

It appears from this table that the net revenue was higher than in any previous year, except the famine year 1868-69. The gross revenue is even higher than that of any year, except the last.

27. The increased charges on account of establishment during the year amount to Rs. 7,474, and are said by the Superintending Engineer to be due to differences of pay and other accidental circumstances. The annually progressive* increase in charges, however, goes far to neutralize the additional income, and to keep the net profit down.

	Extra Establishment and Direction. Rs.
1869-70	1,55,331

28. The gross income of the year is shown to have been Rs. 7,10,279 against Rs. 7,34,090, being a decrease of Rs. 23,811, due in great measure to a diminution of the higher classes of crops, which have given place to wheat and other cereals of an inferior class.

29. The "water advantage" rate for the districts of Goordaspoor, Umritsur, and Lahore amounts to Rs. 2,50,410. If these indirect returns be included, then the net profits on the capital outlay up to the commencement of the year amounts to Rs. 4·66 per cent. The net profit on the direct returns only amounts to Rs. 2·68 per cent.

30. The area of double cropped lands amounted to 11,813 acres, leaving 275,256 acres as the area of land to which water was supplied during the year. The twice cropped lands represent 4·3 per cent. of the land irrigated, the figure for last year being 8 per cent.

31. It appears from the tabular statement of "water advantage" assessment furnished at paragraph 28 of Chief Engineer's report for the past seven years, i. e., from 1855-56, when the rate was first levied, that of a total assessment of Rs. 13,46,233 Rs. 2,98,503 were remitted. Of this sum the jagheerdars benefited to the extent of Rs. 2,70,563, or 20 per cent. of the total assessment. It is explained that jagheerdars are exempt from an "owner's" or "water advantage" rate, so also are all lands under irrigation from wells at the last settlement, although they may subsequently be irrigated from canals; nor is any credit taken in canal accounts for the enhanced land revenue on such lands.

32. The "duty" obtained from the utilized supply was 41·42 acres per cubic foot during the autumn, and 111·28 acres during the spring. The increase in the duty of the spring crop is attributed to economy in distribution. There is room, however, for much further improvement.

33. The water-rate per cubic foot of supply utilized came to Rs. 109·3 for the autumn, and 248·0 for the spring, showing a decrease for the former of Rs. 42·9, and an increase in the latter of Rs. 24·5.

The water-rate per acre irrigated amounted to Rs. 2·64 and Rs. 2·06 for the respective seasons, the figures for the previous year being Rs. 2·91 and 2·26. The decrease is due chiefly to the temporary falling-off in the revenue, and an increase of Rs. 5,70,767 to the capital debit during the year.

34. The cost of maintenance per acre irrigated amounted to Rs. 1·9 against Rs. 1·5 last year. This is much higher than it should be.

35. The balance of demands for the year amounted to Rs. 7,49,440, of which Rs. 6,78,874 were realized, leaving a balance at close of the year of Rs. 70,566, which is an improvement on the previous year, when the balance stood as high as Rs. 1,27,675.

Out of a large unrealized balance, amounting to Rs. 1,27,645, on account of water advantage rate, Rs. 99,905 appear to consist of arrears prior to 1867-68, which are being realized by instalments.

36. The progress of the Baree Doab Canal is, on the whole, satisfactory, for the irrigated area has increased steadily; but the working expenses increase also, and this matter requires close attention.

Inundation Canals.

37. The Lower Sutlej and Chenab series shows a loss in the year's operations of Rs. 37,932, or 33·57 per cent. on the capital outlay if the direct returns only are taken into calculation, but if the land revenue be added thereto, the profits amount to no less than 155·21 per cent.

38. The area irrigated was 188,465 acres against 202,086 acres in the previous year. This decrease is apparently due to the late rise and early fall of rivers, a contingency to which all works of this nature are liable. The attendance of statute laborers was considerably better than in either of the two preceding years.

39. The Upper Sutlej series shows an increase in the irrigated area, the figures being 87,043 acres against 77,070 in the previous year. This result is higher than any year previous to 1869-70, which, considering the unusual rain-fall, 11·1 inches, having been a peculiarly favorable one to the cultivators, is satisfactory.

40. The revenue account shows a loss in the operations of the year, amounting to Rs. 89,724, or 15·89 per cent., but this is only apparent, no credit for enhancement of land revenue having been taken. The whole of the land revenue is dependent on the canals.

41. The Dehra Ghazee Khan series from the Indus shows a loss of 25·74 per cent. on the capital invested, if only the direct returns are taken; but if the land revenue be added, the percentage of loss will be reduced to 4·72. The Chief Engineer observes that the revision of the land settlement, now nearly completed, shows that the former estimates of enhancement of land revenue were very much under the mark.

There is a falling-off of 30,008 acres in the irrigated area as compared with the previous year, which is attributed to an accident to the supply head of one of the canals.

42. The Shahpoor Canal exhibits a nett profit on the year's operations of Rs. 3·13 per cent. on the capital outlay. The irrigated area is returned at 4,113 acres. The average water-rate per acre was Rs. 1·17 against Rs. 2·08 in the previous year.

General remarks.

43. The table given in paragraph 3 of the Resolution shows that the "working expenses" are steadily increasing year by year, while the income does not grow in proportion. The serious attention of the Local Government is drawn to this point; for the cost of maintenance per acre amounts, as shown in paragraph 14 of Chief Engineer's report, to Rs. 0·91 against Rs. 0·74 or 25 per cent. over that of the previous year.

44. The following table gives the percentages of "flow" to "lift" on the different canals:—

Name of Canal.	Percentage of flow.	Percentage of lift.
Western Jumna	90·73	9·27
Baree Doab	90·60	9·40
Lower Sutlej and Chenab	83·60	16·40
Upper Sutlej	89·50	10·85
Indus	Not given.
Shahpoor	Ditto.

45. It is satisfactory to observe that the cultivators on the Western Jumna Canal are becoming more careful of the water, and that there is less waste than formerly.

46. From paragraph 58 of Captain Brandreth's report, it appears that "reh" is still increasing on the banks of the Rhotuck Branch, Western Jumna Canal.

47. The remarks contained in paragraph 3, page 54 of the report on the Lower Sutlej Canal, point to the necessity for an early remodelling of these Inundation Canals.

48. The remarks contained in paragraph 4 of the same report appear to merit consideration by the Local Government.

49. Improvement seems called for in the mode and time of measuring up the irrigated areas adverted to in paragraph 86, page 5 of the same report.

ORDER.—Ordered, that copies of this Resolution and of the Reports be forwarded to the Secretary of State, the Department of Agriculture, Revenue and Commerce, and the Financial Department, for information.

Ordered also, that copies of the Resolution be sent to the Government of the Punjab, and the several other Local Governments and Administrations in the Public Works Department, Irrigation Branch, for information; and that the Resolution be further published as a supplement to the India Gazette.

REMARKS

GANGES CANAL.—The canal was closed for repairs from the 4th to the end of the month, and as the gauge returns cannot be relied on, they are not published

EASTERN JUMNA CANAL.—The canal was closed up to the 21th, as there was no demand for water But towards the close of the month there was a call for rice irrigation DHOON CANALS.—No remarks.

TRAFFIC.—The decrease in the month's traffic compared with that in August last year is attributable to the early closure of the canal The down traffic shown in the statement was principally for Cawnpore, and was started off before the canal was closed

NOTIFICATION.

Simla, the 13th October 1873.

No. 11.—The following Statutes are published for general information:—

36 & 37 VICTORIA, CAP. 43.

An Act to enable Indian Railway Companies to issue and register Shares and Securities in India.

[21*st July* 1873.]

Be it enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows; (that is to say)—

1. Every Company now formed, or which shall hereafter be formed, whether by amalgamation or otherwise, for constructing, maintaining, and working railways in India, may establish at such places in India as they think fit an office for the issue, registration, and transfer of shares, stock, bonds, and securities of the Company, and the registration of transfers of shares, stock, bonds, and securities, and the registration of shareholders, and may from time to time remove or alter the place of any such office, and may make such regulations, consistent with the provisions of this Act, as they think fit, for enabling and facilitating the issue, registration, and tranfer of shares, stock, bonds, and securities, and the registration of transfers of shares, stock, bonds, and securities, and the registration of shareholders at such office, and all and every the powers and provisions in relation to the issue, transfer, and registration of shares, stock, bonds, and securities, and the registration of transfers of shares, stock, bonds, and securities, and the registration of shareholders in Great Britain, contained in any deed of settlement or Act of Parliament under or by which the Company shall be constituted or governed, shall apply and be in force as to the shares, stock, bonds, and securities, and the registration of transfers thereof, and the registration of shareholders, to be issued, transferred, registered and made at such office in India, except so far as the same are inconsistent with the provisions of this Act.

2. Every such Company may keep at their office in India books to be called respectively "The India Register of Shareholders," "The India Register of Holders of Consolidated Stock," "The India Shareholders, Address Book," "The India Register of Transfers," and also books for the registration of bonds, debentures, mortgages, and the debenture stock, and the transfers thereof respectively, and the books so kept shall be of the like validity and effect as the books kept for the like purposes by the Company in England, and accounts of all entries and alterations made in the books of the Company in India shall be transmitted to the principal office of the same Company in England.

3. Provided always, that if and when the Company have offices in India at more places than one, then the Company shall substitute for or add to the word "India" in the titles of the Register kept at every such office, the name of the place at which the particular office is established.

4. All transfers of any such shares, stock, bonds, and securities as aforesaid shall be made at the office at which the same respectively shall for the time being be registered, and no share, stock, bond, or security shall be on the registry of more than one office at one and the same time: Provided always, that the Company may keep in England duplicates of any of its books of register kept in India, but no such duplicate book shall be deemed a register.

5. Subject to the regulations from time to time made by such Companies respectively, with respect to the issue, registration, and transfer of shares, stock, bonds, and securities respectively, and the registration of transfers of shares, stock, bonds, and securities respectively, every such Company may and shall, on notice in writing by the holder of any share, stock, bond, or security to the person for the time being acting as secretary, managing director, or principal clerk at the office in England or in India where such share, stock, bond, or security shall then be registered, transfer the share, stock, bond or security from the register thereof at that office to the corresponding register at any other office of the Company where for the time being a register shall be kept to be appointed and named in such notice, and as soon as conveniently may be after the receipt of any such notice such secretary, managing director, or principal clerk shall transmit advice thereof to the office to which the transfer is directed to be made.

6. For the purpose of determining any question as to the place or jurisdiction within which any share, stock, bond, or security shall be deemed to be or to have been situate at any given time, the locality, whether in India or in Great Britain, of the register in which such share, stock, bond, or security shall be or have been actually registered for the time being, shall be deemed to be or have been at such time the locality of such share, stock, bond, or security, and so soon as notice shall have been given as aforesaid for the transfer of any share, stock, bond, or security from one register to another, the share, stock, bond, or security shall for the purpose of this section be deemed to be actually registered in the register to which it is so directed to be transferred.

7. Nothing in this Act shall interfere with or affect any powers which are now vested in any Indian Railway Company by any Acts of Parliament by which the Company is governed.

36 & 37 VICTORIA, CAP. 59.

An Act for regulating and extending the Jurisdiction in matters connected with the Slave Trade of the Vice-Admiralty Court at Aden, and of Her Majesty's Consuls under Treaties with the Sovereigns of Zanzibar, Muscat, and Madagascar, and under future Treaties.

[5th August 1873.]

Whereas treaties for the more effectual suppression of the slave trade have been made by or on behalf of Her Majesty with Chiefs or States in Arabia, and on the shores of the Persian Gulf, and on the east coast of Africa, and in the islands of Madagascar and Zanzibar, and the Comoro islands:

And whereas by the Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1843, it was among other things enacted "that it is and shall be lawful for Her Majesty to hold, exercise, and enjoy any power or "jurisdiction which Her Majesty now hath or may at any time hereafter have within any "country or place out of Her Majesty's dominions in the same and as ample a manner as if "Her Majesty had acquired such power or jurisdiction by the cession or conquest of "territory:"

And whereas by various treaties Her Majesty is empowered to exercise jurisdiction within the dominions of the Sultan of Zanzibar, the Imaum of Muscat, and the Sovereign of Madagascar, in regard to vessels captured on suspicion of being engaged in the slave trade:

And whereas by an Order in Council relating to the dominions of the Sultan of Zanzibar, and dated the ninth day of August one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, and another Order in Council relating to the dominions of the Imaum of Muscat, and dated the fourth day of November one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, and a third Order in Council relating to the dominions of the Sovereign of Madagascar, and dated the fourth day of February one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, it was in each case ordered that Her Majesty's Consul within the dominions to which the order relates should, for and within the said dominions, and in regard to vessels captured on suspicion of being engaged in the slave trade within those dominions, have all such jurisdiction as for the time being ordinarily belongs to courts of Vice-Admiralty in Her Majesty's possessions abroad:

And whereas a Vice-Admiralty Court has been established at Aden, but has only a limited jurisdiction in matters relating to the slave trade:

And whereas by "The Slave-Trade Jurisdiction (Zanzibar) Act, 1869," provision was made for the exercise of the said jurisdiction by Her Majesty's Consul within the dominions of the Sultan of Zanzibar:

And whereas it is expedient to make further provision for the exercise of the said jurisdiction by Her Majesty's Consuls within the dominions of the Sovereigns of Zanzibar, Muscat, and Madagascar, and for the exercise of jurisdiction in matters relating to the slave trade by the Vice-Admiralty Court at Aden:

"Be it therefore enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1. This Act may be cited as the Slave-Trade (East African Courts) Act, 1873.

2. In this Act—

The term "vessel" means any vessel used in navigation:

The term "treaty" includes any convention, agreement, engagement, or arrangement:

The term "foreign state" includes any foreign nation, people, tribe, sovereign, prince, chief, or headman:

The term "existing East African Slave trade Treaty" means a treaty made by or on behalf of Her Majesty with any foreign state in Arabia or on the East Coast of Africa, or the shores of the Persian Gulf, or in any island lying off Arabia, or off such coast or shores, including the islands of Zanzibar and Madagascar and the Comoro islands, for the more effectual suppression of the slave trade, and in force at the passing of this Act:

The term "East African Courts" means the Vice-Admiralty Court at Aden, and any of Her Majesty's Consuls within the dominions of the Sovereigns of Zanzibar, Muscat, and Madagascar, when exercising jurisdiction in pursuance of the recited Orders in Council.

3. All jurisdiction which is by any Act conferred on the Vice-Admiralty Courts in Her Majesty's possessions abroad, in regard to British vessels seized by the commander or officer of any of Her Majesty's ships on suspicion of being engaged in or fitted out for the slave trade, and in regard to the persons, slaves, goods, and effects on board thereof, is hereby conferred on the East African courts, in regard to vessels seized by the commander or officer of any of Her Majesty's ships on suspicion of being engaged in or fitted out for the slave trade, and to the persons, slaves, goods, and effects on board thereof, in the following cases: namely:—

(1.) Where the vessel seized is a British vessel;

(2.) Where the vessel seized has been seized in pursuance of any existing East African Slave trade Treaty; and

(3.) Where the vessel seized is not shown to the court to be entitled to claim the protection of the flag of any foreign state.

Each of the East African courts shall have the same jurisdiction in regard to any person who has been seized either at sea or land, on the ground that he has or is suspected to have been detained as a slave, for the purpose of the slave-trade, as the court would have under this section if he had been so detained on board a vessel that was seized and brought in for adjudication.

All jurisdiction exercised under this section shall for the purposes of any such Act as above mentioned be deemed to be exercised in pursuance of that Act.

4. The provisions of the Vice-Admiralty Courts Act, 1863, with respect to appeals to Her Majesty in Council from any decree or order of a Vice-Admiralty Court shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to appeals from any decree or order of the East African courts made or purporting to be made in the exercise of their jurisdiction under this Act.

5. The provisions of the Vice-Admiralty Courts Act, 1863, with respect to rules touching the practice to be observed in the Vice-Admiralty Courts, and tables of fees to be taken by the officers and practitioners thereof, shall apply in like manner as if they were herein enacted with the substitution of the East African Courts, for the Vice-Admiralty Courts, and of the place in which any such court is held for the British possession in which the Vice-Admiralty Court is established.

6. This Act shall apply to all cases of vessels, slaves, goods, and effects seized by the commander or officer of any of Her Majesty's ships, and adjudicated upon by any of the East African courts, whether before or after the passing of this Act.

7. Where any treaty in relation to the slave trade is made after the passing of this Act, by or on behalf of Her Majesty, with any foreign state in Arabia, or on the East Coast of Africa, or on the shores of the Persian Gulf, or in any island lying off Arabia, or off such coast or shores, including the islands of Zanzibar and Madagascar and the Comoro islands, Her Majesty may by Order in Council direct that as from such date, not being earlier than the date of the treaty, as may be specified in the order, such treaty shall be deemed, and thereupon (as from the said date, or, if no date is specified, as from the date of such order) such treaty shall be deemed to be an existing East African slave trade treaty within the meaning of this Act, and the provisions of this Act shall apply and be construed accordingly.

Her Majesty may by such order, or any subsequent order referring to the same treaty, render the application of this Act subject to such conditions, exceptions, and qualifications as may be deemed expedient, and limit or exclude the jurisdiction of any of the East African courts.

Her Majesty may by such order, or any subsequent order referring to the same treaty, direct that any court, consul, or person authorized by or in pursuance of an Order in Council to exercise within the dominions of the foreign state with whom the treaty is made jurisdiction in matters relating to the slave trade, shall, subject to the conditions, exceptions, and limitations, if any, contained in the order, exercise all the jurisdiction conferred by this Act on the East African courts; and such court, consul, or person, when exercising such jurisdiction, shall be deemed to be one of the East African courts within the meaning of this Act.

Every such order shall recite or embody the terms of the treaty, so far as they relate to the slave trade, and shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within six weeks after it is made, or, if Parliament be not then sitting, within six weeks after the then next meeting of Parliament, and shall also be published in the London Gazette.

A treaty, whether made before or after the passing of this Act, which ceases to be in force, shall cease to be an existing East African slave trade treaty within the meaning of this Act.

8. The Act specified in the schedule to this Act is hereby repealed.

Provided that—

(1.) All bounties and other sums purporting to have been paid in pursuance of any enactment hereby repealed before the passing of this Act shall be deemed to have been duly paid:

(2.) This repeal shall not affect—

(a) Anything duly done or suffered under any enactment hereby repealed; or

(b.) Any right, privilege, obligation, liability, or forfeiture acquired, accrued, or incurred under any enactment hereby repealed; or

(c.) Any investigation, legal proceeding, or remedy in respect of any such right, privilege, obligation, liability, or forfeiture as aforesaid, or any legal proceeding taken or commenced under any enactment hereby repealed; and any such investigation, legal proceeding, and remedy may be carried on and all acts consequential thereon done as if it had been commenced under this Act.

SCHEDULE.

Year and Chapter.	Title.
32 & 33 Vict., Cap. 75	An Act to regulate and extend the jurisdiction of Her Majesty's Consul at Zanzibar in regard to vessels captured on suspicion of being engaged in the slave trade, and for other purposes relating thereto.

36 & 37 VICTORIA, CAP. 60.

An Act to amend the Extradition Act, 1870.

[5*th August* 1873.]

Be it enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1. This Act shall be construed as one with the Extradition Act, 1870, (in this Act referred to as the principal Act), and the principal Act and this Act may be cited together as the Extradition Acts, 1870 and 1873, and this Act may be cited alone as the Extradition Act, 1873.

2. Whereas by section six of the principal Act it is enacted as follows:—

"Where this Act applies in the case of any foreign state, every fugitive criminal of that state who is in or suspected of being in any part of Her Majesty's dominions, or that part which is specified in the order applying this Act (as the case may be), shall be liable to be apprehended and surrendered in manner provided by this Act, whether the crime in respect of which the surrender is sought was committed before or after the date of the order, and whether there is or is not any concurrent jurisdiction in any Court of Her Majesty's dominions over the crime."

And whereas doubts have arisen as to the application of the said section to crimes committed before the passing of the principal Act, and it is expedient to remove such doubts; it is therefore hereby declared that—

A crime committed before the date of the order includes in the said section a crime committed before the passing of the principal Act, and the principal Act and this Act shall be construed accordingly.

3. Whereas a person who is accessory before or after the fact, or counsels, procures, commands, aids, or abets the commission of any indictable offence, is by English law liable to be tried and punished as if he were the principal offender, but doubts have arisen whether such person as well as the principal offender can be surrendered under the principal Act, and it is expedient to remove such doubts; it is therefore hereby declared that—

Every person who is accused or convicted of having counselled, procured, commanded, aided, or abetted the commission of any extradition crime, or of being accessory before or after the fact to any extradition crime, shall be deemed for the purposes of the principal Act and this Act to be accused or convicted of having committed such crime, and shall be liable to be apprehended and surrendered accordingly.

4. Be it declared, that the provisions of the principal Act relating to depositions and statements on oath taken in a foreign state, and copies of such original depositions and statements, do and shall extend to affirmations taken in a foreign state, and copies of such affirmations.

5. A Secretary of State may, by order under his hand and seal, require a police magistrate or a justice of the peace to take evidence for the purposes of any criminal matter pending in any court or tribunal in any foreign state; and the police magistrate or justice of the peace, upon the receipt of such order, shall take the evidence of every witness appearing before him for the purpose in like manner as if such witness appeared on a charge against some defendant for an indictable offence, and shall certify at the foot of the depositions so taken that such evidence was taken before him, and shall transmit the same to the Secretary of State; such evidence may be taken in the presence or absence of the person charged, if any, and the fact of such presence or absence shall be stated in such deposition.

Any person may, after payment or tender to him of a reasonable sum for his costs and expenses in this behalf, be compelled, for the purposes of this section, to attend and give evidence and answer questions and produce documents, in like manner and subject to the like conditions as he may in the case of a charge preferred for an indictable offence.

Every person who wilfully gives false evidence before a police magistrate or justice of the peace under this section shall be guilty of perjury.

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply in the case of any criminal matter of a political character.

6. The jurisdiction conferred by section sixteen of the principal Act on a stipendiary magistrate, and a sheriff or sheriff substitute, shall be deemed to be in addition to, and not in derogation or exclusion of, the jurisdiction of the police magistrate.

7. For the purpose of the principal Act and this Act a diplomatic representative of a foreign state shall be deemed to include any person recognised by the Secretary of State as a consul-general of that state, and a consul or vice-consul shall be deemed to include any person recognised by the governor of a British possession as a consular officer of a foreign state.

8. The principal Act shall be construed as if there were included in the first schedule to that Act the list of crimes contained in the schedule of this Act.

SCHEDULE.

LIST OF CRIMES.

The following list of crimes is to be construed according to the law existing in England, or in a British possession (as the case may be) at the date of the alleged crime, whether by common law or by statute made before or after the passing of this Act:—

Kidnapping and false imprisonment.

Perjury, and subornation of perjury, whether under common or statute law.

Any indictable offence under the Larceny Act, 1861, or any Act amending or substituted for the same, which is not included in the first schedule to the principal Act.

Any indictable offence under the Act of the session of the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth years of the reign of Her present Majesty, chapter ninety-seven, "To consolidate and amend the statute law of England and Ireland relating to malicious injuries to property," or any Act amending or substituted for the same, which is not included in the first schedule to the principal Act.

Any indictable offence under the Act of the session of the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth years of the reign of Her present Majesty, chapter ninety-eight. "To consolidate and amend the statute law of England and Ireland, relating to indictable offences by forgery," or any Act amending or substituted for the same, which is not included in the first schedule to the principal Act.

Any indictable offence under the Act of the session of the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth years of the reign of Her present Majesty, chapter ninety-nine, "To consolidate and amend the statute law of the United Kingdom against offences relating to the coin," or any Act amending or substituted for the same, which is not included in the first schedule to the principal Act.

Any indictable offence under the Act of the session of the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth years of the reign of Her present Majesty, chapter one hundred, "To consolidate and amend the statute law of England and Ireland relating to offences against the person," or any Act amending or substituted for the same, which is not included in the first schedule to the principal Act.

Any indictable offence under the laws for the time being in force in relation to bankruptcy which is not included in the first schedule to the principal Act.

WHITLEY STOKES,

Secretary to the Government of India.

HOME DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATIONS.—PUBLIC.

Simla, the 16th October 1873.

No. 3173.—The following Regulations for the examination of candidates for the Civil Service of India, to be held in March 1874, are published for general information :—

REGULATIONS FOR THE OPEN COMPETITION OF 1874.

N.B.—The Regulations are liable to be altered in future years.

1. On Tuesday, March 24th, 1874, and following days, an examination of candidates will be held in London. At this examination not fewer than candidates will be selected, if so many shall be found duly qualified. Of these, will be selected for the Presidency of Bengal, [for the Upper Provinces, and for the Lower Provinces,] for that of Madras, and for that of Bombay.*—Notice will hereafter be given of the days and place of examination.

2. Any person desirous of competing at this examination, must produce to the Civil Service Commissioners, before the 1st of February 1874, evidence showing—

(a) That he is a natural-born subject of Her Majesty.

(b) That his age, on the 1st March 1874, will be above seventeen years and under twenty-one years. [N.B.—In the case of Natives of India this must be certified by the Government of India, or of the Presidency or Province in which the candidate may have resided.]

(c) That he has no disease, constitutional affection, or bodily infirmity unfitting him, or likely to unfit him, for the Civil Service of India.†

(d) That he is of good moral character;

he must also pay such fee as the Secretary of State for India may prescribe.‡

3. Should the evidence upon the above points be primâ facie satisfactory to the Civil Service Commissioners, the candidate will, upon payment of the prescribed fee, be admitted to the examination. The Commissioners may, however, in their discretion, at any time prior to the grant of the certificate of qualification hereinafter referred to, institute such further inquiries as they may deem necessary; and if the result of such inquiries, in the case of any candidate, should be unsatisfactory to them in any of the above respects, he will be ineligible for admission to the Civil Service of India, and if already selected, will be removed from the position of a probationer.

4. The examination will take place only in the following branches of knowledge :—

	Marks.
English Composition	500
History of England—including that of the Laws and Constitution	500
English Language and Literature	500
Language, Literature, and History of Greece	750
" " " Rome	750
" " " France	375
" " " Germany	375
" " " Italy	375
Mathematics (pure and mixed)	1,250

* The number of appointments to be made, and the number in each Presidency, &c., will be announced hereafter.

† Evidence of health and character must bear date not earlier than the 1st January 1874.

‡ The fee for this examination will be £5, payable by means of a special stamp according to instructions which will be communicated to candidates.

	Marks.
Natural Science: that is (1) Chemistry, including Heat; (2) Electricity and Magnetism; (3) Geology and Mineralogy; (4) Zoology; (5) Botany	1,000
The total (1,000) marks may be obtained by adequate proficiency in any two or more of the five branches of science included under this head.
Moral Sciences; that is Logic, Mental and Moral Philosophy...	500
Sanskrit Language and Literature	500
Arabic Language and Literature	500

Candidates are at liberty to name, before February 1, 1874, any or all of these branches of knowledge. No subjects are obligatory.

5. The merit of the persons examined will be estimated by marks; and the number set opposite to each branch in the preceding regulation denotes the greatest number of marks that can be obtained in respect of it.

6. No candidate will be allowed any marks in respect of any subject of examination, unless he shall be considered to possess a competent knowledge of that subject.*

7. The examination will be conducted by means of printed questions and written answers, and by vivâ voce examination, as may be deemed necessary.

8. The marks obtained by each candidate, in respect of each of the subjects in which he shall have been examined, will be added up, and the names of the candidates who shall have obtained a greater aggregate number of marks than any of the remaining candidates will be set forth in order of merit, and such candidates shall be deemed to be selected candidates for the Civil Service of India, provided they appear to be in other respects duly qualified. Should any of the selected candidates become disqualified, the Secretary of State for India will determine whether the vacancy thus created shall be filled up or not. In the former case, the candidate next in order of merit and in other respects duly qualified, shall be deemed to be a selected candidate. A selected candidate declining to accept the appointment which may be offered to him will be disqualified for any subsequent competition.

9. Selected candidates before proceeding to India will be on probation for two years, during which time they will be examined periodically, with a view of testing their progress in the following subjects:—†

1.—Oriental Languages:—

	Marks.
Sanskrit	500
Vernacular‡ Languages of India (each) ...	400
2.—The History and Geography of India	350
3.—Law	1,250
4.—Political Economy	350

In these examinations, as in the open competition, the merit of the candidates examined will be estimated by marks, and the number set opposite to each subject denotes the greatest number of marks that can be obtained in respect of it at any one examination. The examination will be conducted by means of printed questions and written answers, and by vivâ voce examination, as may be deemed necessary. The last of these examinations will be held at the close of the second year of probation, and will be called the "Final Examination," at which it will be decided whether a selected candidate is qualified for the Civil Service of India.

10. Any candidate who, at any of the periodical examinations, shall appear to have wilfully neglected his studies, or to be physically incapacitated for pursuing the prescribed course of training, will be liable to have his name removed from the list of selected candidates.

11. The selected candidates who, at the Final Examination, shall be found to have a competent knowledge of the subjects specified in Regulation 9, and who shall have satisfied the Civil Service Commissioners of their eligibility in respect of age, health, and character, shall be certified by the said Commissioners to be entitled to be appointed to the Civil Service of India, provided they shall comply with the regulations in force at the time for that service.

12. Applications from persons desirous to be admitted as candidates are to be addressed to the Secretary to the Civil Service Commissioners, London, S. W., from whom the proper form for the purpose may be obtained.

16*th August* 1873.

* "Nothing can be further from our wish than to hold out premiums for knowledge of wide surface and of "small depth. We are of opinion that a candidate ought to be allowed no credit at all for taking up a subject "in which he is a mere smatterer."—Report of Committee of 1854. A deduction of marks will be made under each subject, including Mathematics.

† Full instructions as to the course of study to be pursued will be issued to the successful candidates as soon as possible after the result of the open competition is declared.

‡ Including besides the languages prescribed for the several Presidencies, such other languages as may, with the approval of the Commissioners, be taken up as subjects of examination.

The Civil Service Commissioners are authorized by the Secretary of State for India in Council to make the following announcements:—

(1.)—Selected candidates will be permitted to choose, according to the order in which they stand in the list resulting from the open competition as long as a choice remains, the Presidency (and in Bengal the Division of the Presidency) to which they shall be appointed, but this choice will be subject to a different arrangement, should the Secretary of State or Government of India deem it necessary.*

(2.)—No candidate will be permitted to proceed to India before he shall have passed the Final Examination, and received a certificate of qualification from the Civil Service Commissioners, or after he shall have attained the age of twenty-four years.

(3.)—The seniority in the Civil Service of India of the selected candidates shall be determined according to the order in which they stand on the list resulting from the Final Examination.

(4.)—It is the intention of the Secretary of State to allow the sum of £50 after each of the three first half-years of probation, and £150 after the last half-year, to each selected candidate who shall have passed the required examinations to the satisfaction of the Commissioners, and shall have complied with such rules as may be laid down for the guidance of selected candidates.

(5.)—All selected candidates will be required, after having passed the second periodical examination, to attend at the India Office for the purpose of entering into an agreement binding themselves, amongst other things, to refund in certain cases the amount of their allowance in the event of their failing to proceed to India. For a candidate under age a surety will be required.

(6.)—After passing the Final Examination, each candidate will be required to attend again at the India Office, with the view of entering into covenants and giving a bond for £1,000, jointly with two sureties, for the due fulfilment of the same. The stamps payable on these documents amount to £1 10s.

(7.)—Candidates rejected at the Final Examination of 1876 will in no case be allowed to present themselves for re-examination.

of my having "no disease, constitutional affection, or bodily infirmity unfitting me for the Civil Service of India."

(3.) Proof of my moral character, viz. :—

(1.) A testimonial from

(2.) A testimonial from

(4.) A statement of the branches of knowledge in which I desire to be examined, viz. :—

I have also to state, with reference to Section 2, Clause (a) of the Regulations, that I am a natural-born subject of Her Majesty.

I am,

SIR,

Your Obedient Servant,

*Name in full*_____

*Address*_____

To the Secretary, Civil Service Commission.

(1) If a General Register Office certificate cannot be obtained, the instructions printed on the other side will show what evidence should be supplied If evidence is already in the hands of the Commissioners, strike out "A certificate of my birth," and insert "Evidence is already in the possession of the Commissioners"

(2) The terms indicated by the marks of quotation must appear in the certificate, which must be given after personal examination, and bear date not earlier than 1st January 1874

(3) Two testimonials must be sent bearing date not earlier than 1st January 1874. One of them should be given by an intimate acquaintance (not a relative) of not less than three or four years' standing, the other, if the candidate has recently left school, should be given by his late school master, or if he has had employment of any kind, by his late employer If the candidate has been at any University, he should send a certificate of good conduct from his College tutor

(4) If mathematics be named, state whether pure or mixed, or both are intended, if natural science be mentioned, state which branches.

* This choice must be exercised immediately after the result of the open competition is announced, on such day as may be fixed by the Civil Service Commissioners.

EVIDENCE OF AGE TO BE REQUIRED FROM CANDIDATES FOR THE CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA.

I.—Every candidate born in England or Wales should produce a certificate from the Registrar-General of Births, Marriages and Deaths, or from one of his provincial Officers. This certificate may be obtained at Somerset House, or from the Superintendent Registrar of the District in which the birth took place.

II.—A candidate who is a Native of India must have his age certified by the Government of India, or of the Presidency or Province in which he may have resided.

III.—Every other candidate not producing the certificate mentioned in Clause 1, must prove his age by Statutory Declaration, and should also, if possible, produce a record of Birth or Baptism from some official Register; under which term may be included the Parochial Registers of Baptisms, the non-Parochial Registers of Baptisms and Births deposited at Somerset House under Acts of Parliament, the Register kept at the India Office of persons born in India, &c., &c. This Regulation applies—

1. To all candidates not born in England or Wales.
2. To candidates, who, though born in England or Wales, cannot produce the Registrar-General's certificate.

The Civil Service Commissioners reserve to themselves the right of deciding in each case upon the sufficiency of the evidence produced, but they subjoin the following general rules for the guidance of candidates:—

(a.) The Declaration should specify precisely the date and place of birth, and should, if possible, be made by the father or mother of the candidate. If made by any other person, it should state the circumstances which enable the Declarant to speak to the fact. If an entry in a Bible or other family record be referred to, the Bible or other record must be produced at the time of making the Declaration, and must be mentioned in the Declaration as having been so produced.

(b.) If the candidate was born in England or Wales, the Declaration must contain a statement, that after due inquiry no entry has been found in the books of the Registrar-General; or a separate Declaration must be made to that effect.

(c.) If no extract from any Register is produced, the Declaration must contain a statement, that after due inquiry no such Record is believed to exist; or a separate Declaration must be made to that effect.

(d.) Statutory Declarations must be exactly in the form prescribed by the Act of 5 and 6 William IV, c. 62. A printed form, if required, will be supplied on application to the Civil Service Commissioners.

N.B.—Clergymen, as such, are not qualified to take Declarations.

The 17th October 1873.

No. 3194.—Mr. T. D. Beighton, of Her Majesty's Bengal Civil Service, has been granted by the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India extension of leave on medical certificate for four months.

No. 3195.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to permit Mr. H. A. R. Alexander to resign Her Majesty's Bengal Civil Service with effect from the 16th instant.

No. 3204.—As there is reason to believe that the orders of this Department, dated the 15th June 1869, warning public officers to be careful in granting certificates to their subordinates, are not generally known or acted upon, those orders are here below re-published for general information; and all officers of Government are required carefully to observe them:—

Circular to Local Governments and Administrations, dated the 15th June 1869.

"The Governor General in Council has recently had under consideration a case in which a public officer, the Head of a Department, in granting a certificate to one of his subordinates, suppressed the true reason for which the subordinate had been removed from his appointment. Such an omission may obviously be injurious to the interests of the public service, I am, therefore, directed to draw attention to the subject, and to request the issue of orders to all public officers warning them to be careful in giving certificates to their subordinates, to state the whole truth in respect of character and cause of dismissal or resignation of appointment."

EDUCATION.

The 13th October 1873.

No. 366.—Consequent on the death of Mr. E. C. Rogers, of the Educational Department in the Central Provinces, Mr. D. Carnduff, Officiating Inspector of Schools, 3rd Class, is confirmed in that appointment in the room of Mr. G. Wiggins, retired.

MEDICAL.

The 17th October 1873.

No. 83.—The following G. O. of the Military Department is re-published for general information:—

No. 1039 of 1873, dated 1st October.—The Governor General in Council is pleased to lay down the following rule for guidance of all medical officers concerned :—

When a Native officer, Non-Commissioned officer, or soldier falls sick when on leave, or when absent on duty from his regiment, and is admitted into a Civil or Military hospital, the officer in medical charge of the same is to transmit, through his own immediate superior or Commanding Officer, to the Commanding Officer of the corps to which the man belongs, a certificate showing the date of his admission; and the date on which the patient is discharged from hospital is also to be reported in the same manner.

The man can then be returned as "sick in hospital at———" until he rejoins.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

The 15th October 1873.

NOTIFICATIONS.—ACCOUNTS.

Simla, the 15th October 1873.

No. 3761.—In exercise of the power conferred by Section 4 of the Local Public Works Loan Act, 1871, the Governor General in Council is pleased to revoke the rules published with notification No. 2987, dated 25th April 1872, and amended by notifications No. 1376, dated 25th February 1873, and No. 821, dated 4th June 1873, and to make the following rules in respect of loans under the said Act, to bodies corporate, municipal committees, or other persons legally entitled to the control or management of any local or municipal fund, or legally entitled to impose any cess, rate, duty, or tax upon any persons in any local limits:—

I.—A loan under the said Act shall be made only on the security of the aggregate of all funds, cesses, rates, duties or taxes, received by the body, committee or persons, to which or to whom the loan is made, and of all property vested in such body, committee or persons for the purposes of the local or municipal fund under their control.

II.—No such loan shall be made except for the construction or repair of works of public utility within the local limits of the authority of the body, committee or persons making application for a loan, or intended for the benefit of the general community dwelling within such limits.

Loans may be made to enable such body, committee or persons to discharge a debt incurred before the passing of the Act for the construction or repair of such works.

III.—An application for a loan under the said Act shall be made to the Local Government, and shall be signed by three-fourths of the members of the managing body or committee duly constituted and acting for the persons on behalf of whom the loan is applied for. Every such application shall state,—

1st. The work for the construction or repair of which the loan is required and an estimate of the cost thereof:

2nd. The amount of loan applied for:

3rd. The funds, cesses, rates, duties, or taxes, and the property, if any, on the security of which it is proposed that the loan shall be made:

4th. The law or laws under which the said funds, cesses, rates, duties, taxes, are levied or received, and the title on which the said property is held:

5th. The period for which the loan is required, the number and amount of the instalments, if any, in which it is proposed that the loan shall be made, the dates proposed for receiving such instalments, and the instalments in which it is proposed to repay the loan:

6th. The proceeds of each of the funds, cesses, rates, duties, or taxes, and all other income received by such body, committee or persons, and all expenditure incurred in each of the three last preceding years:

7th. The value of the property, if any, offered as security:

8th. All existing prior charges upon any source of income accruing to or upon any property vested in, such body, committee or persons.

IV.—The Local Government shall cause any necessary enquiry to be made into the statements contained in the application and into the use and value of the proposed work.

V.—If it appears to the Local Government that the loan ought not to be granted, it shall reject the application. If it appears to the Local Government probable that the loan ought to be made, it shall cause to be published in the local official Gazette, and otherwise, as it deems fit, within the local limits of the authority of the body, committee or persons concerned, a copy of the application and such particulars in regard to any enquiry made under Rule IV as it may think necessary. After the expiry of one month from such publication, and after calling for any further information that it may require, and considering any objections that may be preferred, the Local Government may either reject the application, or, if the Governor General in Council do not otherwise direct, may authorise the loan, subject to the provisions of the following rules.

VI.—(a) Saving as provided in clause (b), the Local Government may make loans under the said Act from such sums as the Governor General in Council may from time to time allot for the purpose.

(b) If the loan applied for is more than twice the annual income on the security of which it is proposed that the loan shall be made, or if it is not less than Rs. 50,000, or if the body, committee, or persons applying for the loan be not a municipal committee, or persons legally entitled to the control or management of a municipal fund, the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council shall be necessary.

VII.—In the orders sanctioning the grant of any loan, the Governor General in Council, or the Local Government, as the case may be, shall record precisely the conditions upon which the loan will be made. Payments to any body, committee or persons, on account of loans under the said Act shall be made on receipts signed on behalf of such body, committee or persons, in the manner in which orders for the disbursement of money on behalf of such body, committee or persons are required by the law in force to be signed. If there be no such law, such receipts shall be signed by the President or Chairman, and by the Vice-President or Vice-Chairman, and by two members of such body or committee. When any receipt has been duly signed, it shall be deemed to be an acceptance by such body, committee or persons, of the loan and of all the conditions upon which it is granted.

VIII.—The Local Government shall, in every case in which a loan is made under these rules to any local fund or to municipality, make provision for the proper inspection of the works in course of construction or repair, for which the loan is made, and for ascertaining and securing that the loan is duly applied to the purposes for which it is made. Every such work, and the accounts connected therewith, shall be open at all times to the inspection of the superintending or executive engineer in whose division it is situate, and of any person who may be authorised to inspect the accounts of the local or municipal fund, and of any other person specially authorised in this behalf by the Governor General in Council or by the Local Government.

IX.—If the Local Government is of opinion that the conditions on which the loan was granted have been departed from, or that the body, committee or persons to which or to whom the loan was made have failed to comply with any of the requirements imposed upon them by these rules, it may, at any time, order that no further payments shall be made on account of the loan, and may proceed to recover the amount advanced, with interest thereon, in the manner prescribed by Section V of the said Act.

X.—(a) Interest shall be charged on every loan under the said Act at the rate of four and a half per centum a year, and shall be reckoned on each instalment thereof from the date on which it is advanced.

(b) Interest upon the outstanding principal debt shall become due and shall be paid half yearly on the 30th June and the 31st December.

(c) The principal shall be repaid in such instalments that not less than one quarter of the whole shall be repaid within five years, not less than one-half within ten years, not less than three-quarters within fifteen years, and the whole within twenty years.

(d) Provided that, with the special sanction of the Governor General in Council it may be agreed, in any case, that the principal shall be repaid in such instalments that not less than one-fifth of the whole shall be repaid within ten years, not less than one half within twenty years, and the whole within thirty years.

XI.—In the case of any loan under the said Act, the cost of any enquiry made under Rule IV, of advertisements published under Rule V, and of inspections made under Rule VIII, shall be determined by the Local Government, and shall be chargeable against the borrowers as costs in effecting the loan.

XII.—(a) The accounts of loans under this said Act shall be kept by the Accountant General or Deputy Accountant General, as the case may be, of the Province in which they are respectively made.

(b) The body, committee or persons to whom any such loan may have been granted shall give to the Accountant General or Deputy Accountant General, as the case may be, and to the Local Government, any information which they may require regarding the expenditure of the loan, and regarding the cesses, rates, duties, taxes, and other income or property, which may have been made, or may become, liable as security for the loan.

XIII.—An annual statement of all loans and of advances made, and repayments due and made during the year, and balances outstanding at the beginning and end of the year in each province, or under each Local Government, shall be prepared by the Accountant General or Deputy Accountant General, and submitted through the Local Government to the Government of India. The statement shall also show, generally, how far the works for which the loan was made have progressed. A copy of the statement shall be published in the local official Gazette.

XIV.—The attachment of any fund, rate, cess, tax, duty, or any property held as security for any loan under the said Act shall be made by a notice addressed to the body, committee or persons to whom the loan has been made prohibiting the collection of such fund, rate, cess, tax, or duty, or suspending the management of such property by such body, committee or persons, and vesting the administration thereof in such officer as the Local Government may appoint. Such notice shall be published in the local official Gazette, and otherwise, as may be directed by the Local Government, within the local limits of the authority of the body, committee or persons concerned. The moneys collected or received under such attachment shall be paid into the Government treasury, and the accounts of such moneys shall be prepared in such form as the Local Government may, on the report of the Accountant General, from time to time direct. A copy of such accounts shall be delivered to the committee or persons aforesaid, and a copy shall be published in the local official Gazette, and, if the Government of India so direct, submitted to it.

XV.—No violation of these rules shall vitiate the claim of the Government to recover any loan made under the said Act in the manner provided by Section V of the Act.

The 16th October 1873.

No. 3787.—Mr. E. F. Harrison received charge of the Offices of Comptroller General and Head Commissioner of the Department of Issue of Government Paper Currency, before noon, on the 8th October 1873.

No. 1083 of 1873.—With reference to G. G. O. No. 733 of the 15th July 1873, it is hereby notified that the three first examinations in Pushtú will be held in November of the present year, and in April and October 1874, as published in the Resolution of the Government of the Punjab, No. 299 A, dated the 3rd March 1873; subsequently these examinations will be held only once a year.

No. 1084 of 1873.—The services of 1st Class Assistant Apothecary J. Forsyth, of the Subordinate Medical Department, are placed at the disposal of the Home Department.

The 16th October 1873.

No. 1085 of 1873.—With reference to G. G. O. No. 922 of 1861, the following rules for the repair of camp equipage in possession of British troops, in supersession of Clause 1078 of the Revised Military Regulations, are published for general information and guidance.

Any petty repairs necessary to camp equipage while in use on the march will be executed by Quartermasters or Commissariat agents under the orders of the commanding officers, the actual expense being charged in contingent bills duly vouched and counter-signed by commanding officers. These bills are to be sent to the Examiner of Ordnance Accounts for check and payment, accompanied by copies of orders directing the repairs.

The petty repairs on a march, the bills for which will be passed on regimental or detachment orders, are not to exceed one (1) rupee for each tent within the space of one month; the amount will be paid by the Commissariat agent with the regiment or detachment on the receipt of the commanding officer, the repairs being executed under the orders of the latter, and the bill transmitted by him to the Examiner Ordnance Accounts for audit.

In case of repairs of a more extensive nature, the commanding officer will examine the tents and specify (in the accompanying form) the extent of repairs required, and on this report an estimate is to be framed for the probable cost of the same. The estimate only to be prepared in duplicate. If the urgency of the case requires that these repairs should be done immediately, the report and estimate are to be submitted to the officer commanding the station or camp, who will direct the Deputy Paymaster or Commissariat officer to advance the requisite amount, transmitting the documents to the Assistant to the Inspector General of Ordnance and Magazines for check, and stating the reasons why the repairs were required to be made immediately.

If the repairs are not required to be executed at once, the report and estimate are to be transmitted direct to the Assistant to the Inspector General of Ordnance by the officer commanding the corps or detachment, for authority to apply to the Commissariat officer, or Deputy Paymaster, for the necessary advance.

In either case the estimate is to be so framed as to show the quantity of materials and the number of workmen that will be required to execute the repairs stated in the report to be requisite, and in order to ensure, as far as possible, the amount being sufficient, 10 per cent. will be allowed for unforeseen contingencies. The station price current of labor and materials, under the signature of the officer in charge of the principal bazar, is to accompany the estimate.

The repairs are to be executed with due regard to economy, as early as possible after receipt of the advance, and a bill showing in detail the actual expenditure incurred transmitted to the Examiner of Ordnance Accounts on the completion of the work, the estimate and price current being attached as vouchers. Any considerable deviation from the amount of the estimate is to be accounted for in a letter accompanying the bill.

A certificate from the officer commanding, as to the manner in which the tents have been repaired, and the reasonableness of the charge, is to be attached to the bill.

*Statement of repairs necessary to the tents of Her Majesty's*_____ PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 10th October 1873, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in a month:—

No. 20 of 1873.

A Bill to provide for the liquidation of the debts of the Nawáb Názim of Bengal, and for his protection against legal process.

Preamble.

Whereas divers large pecuniary claims have been made against Sayyad Mansur Alí, the present Nawáb Názim of Bengal, Behar and Orissa, commonly called the Nawáb Názim, which he has not the means of satisfying, and for the purpose of recovering such claims divers suits have been brought against him, and divers attachments have been issued against his property in India:

And whereas the Government of India is desirous of freeing the said Nawáb Názim and his property respectively from such suits and attachments, and of discharging such of the said claims as are proper to be paid:

And whereas in the meantime and for the future, it is expedient to exempt the said Nawáb Názim, except as hereinafter mentioned, from the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts, and to render him incapable of contracting further pecuniary obligations;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Nawáb Názim's Debts Act, 1873:"

Local extent.

It extends to all persons and places for whom and for which the Governor General in Council has power to make laws;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force at once.

Power to appoint Commission.

2. The Governor General in Council may from time to time nominate and appoint such persons as he thinks fit to be a Commission to investigate claims against the said Nawáb Názim.

All persons so nominated and appointed (hereinafter called "the Commissioners") shall continue to be members of the said Commission during the pleasure of the Governor General in Council.

Notice to claimants.

3. The Commissioners shall publish thrice in the Gazette of India in English, and in the Calcutta Gazette in English, Urdú and Bengálí, and in such other mode and languages as they think fit, a notice calling upon all persons having claims against the said Nawáb Názim or his property, whether moveable or immoveable, to notify the same in writing to the Commissioners within six months from the date of the earliest of such publications.

Bar of debts not duly notified.

4. Every debt or liability to which the said Nawáb Názim is subject, or with which his property, or any part thereof, is charged, and which is not duly notified to the Commissioners within the time and in the manner hereinbefore mentioned, shall be barred:

Proviso.

Provided that, on sufficient cause being shown to the Commissioners, they may admit such claim within the further period of six months from the expiration of the said period of six months.

Particulars of claim.

5. Every such claimant shall along with his claim present full particulars thereof.

Every document on which he founds his claims, or on which he relies in support thereof, shall be delivered to the Commissioners along with the claim.

Entries in books.

If the document be an entry in any book, the claimant shall produce the book to the Commissioners, together with a copy of the entry on which he relies. The Commissioners shall mark the book for the purpose of identification, and after examining and comparing the copy with the original, shall return the book to the claimant.

Exclusion of documents not produced.

If any document in the possession or under the control of the claimant is not delivered or produced by him to the Commissioners along with the claim, the Commissioners may refuse to receive such document in evidence on the claimant's behalf at the investigation of the case.

May call for or admit any further evidence.

The Commissioners may, from time to time, call for further and more detailed particulars of any claim preferred before them under this Act, and may at their discretion refuse to proceed with the investigation of the claim until such particulars are supplied.

Power of Commissioners to summon witnesses.

6. For the purposes of this Act, the Commissioners may summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses, and compel them to give evidence, and compel the production of documents by the same means, and, as far as possible, in the same manner as is provided in the case of a Civil Court by the Code of Civil Procedure.

Power to administer oaths.

7. The Commissioners may administer an oath or affirmation, in such form as they think fit, to any person examined before them, touching the matters to be enquired into under this Act.

Investigation to be a judicial proceeding.

8. Every investigation conducted by the Commissioners, with reference to any claim preferred before them under this Act, or to any matter connected with any such claim, shall be deemed a judicial proceeding within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

And every statement made by any person examined by or before the Commissioners with reference to such investigation, whether upon oath or otherwise, shall be deemed to be evidence within the meaning of the same Code.

Expenses of witnesses.

9. Every witness required to attend and give evidence under the provisions of this Act, shall be entitled to a reasonable sum (to be allowed by the Commissioners) for his expenses in travelling to and from, and remaining at, the place at which he is required to attend.

Commissioners to determine amount due to each claimant.

10. The Commissioners shall, by agreement with the claimant or otherwise, determine the amount which, on the consideration of all the circumstances, they may consider to be in fairness and justice due to each claimant.

Sum found due to be certified to Government.

11. The Commissioners shall certify in each case the amount so determined, and upon the Governor General in Council paying to any claimant the amount so certified, all claims of such claimant against the Nawáb Názim or his property shall be satisfied and extinguished.

Bar of suits against Nawáb Názim.

12. No suit shall be commenced or prosecuted, and no writ or process shall at any time be sued for, against the person or property of the said Nawáb Názim, unless such suit be commenced, or such writ or process be sued for, with the consent of the Governor General in Council first had and obtained.

Such consent shall be certified by the signature of one of the Secretaries to the Government of India, and every such signature shall be judicially noticed.

And any suit which at any time shall have been, or shall be, commenced, and any writ or process which at any time shall have been, or shall be, sued for, against the person or property of the said Nawáb Názim without such consent so certified as aforesaid, shall be null and void.

Nawáb Názim to be incapable of contracting.

13. The said Nawáb Názim shall be incapable of entering into any contract which may give rise to any pecuniary obligation on his part.

Saving of Secretary of State in Council.

14. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to render the Secretary of State for India in Council, or the Government of India, liable for any debt heretofore contracted by, or on behalf of, the said Nawáb Názim, or in respect of any claim to be reimbursed, which may be made by any person supplying him with necessaries.

Bar of suits for acts done bonâ fide.

15. No suit or other proceeding shall be maintained against any person in respect of anything done by him in good faith under this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Nawáb Názim of Bengal belongs to one of the ancient and noble Indian families, which it is the policy of the British Government to maintain. To this end a sum of nearly seven lákhs has been annually allotted out of the public treasury to the Nawáb Názim, but owing to his extravagance this great income has proved quite unequal to his personal expenditure, and he is now involved in debt exceeding thirty lákhs of rupees, and carrying ruinous rates of interest.

Some steps must be taken to preserve the dignity of the Nawáb Názim's family; to keep Government out of the litigation which his creditors have already commenced, and which threatens to absorb property designed for the maintenance of the family; and to save the Indian tax-payers from further drafts on the public purse.

For this purpose the present Bill has been prepared. It empowers the Governor General in Council to appoint a Commission to investigate claims against the Nawáb Názim. It provides for giving public notice to such claimants, and bars debts not notified to the Commission within six months from such publication; it gives the Commissioners the usual powers to summon witnesses, and compel the production of evidence; and it declares that the Commissioners shall, by agreement with each claimant or otherwise, determine the amount fairly due to him; that they shall certify the amount so determined; and that, upon the Governor General in Council paying to the claimant the amount so certified, his claims against the Nawáb Názim or his property shall be extinguished.

The Bill then (here following the King of Oudh's Act No. XIII of 1868) bars suits against the Nawáb Názim, unless such suits have been commenced with the consent of the Government of India, and declares the Nawáb Názim incapable of contracting so as to involve himself in any pecuniary obligation.

[Second publication.]

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 10th October 1873, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in three months:—

No: 21 of 1873.

A Bill to limit the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts throughout the Bombay Presidency in matters relating to the Land-Revenue.

Preamble.

Whereas in the Dekkhan, Khándesh, the Southern Mahratta Country, and certain other territories comprised in the Presidency of Bombay, the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts is limited in matters connected with the assessment and collection of the land-revenue:

And whereas it is expedient that the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts should be limited in like manner throughout the said Presidency:

And whereas it is also expedient to revive certain provisions of the thirteenth section of Regulation XVII of 1827 of the Bombay Code, relative to the recovery of arrears of revenue, which were repealed by the Land Improvement Act, 1871;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act, 1873:"

Commencement.

It shall come into force on the passing thereof;

Local extent.

And it shall extend to all the territories under the government of the Governor of Bombay in Council, but not so as to affect—

(a.) any suit regarding the assessment or collection of revenue on land situate in any place which is a town or city within the meaning of Bombay Act No. IV of 1868, or situate in the Presidency Collectorate,

(b.) any suit by a person claiming to hold land wholly or partially exempt from payment of land-revenue under a guarantee or sanad given by the Governor of Bombay in Council under Bombay Act No. II of 1863, section one, clause first, or Bombay Act No. VII of 1863, section two, clause first, or

(c.) any suit instituted on or before the seventh day of August 1873.

Repeal of enactments.

2. The enactments mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed are repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof.

Bar of certain suits.

3. Notwithstanding anything contained in Bombay Regulation XVI of 1827, section six, clause first, or in section twenty-five of the Bombay Survey and Settlement Act, or in any other law now in force, suits involving any of the following matters shall not be cognizable by the Civil Courts—

(a.) claims against the Government to inams or to hold land wholly or partially free from payment of land-revenue;

(b.) objections to the amount or incidence of any assessment of land-revenue or to the mode of assessment, or to the principle on which such assessment has been fixed;

(c.) disputes regarding public rent or revenue payable to Government, or complaints of exaction of district or village officers, stipendiary or hereditary.

Amendment of schedule to Act XXVI of 1871.

4. At the end of the schedule annexed to "The Land Improvement Act, 1871," instead of the words "section thirteen," there shall be read the words "The following words in section thirteen (that is to say) 'and demands on account of money advanced as tukavee', and 'or of advances for former years.'"

SCHEDULE.

(See section 2.)

Number and year.	Title or abbreviated Title.	Extent of repeal.
XVII of 1827 ...	A Regulation for the territories subordinate to Bombay, prescribing Rules for the assessment and realization of the Land-Revenue, &c.	In section IX, clause second, the word "either," and the words "or may file an action against the Collector in the Civil Court under the ordinary rules, or he may pursue both methods at the same time." In the same section, clause third, the words "but the reference to Government shall have no effect upon any suit instituted in the Civil Court." Section XVI, clause fifth.
XXIX of 1827 ...	A Regulation for bringing under the operation of the Regulations the Bombay Territories in the Dekkhan and Khándesh.	Section VI, so much as is not repealed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

At present the law determining the limits of the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts, in matters relating to the land-revenue, is not uniform throughout the Bombay Presidency.

In what (looking to the order in which they became known to the Legislature) may be termed the older districts, suits regarding the Government land-revenue may be brought in the Civil Courts, even to impugn a particular assessment on lands admitted to be open to assessment.

In the newer districts, on the contrary, all such matters are expressly excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Courts.

The Government of Bombay have recently brought to the notice of the Government of India a case in which an assessment made by the Survey Officers, under the twenty-fifth section of the Bombay Act I of 1865, was reduced by a Civil Court; and have strongly urged the inexpediency of continuing to the Civil Courts in one portion of our territories a jurisdiction which they are precluded from exercising not only in other parts of the Bombay Presidency, but elsewhere in India as well.

It has been considered that the best and simplest course is to place matters on substantially the same footing in the older districts as they at present stand on in the newer districts, and to effect this is the main object of the present Bill.

The Bombay Act VII of 1863 (for the summary settlement of claims to exemption from revenue), which is the law for the older districts, and Act II of 1863, the law for the newer districts, are both maintained intact.

The present opportunity has been taken to revive (in clause four) certain provisions of Regulation XVII of 1827 (Bombay), which were inadvertently repealed by the Land Improvement Act, 1871.

REPORTS OF THE GREAT TRIGONOMETRICAL SURVEY, AND THE TOPOGRAPHICAL, GEOLOGICAL AND REVENUE SURVEYS FOR 1871-72.

Nos. 158 and 159, dated the 5th March 1873.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India.

READ—

The General Report on the Operations of the Great Trigonometrical Survey of India during 1871-72.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council has read the report on the operations of the Great Trigonometrical Survey for 1871-72 with much interest. Six parties have, in spite of obstacles of climate and difficulty of country, covered an area of 10,310 square miles with principal triangles. Three topographical parties have made good progress in Gujarat, Kattyawar, and Kamáon-Garhwal respectively. An important line of levelling has been executed, the astronomical latitudes of 25 stations have been accurately determined, and light has been thrown on the geography of 7,650 square miles of terra incognita beyond the northern frontier. The standard of accuracy has also been well maintained, and the work of computation, compilation, mapping, record, and publication has not been neglected. Owing to the lamented death of Captain Basevi, the pendulum observations have sustained a temporary check, but every effort has been made towards their resumption at the earliest possible date.

2. The acknowledgments of Government are due to Major Montgomerie, who during Colonel Walker's absence on leave, has administered the Department during the year of report, and to the officers serving under him, for the zeal and ability displayed in forwarding this great work.

3. The Government of Bengal will be requested to report on the complaint made by Mr. Beverley in the 14th paragraph of his report, to the effect that the party in charge of the Assam Valley triangulation did not receive such assistance as they might fairly have expected from the district officers of the province.

READ—

Letter from the Surveyor General, No. 154A, dated 15th January 1873, submitting his Annual General Report on the operations of the Topographical Surveys of India for the season 1871-72.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council has read with interest the report of the Surveyor General upon the Topographical Surveys of India for the year 1871-72.

Paragraphs 2 to 6.

2. Seven parties were employed during the year, and, notwithstanding obstacles of climate and country, have made good progress.

Paragraphs 7 to 13.

3. The following table compares the amount of work and the total cost for the year of report and the year preceding:—

	Final topography.	Triangulation in advance.	Cost.
	Square miles.	Square miles.	Rupees.
Season 1870-71	14,592	20,742	3,24,225
„ 1871-72	17,910	16,336	3,71,616
Difference	+ 3,318	— 4,406	+ 47,391

The area of topography completed has thus increased by 3,318 square miles, while there has been a decrease of 4,406 square miles in the preliminary triangulation. The reasons for this decrease are, however, satisfactorily explained. * * * *

Paragraphs 14 to 18.

4. The statement of points fixed and heights determined, and the analysis of professional results, are satisfactory.

Paragraphs 19 to 22.

5. The Governor General in Council is glad to observe that a further improvement in the style of mapping is reported.

Paragraphs 25 to 32.

6. The Surveyor General's summary of the results of the Revenue and Topographical Surveys, taken together, is interesting. More than 700,000 square miles of country have now been surveyed by these two branches of the Survey Department.

Paragraphs 33 to 37.

7. The remarks of the Surveyor General upon the Revenue Surveys will be more appropriately noticed when the reports of the Superintendent of Revenue Survey shall have been received.

Paragraphs 39 to 73, and Appendices C. to F.

8. While the parties in the field have worked energetically, the Governor General in Council is glad to observe that the publication of results has been vigorously pushed on, and that the production of maps by the three processes of engraving, lithography, and photozincography has made good progress. The record of additions to the sheets of the Indian Atlas is especially satisfactory, and the Governor General in Council trusts that under the arrangement now agreed upon, this work will be steadily prosecuted. His Excellency in Council is glad to learn that the process of steel-facing the copper plates has just been satisfactorily accomplished.

Paragraphs 76 to 183, and Appendices A. and F.

9. The Governor General in Council has read with interest the account of the photo-collotype process by Captain Waterhouse, and the extracts from the local reports. Those relating to the Lushai survey have already been before the Government of India, and have been noticed in a separate Resolution.

10. The thanks of the Government of India are due to Colonel Thuillier, and to the officers by whom he has been so ably assisted in the prosecution of the great work of the survey of India.

No. 280, dated Simla, the 23rd April 1873.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India.

READ—

A letter from the Superintendent of the Geological Survey of India, No. 503, dated 31st ultimo, submitting the Annual Report of the Survey for the year 1872.

RESOLUTION.—Notwithstanding the enforced absence of several officers, the Geological Survey of India has made good progress in 1872.

2. Our knowledge of the coal-bearing regions in the Satpura range, on the north of the Mirzapúr district, in Sirguja, and on the south of the Godávari, has been extended; a detailed examination of the salt-range, leading to interesting results, has been carried out, and at the same time the general geological survey of the country has been pushed forward in Bundelkhand, Hazaribagh, Rewah, the north-western portion of the Punjab, Burma, and the Deccan. Mr. Blanford's Persian researches, though not strictly belonging to the geology of India, will doubtless contribute matter of much novelty and interest.

3. Valuable papers have been published in the "Memoirs" and "Records," and good progress has been made with the issue of the "Palæontologia Indica." It is hoped that the sanction given to increased expenditure on the last-named work will enable the Superintendent to shew a doubled issue in 1873.

4. The Museum collections have been kept in good order, and the minerals in part catalogued. A beginning has also been made with the issue of geologically-coloured maps of the "Altas of India," and, as appears from the sketch map, three quarter sheets appear to have been published.

5. The Governor General in Council is glad to observe that the Superintendent has been enabled to make such a collection as will, to a certain extent, adequately illustrate the mineral resources of India at the Vienna Exhibition, and acknowledges the assistance which has been received from colliery proprietors and others. This collection, with the fossils which Dr. Oldham has been permitted to send, will occupy a notable place among the Indian contributions.

6. The thanks of the Government of India are due to Dr. Oldham and the officers by whom he has been ably seconded for the zeal and skill with which the work of the geological exploration of India has been prosecuted.

Nos. 403 to 406, dated Simla, the 16th June 1873.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India.

READ—

Letter from the Surveyor General, No. 759, dated 1st April, submitting the Annual Reports of the Superintendents of Revenue Surveys of the Upper and Lower Circles for the year 1871-72.

OBSERVATIONS.—Sixteen parties were at work during the year, being one more than in 1870-71, but of these two were employed on the Cadastral Survey of the Moradabad and Muttra districts. The remaining 14 surveyed, for the most part on the ordinary scale of four inches to the mile, 17,247 square miles of country, at a cost of Rs. 7,08,757, giving an average of Rs. 41-1-6 per square mile. The cost per square mile varied from Rs. 83-6-8 in Bombay (where 651 square miles were surveyed on a scale of eight inches to the mile) to Rs. 32-10-9 in the Punjab, where the cost was reduced by the large tracts of sandy waste which came under survey. Compared with last year, the outturn of work has been greater by 309 square miles, although one party less was employed in the work, and the average cost has fallen by Rs. 4 per square mile. These results are satisfactory.

2. The Cadastral Survey in the North-Western Provinces has been carried over 574,063 acres, at a cost of Rs. 1,83,385, or 5 annas per acre; but this is stated to be exclusive of the cost of boundary survey in advance, of which no account is given. Doubtless, when the work has become more familiar, and complete preparations are made for the survey parties before arrival (which was in 1871-72 impossible, owing to the late date at which it was finally determined to start the survey in the Muttra and Moradabad districts), the annual outturn will be larger, and the expense greatly reduced.

3. Meanwhile, His Excellency the Governor General in Council is glad to take this opportunity of recording his sense of the zealous and efficient manner in which the experiment has been inaugurated. The specimen map of a village in the Muttra survey, prepared under Colonel Anderson's supervision, is an admirable piece of work; and the inevitable delay in preparing the ground for survey in both the Moradabad and the Muttra districts, which prevented the parties from commencing work until the beginning of December, was compensated for in a great measure by the devotion with which they kept the field, in the former district until the middle, and in the latter until the end of May.

4. Paragraph 14 of the report of the Superintendent of the Upper Circle, in which reference is made to the difficulty experienced in obtaining the attendance of land-holders to point out their field boundaries, will be brought to the notice of the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

5. His Excellency in Council will be glad to receive the further report promised in paragraph 18 of Colonel Gastrell's review in regard to the permanent survey marks required to render the present work available for future comparison and extension. When this question was discussed in 1871-72 with the Government of the North-Western Provinces, that Government based its opinion that no such marks were required (1), on the expense which would be involved in marking out, with permanent pillars, fields of an average size not exceeding 1 acre; and (2), the inexpediency of placing any restrictions on the power now possessed by the zemindars of sub-dividing and altering the shape of their fields. Admitting the force of these arguments, His Excellency in Council is still of opinion that unless some measures are taken for the permanent record on the village area of the survey operations (which need not necessarily be in the shape of permanent demarcations for each field), the usefulness of the present survey will be greatly diminished, and much additional expense unnecessarily incurred in retracing the former land-marks when operations have to be again undertaken on the occurrence of a future settlement or otherwise.

* * * * * * * *

7. His Excellency in Council observes from paragraph 70 of the report on operations in the Upper Provinces, that the Revenue Survey in Goorgaon and Delhi has been charged during the present season with the work of recording details of cultivation, fallow, &c., in the interior of villages, as a check upon the putwaree settlement survey. These details are not required for survey purposes, and although the Punjab Government have for some time had before them the question of utilising for settlement purposes, as has been done in the North-Western Provinces, the operations of the Revenue Survey, no decision on the part of the Government has yet been communicated to the Government of India. The Governor General in Council cannot but consider it a wasteful system which, as here, throws upon two departments the work which can admittedly be done with much greater efficiency by one.

* * * * * * * *

10. The Governor General in Council desires to express his acknowledgments to the officers of the Department generally for the efficient and excellent manner in which they have conducted its operations during the season. By the untimely death of Mr. J. H. O'Donel, the Department has lost an officer of marked energy and experience, whose services are fully appreciated by the Government of India.

No. 18, dated India Office, London, 31st July 1873.

From—The Secretary of State for India,

To—The Government of India.

My Lord,

Para. 1. I have received and considered in Council your Excellency's Despatches, noted in the margin, transmitting the Reports of the Great Trigonometrical, Topographical, Revenue, and Geological Surveys for 1871-72, and the Meteorological Reports for 1872.

October 3rd (No. 27, Geographical) 1872.
October 24th (No. 29, ditto) 1872.
February 14th (No. 9, ditto) 1873.
March 7th (No. 12, ditto) 1873.
March 28th (No. 15, ditto) 1873.
May 1st (No. 18, ditto) 1873.

2. I fully concur in the commendation your Government has recorded, in the Resolution dated March 5th, 1873, of the zeal and ability displayed by Major Montgomerie, and the Officers serving under him, in forwarding the important operations connected with the Great Trigonometrical Survey. The different series have made good progress, and the topographical work in Gujrat, Katiwar, and Garhwal shows very satisfactory results. I observe, from Captain Trotter's Report on the Katiwar Survey, an instance of the practical usefulness of these operations. The Agent of the Bombay, Baroda, and Central India Railway, on examining the new maps was induced to lay out an entirely different line for detailed survey from what he intended when he had only the old maps to judge from. I am also glad to see that Lieutenant Heaviside has completed in a satisfactory manner the pendulum observations, which were arrested by the melancholy death of Captain Basevi.

3. Colonel Thuillier's interesting account of the labours of the topographical parties under his superintendence shows a systematic and steady progress in filling up the unmapped country in the respective divisions, and the party serving with the Lushai Expedition has completed some specially valuable geographical work. The engraving of the remaining plates of the Indian Atlas is now a regular branch of the work of the Surveyor General's Office, and the specimens of engraving executed at Calcutta have received much commendation from geographers in this country. I perceive that native apprentices are receiving instruction in the art of engraving on copper, and I trust that special attention will continue to be given to this very important point. There does not appear to be any reason for not looking forward to a time when the engraving work now done by Europeans may be executed, with equal taste and efficiency, by native engravers, under one European Superintendent. The photographic branch of the Surveyor General's Office, under the zealous management of Captain Waterhouse, has attained a high standard of usefulness. Not only does this accomplished Officer meet the heavy demands for the immediate reproduction and issue of the survey maps, but the beautiful specimen of an atlas sheet reduced by the photo-collotype process which has been received in this Office, shows that he is able to produce work quite equal to anything that has appeared in Europe as regards clearness and finish. The reproduction of the old Dutch map of the Ganges Delta by Captain Waterhouse is also a very beautiful specimen of photography.

4. The inauguration of an accurate system of cadastral field surveys in the North-West Provinces is very satisfactory, and will ensure the production of reliable maps on large scales for settlement as well as for general administrative purposes. The work, specially at the commencement, must necessarily have been very intricate, and great credit is due to Colonel Anderson and Major Vanrenen, who have conducted the operations in Muttra and Muradabad, for the completeness of the work, and for the extent of the area that has already been surveyed. The facsimile of one sheet of a village in Muttra, forwarded with the Report, gives a good idea of the style and minuteness of the cadastral survey. An eventual saving may fairly be anticipated, because these surveys on accurate principles will obviate the constant necessity for partial remeasurements for public works and other emergent engineering objects. The final arrangement with respect to the Bombay Surveys appears to be that the Revenue Surveys are to be continued on the present imperfect system, and that an independent Topographical Survey, on a scale of 2 inches to the mile, is to be undertaken by Bengal parties, under the Surveyor General. If an accurate system cannot be introduced into the Bombay Revenue Surveys, this plan seems to me to be the next best that can be resorted to, and is decidedly preferable to any double system of measurement, which has already proved to be impracticable.

5. The annual Report of the Geological Survey shows that a large amount of valuable and interesting work has been completed, and is in course of execution, by Dr. Oldham and his staff. It is especially satisfactory that the issue of geological maps is now likely to make steady progress, and that the printing in colours, in the lithographic branch of the Surveyor General's Office, has been successful.

Memorandum by Superintending Engineer, 1st Circle, No. 2063, dated the 2nd July 1873, and its enclosures.

OBSERVATIONS.—Although no very great results have ensued from experiments made on the cultivation of oosur soil, His Honor the Lieutenant Governor thinks it advisable to place on record a narrative of the steps which have been taken.

2. In 1869, under cover of Circular No. 23, some papers regarding the analysis of reh soil (oosur) were received from the Government of India. In reply, a scheme was proposed for establishing a small experimental farm on the Eastern Jumna Canal, which was negatived by Government of India as too expensive, and a simpler method was proposed of merely draining well a piece of reh land and offering water to cultivate it. This was referred to the Superintending Engineers, 1st and 2nd Circles of Irrigation Works, for report.

3. In June 1871, the Superintending Engineer, 1st Circle, reported some fairly successful results of experiments which had been carried out in the Allygurh Division. The cost of reclamation was Rs. 41 per acre, with a probability of the outlay being covered by two years' produce. The method which proved successful was as follows:—

4. The surface of the ground was covered to a depth of three inches with horse, cow, or sheep manure, and the soil damped with canal water. The field was then trenched to a foot in depth throughout, thoroughly mixing the soil with the manure; the ground was then divided into beds, and a top-dressing of manure and silt three inches deep was added and roughly mixed with soil by phaorahs. First, rice was sown, which was a complete success, then barley and peas, which, promising well, were destroyed by hail, and then indigo, of which an excellent crop was obtained.

5. Another experiment, which failed, was thus conducted:—The land was traversed by trenches two feet wide and two feet deep and four feet apart; the trenches were filled with silt. Twenty-four cart loads of manure per beegah were spread over the surface. The land was ploughed several times, watered, and sown with indigo; after the second watering reh appeared and destroyed the entire crop.

6. A further sum of Rs. 500 for continuing the experiment was asked for and granted, and the progress reported to the Government of India, who cordially approved of the measure, and replied—"His Excellency in Council is of opinion that there is no subject more interesting than that of the reclamation of 'reh' lands, and considers that all experiments in this direction should be greatly encouraged and their results most accurately recorded."

2nd para. of their letter No. 931, dated the 19th August 1871.

7. Again in May 1872, the Government of India furnished a report of the process of reclamation of reh land "by merely using the well-known shrub" Calatropis gigantea "or Ak."

The process employed in Utah, U.S., was also communicated by the Government of India in the following month, but the cost of that process rendered it impracticable in India. In Utah, it will be remembered, there is no other soil, so that the cost of the process is a general charge on all land, and not a special charge on some lands only which have to compete with naturally good lands, as is here the case.

8. An estimate was prepared for reclaiming one acre for Rs. 150, by the method proposed by Mr. McArthur of using silt, but as the best land in the district could be bought cheaper, this also was rejected.

9. In March 1873, it was reported that Mr. McArthur had not yet tried the Calatropis gigantea, owing to a misunderstanding; but no fresh orders to do so appear to have been given by any authority.

10. The results of operations showed a balance of Rs. 400 against the experiments, but His Honor, unwilling to discontinue experiments, authorised in March 1873 a further expenditure of Rs. 500.

11. An account is now furnished, showing a balance at the end of June of Rs. 374-11-11, which does not include the expenditure or income on present khureef crop. The total extent of the land under cultivation, which is, however, not clearly stated, may probably be about 5 acres, and worth about Rs. 150, so that the outstanding balance is about Rs. 220:—

12. The Executive Engineer, Allygurh Division, Ganges Canal, recommends stopping the experiments, which occupy the valuable time of his Sub-Engineer, and to give the land for five years rent free to a selected zemindar, who will go on with the experiment as long as it answers, having free command of canal silt and water. The Superintending Engineer, Captain Moncrieff, however, thinks that the experiments have gone as far as they are likely to go, and he is afraid that the experiments already made have been of little practical value.

13. His Honor the Lieutenant Governor concurs with the Chief Engineer that it would be premature to stop the experiments, in which the Government of India has expressed so great an interest. The Superintending Engineer should recognise their stedfast prosecution as a duty which has to be performed, and should take care to ensure that everything done shall be of practical value, positive or negative, by directing the attention of the Executive Engineer to methods whose capital cost shall not exceed the value of culturable land. It appears from the Utah experience that sand (silt) and vegetable manure, if ploughed in crops, are the most valuable agents, and that the use of animal manure is not desirable, where salts already exist. We must not be discouraged, the Lieutenant Governor observes, by slowness of success; when, after a surface soil has been created, the efflorescence re-appears, we must renew our labour and work it out again. The expenditure in labour and money is quite insignificant in comparison with the value of attaining to practical means of improving barren land. It is only when we stop short, as we appear to have done in these experiments, on account of some discouragement, that there is a risk of money being thrown away; and there is little doubt but that by perseverance we shall arrive at good results.

14. If, as proposed by the Executive Engineer, nothing were to be done beyond giving up the land which we have cultivated to a selected zemindar, the whole matter would sink into oblivion in a year or two. The Lieutenant Governor willingly agrees to the proposal as far as it goes, and has no desire to see land retained which has been brought into good bearing; but this transfer must be supplemented by vigorous and continuous application in some other locality. The Superintending Engineer will take care to make the necessary provision in his Budget, and will furnish regular half-yearly reports of results, which shall include capital and revenue accounts, in preparing which Captain Moncrieff will not fail to ask the help of the Controller, if requisite.

15. His Honor desires to see an estimate of the cost of planting trees, on say a ten-acre plot of oosur land, in the manner practised by Mr. McArthur, showing capital and revenue charges, which shall include all outlay on the one side, and show on the other an estimate of returns from plantations during a period of 20 years.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy be submitted to the Government of India for information.

Ordered, that a copy be sent to the Superintending Engineer, 1st Circle, Irrigation Works, for information and guidance, with the instruction that the importance of the subject should be fully realized, and that continuous energy should be shown in carrying out the work to a successful issue.

Ordered, that copies be furnished to the General Department of this Government, with a view to consideration of the subject in connection with Model Farms; and to all Superintending Engineers for circulation in the Department.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, REVENUE AND COMMERCE.

REPORT ON THE MINES OF COAL OR FOSSIL BITUMEN ON THE NEIGHBOURHOOD OF ZAKO (KURDISTAN).

No. 26, dated Bagdad, 8th July 1873.

From—Consul General, Bagdad,

To—Her Britannic Majesty's Ambassador at Constantinople.

Reverting to my Despatch No. 19, dated 26th May last, I have the honor to forward herewith the copy of a paper which purports to be a copy of the report on the coal or fossil bitumen at Harbool made to the Local Government by Monsr. Mongel, a French Civil Engineer of high reputation in its service, but now absent from Bagdad.

I regret that the gentleman, a friend of Monsr. Mongel, to whom I am indebted for this document, has been unable to furnish me with a copy of the map that accompanied the original.

Translation of a report addressed to the Turkish Government by Monsr. Mongel, Civil Engineer, on the mines of coal or fossil bitumen in the neighbourhood of Zako (Kurdistan).

Starting from Mossoul and travelling through a pass 15 kilomètres in length in the mountains of Zako, you emerge on the village of that name and find yourself in a valley bounded on the south by the mountains of Amedia and on the north by those of Erboul; the latter, which are formed by up-heaval, contain a very thick bed of fossil bitumen, the outcrops of which are marked on the map. This bed is found in different places and especially at Serranich, of which we shall have occasion to speak further on.

In a straight line the distance from Zako to Erboul is about 15 kilomètres, but the difficulties of the ground compelled me at first to take the road by Oizeel Jemeh—a route which is remarkably level and crossed by an extremely rapid river (Hezey), which, in the spring, is quite wide enough to allow the passage of rafts.

On leaving Jemeh you travel through a narrow valley closed in by hills, formed almost entirely of a marly clay. This valley, about 12 kilomètres in length, ends at the small village of Beshine situated at the foot of the mountains; and from this point the road becomes very difficult, as the mountain which has to be crossed rises in very steep slopes. Having ascended for about an hour you reach the summit; the descent, which takes half an hour, leads, as is shown in the map, to the village of Herboul. The coal is here seen in a somewhat deep cutting made by a torrent, where the ferruginous clay, which covered the coal, has been swept away and the mineral thus laid bare; owing to this the inclination of the strata could be measured without difficulty, and their course observed, and it is possible even to obtain an idea of their capacity.

The coal shows itself generally in stratified layers of about 15 centimètres in thickness.

Lie of the Strata.—Each stratum is separated from the rest by a layer of very loose clay which facilitates working.

The strata lie at an inclination of 48° to the plane of the horizon; their course is west 10°; to the south, however, a part is seen where the stratification is no longer regular, and in this place the layers of clay are again found, but instead of being 15 centimètres apart from each other, they are at an average of from 50 to 70 centimètres; and here the coal is purer and more compact. From the annexed sketch it will be seen that it was impossible to measure the total thickness of the seam A B, but the portion visible, where measured, gave a thickness of 130 metres. I have also ascertained that the inclination of the strata of coal continues for 50 metres, and it is probable that this figure is much below the truth. The outcrops which are seen on the upper part of the mountains are almost 4,000 metres from Herboul. These figures make it probable that we shall find (4,000 × 50 × 130) = 26,000,000 cubic metres of coal at a regular depth; some bore holes, however, are required to decide this.

Working.—The portion of the seam laid bare being much higher than the level of the valley, the most economical means, which suggests itself, is obviously that of working the seam by means of galleries having a slight slope towards the valley. The water either of the rains or infiltration would thus be drained off without any expense on account of pumping. This means is also very simple, as the coal when broken up, has only to be carried along a passage nearly level to be brought out into the open air; moreover, by working by means of galleries there is the advantage of obtaining coal at the very first stroke of the pick-axe,—a matter of great importance considering the very pressing demand for fuel for the use of steam-boats.

To begin, therefore, two galleries parallel to each other were traced as far apart as possible, one above and the other below. These being intersected by two perpendicular galleries, the mining wall-faces were increased, and the difference between the level of the two galleries secured sufficient ventilation, at least for some time, without being obliged to have recourse to more expensive means. In 22 days' working 485 tons were extracted; and it must be remarked that about half of the whole number of operatives were engaged in preparatory works, such as raising banks and cutting a passage to change the course of the stream; and as 26 tons a day is the highest quantity at present required, it is certain that the present rate of supply will be even more than ample for all requirements.

Carriage.—The existing galleries being very short the coal is carried into the open air by men. The most important question is the carriage from the pit's mouth to Bagdad. We will divide this subject into two parts:

1.—Carriage from the pit's mouth to the river.

As I have already said the approach to the mine is very difficult, and to run a tramway across the mountain of Herboul would be very expensive. It would be better therefore to make a road, the slope of which should admit of transport by cart, and this could be done by making a few windings as shewn in red on the map. The work would be easy owing to the clayey nature of the soil.

From Besbine the descent becomes less steep as you approach Jemeh, which is on an alluvial plateau extending as far down as Rehaineh (Tigris) with a gentle slope; the only difficulty, as will be seen, is the road from Herboul to Bahine, about 7,000 metres. Such a road would cost about 5,000 *livres. It was not possible to undertake this work immediately, owing to the bad state of the weather; we were therefore obliged to effect the transport on mules, which is not so expensive as might be imagined, since, including all charges, the cost under this head reaches only 40 piastres per ton.

2.—Carriage from Rehaineh (Tigris) to Bagdad.

The distance from Rehaineh to Bagdad is about 700 kilometres. Transport by boat is out of the question, the river offering obstacles, the removal of which would involve the construction of very extensive works. Rafts form the only practicable means of transport. Tenders were invited for the contract for this mode of transport, and it has been taken for a rate of 180 piastres per ton. Now, a glance at the following statement will show that this charge is very low:—

Estimate of necessary expenditure.

		P.	P.
200 goat-skins	... at	5 =	1,000,	can be used four times and sold for 4 P.
400 ropes	... „	5 =	2,000,	can be used twice.
80 pieces of wood	... „	5 =	400,	to be resold at Bagdad
100 bundles of reeds	...	...	50,	can be „ „
15 logs	... „	50 =	600,	can be „ „
100 sacks	... „	25 =	2,500,	can be used six times.
Salary of 2 men	...	...	600.

It should be added that four mules are required to carry back the empty goat-skins and five for the sacks; they are paid at the rate of 140 P. each.

Admitting that such a raft can carry 35 quintals when the river is low (for it can carry more when the river is full,) each quintal (2,000 ocq.) will cost the contractor 57 piastres, i. e., 228 piastres per ton.

According to this estimate, therefore, the contractors would lose (228—180=) 48 piastres per ton; but it must be borne in mind that the timbers forming the skeleton of the raft, which are cheap at Rehaineh, are sold at a very great profit at Bagdad, and thus the contractors are able to recoup the expenses of carriage.

Estimate of cost.—If 20 piastres be reckoned as the cost of the extraction of one ton, including the salary of the Inspector, unforeseen charges, repairs of tools, &c., the price of one ton of coal delivered at Bagdad can be estimated in the following manner:—

Extraction	... 20	240 P.
Carriage by land	40
„ water	... 180

There is no prospect of diminishing this amount by more than 40 piastres, and this cannot be effected unless carts are substituted for mules as a means of carriage.

We cannot conclude these few lines without speaking of the experiments tried with the bitumen as a fuel and as gas-coal.

1st experiment on the "Mossoul," 80 H. P. (nominal).

For several hours we heated the boiler of this boat with the new fuel; steam was got up nearly as soon as with English coal; in working, the pressure was maintained very well, and was sensibly higher than when pit coal was used. The weight of coal burnt per hour was the same of each kind. After the trials we examined the boiler, which was uninjured; the fire-grates had suffered no perceptible damage; the tubes were perhaps a little dirtier than usual, but the soot which had been deposited could be taken off with the greatest facility by means of the tube-brush.

2nd experiment on a stationary engine (Cornwall system,) 12 H. P.

Several experiments gave the following results:—

Using wood to work the engine, the pressure, which at starting was 55 pounds to the square inch, fell rapidly; and the centrifugal pump worked by the engine ceased to work fast enough to draw up the water.

* Probably intended for pounds sterling.

At this instant the wood being replaced by bitumen, the pressure rose rapidly to 57 pounds, and kept at that point. The bitumen being replaced by English coal, the steam gauge never showed more than 55. In the face of such striking results, we did not hesitate to accept this new fuel. The only fault that one can find with it is the great quantity of smoke which it emits; but we are convinced that as soon as smoke-consuming furnaces or air-boxes (Williams' system) are adopted, the quantity of smoke will be lessened considerably, while at the same time a far more intense heat will be obtained.

Trial of this coal as a gas-producer.

The fossil bitumen has the appearance of a black matter, rather bright, conchoidal when broken, reminding one somewhat of English Cannel-coal: it is extremely rich in hydrocarbons, and we therefore naturally experimented with it as a gas-producer.

Having put up a small distilling apparatus, consisting of two sheet-iron retorts, we experimented for several consecutive hours

The apparatus was constructed in such a manner as to enable us to draw off the liquid produced and to feed it while working.

The gas obtained burnt very brightly. Its smell reminded us of that of ordinary lighting gas, nor was it particularly offensive, although we had no apparatus to wash it before use.

After distillation we ascertained that the coke obtained, though not of an exceptional quality, was very fair; its only fault was that it was rather friable. Tar was produced in great quantity; it would have been very interesting to study this tar from a chemical point of view, but we had no time for this work.

We said at the beginning of this report that there were several beds of this bitumen. We have hitherto spoken only of that of Herboul, as it is the only one which can be worked with profit.

At Serranieh, the bitumen is intercalated between strata of schist which it has penetrated. It is very impure, and does not seem to be in very considerable quantities.

There is also near Erbille a calcareous stratum impregnated with bitumen; but as the proportion of the bitumen does not exceed 20 per cent., we did not think it worth any trouble.

PENSIONS AND GRATUITIES.

The 24th October 1873.

No. 3908.—The Governor General in Council directs that the following paragraph be added to Rule 1 of Section 29 of the Civil Pension Code:—

"Provided that, if less than one-fourth of any pension would under this rule be payable from another source, the whole shall be charged to the other source."

SEPARATE REVENUE—STAMPS.

The 23rd October 1873.

No. 3854.—Correspondence on the subject of the grant of refunds on spoilt stamps:—

From the HON'BLE F. S. CHAPMAN, Chief Secretary to the Government of Bombay, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Financial Department,—No. 4080-211 R, dated 17th July 1873.

In reference to notification No. 1041 of the 12th ultimo, relating to the granting of refunds on spoilt stamps, I am directed to point out that its provisions are not quite clear. It may apparently be read either as extending the time for refund or exchange of spoilt paper indefinitely, or as limiting it to a shorter time than allowed by the Act, both of which seem illegal. To put a case—A. purchases a stamp on the 1st May 1872. He keeps it by him, and spoils it on 1st of March 1873, and applies for refund on the 1st of August following. Under the resolution he would be entitled to refund, but to give it would, under the General Stamp Act, Section 45, be illegal, the time being beyond the year. Again, say A. spoils his stamp on the 5th of June 1872, and applies for refund on the 1st of January 1873. Under the Act he would be entitled to refund, but not under the Resolution.

2. As it is considered desirable that the doubts which have been raised should be removed, I am directed to request that this Government may be favoured with explanatory directions on the subject.

From R. B. CHAPMAN, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India, Financial Department, to the Chief Secretary to the Government of Bombay,—No. 2226, dated 12th August 1873.

In reply to your letter No. 4080-211 R, dated the 17th July 1873, I am directed to refer you to the closing paragraph of the notification No. 104, dated 13th June 1873, and to say that, under the provisions of Act XVIII of 1869, the possessor of a spoiled stamp is entitled to refund at any time within one year of the date on which it was purchased, but not thereafter. Under the notification he is further entitled to refund at any time within six months from the date on which it was spoiled, even though more than one year should have elapsed from the date of purchase.

To take the instance quoted by the Government of Bombay: A, who purchased a stamp on 1st May 1872, which was spoiled on 1st March 1873, would be entitled under the notification to a refund on 1st August 1873, because he applied within six months of the date on which the stamp was spoiled. But without the notification he would have had no claim to refund, as more than one year would have passed from date of purchase.

The concluding sentence of the notification was intended to guard against the supposition that the Government wished in any way to restrict the concessions of the law which of course it would have no power to do. There is nothing to prevent the Government extending the concessions of the law.

Ordered that the foregoing correspondence be published in the Gazette of India.

The 24th October 1873.

No. 3906.—Whereas doubts are entertained whether a certificate given under Section 259, Act VIII of 1859, by which the right, title and interest in immoveable property sold in execution of a decree by a Civil Court are transferred to the purchaser is, or is not chargeable with stamp duty under Article 15, Schedule I of the General Stamp Act, 1869, and whether a fee should or should not be paid under Section 6 of the Court Fees Act, 1870, in respect of the copy of such certificate filed with the record.

And whereas it appears to the Governor General in Council proper to exempt such certificates and copies as aforesaid from any stamp duty or fees to which they may be liable under the General Stamp Act, 1869, or the Court Fees Act, 1870, the Governor General in Council is pleased to publish the following order:—

Notification.—In exercise of the powers conferred by Section 16 of the General Stamp Act, 1869, the Governor General in Council is pleased to remit the whole of the duties that are chargeable under the same Act upon certificates granted under Section 259, Act VIII of 1859, by which the right, title and interest in immoveable property sold in execution of a decree by a Civil Court are transferred to the purchaser.

And in exercise of the powers conferred by Section 35 of the Court Fees Act, 1870, the Governor General in Council is pleased to remit the whole of the fees payable in respect of the copy of any such certificate filed with the records of the Civil Court by which it was granted.

R. B. CHAPMAN,
Secretary to the Government of India.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 10th October 1873, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in a month:—

No. 20 of 1873.

A Bill to provide for the liquidation of the debts of the Nawáb Názim of Bengal, and for his protection against legal process.

Preamble.

Whereas divers large pecuniary claims have been made against Sayyad Mansur Alí, the present Nawáb Názim of Bengal, Behar and Orissa, commonly called the Nawáb Názim, which he has not the means of satisfying, and for the purpose of recovering such claims divers suits have been brought against him, and divers attachments have been issued against his property in India:

And whereas the Government of India is desirous of freeing the said Nawáb Názim and his property respectively from such suits and attachments, and of discharging such of the said claims as are proper to be paid:

And whereas in the meantime and for the future, it is expedient to exempt the said Nawáb Názim, except as hereinafter mentioned, from the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts, and to render him incapable of contracting further pecuniary obligations;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Nawáb Názim's Debts Act, 1873:"

Local extent.

It extends to all persons and places for whom and for which the Governor General in Council has power to make laws;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force at once.

Power to appoint Commission.

2. The Governor General in Council may from time to time nominate and appoint such persons as he thinks fit to be a Commission to investigate claims against the said Nawáb Názim.

All persons so nominated and appointed (hereinafter called "the Commissioners") shall continue to be members of the said Commission during the pleasure of the Governor General in Council.

Notice to claimants.

3. The Commissioners shall publish thrice in the Gazette of India in English, and in the Calcutta Gazette in English, Urdú and Bengálí, and in such other mode and languages as they think fit, a notice calling upon all persons having claims against the said Nawáb Názim or his property, whether moveable or immoveable, to notify the same in writing to the Commissioners within six months from the date of the earliest of such publications.

Bar of debts not duly notified.

4. Every debt or liability to which the said Nawáb Názim is subject, or with which his property, or any part thereof, is charged, and which is not duly notified to the Commissioners within the time and in the manner hereinbefore mentioned, shall be barred:

Proviso.

Provided that, on sufficient cause being shown to the Commissioners, they may admit such claim within the further period of six months from the expiration of the said period of six months.

5. Every such claimant shall along with his claim present full particulars thereof.

Particulars of claim.

Every document on which he founds his claims, or on which he relies in support thereof, shall be delivered to the Commissioners along with the claim.

If the document be an entry in any book, the claimant shall produce the book to the Commissioners, together with a copy of the entry on which he relies. The Commissioners shall mark the book for the purpose of identification, and after examining and comparing the copy with the original, shall return the book to the claimant.

Entries in books.

If any document in the possession or under the control of the claimant is not delivered or produced by him to the Commissioners along with the claim, the Commissioners may refuse to receive such document in evidence on the claimant's behalf at the investigation of the case.

Exclusion of documents not produced.

The Commissioners may, from time to time, call for further and more detailed particulars of any claim preferred before them under this Act, and may at their discretion refuse to proceed with the investigation of the claim until such particulars are supplied.

May call for or admit any further evidence.

6. For the purposes of this Act, the Commissioners may summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses, and compel them to give evidence, and compel the production of documents by the same means, and, as far as possible, in the same manner as is provided in the case of a Civil Court by the Code of Civil Procedure.

Power of Commissioners to summon witnesses.

7. The Commissioners may administer an oath or affirmation, in such form as they think fit, to any person examined before them, touching the matters to be enquired into under this Act.

Power to administer oaths.

8. Every investigation conducted by the Commissioners, with reference to any claim preferred before them under this Act, or to any matter connected with any such claim, shall be deemed a judicial proceeding within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Investigation to be a judicial proceeding.

And every statement made by any person examined by or before the Commissioners with reference to such investigation, whether upon oath or otherwise, shall be deemed to be evidence within the meaning of the same Code.

9. Every witness required to attend and give evidence under the provisions of this Act, shall be entitled to a reasonable sum (to be allowed by the Commissioners) for his expenses in travelling to and from, and remaining at, the place at which he is required to attend.

Expenses of witnesses.

10. The Commissioners shall, by agreement with the claimant or otherwise, determine the amount which, on the consideration of all the circumstances, they may consider to be in fairness and justice due to each claimant.

Commissioners to determine amount due to each claimant.

11. The Commissioners shall certify in each case the amount so determined, and upon the Governor General in Council paying to any claimant the amount so certified, all claims of such claimant against the Nawáb Názim or his property shall be satisfied and extinguished.

Sum found due to be certified to Government.

12. No suit shall be commenced or prosecuted, and no writ or process shall at any time be sued for, against the person or property of the said Nawáb Názim, unless such suit be commenced, or such writ or process be sued for, with the consent of the Governor General in Council first had and obtained.

Bar of suits against Nawáb Názim.

Such consent shall be certified by the signature of one of the Secretaries to the Government of India, and every such signature shall be judicially noticed.

And any suit which at any time shall have been, or shall be, commenced, and any writ or process which at any time shall have been, or shall be, sued for, against the person or property of the said Nawáb Názim without such consent so certified as aforesaid, shall be null and void.

13. The said Nawáb Názim shall be incapable of entering into any contract which may give rise to any pecuniary obligation on his part.

Nawáb Názim to be incapable of contracting.

14. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to render the Secretary of State for India in Council, or the Government of India, liable for any debt heretofore contracted by, or on behalf of, the said Nawáb Názim, or in respect of any claim to be reimbursed, which may be made by any person supplying him with necessaries.

Saving of Secretary of State in Council.

15. No suit or other proceeding shall be maintained against any person in respect of anything done by him in good faith under this Act.

Bar of suits for acts done bonâ fide.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Nawáb Názim of Bengal belongs to one of the ancient and noble Indian families, which it is the policy of the British Government to maintain. To this end a sum of nearly seven lákhs has been annually allotted out of the public treasury to the Nawáb Názim, but owing to his extravagance this great income has proved quite unequal to his personal expenditure, and he is now involved in debt exceeding thirty lákhs of rupees, and carrying ruinous rates of interest.

Some steps must be taken to preserve the dignity of the Nawáb Názim's family; to keep Government out of the litigation which his creditors have already commenced, and which threatens to absorb property designed for the maintenance of the family; and to save the Indian tax-payers from further drafts on the public purse.

For this purpose the present Bill has been prepared. It empowers the Governor General in Council to appoint a Commission to investigate claims against the Nawáb Názim. It provides for giving public notice to such claimants, and bars debts not notified to the Commission within six months from such publication; it gives the Commissioners the usual powers to summon witnesses, and compel the production of evidence; and it declares that the Commissioners shall, by agreement with each claimant or otherwise, determine the amount fairly due to him; that they shall certify the amount so determined; and that, upon the Governor General in Council paying to the claimant the amount so certified, his claims against the Nawáb Názim or his property shall be extinguished.

The Bill then (here following the King of Oudh's Act No. XIII of 1868) bars suits against the Nawáb Názim, unless such suits have been commenced with the consent of the Government of India, and declares the Nawáb Názim incapable of contracting so as to involve himself in any pecuniary obligation.

SIMLA,
The 20th September 1873. } A. HOBHOUSE.

WHITLEY STOKES,
Secretary to the Govt. of India.

[Third publication.]

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 10th October 1873, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in three months:—

No. 21 of 1873.

A Bill to limit the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts throughout the Bombay Presidency in matters relating to the Land-Revenue.

Preamble.

Whereas in the Dekkhan, Khándesh, the Southern Mahratta Country, and certain other territories comprised in the Presidency of Bombay, the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts is limited in matters connected with the assessment and collection of the land-revenue:

And whereas it is expedient that the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts should be limited in like manner throughout the said Presidency:

And whereas it is also expedient to revive certain provisions of the thirteenth section of Regulation XVII of 1827 of the Bombay Code, relative to the recovery of arrears of revenue, which were repealed by the Land Improvement Act, 1871;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act, 1873:"

Commencement.

It shall come into force on the passing thereof;

Local extent.

And it shall extend to all the territories under the government of the Governor of Bombay in Council, but not so as to affect—

(a.) any suit regarding the assessment or collection of revenue on land situate in any place which is a town or city within the meaning of Bombay Act No. IV of 1868, or situate in the Presidency Collectorate,

(b.) any suit by a person claiming to hold land wholly or partially exempt from payment of land-revenue under a guarantee or sanad given by the Governor of Bombay in Council under Bombay Act No. II of 1863, section one, clause first, or Bombay Act No. VII of 1863, section two, clause first, or

(c.) any suit instituted on or before the seventh day of August 1873.

Repeal of enactments.

2. The enactments mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed are repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof.

Bar of certain suits.

3. Notwithstanding anything contained in Bombay Regulation XVI of 1827, section six, clause first, or in section twenty-five of the Bombay Survey and Settlement Act, or in any other law now in force, suits involving any of the following matters shall not be cognizable by the Civil Courts—

(a.) claims against the Government to inams or to hold land wholly or partially free from payment of land-revenue;

(b.) objections to the amount or incidence of any assessment of land-revenue or to the mode of assessment, or to the principle on which such assessment has been fixed;

(c.) disputes regarding public rent or revenue payable to Government, or complaints of exaction of district or village officers, stipendiary or hereditary.

Amendment of schedule to Act XXVI of 1871.

4. At the end of the schedule annexed to "The Land Improvement Act, 1871," instead of the words "section thirteen," there shall be read the words "The following words in section thirteen (that is to say) 'and demands on account of money advanced as tukavee', and 'or of advances for former years.'"

SCHEDULE.

(See section 2.)

Number and year.	Title or abbreviated Title.	Extent of repeal.
XVII of 1827 ...	A Regulation for the territories subordinate to Bombay, prescribing Rules for the assessment and realization of the Land-Revenue, &c.	In section IX, clause second, the word "either," and the words "or may file an action against the Collector in the Civil Court under the ordinary rules, or he may pursue both methods at the same time." In the same section, clause third, the words "but the reference to Government shall have no effect upon any suit instituted in the Civil Court." Section XVI, clause fifth.
XXIX of 1827 ...	A Regulation for bringing under the operation of the Regulations the Bombay Territories in the Dekkhan and Khándesh.	Section VI, so much as is not repealed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

At present the law determining the limits of the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts, in matters relating to the land-revenue, is not uniform throughout the Bombay Presidency.

In what (looking to the order in which they became known to the Legislature) may be termed the older districts, suits regarding the Government land-revenue may be brought in the Civil Courts, even to impugn a particular assessment on lands admitted to be open to assessment.

In the newer districts, on the contrary, all such matters are expressly excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Courts.

The Government of Bombay have recently brought to the notice of the Government of India a case in which an assessment made by the Survey Officers, under the twenty-fifth section of the Bombay Act I of 1865, was reduced by a Civil Court; and have strongly urged the inexpediency of continuing to the Civil Courts in one portion of our territories a jurisdiction which they are precluded from exercising not only in other parts of the Bombay Presidency, but elsewhere in India as well.

It has been considered that the best and simplest course is to place matters on substantially the same footing in the older districts as they at present stand on in the newer districts, and to effect this is the main object of the present Bill.

The Bombay Act VII of 1863 (for the summary settlement of claims to exemption from revenue), which is the law for the older districts, and Act II of 1863, the law for the newer districts, are both maintained intact.

The present opportunity has been taken to revive (in clause four) certain provisions of Regulation XVII of 1827 (Bombay), which were inadvertently repealed by the Land Improvement Act, 1871.

Note by Bábu Gangápershád of Bareli, dated 26th May 1873.
Note by His Highness the Mahárájá of Jaypur.
Memorial from the Zamíndárs of Jaunpur.
Note by Hon'ble E. C. Bayley, dated 20th September 1873.

2. We have altered the definition of 'mahál' so as to render our intention clearer, and we have omitted as useless the definition of 'tenant.'

3. We have made the power of the Collector of the District to transfer cases from his own file clearly extend to all cases whether arising under the provisions of the intended Act or otherwise.

4. We have enabled the Local Government to devote a portion of the patwári rate to the payment of charges incurred for the supervision, maintenance and correction of the patwáris' records.

5. We have empowered (clause thirty-nine) the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, from time to time to make general rules regarding the mode in which the revenue demand is to be assessed.

6. We have provided (clause forty-six) that in the case of a mahál held by co-sharers in severalty, the Settlement Officer shall distribute the assessment among the co-sharers.

7. In clauses 47, 49 and 51 we have altered the allowance to the person excluded from settlement to an allowance not less than 5 nor more than 15 per cent. on the proposed assessment.

8. In clause 64 we have provided that the Settlement Officer shall record the instalments of rent and the respective dates fixed for their payment, and any other matter which, by the rules to be framed under clause 255, he may be directed to record.

9. In clause 65 we have provided for consolidating with rent the cesses paid by tenants of land, whether revenue-free or assessed to revenue. We have also declared that the Settlement Officer shall record a list of all other cesses levied in accordance with village-custom, if generally or specially sanctioned by Government, and that the Local Government may impose on the collection of any cesses so sanctioned conditions as to conservancy, police, &c., connected with the village, bázár or fair in or on account of which the cesses are levied.

10. We have transferred to the Rent Act the clauses (70, 71 and 74) relating to tenants at fixed rates, privileged tenants and occupancy-tenants.

11. In clauses 72 and 76 we have reduced to ten years the term for which the rent of privileged tenants and occupancy-tenants shall be fixed in all districts. This alteration has been made because the majority of us, having regard to the weighty opinions given in favour of shortening the term, think it the more prudent course.

12. We have extended clause 78 (as to the joinder of tenants in suits for enhancement or abatement) to suits for commutation of rent.

13. We have made it clear that the clause relating to the commutation of rent in kind to money-rent applies to cases in which the rent is paid by rates varying with the crop, or partly in such way and partly in kind, or on the estimated value of a portion of the crop.

14. We have provided that clause 83 (as to resumption of rent-free grants) shall not apply to cases where land is held rent-free under a judicial decision or to cases where land held rent-free has been purchased for a valuable consideration, and a resumption of such land has been barred by Act No. X of 1859, section twenty-eight, or by the Indian Limitation Act, second schedule, No. 130.

15. As to the partition of lands held in severalty, we have provided that the aggregate revenue of the new mahâls shall not exceed the revenue assessed on the mahâl immediately before partition.

16. We have declared that no partition shall be disallowed on the ground of incompactness except with the sanction of the Board of Revenue.

17. We have enabled the Board, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, to make rules as to the instalments, &c., by which the revenue is to be paid.

18. We have expressly declared that no interest shall be demanded on arrears of revenue.

19. As to sales of land for arrears of revenue, we have followed Act I of 1845 in declaring that certain leases shall not be deemed to be 'incumbrances' within the meaning of clause 165.

20. We have empowered the Collector of the District to postpone such sales, reporting such postponements to the Commissioner.

21. In the case of sales of land other than that on which the arrear accrued, we have provided (clause 188) that no incumbrances created or contracts entered into by the defaulter in good faith shall be rendered invalid by such proceedings.

22. To the list of persons held "disqualified to manage their own lands" we have added persons declared by the Local Government, on their own application, to be disqualified.

23. In clause 213 we have required the officer making an investigation under the clauses therein mentioned, where the evidence is not taken down in full by him, to record a memorandum of the substance of the evidence of each witness.

24. As to reference to arbitration, we have excluded cases provided for by clauses 113 and 116 from those which a Settlement Officer may refer without the parties' consent.

25. We have also provided that the officer making the reference shall fix the amount to be allowed for the expenses of the arbitration, and direct by and to whom they shall be paid.

26. In clause 239 we have excluded the Civil Courts from taking cognizance of the amount of any rate or cess to be assessed under any Act for the time being in force, on any mahâl or share of a mahâl.

27. We have added to the schedule of repealed enactments so much of Regulation III of 1803 as has not been repealed, and section twenty-six of Regulation V of 1803.

28. We have altered section two of Act XL of 1858, so as to exclude from the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts proprietors of estates not assessed to revenue who are under the protection of the Court of Wards.

29. We have for the present confined the operation of the intended Act to the regulation parts of the North-Western Provinces. We have made several changes in arrangement and wording, and we recommend that the Bill as amended should be passed. But we are of opinion that it has undergone such alterations as to render its re-publication desirable.

SECOND SCHEDULE. Enactments repealed.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Land-Revenue and the jurisdiction of Revenue Officers in the North-Western Provinces.

[AS RE-AMENDED BY THE SELECT COMMITTEE.]

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to land-revenue and the jurisdiction of Revenue Officers in the North-Western Provinces of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873:"

Local extent.

It extends to all the territories for the time being under the government of the Lieutenant-Governor of the said Provinces except those specified in the first schedule hereto annexed;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

Enactments repealed.

2. The Regulations and Acts mentioned in the second schedule hereto annexed are repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof.

But all rules prescribed, appointments made, powers conferred, and notifications published under any such enactment, and all other rules (if any) now in force and relating to any of the matters hereinafter dealt with, shall be deemed to have been respectively prescribed, made, conferred and published under this Act.

Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,

'Mahál.'

(1.) "Mahál" means—

(a) any local area held under a separate engagement for the payment of the land-revenue, and for which a separate record-of-rights has been framed, and

(b) any local area of which the revenue has been assigned or redeemed, and for which a separate record-of-rights has been framed.

'Collector of the District.'

(2.) "Collector of the District" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue administration of a District:

'Commissioner.'

(3.) "Commissioner" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue administration of a Division:

'Rent.'

(4.) "Rent" means whatever is to be paid, delivered or rendered by a tenant on account of his holding, use or occupation of land:

'Sír-land.'

(5.) "Sír-land" means—

(a) land recorded as sír at the last settlement of the district in which it is situate, and continuously so recorded since; or,

(b) land continuously cultivated by the proprietor himself, with his own stock, or by his servants, or by hired labour, for twelve years; or,

(c) land recognized by village custom as the special holding of a co-sharer, and treated as such in the distribution of profits or charges among the co-sharers:

'Annual value.'

(6.) "Annual value" means double the amount of the revenue, or, in the case of maháls permanently assessed or exempt from the payment of revenue, double the amount that would be assessable on such maháls if they were liable to assessment or revision of assessment:

'Incumbrance.'

(7.) "Incumbrance" means a charge upon or claim against land arising out of private contract:

'Agricultural year.'

(8.) "Agricultural year" means a year commencing on the first day of July, and ending on the thirtieth day of June:

'Revenue Court.'

(9.) "Revenue Court" means all or any of the following authorities, (that is to say) all members of the Board of Revenue, Commissioners, Collectors, Assistant Collectors, Settlement Officers, Assistant Settlement Officers and Tahsíldárs:

'Board.'

(10.) "Board" means the Board of Revenue of the North-Western Provinces:

'Minor.'

(11.) "Minor" means a person who has not completed his age of eighteen years.

CHAPTER II.

CONSTITUTION AND POWERS OF REVENUE OFFICERS.

Chief controlling authority in revenue matters.

4. The chief controlling authority in all matters connected with the revenue of the said territories is vested in the Board, subject to the Local Government.

Subject to the orders of the Local Government, the Board shall sit in any place in the North-Western Provinces that it thinks fit, and it shall have the powers conferred by Chapter VII of this Act on Commissioners and Collectors.

Appointment of Members of Board.

5. The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, shall appoint, and may from time to time remove, the members of the Board.

Power to distribute business.

6. With the previous sanction of the Local Government, and subject to rules which it may from time to time prescribe, the Board may distribute its business and make such territorial division of its jurisdiction amongst its members as to the Board may seem fit.

Orders of Member to be orders of Board.

All orders made or decrees passed by a Member of the Board in accordance with such distribution or division shall be held to be the orders or decrees (as the case may be) of the Board.

Alteration or reversal of orders.

7. No decree or order coming under the consideration of the Board on appeal or on being called for or reported for orders, shall be altered or reversed without the concurrent judgment of two Members of the Board.

Reference to Local Government in case of difference of opinion.

8. When the Members of the Board are equally divided in opinion as to the order to be made in any matter coming under their consideration otherwise than on appeal, the question regarding which there is such division shall be referred for decision to the Local Government.

Power of Board to review and alter its orders and decrees.

9. The Board may review, and may rescind, alter or confirm, any order made by itself, or by any of its Members in the course of its non-judicial business.

But no decree passed by it judicially shall be so reviewed except on the application of a party to the cause within ninety days from the passing of the decree, or, if good cause be shown, within any longer period.

Members not empowered to alter each other's orders.

A single Member vested with all or any of the powers of the Board shall not have power to alter or reverse a decree or order passed by the Board or by any Member other than himself.

Power to authorize Member to exercise powers of Board.

10. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, the Local Government may authorize any Member of the Board to perform or exercise, either generally or in any particular locality, all or any of the duties and powers imposed and conferred on the Board.

Commissioners of Division.

11. The Local Government shall appoint in each Division a Commissioner, who shall within his Division exercise the powers and discharge the duties conferred and imposed on a Commissioner of Division under this Act, or under any other law for the time being in force, and who shall, subject to the control of the Board, exercise authority over all the Revenue Officers in his Division.

Collector of the District.

12. The Local Government shall appoint in each District an officer, who shall be the Collector of the District, and shall exercise throughout his District all the powers and discharge all the duties conferred and imposed on a Collector or an Assistant Collector by this Act or any other law for the time being in force.

The Local Government may confer on any Assistant Collector in charge of a Sub-division of a District all or any of the powers of a Collector of a District, and all powers so conferred shall be exercised subject to the control of the Collector of the District.

Assistant Collectors.

13. The Local Government may appoint to each district as many other persons as it thinks fit to be Assistant Collectors of the first or second class.

All such Assistant Collectors and all other persons employed in collecting the land-revenue or in maintaining revenue-records shall be subordinate to the Collector of the District.

Power to alter limits of Divisions, &c., and to form Sub-divisions.

14. The Local Government may from time to time alter the limits of any Division, District or Tahsíl, and may divide any District into Sub-divisions, and from time to time alter the limits of such Sub-divisions.

All existing tahsíls shall be Sub-divisions of districts until they are so altered.

Assistant Collector in charge of Sub-division of District.

15. The Local Government may place any Assistant Collector of the first class in charge of one or more Sub-divisions of a District, and may at any time remove him therefrom.

Such Assistant Collector shall be called an Assistant Collector in charge of a Sub-division of a District, and shall exercise the powers conferred upon him by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force, subject to the control of the Collector of the District.

The Local Government may, from time to time, delegate its powers under this section to the Collector of the District, and may revoke such delegation.

Subordination of Revenue Officers.

16. Every officer of a Sub-division of a District employed in collecting the land-revenue or in maintaining revenue-records shall be subordinate to the Assistant Collector (if any) in charge of such Sub-division, subject to the general control of the Collector of the District.

Conferring of powers.

17. In conferring powers under this Act, the Local Government may empower persons by name, or classes of officials generally, by their official titles.

Transfer of cases to subordinates.

18. The Collector of the District, or any Assistant Collector in charge of a Sub-division or a District, or Officer in charge of a Settlement, may make over any case, or class of cases, arising under the provisions of this Act or otherwise for enquiry or decision from his own file to any of his subordinates competent to deal with such case or class, or may withdraw any such case or class of cases from any Revenue Officer subordinate to them respectively, and may deal with such case or class themselves, or refer it for disposal to any other such Revenue Officer competent to deal with the same.

Power to withdraw cases from subordinates.

Power to vary and cancel powers.

19. The Local Government may vary or cancel any order conferring powers under this Act.

Collector of the District in case of temporary vacancy.

20. If the Collector of the District dies, or is otherwise disabled from performing his duties, the officer who succeeds temporarily to the chief executive administration of the District in revenue matters shall be held to be the Collector of the District under this Act until the Local Government appoints a successor to the Collector so dying or otherwise disabled, and such successor takes charge of his appointment.

Powers of officers transferred to another district.

21. Whenever any person holding an office in the service of Government, who has been invested with any powers under this Act in any district is transferred to an equal or higher office of the same nature within another district, he shall, unless the Local Government otherwise directs, be held to be invested with the same powers in the district to which he is so transferred.

Appointment of Tahsíldárs.

22. Tahsíldárs shall be appointed by the Board, subject to such rules as to qualification or otherwise as the Local Government may make under section two hundred and fifty-five.

Power to form and alter patwáris' circles.

23. The Collector of the District, or the Settlement Officer, with the sanction of the Board, may arrange all the villages of such district in patwáris' circles, and may, from time to time, alter the limits of such circles.

But no such arrangement or alteration shall be final unless and until it has been sanctioned by the Board.

Appointment of patwári to each circle.

24. A patwári shall be appointed to each circle, whether the mahúls in such circle are assessed to revenue or not.

Nomination and appointment of patwáris to fill vacancies.

25. On the occurrence of a vacancy by the death or dismissal of a patwárí or otherwise, the proprietors of the circle in which the vacancy has occurred, or the persons standing in their place, shall in accordance with local custom nominate a successor, who shall be appointed by the Collector of the District or Settlement Officer, or Assistant Collector.

Which nominee to be appointed in case of disagreement.

26. In case of disagreement as to the nominee, the Collector or Settlement Officer or Assistant Collector shall ascertain the local custom, if any, and shall appoint the person nominated in accordance therewith.

Where no such custom can be ascertained, the Collector, Settlement Officer, or Assistant Collector shall appoint the nominee of those proprietors who represent the largest amount of annual value in the circle, or of the persons standing in their place.

If a mahál is held under direct management, or if the proprietor be under the charge of the Court of Wards, the Collector of the District, or Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division, shall be held to be the proprietor for the purpose of nominating a patwárí under this section.

Appointment of patwárí in case of failure or neglect of person entitled to nominate.

27. If the persons in whom the nomination is vested neglect to nominate a successor to the patwárí within fifteen days from the occurrence of the vacancy, the Collector of the District, Settlement Officer or Assistant Collector shall call on them by notice to make the nomination, and if they fail to do so within fifteen days from the receipt of notice, the Collector shall make the appointment.

Procedure in case of nomination of unfit person.

28. If the person or persons in whom the nomination is vested nominate a man disqualified by any cause to perform the duties of a patwárí or in the nomination neglect to follow the local custom, the Collector of the District, Settlement Officer or the Assistant Collector shall refuse to appoint the nominee; and if no fit person be nominated within fifteen days from the date of the notification of such refusal, he shall himself appoint a person to the vacant office.

Preference to member of patwárí's family.

Provided that the Collector of the District, Settlement Officer or Assistant Collector, in making the appointment under this and the last preceding section, shall always give preference to any member of the late patwárí's family, not disqualified by reason of minority or otherwise to perform the duties of the office.

Payment of patwáris.

29. A rate may be imposed by order of the Collector of the District or the Settlement Officer, on the annual value or on the cultivated area of all the mahále composing the circle of each patwárí, or partly in the one way, and partly in the other, for defraying the salary of such patwárí, and any charges incurred on account of any additional establishment required for the proper supervision, maintenance and correction of the patwárí's records.

Fixing amount of rate.

30. The amount of the rate to be imposed under section twenty-nine in any District or Sub-division of a District, shall be determined by the Board under the orders of the Local Government:

Provided that such rate shall not exceed three per cent. on the annual value of the rated mahál, and that the amount to be imposed on each mahál shall be fixed in the temporarily settled districts for the term of settlement, and in permanently-settled districts for thirty years, or such shorter period as the Local Government may direct.

Collection of rate.

31. The rate shall be collected with the revenue, and shall, in case of default, be recoverable by the same process as arrears of revenue.

Salaries of patwáris.

32. The amount of the salaries of the patwáris shall be fixed from time to time by the Board under the orders of the Local Government.

Appointment of Kánúngos and filling vacancies among them.

33. One or more Kánúngos may be appointed in each tahsíl for the proper supervision, maintenance and correction of the patwáris' records.

In case of a vacancy in the office of a Kánúngo, preference shall be given to some duly qualified member of a family in which the office of Kánúngo of the tahsíl or any part thereof is hereditary.

If no such qualified member can be found, then one of the patwáris of the tahsíl shall, if duly qualified, be appointed to the vacancy, and failing any person duly qualified among them, some other fit and competent person shall be appointed thereto.

Amount of Kánúngos' salaries.

34. The amount of the salaries of the Kánúngos shall from time to time be fixed by the Local Government.

Kánúngos and patwáris to be public servants, and their records public records.

35. Every Kánúngo and patwárí, and every person appointed temporarily to discharge the duties of any such officer, shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, and all official records and papers kept by any such officer shall be held to be public records and the property of Government.

CHAPTER III.

SETTLEMENT.

Notification as to settlement.

36. Whenever the Local Government thinks that any local area liable to be brought under settlement shall be so brought, it shall publish a notification specifying such area and declaring whether the settlement is to include the assessment of the land-revenue or the preparation of the revenue records or both.

Settlement to be deemed in progress until closing notified.

37. Such local area shall be held to be under settlement from the date of the notification published under section thirty-six until the issue of another notification declaring settlement operations to be closed therein.

Settlements now in progress brought under operation of Act.

Every district or local area under settlement at the time of the passing of this Act, shall be held to be under settlement within the meaning of this section without the issue of the notification prescribed by section thirty-six.

Appointment and powers of Settlement Officers.

38. The Local Government may from time to time appoint an officer to be in charge of the settlement of one or more districts, or part of a district, and as many Assistant Settlement Officers as to it may seem fit; and such officers shall exercise the powers conferred upon them by this Act so long as such district or districts or part of a district is or are under settlement.

Local Government to issue rules as to mode of assessment and to fix period of settlement.

39. The Local Government shall from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, frame and issue rules regarding the mode in which the revenue demand is to be assessed.

Powers of Settlement Officers as to erection of boundary-marks and decision of disputes.

40. When any district, or part of a district, is under settlement, the Settlement Officer shall have power to call upon all proprietors, by proclamation to be stuck up in some conspicuous place in each village, to erect within fifteen days such boundary-marks as he may think necessary to define the limits of their villages, mahâls, or fields; and in default of their compliance within the time specified in the notice, he may cause such boundary-marks to be erected, and he shall recover the cost of the erection from the proprietors, as if it were an arrear of revenue.

In case of dispute concerning any boundary-marks, the Settlement Officer shall decide such dispute on the basis of possession, or may refer it to arbitration, as provided for in section two hundred and eighteen to section two hundred and twenty-nine (both inclusive).

Power of Settlement and Survey Officers to enter on lands.

41. All Settlement Officers and all officers in charge of a survey made in connection with the revenue, and their assistants, servants, agents and workmen, may do all acts necessary for any purpose connected with the settlement or survey, as the case may be.

Power to require attendance of persons concerned.

42. The Settlement Officer may order all persons, whose presence is in his opinion necessary for the purposes of settlement or survey, to attend at any specified time and place, and to produce any written document in their possession or power; and all such persons shall be legally bound to obey such order.

With whom settlement to be made.

43. The settlement shall be made with the proprietor of the land; or, if the proprietor have transferred possession of his land to a mortgagee or conditional vendee, then with such mortgagee or vendee.

Settlement of mahâl in possession of lunatic or minor.

If, at the time of settlement, a mahâl or any share thereof, be in the possession of a lunatic, minor, or other person incapable of making a contract, the settlement shall be made with his guardian or manager on his behalf.

Power to make joint settlement with several proprietors or their elected representatives.

44. When several persons hold a mahâl, the Settlement Officer shall have power to make a joint settlement with all such persons, or with their representatives elected according to the custom of the mahâl.

Framing and reporting proposals of assessment.

45. Whenever the Settlement Officer frames proposals of assessment he shall report them through the Commissioner to the Board in accordance with the rules made under section two hundred and fifty-five and after receipt of the orders of the Board thereon, and subject to such orders, he shall declare to the persons with whom the settlement is to be made the assessment proposed for their mahâls.

Declaration of assessment to persons concerned.

Such declaration shall be made on a date to be notified by proclamation at the tahsîl in which such mahâls are situated.

Effect of agreement to assessment proposed.

46. If the persons with whom the settlement is to be made agree to the assessment so proposed, they shall become liable from the date of such agreement, or from such subsequent date as the Board directs, to pay such assessment, and in mahâls in which the land or part of the land is held in severalty the Settlement Officer shall distribute such assessment on the lands so held.

Enforcement of custom as to re-distribution of land and adjustment of revenue of shares.

47. In any mahâl where, by the established custom, the land or the amount of revenue payable by each sharer is subject to periodical re-distribution or re-adjustment, the Settlement Officer may, on application of the co-sharers, enforce such re-distribution or re-adjustment according to the established custom of the mahâl.

Exclusion of person declining or failing to accept, settlement.

48. If the person to be settled with refuse to accept the assessment offered by the Settlement Officer, or fail to accept such assessment within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section forty-five, the Settlement Officer shall report the case to the Board, and the Board may direct that the person so refusing or failing be excluded from the settlement for such term not exceeding fifteen years from the date of such direction, as the Board shall fix. And the Collector, with the previous sanction of the Board may either farm the mahâl or hold it under direct management during such term or any part thereof.

Allowance to person excluded.

In such case, the person so excluded, shall be entitled (subject to the orders of the Board) to an allowance of not less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the proposed assessment.

Procedure in case of some of several proprietors refusing assessment.

49. If in a pattîdârî or imperfect pattîdârî mahâl some of the co-sharers refuse or fail within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section forty-five to accept the proposed assessment, the shares of the persons so refusing or failing shall be dealt with under the provisions of section forty-eight, and they shall receive an allowance as laid down in that section in proportion to their respective shares in the mahál.

Farm of shares of proprietors refusing.

Provided that the farm of such shares shall be offered in the first instance to those proprietors who have accepted the proposed terms.

Adjustment of rent of the sír-lands of proprietors of estate farmed under section 46.

50. Any proprietor of a mahál, or a portion of a mahál, who may be excluded from settlement under section forty-eight or forty-nine shall be entitled to hold his sír-land as a privileged tenant, and the rent to be paid by him for such land during such exclusion shall be fixed by the Settlement Officer accordingly.

Provided that the difference between the rent so fixed, and the rent which such proprietor would be liable to pay, if he were not a privileged tenant, together with any allowance assigned to him under section forty-eight or forty-nine shall not be less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the assessment proposed by the Settlement Officer.

Offer of settlement to excluded proprietor on expiry of term of farm.

51. On the expiration of the term fixed under section forty-eight, the settlement of such mahál or portion shall be offered by the Collector of the District to the person then entitled to be settled with in respect of such mahál, or portion at such assessment for the remainder of the term of settlement of the district as the Board may direct.

Procedure on refusal.

And if such person refuse to accept the offer, the Collector of the District shall report such refusal to the Board, and such person may be excluded from settlement for such period not exceeding the term of the settlement of the District as the Board may direct, and shall then receive the allowance to which he would be entitled if sections forty-eight and forty-nine applied to his case. And the rent to be paid by him as a privileged tenant for his sír-land shall be fixed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector in accordance with the North-Western Provinces Rent Act.

Power to direct which of several parties having separate and differing interests shall be admitted to settlement;

52. Whenever several persons possess separate heritable and transferable proprietary interests in any mahál, such interests being of different kinds, the Settlement Officer may, under the rules for the time being in force, determine

(a) which of such persons shall be admitted to engage for the payment of the revenue, due provision being made for securing the rights of the others, and

and to prescribe distribution of profits.

(b) the manner and proportion in which the nett profits of the mahál shall be allotted to the several persons possessing separate interests as aforesaid for the term of the settlement.

Power to make sub-settlement with inferior proprietor in behalf of superior proprietor of mahál coming under section 52.

53. If in any mahál coming under the provisions of the preceding section, the separate properties bear to each other the relation of superior and inferior, and the settlement be made with the party possessing the superior right, the Settlement Officer may make, on behalf of the superior proprietor, a sub-settlement with the inferior proprietor, by which such inferior shall be bound to pay to the superior an amount equal to the Government demand in respect of the mahál, together with the share of the profits thereof allotted to the superior proprietor under section fifty-two.

Exclusion of inferior proprietor from sub-settlement in case of refusal of terms.

Provided that, if the inferior proprietor refuse to agree to the terms of such sub-settlement, the mahál shall be made over to the superior proprietor for the term of settlement.

Allowance.

And in such case the inferior proprietor shall hold as a privileged tenant the land (if any) cultivated by him at the date of such refusal, and the superior proprietor shall pay him such annual allowance as when added to the difference between the rent fixed for such land and the rent which the inferior proprietor would be liable to pay therefor if he were not a privileged tenant, shall not be less than five, or more than fifteen per cent. of the profits allotted to him under section fifty-two.

Assessment on inferior proprietor when settlement made with him.

54. If the settlement of a mahál be made with the inferior proprietor, the amount to be paid by him shall be fixed by the Settlement Officer at such a sum as may be equal to the Government demand in respect of such mahál, together with the share of the profits allowed to the superior proprietor under section fifty-two; and in this case the share of the superior proprietor shall be realized as revenue, and paid to him from the Government Treasury.

Power to make arrangements for the benefit of persons possessing rights which do not entitle them to settlement.

55. If in any mahál there exist persons possessing proprietary rights therein which are not of such a nature as to entitle their possessors to settlement, the Settlement Officer may make such arrangements as shall secure such persons in possession of their existing rights, or of an equivalent thereto.

This may be done

(a) by the formation of a sub-settlement on behalf of the proprietors with such persons for any lands actually in their possession, or,

(b) in mahále held as joint undivided property and where the said rights are rights to receive from the tenants any money-payment or portion of the agricultural produce, by assigning, in lieu thereof, the proprietary right in a certain portion of the mahál, the profits of which are equivalent in the opinion of the Settlement Officer to the said payment or portion;

(c) in such other way as shall maintain the persons referred to in the first clause of this section in the enjoyment of, or of an equivalent to, their existing rights.

Separate settlement of waste-land in excess.

56. When the waste-land belonging to, and included at the previous settlement within the boundaries of, any mahál assessed to the payment of revenue is so extensive as, in the opinion of the Settlement Officer, confirmed by the Board, to exceed the requirements of the owner of such mahál with reference to pastoral or agricultural purposes, such officer may make a separate settlement of the waste-land which he considers to be so in excess, and shall offer such waste-land to the owner of the mahál to which it belongs, at such assessment and for such term, not exceeding the period of settlement of the mahál, as the Board may order.

If the owner of the mahál accepts such offer, the Settlement Officer shall make the settlement of such waste-land accordingly, and on the expiration of the term of such settlement, a further settlement of such waste-land shall be offered on such terms as the Board directs to the person entitled to be settled with in respect thereof.

Allowance to owner of mahál refusing offer of settlement.

If the owner of such mahál refuses such offer, the Settlement Officer shall mark off the quantity so in excess, and declare it to be a separate mahál, and at the disposal of Government. Provided that there shall be allowed to the owner of the mahál to which the waste-land originally belonged such annual sum as the Board may direct, being not less than five and not more than ten per cent. on the nett revenue realized by Government from such waste-land.

Procedure as to waste-land not included in any mahál at previous settlements.

57. Any waste-land which has neither been judicially declared to be part of any mahál, nor included within the boundaries of any mahál at any previous settlement, shall be marked off by the Settlement Officer, and he shall record a proceeding declaring such land to be the property of Government, and cause a proclamation to that effect to be stuck up in the District Revenue Court and in the office of the tahsíl in which such land is situated, and shall call on all persons having any claims on such land to make the same within three months from the date of the proclamation.

Such proclamation shall be held to be an advertisement of the disposal of such land within the meaning of Act No. XXIII of 1863 (to provide for the adjudication of claims to waste-lands, section one, and any person having claims to such land must proceed according to the provisions of that Act.

Procedure as to waste-land unclaimed or adjudged to belong to Government.

58. If no claim is made to the proprietary right of such waste-land, or if such waste-land is decided to be the property of Government, but the proprietor of the adjoining mahál proves that he has theretofore enjoyed the use of such land for pastoral or agricultural purposes, the Settlement Officer may assign to such mahál so much of such waste land as he may consider requisite for such purposes, and he shall mark off the remainder and declare it to be the property of Government.

Settlement of waste-land adjudged to belong to claimant.

59. If the claimant obtain a decree under the provisions of the said Act No. XXIII of 1863, for the whole or part of such waste-land, the Settlement Officer may deal with the land to which a title is so established under the provisions of section fifty-six.

Confirmation of settlement and revision of assessment.

60. No settlement shall be considered final until it has been confirmed by the Local Government.

The Local Government shall at some time before confirming the settlement fix the period for which the settlement is to be made.

Such period shall be fixed with reference to the agricultural year.

The assessment may be revised, if the Local Government so directs, at any time before it is confirmed, and in such case the revised assessment shall be proposed to the proprietors, and the provisions of sections forty-three to fifty-one (both inclusive) shall apply.

RECORD-OF-RIGHTS.

Framing of record-of-rights.

61. Whenever the Local Government thinks that a record-of-rights in land, whether permanently settled, temporarily settled, or revenue-free, should be prepared, for any specified area, it shall issue a notification to that effect, and such notification shall remain in force until another notification is issued, declaring the operations in such area to be closed.

Register and statement to be included in record.

62. The Settlement Officer shall frame for each mahál a record containing a list of

(a) all the co-sharers,

(b) all other persons occupying any portion of the land therein, or who is in possession of any heritable or transferable interest in such land, or receiving rent in respect thereof,

(c) the nature and extent of the interest held therein by each of such co-sharers and other persons, and

(d) all persons holding land free of rent, or revenue-free.

List of persons holding rent-free or at fixed rent.

63. The record shall also specify the persons (if any) holding land at a rent fixed by grant or by contract, or on condition of service or otherwise, and all other tenants in the mahál, the name and caste of each, the area of their holdings, and all conditions of their tenure.

Settlement of disputes as to entries in record.

64. All entries in the record made under sections sixty-two and sixty-three shall be founded on the basis of actual possession, and all disputes regarding such entries, whether taken up by the Settlement Officer of his own motion or upon the complaint of the party concerned, shall be investigated and decided by him on that basis. And all persons not in possession, but claiming the right to be so, shall be referred by him to the proper Court.

Arrangements of co-sharers.

65. The Settlement Officer shall also record the arrangement made by himself or agreed to by the co-sharers,

(a) for the distribution of the profits derived from sources common to the proprietary body,

(b) for fixing the share which each co-sharer is to contribute of the Government revenue and of the cesses levied under any law for the time being in force, and of the village expenses,

(c) as to the manner in which lumberdars or co-sharers are to collect from the cultivators,

(d) the instalments of rent and the respective dates fixed for their payment, and

(e) any other matters which he may be directed to record under rules framed under section two hundred and fifty-five.

Cesses to be recorded.

66. All cesses payable by tenants on account of the occupation of land assessed to revenue and taken into account in such assessment, or which, in the case of land not assessed to revenue, would have been taken into such account had the land been assessed, or in lieu of which proprietary rights have been assigned under section fifty-five, clause (b), shall be consolidated with the rent payable by them.

A list of all other cesses levied in accordance with village custom shall, if generally or specially sanctioned by the Local Government, be recorded by the Settlement Officer, and no cesses not so recorded shall be enforced in any Civil or Revenue Court.

The Local Government may from time to time impose on the collection of any cesses so sanctioned, such conditions as to conservancy, police or other establishments connected with the village, bázár or fair in or on account of which the cesses are levied, as it thinks fit.

Record in case of mahál in which rights and interests are in dispute.

67. If it appear to a Settlement Officer that there exist in any mahál under settlement any disputes relative to any of the matters which he is bound to record, under section sixty-five or section sixty-six, he may of his own motion, and without complaint being made, investigate and determine such disputes in accordance with the existing village custom, and frame the record accordingly.

Particulars to be stated in list of tenants.

68. In framing the list of tenants mentioned in section sixty-three the Settlement Officer shall state as to each tenant the following particulars:—

(a) Whether, under the provisions contained in the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, he is a tenant holding at fixed rates, or a privileged tenant, or an occupancy-tenant, or a tenant without a right of occupancy:

(b) The rent which the landholder and the tenant then admit to be payable by the latter:

(c) If he be a tenant without a right of occupancy, the number of years during which he has held the land then in his possession:

(d) Any other condition of the tenure, whether contained in a written lease or otherwise.

Determination of class of tenants and rent payable by each.

69. In case of any dispute respecting the class or tenure of any tenant, the Settlement Officer shall decide according to the principles laid down in sections five, seven and eight of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873.

In case of any dispute regarding the rent payable by any tenant, the Settlement Officer shall decide according to the principles hereinafter laid down.

Enhancement of rent of privileged tenants.

70. If the proprietor apply to the Settlement Officer to enhance the rent of a privileged tenant, the Settlement Officer shall enhance the rent of such tenant to a rate which shall be not less than two and not more than four annas in the rupee below the rate fixed by the Settlement Officer for land of a similar quality with similar advantages held by occupancy-tenants in the same circle or tahsíl.

Rate at which such rent shall be fixed.

71. If no such application is made, the rent of the privileged tenant shall be fixed at the rate paid by him for the agricultural year next before the settlement.

Provided that if he apply under section seventy-three as an occupancy-tenant for an abatement of the rent previously paid by him, his rent may be abated, but not below the rate at which it would be fixed if he were merely an occupancy-tenant.

Determination of rent by Settlement Officer.

72. If a landholder apply to enhance the rent previously paid by any of his occupancy-tenants, or, if an occupancy-tenant apply for an abatement of the rent previously paid by him, or, if a dispute exists as to the rent to be paid by an occupancy-tenant,

the Settlement Officer may fix the rent to be paid by such tenant either by reference to the standard of the rent-rate sanctioned by the Board for purposes of assessment for similar land, with similar advantages, or by reference to the customary rate of rent for similar land, with similar advantages, in the circle or tahsíl in which the holding of such tenant is situate.

Power to commute rent in kind to money rents.

73. In all cases in which rents have heretofore been paid in kind, or on the estimated value of a portion of the crop, or by rates varying with the crop, or partly in one of such ways and partly in another or others of such ways, application to commute such rent to a fixed money rent may be made to the Settlement Officer either by the land-holders or by any privileged tenant, or an occupancy-tenant.

Procedure on receiving application to commute.

74. On receipt of such application the Settlement Officer shall deal with the case as if it were an application under section seventy or seventy-two, and shall determine the sum to be paid in commutation in accordance with the provisions of those sections.

Joinder of tenants in suits for enhancement or determination of rent.

75. Whenever an application for enhancement or abatement or commutation of rent, against or by any number of tenants, is brought before a Settlement Officer, such tenants may be sued or may sue collectively: and it shall be no ground for dismissing or refusing to hear the application that such tenants are wrongly joined as plaintiffs or defendants, provided all such tenants cultivate in the same mahál;

Decree when to be passed in suits for enhancement.

but no order shall be passed in such case in which enhancement, abatement or commutation of rent is claimed, unless the officer making such order is satisfied that every tenant has had an opportunity to appear and make objection to the claim preferred against him.

Decree what to specify.

76. Every decree passed in any such case shall specify the extent to which each of the tenants named on the decree shall be affected thereby.

Rent from what date payable. Bar to enhancement.

77. The rent determined by order of the Settlement Officer shall be payable from the first day of July next following the date of the order of the Settlement Officer, and shall not be liable to enhancement for the years from such first day of July.

Exceptions.

But this rule, so far as relates to enhancement, shall not apply—

(a) to land which has been gained by alluvion after the date of such order;

(b) to additions made since the date of such order to the tenant's holding;

(c) to land of which the productive powers have been increased otherwise than by the agency or at the expense of the tenant after the date of such order.

Powers of Local Government as to commutation-suits.

78. The Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette,

(a) declare the provisions of section seventy-three, seventy-five, seventy-six and seventy-seven applicable to any district or portion of a district not under settlement;

(b) declare what officers are empowered to hear and decide applications under section seventy-three in such district or portion of a district, and lay down rules for their guidance;

(c) withdraw any notification previously published under this section.

Resumption of rent-free grants.

79. And whereas all grants for holding land exempt from the payment of rent which have been made since the first day of December 1790, by any authority other than that of the Governor General in Council were declared by Bengal Regulation XIX of 1793, section ten, to be null and void; and such Regulation also provides that no length of possession shall be considered to give validity to any such grant, either with regard to the property in the soil or the rents of it, it is hereby further enacted as follows:—

Disposal of applications to resume grants.

Applications by the proprietors to resume such grants or to assess rent on the land shall, when the district in which the land is situate is a district under settlement, be made to the Settlement Officer, who may make such order thereon as he deems just.

Saving of certain lands held rent-free.

80. Nothing in section seventy-nine applies to either of the following cases,

(a) where land is previously to the proposing of this Act held rent-free under a judicial decision,

(b) where previously to the proposing of this Act land held rent-free has been purchased for a valuable consideration and its resumption has been barred by Act No. X of 1859, section twenty-eight, or by Act IX of 1871, second schedule, No. 130.

Validity of grants which grantor has expressly agreed not to resume.

81. Grants of land held under a written instrument by which the grantor expressly agrees that the grant shall not be resumed shall be held valid as against him (but not as against his representatives after his death) during the continuance of the settlement of the district in which the land is situate, which was current at the date of the grant.

When rent-free tenure confers proprietary right.

82. Where any land has been for fifty years or upwards, and still is held rent-free and by at least two successors to the original grantee, such holding shall be deemed to confer on the holder a proprietary right.

Nothing in the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, shall bar the right to make an application under this Act to assess to rent land held rent-free.

Saving of liability for Government revenue.

83. No length of rent-free occupancy of any land, nor any grant of land made by the proprietor, shall release such land from its liability to be charged with the payment of Government revenue.

Sections 70 and 72, to apply.

84. In assessing rent under sections seventy-nine and eighty the Settlement Officer shall be guided by the provisions of sections seventy and seventy-two so far as they apply.

Form of register of revenue-free tenures.

85. The Settlement Officer shall record all revenue-free tenures in such form of register as the Board from time to time prescribes.

Resumption in certain cases of land held revenue-free.

86. The Settlement Officer shall enquire into the case of all lands released, conditionally or for a term, from the payment of revenue, and shall assess such lands if it appear to him that the conditions have been transgressed, or the term has expired.

Title to hold free to be proved.

87. Any person claiming land free of revenue not recorded as revenue-free, shall be bound to prove his title to hold such land free of revenue.

Report to Government where title proved.

88. If he prove his title to the satisfaction of the Settlement Officer, the case shall be reported to the Local Government whose orders thereon shall be final.

Assessment and settlement on failure of proof.

89. If the title be not so proved, the Settlement Officer shall proceed to assess the land, and to make the settlement of it with the person in actual possession as proprietor.

Form and attestation of record-of-rights.

90. The Board shall from time to time prescribe the form in which the record to be made under the provisions of this Chapter shall be drawn up, and the manner in which it shall be attested.

Presumption as to entries.

91. All entries in the record so made and attested shall be presumed to be true until the contrary is proved.

Power to invest officer with Settlement Officer's powers.

92. At any time during the currency of a settlement the Local Government may invest any officer with all or any of the powers of a Settlement Officer under this Act within such limits, and with such restrictions, and for such period, as it thinks fits;

but not so as to enable him to enhance the total amount of revenue payable on account of any mahál except in respect of land added thereto or becoming liable to payment of revenue since the confirmation of the settlement.

No officer so invested shall alter the classification of tenants made under this Act except on the application of a party concerned.

CHAPTER IV.

REGISTRATION AND MAINTENANCE OF RECORDS.

Collector to maintain record-of-rights,

93. The Collector of the District shall keep and maintain the record-of-rights;

and register changes,

and he shall from time to time cause to be registered all changes that may take place, and anything that may affect any of the rights or interests recorded;

and correct errors.

and shall correct any errors which the parties interested admit to have been made in the record.

Power to order which registers shall be kept. Changes to be duly authorized.

94. The Board shall order such registers to be kept up as may be necessary for the purposes of the last preceding section; and no such changes shall be recorded without the order of the Collector of the District or of some officer duly authorized (either generally or specially) by him in this behalf.

Power to prescribe fees for mutations.

95. The Local Government may prescribe proper fees for mutations in the registers: provided that no fee for a single mutation shall exceed one hundred rupees.

Levy of fees.

Appropriation.

Such fees shall be levied from the person in whose favour the mutation is made and shall be expended in such manner as the Local Government thinks fit.

Successions to be notified.

96. All persons succeeding to any proprietary right in a mahál, or the profits thereof whether by inheritance, purchase, gift, or other form of transfer, shall notify the same immediately after it has taken place to the tahsíldár of the tahsíl in which the mahál is situated, and the tahsíldár shall report such notice to the Collector of the District or the Assistant Collector.

Procedure on notification.

97. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, on receiving such report, shall make such enquiry as appears necessary to ascertain the truth of the alleged succession to, or transfer of, the property, and if the succession or transfer appears to have taken place, he shall record the same in the register:

Saving of rights of other persons interested.

Provided that no such entry shall be held to affect the rights of any other person who may claim and establish in any Civil or Revenue Court any interest in the land to which the entry has reference.

Notification in case of minority or other disqualification.

98. If the person so succeeding is a minor or otherwise disqualified, the guardian or other person who has charge of his property shall make the notification required by section ninety-six.

Fine for neglect to notify.

99. Any person neglecting to make the notification required by sections ninety-six and ninety-eight within three months from the date of the transfer having taken place shall be liable, at the discretion of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, to a fine not exceeding five times the amount of the fee which would otherwise have been payable under section ninety-five.

Power to declare and record party in possession in case of dispute.

100. If in the course of inquiry made under section ninety-seven a dispute regarding the possession of the property arises, and the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector is unable to satisfy himself as to which party is in possession, he shall ascertain by summary enquiry who is the person best entitled to the property, and shall put such person in possession, and make the necessary entry in the record accordingly, subject to any order that may be subsequently passed by the Civil Court.

Registry of transfers of certain interests in land.

101. The transfers of all interests in land other than those referred to in section ninety-six shall be recorded by the Kánúngo and patwárí in such manner as the Board from time to time directs;

Enquiry in disputed cases.

and all disputed cases shall be reported to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who shall make such enquiry as may be necessary to ascertain the truth, and cause the record to be amended accordingly.

Annual enquiry as to revenue-free grants.

102. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall enquire annually into the cases of all land released conditionally or for a term from the payment of revenue.

If the condition be broken, he shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division to the Board for orders, and if the term has expired, or (where the grant is for the life of the grantee) if the grantee has died, he shall assess the land and report his proceedings through the Commissioner of the Division to the Board for sanction.

103. All records kept under this Act, shall be open to public inspection at such hours and on such conditions as to fees or otherwise as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe.

Inspection of records.

PARTITION AND UNION OF MAHÁLS.

104. Partition is either perfect or imperfect.

Partitions.

'Perfect partition' means the division of a mahál into two or more mahále.

'Perfect partition.'

'Imperfect partition' means the division of a mahál into two or more properties, jointly responsible for the revenue assessed on the whole mahál.

'Imperfect partition.'

105. Any recorded co-sharer in a mahál, and any person in whose favour a decree has been passed by any Civil Court awarding to him the proprietary right in a portion of a mahál, whether such portion consists of a fractional share in the whole or a part of the mahál, or of specific lands, is entitled to claim perfect partition of his share.

Persons entitled to perfect partition.

Any two or more recorded co-sharers may claim that their shares be divided from the other shares by a perfect partition, and be held by them as a single mahál.

106. Applications for perfect partition are to be made in writing to the Collector of the District or the Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division of the District in which the mahál is situated; and shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the record, showing the share held by the applicant in the mahál.

Applications for perfect partition.

Provided that, if the mahál be situated in two or more districts, the application may be made in any one of those districts, and the partition shall be made by such one of the Collectors of those districts as the Board may direct.

Provision as to estates situated in more than one district;

107. If the mahál is situated in two or more Sub-divisions of a District, the partition shall be made by such one of the Assistant Collectors respectively in charge of such Sub-divisions as the Collector of the District may direct.

and as to estates in more than one Sub-division.

108. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, on receiving an application for partition shall, if the application be in order and not open to objection on the face of it, publish a notification of the same at his office, and at some conspicuous place on the mahál to which the application relates, and shall serve a notice on all such of the recorded co-sharers in the mahál as have not joined in the application, requiring any co-sharer in possession who may object to the partition to appear before him to state his objection, either in person or by a duly authorized agent, on a day to be specified in the notice, not being less than thirty or more than sixty days from the date on which such notice was issued.

Notification of application.

Notice to co-sharers not joining.

Where, from any cause, notice cannot be personally served on any co-sharer, the notification shall be deemed sufficient notice under this section.

Notification when alone sufficient.

109. If, on or before the day specified, any objection be made to the partition by any co-sharer in possession, and the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, on a consideration of such objection, be of opinion that there is any good and sufficient reason why the partition should be absolutely disallowed, he may refuse the application, recording the grounds of his refusal.

Power to refuse partition when objection admitted.

110. If the objection raise any question of title, or of proprietary right, which has not been already determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may either decline to grant the application until the question in dispute has been determined by a competent Court, or he may proceed to inquire into the merits of the objection.

Procedure if question of title be raised.

In the latter case the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, after making the necessary inquiry and taking such evidence as may be adduced, shall record a proceeding declaring the nature and extent of the interests in the actual possession of the party or parties applying for the partition, and any other party or parties who may be affected thereby.

The procedure to be observed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector in trying such cases shall be that laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure for the trial of original suits, and he may refer any question arising in such case to arbitration, and the provisions of Chapter VI (relative to arbitrators) of the same Code shall apply to such references.

Reference to arbitrators.

111. All orders and decisions passed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector under the last preceding section, for declaring the rights of parties, shall be held to be decisions of a Court of Civil Judicature of first instance, and shall be open to appeal to the District or High Court, under the rules applicable to regular appeals to those Courts.

Collector's decision equivalent to decision of Civil Court.

Upon such appeal being made, the District or High Court, as the case may be, may issue a precept to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector desiring him to stay the partition pending the decision of the appeal.

Appellate Court may stay partition.

112. From every decision passed under section one hundred and eleven by a District Court, a special appeal shall lie to the High Court, under the rules for the time being in force relating to special appeals to that Court.

Special appeal to High Court.

113. When it has been decided to make a partition under this Chapter, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may give the parties the option of making the partition among themselves, or of appointing arbitrators for the purpose; or he shall make the partition himself or cause it to be made by any Assistant Collector subordinate to him.

Option to parties to make partition themselves or to appoint arbitrators.

If arbitrators are appointed, the provisions of sections two hundred and eighteen to two hundred and twenty-nine, both inclusive, shall apply.

114. In making partitions, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector and any person appointed by him shall have the same powers to enter on the land under partition for marking out the boundaries, surveying the mahál, and other purposes, as have been conferred on Settlement Officers under Chapter III.

Power to enter on land for purposes of partition.

115. Where there are no lands held in common, the lands held in severalty by the applicant for partition shall be declared a separate mahál, and shall be separately assessed to the Government revenue.

Partition of lands held only in severalty.

116. Where some of the lands are held in common, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall allot to the applicant for partition his share of such lands in accordance with village custom, if any such exist.

Partition of lands, some of which are held in common.

If no such custom exist, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall make such division as may secure to the applicant his fair portion of the common lands.

117. The portion of the common lands falling by such partition to the share of the applicant shall be added to the land held by him in severalty, and the maháls thus formed shall be assessed and declared separate maháls.

Formation of separate maháls from shares allotted in partition.

118. In making partitions under sections one hundred and fifteen to one hundred and seventeen, the Collector or Assistant Collector shall give effect to any transfer of lands held in severalty forming part of the mahál agreed to by the parties, and made previous to the declaration of the partition.

Transfers to be effectuated in making partition.

119. Where all the lands are held in common, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall make such a partition as may secure to the applicant his fair share of the mahál.

Partition where all lands held in common.

120. In all cases each mahál shall be made as compact as possible: Provided that, except with the sanction of the Board, no partition be disallowed solely on the ground of incompactness.

Maháls to be compact; partition not to be disallowed for incompactness.

121. If in making the partition it be necessary to include in the mahál assigned to one sharer, the land occupied by the dwelling-house or other building in the possession of another co-sharer, such other co-sharer shall be allowed to retain it, with any buildings thereon, on condition of his paying a reasonable ground-rent for it to the sharer into whose portion it may fall.

Rule when dwelling-house of one sharer is included in mahál assigned to another.

The limits of such land, and the rent to be paid for it, shall be fixed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector.

122. No sír-land belonging to any co-sharer shall be included in the mahál assigned on partition to another co-sharer, unless with the consent of the co-sharer who cultivates it, or unless the partition cannot otherwise be conveniently carried out.

Rule as to sír-land of one sharer being included in mahál assigned to another.

If such land be so included, and after partition such co-sharer continue to cultivate it, he shall be an occupancy-tenant of such land, and his rent shall be fixed by order of the Collector of the District or of the Assistant Collector.

123. Tanks, wells, water-courses and embankments shall be considered as attached to the land for the benefit of which they were originally made.

Rule as to tanks, wells, water-courses and embankments.

In cases in which, from the extent, situation or construction of such works, it is found necessary to continue them to the joint property of the proprietors of two or more of the maháls into which the mahál may be divided, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall determine the extent to which the proprietors of each mahál may make use of the said works, and the proportion of the charges for repairs of such works to be borne by such proprietors respectively, and the manner in which the profits, if any, derived from such works, shall be divided.

124. Places of worship and burial-grounds, held in common previous to the partition of a mahál, shall continue to be so held, unless the parties otherwise agree among themselves. In such cases they shall state in writing the agreement into which they have entered, and such writing shall be filed with the record.

Rule as to places of worship and burial-grounds.

125. The amount of revenue to be paid by each portion of the divided mahál shall be determined by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, provided that the aggregate revenue of the new maháls shall not exceed the revenue assessed on the mahál immediately before partition, and the proprietors of the new maháls shall be held liable for the portions of the revenue severally assessed on their maháls, whether new engagements be taken from them or not.

Determination of revenue payable by each division of a mahál.

Liability of proprietors.

126. The Board shall make rules for determining the costs of partitions under this Act, and the mode in which such costs are to be apportioned:

Power to make rules as to costs.

Provided that the cost of surveying a mahál, when such survey is necessary for the purpose of partition, shall be paid rateably by all the co-sharers of the mahál, according to their shares therein.

Cost of survey.

Case may be struck off for default as to costs.

127. If the costs to be paid by the applicant for partition are not paid within a time to be fixed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, the case may be struck off the file.

Power to stay partition.

And if at any stage of the proceedings there appears to be any reason for stopping the partition, the Collector of the District may of his own motion, or on the report of the Assistant Collector making the partition, stay the partition and order the proceedings to be quashed.

Partitions to be made or confirmed by Collector, and notified to parties.

128. Every partition shall either be made by the Collector of the District, or if made by an Assistant Collector be reported to the Collector of the District for his sanction and confirmation;

and on completion of a partition the Collector of the District shall publish a notification of the fact at his office and at some conspicuous place on each of the new mahâls, or in the village of which they form part;

When to take effect.

and it shall take effect from the first day of July next, after the date of such notification.

Appeal to Commissioner from orders of Collector.

129. An appeal against the decision of the Collector of the District making or confirming a partition, shall lie to the Commissioner within one year from the date on which such partition takes effect.

Power to order new allotment of revenue on proof of fraud or error in first distribution.

130. Where the public revenue is fraudulently or erroneously distributed at the time of the partition, the Local Government may within twelve years from the time of discovery of the fraud or error order a new allotment of the public revenue upon the several mahâls into which the mahâl has been divided, on an estimate of the assets of each mahâl at the time of the partition, to be made conformably to the best evidence and information procurable respecting the same.

Making of imperfect partitions.

131. Imperfect partition shall be carried out according to the provisions of the preceding sections, so far as they are applicable:

Consent required.

Provided that no application for imperfect partition shall be entertained unless the consent of all the recorded co-sharers in the mahâl be first obtained.

Civil Courts barred from entertaining applications for partition.

132. No Civil Court shall entertain any suit or application for the partition of a mahâl.

Union of mahâls originally part of same village.

133. If two or more revenue-paying mahâls have originally formed portion of the same village, the proprietors shall be entitled to have such mahâls united and to hold them as a single mahâl.

Application for such union.

134. Every application for the union of such mahâls shall be made in writing to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division of the District in which the mahâls are situate.

How to be dealt with.

135. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, as the case may be, see no objection, he shall comply with the application, and cause the necessary entries to be made in the records of his office, reporting the case to the Commissioner.

Application of Act to partition or union of revenue-free mahâls.

136. The provisions of this Chapter so far as they are applicable, may be applied by the order of the Collector of the District to the partition or union of mahâls held free of revenue.

MAINTENANCE OF BOUNDARIES.

Power of Collector and subordinates to enter and survey land, mark boundaries, and settle disputes.

137. The Collector of the District, Assistant Collectors and their subordinates shall have power to enter upon and survey land, and to demarcate the boundaries of mahâls, villages or fields.

Obligations of owners as to boundary-marks.

138. All owners of mahâls, villages or fields are bound to maintain and keep in repair at their own cost the boundary-marks lawfully erected thereon.

Penalty for erasing, removing, or injuring marks.

139. Any person convicted before a Collector of the District or Assistant Collector of wilfully erasing, removing or damaging such boundary-marks, may be ordered by the convicting officer to pay such sum, not exceeding fifty rupees for each mark so erased, removed or damaged, as may be necessary to defray the expense of restoring the boundary-marks so erased, removed or damaged, and of rewarding the informer through whom the conviction was obtained.

Who to be charged for re-erection and repair when offenders not discoverable.

140. Whenever the person erasing, removing or damaging any such mark cannot be discovered, or if for any other reason it is found impracticable to recover from him the sum which he has been so ordered to pay, the mark shall be re-erected or repaired at the charge of the owner or owners of such one or more of the conterminous fields or mahâls, as to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector seems fit.

Powers of Collector as to repair of boundary-marks.

141. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may decide all disputes concerning boundaries, and may at any time direct the owners of mahâls, villages or fields, by written notice served upon them,

(a) to cause proper boundary-marks to be erected on such mahâls, villages or fields,

(b) to repair the boundary-marks lawfully erected on such mahâls, villages or fields.

In default of their compliance with such direction within fifteen days from the date of the service of the notice, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall cause such boundary-marks to be erected or repaired, as the case may be, and shall charge the cost of such erections or repairs to the owners of the conterminous villages, fields or mahâls, in such proportion as he thinks fit.

Recovery of fines and costs.

142. All fees, fines, costs and other sums ordered to be paid under this Chapter shall be recoverable as an arrear of revenue.

CHAPTER V.

COLLECTION OF LAND-REVENUE.

Responsibility for revenue.

143. In the case of every mahâl the entire mahâl and all the proprietors jointly and severally shall be responsible to Government for the revenue for the time being assessed on the mahâl.

Board may make rules as to payment of revenue.

144. The Board may, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, from time to time, make rules as to the instalments by which, and the persons, places and times to whom and at which, the revenue payable in respect of any land shall be paid.

Until the issue of such rules the said revenue shall be paid in such instalments to the persons and at the times and places by which, to whom and at which it is now paid.

Arrear. Defaulter.

145. Any sum not so paid becomes thereupon an arrear of revenue and the person from whom it is due becomes a defaulter.

No interest shall be demanded on any arrear of land-revenue.

Lumberdar when included as defaulter.

If the settlement has been made with a lumberdar on behalf of the proprietary body, both the lumberdar and the co-sharer or co-sharers from whom the arrear is due shall be deemed defaulters.

Certified account to be evidence as to arrear.

146. A statement of account certified by the tahsildár shall be conclusive evidence of the existence of the arrear, of its amount, and of the person who is the defaulter.

Process for recovery of arrears.

147. An arrear of revenue may be recovered by the following processes:—

(a) by serving a writ of demand (dastak) on the defaulter;

(b) by arrest and detention of his person;

(c) by distress and sale of his moveable property;

(d) by attachment of the share, or pattí, or mahâl, in respect of which the arrear is due;

(e) by transfer of such share or pattí, to a solvent co-sharer in the mahâl;

(f) by annulment of the settlement of such pattí, or of the whole mahâl;

(g) by sale of such pattí or of the whole mahâl.

When writs may issue.

148. Writs of demand may be issued on or after the day following that on which the arrear accrues.

Power to frame rules as to writs.

The Board shall, from time to time, frame rules for the issue of such writs, and fix the costs recoverable from the defaulter as an arrear of revenue, and direct by what officer such writs shall be issued.

Arrest and detention of defaulter.

149. At any time after an arrear becomes due, the defaulter may be arrested and detained in custody for fifteen days, unless the arrear, together with the costs of arrest, is sooner paid.

The Board may, from time to time, declare by what officers or class of officers the powers of arrest conferred by this Act may be exercised.

Distress and sale of his moveable property.

150. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may, whether the defaulter has been arrested or not, distrain and sell his moveable property, with the exception of the implements of husbandry and cattle actually employed by him in agriculture, and, in the case of an artizan, of his tools.

Exceptions.

Power to attach defaulter's land and take it under direct management.

151. When an arrear of land revenue has become due, the Collector of the District may, in addition to or instead of the processes before specified, cause the share or pattí, or mahâl, in respect of which the arrear is due, to be attached and taken under the management of himself or any agent whom he appoints for that purpose.

Powers and obligations of manager.

152. The Collector of the District or the agent so appointed shall be bound by all the engagements which existed between the person or persons who immediately before the attachment was or were in possession of the land attached and the subordinate proprietors or tenants, if any,

and shall be entitled to manage the land attached, and to receive all rents and profits accruing therefrom to the exclusion of such person or persons, until the arrears of land-revenue due therefrom have been satisfied, or until the Collector of the District restores to the management thereof the person or persons whose interest has been attached.

Application of surplus profits.

153. All surplus profits of the land attached, beyond the cost of such attachment and management, including the payment of the current revenue, shall be applied in defraying the said arrear;

Limit to term of attachment.

and no land shall be attached for the same arrears for a longer term than five years from the first day of July next after the attachment; provided that, if the arrear be sooner liquidated, the land shall be released and the surplus receipts (if any) made over to the proprietor.

Transfer of defaulter's share to co-sharers.

154. When the arrear is due in respect of a share or pattí of a mahâl, the Collector of the District may, with the previous sanction of the Board, transfer such share or pattí for a term not exceeding fifteen years from the first day of July next after the date of the sanction to any or all of the other co-sharers, on condition of their paying such arrear and on such terms as the Board in each case may think fit.

Liability of co-sharers not affected.

This procedure shall not affect the joint and several liability of the co-sharers of the mahál in which it is enforced.

When report may be made to Board and settlement annulled.

155. When any arrear of land revenue is due and the Collector of the District is of opinion that the processes hereinbefore provided are not sufficient for the recovery of such arrear, he may, in addition to or instead of all or any of the processes mentioned in section one hundred and forty-seven, report the matter to the Board, and the Board may thereupon order the existing settlement of the share or pattí or mahál, in respect of which the arrear is due, to be annulled.

Exception of certain arrears.

The provisions of this section shall not be put in force for the recovery of any arrear of land-revenue which may have accrued on land,

(a) while under attachment under section one hundred and fifty-one, or

(b) while under the charge of the Court of Wards.

When settlement annulled, Collector may manage land himself, or by agent, or let it in farm.

156. When the settlement of any land has been annulled, the Collector of the District may, with the previous sanction of the Board, either manage the land himself or through an agent, or he may let it in farm to any person willing to accept the same, for such term and on such conditions as may be sanctioned by the Board:

Provided that the term for which land may be so held or farmed be not longer than fifteen years from the first day of July next after the date of such annulment.

Suspension of contracts.

And no contracts made by the persons who immediately before the annulment of the settlement were in possession of the lands comprised therein, or by the persons through whom they respectively claim, relating to such lands, shall, during such term, be binding on the Collector of the District, or his agent, or lessee.

Proclamation of attachment or annulment of settlement.

157. When the Collector of the District attaches any land under section one hundred and fifty-one, or when the settlement of any land has been annulled under section one hundred and fifty-five, he shall make public proclamation thereof on the mahál.

Payments thereafter to defaulter not to discharge payor.

158. No payment made after such proclamation on account of rent or any other asset of the mahál, to any person other than the Collector of the District or his agent, or lessee, shall be credited to the person making such payment, or relieve him from liability to payment to the Collector of the District, his agent or lessee.

Payments to defaulter in anticipation of due date

159. No payment made to the defaulter, in anticipation of the usual period for the payment of the rents shall, without the special sanction of the Collector, be credited to the person making the same in account with the Collector of the District or with the person to whom he gives possession.

Recovery of revenue due from lessee.

160. When any land has been farmed for arrears of revenue, any balance of revenue due from the farmer may be recovered from him or his surety as an arrear of revenue under the provisions of this Act.

Suspension of responsibility of co-sharers for revenue of portion of mahál as to which settlement is annulled.

161. Whenever the settlement of a portion of a mahál is annulled under section one hundred and fifty-five the joint responsibility of the co-sharers for the revenue of such portion of the mahál shall be in abeyance until a new settlement of such portion is made under section one hundred and sixty-two.

Offer of settlement to proprietor on expiry of period for which land is farmed or taken under management.

162. After the expiration of the period for which any land has been farmed, or held pursuant to section one hundred fifty-six under direct management for the recovery of an arrear of revenue, the Collector of the District shall offer to the person entitled to be settled with under section forty-three a new settlement, on such conditions as the Board may direct, for the remainder of the term of the settlement of the district; and if he refuse such offer, the Collector of the District may (with the previous sanction of the Board) farm the land to some other person, or hold it under direct management under the provisions of sections forty-eight, forty-nine, and fifty.

Power to sell by auction defaulter's share, &c.

163. When an arrear of land-revenue has become due and the Collector of the District is of opinion that the processes hereinbefore provided are not sufficient for the recovery of such arrear, he may, in addition to, or instead of, all or any of such processes and subject to the provision hereinafter contained and with the previous sanction of the Board, sell by auction the pattí or mahál in respect of which such arrear is due.

Bar to sale for certain arrears.

Provided that no land shall be sold—

(a) for any arrear which may have accrued while it was under the charge of the Court of Wards, or was so circumstanced that the Court of Wards might have exercised jurisdiction over it under the provisions of section one hundred and ninety-two, clauses (a), (b), (c), (d), or (e);

(b) for any arrear which may have accrued while it was under attachment under section one hundred and fifty-one;

(c) for any arrear which may have accrued while it was held under direct management by the Collector of the District, or in farm by any other person, under sections forty-eight, forty-nine, one hundred and fifty-six, or one hundred and sixty-two.

Land to be sold free of incumbrances.

164. Land sold under the last preceding section shall be sold free of all incumbrances, and all grants and contracts previously made by any person other than the purchaser in respect of such land shall become void as against the purchaser at the auction-sale.

Contracts void against purchaser.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies—

(a) in districts or portions of districts permanently-settled, to farms granted in good faith at fair rents, and for specified areas by a former proprietor for terms not exceeding twenty years, under written leases duly registered;

(b) in all districts, to lands held under bonâ fide leases at fair rents, temporary or perpetual, for the erection of dwelling-houses, or manufactories, or for mines, gardens, tanks, canals, places of worship, burying grounds, such lands continuing to be used for the purposes specified in such leases.

165. On the receipt of the sanction of the Board to the sale of any land, the Collector of the District shall issue a proclamation, in the vernacular language of the District, of the intended sale, specifying the time and place of sale, and (when the land to be sold is a mahál or part of a mahál paying revenue to Government) the revenue assessed upon it, together with any other particulars he may think necessary.

Procedure in effecting sale.

166. When the land is sold for arrears of revenue due thereon, the proclamation shall declare that the land is to be sold free of any incumbrance except the farms and leases (if any) mentioned in section one hundred and sixty-four.

Proclamation of sale.

Such proclamation shall be made at the head-quarters of the tahsíl in which the land is situate, and also in the village of which it is a part.

167. A written notice of the intended sale and of the time and place thereof shall be affixed in the office of the Collector of the District, and where the Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division in which the land is situate has a separate office then also in such office, and a copy of such notice shall be served on the defaulter.

Notification of sale.

168. The sale shall be made either by the Collector of the District in person or by an Assistant Collector specially appointed by him in this behalf.

Time when sale may be made.

No such sale shall take place on a Sunday or other authorized holiday, or until after the expiration of at least thirty days from the date on which the said notice thereof has been affixed in the office of the Collector of the District, and proclamation of the sale has been made in the village in which the land is situate.

The Collector of the District may from time to time postpone the sale, reporting such postponement to the Commissioner.

169. If the defaulter pay the arrear in respect of which the land is to be sold at any time before the day fixed for the sale, to the person appointed by Government under section one hundred and forty-four to receive payment of the land-revenue assessed on such land, or to the Collector of the District, or the Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division of the District in which the land is situate, the sale shall be stayed.

When sale may be stayed.

170. The person declared to be the purchaser shall be required to deposit immediately twenty-five per cent. on the amount of his bid, and in default of such deposit the land shall forthwith be again put up and sold.

Deposit by purchaser.

Re-sale in default of deposit.

171. The full amount of purchase-money shall be paid by the purchaser before sunset of the fifteenth day from that on which the sale of the land took place, or, if the said fifteenth day be a Sunday or other authorized holiday, then on the first office day after such fifteenth day;

Purchase-money when to be paid.

and in default of payment within such period, the deposit, after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale, shall be forfeited to Government, and the property shall be re-sold, and the defaulting purchaser shall forfeit all claim to the property, or to any part of the sum for which it may be subsequently sold.

Effect of default.

172. If the proceeds of the sale which is eventually made be less than the price bid by such defaulting purchaser, the difference shall be leviable from him under the rules contained in the Code of Civil Procedure for enforcing payment of money in satisfaction of a decree of Court.

Liability of purchaser for loss by re-sale.

173. Every re-sale of land in default of payment of the purchase-money shall be made after the issue of a fresh notice in the manner prescribed for original sales.

Notification before re-sale.

174. Every sale of land under this Act shall be reported by the Collector of the District to the Commissioner of the Division.

Sale to be reported to Commissioner.

175. At any time within thirty days from the date of the sale, application may be made to the Commissioner of the Division to set aside the sale on the ground of some material irregularity or mistake in publishing or conducting it;

Application to set aside sale.

but no sale shall be set aside on such ground unless the applicant proves to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that he has sustained substantial injury by reason of the irregularity or mistake complained of.

176. On the expiration of thirty days from the date of the sale, if no such application as is mentioned in the last preceding section has been made, or if such application has been made and rejected, the Commissioner of the Division shall make an order confirming the sale;

Order confirming or setting aside.

and if such application be made and allowed, the Commissioner shall make an order setting aside the sale.

Every order made under this section shall be final.

Bar of claims against Government.

177. If no such application be made within the time allowed by section one hundred and seventy-five, all claims founded on the irregularity or mistake complained of shall as against the Government be barred.

Nothing herein contained shall preclude the institution of a suit in a Civil Court for the purpose of setting aside a sale on the ground of fraud.

Refund of purchase-money when sale set aside.

178. Whenever the sale of any land is set aside, the purchaser shall be entitled to receive back his purchase-money, with or without interest, in such manner as the Commissioner of the Division thinks fit.

Certificate to purchaser when sale becomes absolute.

179. After a sale of land has been confirmed in manner aforesaid, the Collector of the District in which the land is situate shall put the person declared to be the purchaser into possession of the land and shall grant him a certificate, to the effect that he has purchased the land to which the certificate refers, free of every incumbrance, and such certificate shall be deemed to be a valid transfer of such land.

Bar of suit against certified purchaser.

180. The certificate shall state the name of the person declared at the time of sale to be the actual purchaser; and any suit brought, whether in a Civil or Revenue Court, against the certified purchaser on the ground that the purchase was made on behalf of another person not the certified purchaser, though by agreement the name of the certified purchaser was used, shall be dismissed with costs.

Application of proceeds of sale.

181. When a sale of land under this Act has been confirmed, the proceeds of the sale shall be applied in the first place to defraying the expenses of the sale and to the payment of any arrears due in respect of such land at the date of the confirmation of such sale, and recoverable as an arrear of land-revenue, and the surplus (if any) shall be paid to the person whose land has been sold;

or, if the land sold were held in shares, then to the co-sharers collectively, or according to the amount of their recorded interests, at the discretion of the Collector of the District.

Surplus not to be paid to creditors, nor retained by Government, except under order of Court.

182. Such surplus shall not (except under an order of a Civil Court) be payable to any creditor of the person whose land has been sold, nor shall it (except under a like order) be retained in the Government Treasury.

Liability of purchaser for revenue.

183. The person named in the certificate of title as purchaser of any land shall be liable for all instalments of land-revenue becoming due in respect of such land subsequently to the date of the confirmation of the sale.

Pre-emption by co-sharers when land sold is a share of a mahál.

184. Where any land sold under section one hundred and sixty-three is a share or pattí of a mahál, any registered co-sharer, not being himself in arrear with regard to such land, may, if the lot has been knocked down to a stranger, claim to take the said land at the sum last bid:

Provided that the said demand of pre-emption be made on the day of sale, and before the officer conducting the sale has left the office for the day, and provided that the claimant fulfil all the other conditions of the sale.

Payment under protest and suit for recovery.

185. Whenever proceedings are taken under this Chapter against any person for the recovery of any arrear of revenue, he may pay the amount claimed under protest to the officer taking such proceedings, and upon such payment the proceedings shall be stayed,

and (subject to the pecuniary limitations prescribed by law) the person against whom such proceedings were taken may sue the Government for the amount so paid in any Civil Court situate in the district where such proceedings were taken;

and in such suit, the plaintiff may, notwithstanding section one hundred and forty-six, give evidence of the amount which he alleges to be due from him.

Proprietor of mahál attached, &c., holding sír-land therein, to be recorded as privileged tenant

186. Any proprietor of a mahál or portion of a mahál that is attached, transferred, held under direct management, farmed, or sold under the provisions of this Act, who may hold sír-land in such mahál or portion, shall be recorded as a privileged tenant of such sír-land; and the rent to be paid by him for such land shall be fixed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector accordingly.

Power to proceed against interest of defaulter in property other than that in respect of which default is made.

187. If the arrear cannot be recovered by any of the above processes, and the defaulter owns any other mahál, or any share in any other mahál, or any house, or interest in a house, the Collector of the District may proceed against such mahál, share, house or interest as if it were the land on account of which the revenue is due, under the provisions of this Act:

Provided that no other interests save those of the defaulter alone shall be so proceeded against, and no incumbrances created or contracts entered into by him in good faith shall be rendered invalid by such proceeding.

Tenure of land under expired settlement until new settlement is made.

188. If the term for which any settlement has been made expires before a new settlement is made, all persons with whom a settlement has been made, who continue after the expiration of such term to occupy the land comprised in the expired settlement shall, until a new settlement is made, hold the said land upon the conditions of the expired settlement.

Provisions applied to arrears due at commencement of Act.

189. The provisions of this Act with regard to the recovery of arrears of revenue shall apply to all sums of money recoverable as arrears of land-revenue and due when this Act comes into force.

Assessment of alluvial land

190. All land added by alluvion to a mahál is liable to assessment. Such land may be assessed and settled under rules to be framed under section two hundred and fifty-five.

CHAPTER VI.

COURT OF WARDS.

Board to have powers of Court of Wards.

191. The Board shall have the powers of a Court of Wards for the superintendence of the persons and property of all proprietors of mahâls or parts of mahâls who are disqualified for the management of their own lands, or who are put under the charge of the Collector of the District by order of a Civil Court under the provisions of any Act for the time being in force.

Proprietors when disqualified for management of their lands.

192. Proprietors shall be held disqualified to manage their own lands when they are

(a) females deemed by the Local Government incompetent to manage their estates;

(b) minors;

(c) idiots;

(d) lunatics;

(e) persons otherwise rendered incapable by physical defects or infirmities from managing their own estates;

(f) persons disqualified in the opinion of the Local Government by vice or bad character from managing their estates;

(g) persons declared by the Local Government, on their own application, to be disqualified from managing their estates.

Power to Court of Wards to decline superintendence.

193. The Court of Wards may, in its discretion, assume or refrain from assuming the superintendence of the person or property of any disqualified proprietor, and may at any time release any person or property from its superintendence.

Proviso as to person or property placed under superintendence.

Provided that such person or property has not been placed under the Court of Wards by any competent authority, whose order is necessary for his or its release.

Collector to report what proprietors are disqualified.

194. The Collector of the District shall ascertain and report to the Court of Wards from time to time what proprietors may come within the description of disqualified landholders under section one hundred and ninety-two;

and the Board shall, on receipt of the report of the Collector, make such order as may seem to them expedient.

Power to enforce this Chapter without report.

195. Nothing in section one hundred and ninety-four shall prevent the Court of Wards or the Local Government from putting the provisions of this Chapter in force without any report from the Collector.

Report to Government when Court of Wards' right of superintendence is disputed.

196. If, in any case not specially provided for by any law in force for the time being, the right of the Court of Wards to assume or retain the superintendence of the person and property of a disqualified proprietor is disputed by such proprietor, or, if he be a minor, by some person on his behalf, the case shall be reported to the Local Government, whose orders thereon shall be final.

Appointment, removal and control of managers and guardians.

197. The Court of Wards may appoint managers of the property of disqualified proprietors; and, if such proprietors be minors, idiots or lunatics, the Court of Wards may appoint guardians for the care of their persons, and may remove and control such managers and guardians.

Proprietors may appoint guardians for their heirs, if disqualified, by will executed and attested in manner required by the Indian Succession Act, 1865; but such appointment shall not be valid till confirmed by the Court of Wards.

Powers of Court of Wards as to male minors within jurisdiction.

198. The Court of Wards may direct where all male minors under its jurisdiction shall reside for the purpose of education or otherwise.

Powers of manager.

199. The manager appointed by the Court of Wards shall have power to collect the rents of the land entrusted to him as well as all other money due to the disqualified proprietor, and to grant receipts therefor;

and he may, subject to the control of the Court, grant or renew such leases and farms, not being for a longer period than five years, as may be necessary for the good management of the property.

Duties of manager.

200. The manager shall manage the property committed to him diligently and faithfully for the benefit of the proprietor, and shall in every respect act to the best of his judgment for the proprietor's interest as if the property were his own.

Powers of Court of Wards as to property under its charge.

201. The Court of Wards shall have power to give such leases or farms of the whole or parts of the property under its charge, and to mortgage or sell any part of such property, and to do all such other acts, as it may judge to be most for the benefit of the property and the advantage of the disqualified proprietors.

Exercise of their powers by Court of Wards through others.

202. The Court of Wards may exercise all powers conferred on it by this Act through the Collectors of the Districts in which any part of the property of its Wards may be situated, or through any other person whom it may appoint for such purpose.

Suits by and against proprietors under guardianship.

203. All disqualified proprietors whose property is in charge of the Court of Wards, and for whom guardians have been appointed, shall sue and be sued by and in the name of their guardians:

Provided that no such suit shall be brought by any such guardian without the previous sanction of the Court of Wards.

Rules relating to managers.

204. Every manager appointed by the Court of Wards shall—

(a) give such security as the Court of Wards thinks fit, duly to account for what he shall receive in respect of the rents and profits of the property for which he is appointed;

(b) pass his accounts at such periods and in such form as the Court of Wards directs;

(c) pay the balance due from him thereon;

(d) apply for the sanction of the Court of Wards to any act which may involve the property in expense not previously sanctioned by such Court;

(e) be entitled to such allowance as the Court of Wards thinks fit for his care and pains in the execution of his duties;

(f) be responsible for any loss occasioned to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence.

CHAPTER VII.

PROCEDURE OF REVENUE COURTS.

Place for holding Court.

205. A Commissioner of a Division may hold his Court at any place within his Division that he thinks fit.

A Collector of a District, an Assistant Collector (whether in charge or not in charge of a Subdivision of a District), or a Settlement Officer or Assistant Settlement Officer, may hold his Court at any place within the limits of the District to which he is appointed.

A Tahsíldár may hold his Court at any place within the limits of his tahsíl.

Hearing and decision. Notice to parties.

Every hearing and decision shall be in open Court, and the parties or their authorized agents shall have due notice to attend.

Power to summon persons to give evidence and produce documents.

206. Any officer mentioned in section two hundred and five shall have power to summon any person whose attendance he considers necessary for the purpose of any investigation, suit, or other business before him.

All persons so summoned shall be bound to attend either in person or by an authorized agent, as such officer may direct, and to state the truth upon any subject respecting which they are examined or make statements, and to produce such documents and other things as may be required.

Summons to be in writing signed and sealed.

207. Every summons shall be in writing in duplicate, and shall be signed and sealed by the officer issuing it or by such person as he empowers in this behalf,

Mode of service.

and shall be served by tendering or delivering a copy of it to the person summoned, or, if he cannot be found, by affixing a copy of it to some conspicuous part of his usual residence.

Service in district other than that of issuer.

208. If his usual residence be in another district, the summons may be sent by post to the Collector of that District, who shall serve it in accordance with the preceding section.

Procedure for procuring attendance of witnesses.

209. In any suit instituted before any officer mentioned in section two hundred and five, if either party desires the attendance of witnesses, he shall follow the procedure prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure, section one hundred and fifty-one.

Hearing in absence of party neglecting to attend, and ex parte order.

210. Whenever any party to the suit or matter under investigation neglects to attend on the day specified in the summons, the suit or matter may be heard and determined in his absence, and an order passed by default, or ex parte, as the case may be.

No appeal from ex parte order.

211. No appeal shall lie from an order passed ex parte, or by default.

Re-hearing on proof of good cause for non-appearance.

But in all such cases, if the party against whom judgment has been given appears either in person or by agent (if a plaintiff within fifteen days from the date of such order, and if a defendant, within fifteen days after any process for enforcing the judgment has been executed, or at any earlier period), and shows good cause for his non-appearance, and satisfies the officer making the order that there has been a failure of justice, such officer may, upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as he thinks proper, re-investigate the case and alter or rescind the order according to the justice of the case:

Order not to be altered without summons to adverse party.

Provided that no such order shall be reversed or altered without previously summoning the party in whose favour judgment has been given to appear and be heard in support of it.

Mode of taking evidence in certain cases.

212. In all cases coming under sections one hundred, one hundred and two, one hundred and nine, one hundred and ten, one hundred and twenty-three, and one hundred and thirty-nine, the evidence shall be taken down in full in writing in the language in ordinary use in the district, by or in the presence and hearing and under the personal superintendence and direction of the officer making the investigation, and shall be signed by him.

In cases in which the evidence is not taken down in full in writing by the officer making the investigation, he shall, as the examination of each witness proceeds, make a memorandum of the substance of what such witness deposes; and such memorandum shall be written and signed by such officer with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

If such officer is prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so.

The Local Government may declare what shall, for the purpose of this section, be deemed to be the language in ordinary use in any district.

Taking evidence given in English. Translation to be on record.

213. When the evidence is given in English, such officer may take it down in that language with his own hand, and an authenticated translation of the same in the language in ordinary use in the district shall be made and shall form part of the record.

214. In all cases other than those specified in section two hundred and twelve such officer may either cause the evidence to be taken down in full as aforesaid, or may make a memorandum in his vernacular language of the substance of the evidence of each witness as the examination of such witness proceeds.

Taking evidence in other cases.

Such memorandum shall be written and signed by such officer with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

Memorandum to be in writing signed.

215. All decisions under this Act shall be written by the officer passing the same in his own handwriting, and shall be explained by him in open Court to the parties or their agents.

Writing and explanation of decisions.

216. Every notice under this Act may be served, either by tendering or delivering a copy thereof to the person on whom it is to be served;

Mode of serving notices.

or, if such person is a proprietor of land, to his agent, or by affixing a copy thereof to some conspicuous place on the land to which such notice refers.

217. No such notice shall be deemed void on account of any error in the name or designation of any person referred to therein, unless when such error has produced substantial injustice.

Notice not void for error.

REFERENCE TO ARBITRATION.

218. A Commissioner of a Division, a Collector of a District, an Assistant Collector of the first class, a Settlement Officer, an Assistant Settlement Officer may, with the consent of the parties, by order, refer any dispute before him to arbitration,

Power to refer to arbitration.

and except in the cases provided for by sections one hundred and ten, and one hundred and thirteen, a Settlement Officer, or Assistant Settlement Officer, may, by order, refer the dispute to arbitration without the consent of the parties,

Reference to arbitration.

and a Tahsíldár invested with the powers described in sections one hundred and thirty-seven to one hundred and forty-one (both inclusive) may, with the consent of the parties, refer to arbitration any dispute arising before him respecting the matters mentioned in the same sections.

219. In referring any such dispute to arbitration, the officer making the reference shall specify, in the order of reference, the precise matter submitted to the arbitrators, and such period as he may think reasonable for the delivery of the award;

What to be specified in order of reference.

and he may from time to time extend such period.

220. The parties to the case may each nominate either one or two arbitrators, provided that each party shall nominate the same number;

Appointment of arbitrators.

and a third or fifth arbitrator (as the case may be) shall be appointed by the officer making the reference.

And in cases when a Settlement Officer or Assistant Settlement Officer refers a dispute without the consent of the parties he shall, if they refuse to nominate arbitrators under the first paragraph of this section, nominate three or five arbitrators as he thinks fit.

221. Every officer making a reference under this chapter may, on good cause shown, excuse any person from serving as an arbitrator, and may call on the party who nominated such person to nominate another in the place of the person so excused.

Power to excuse arbitrator from serving and to call for nomination of substitute.

222. If an arbitrator die, desire to be discharged, or refuse or become incapable to act, the party who nominated him shall nominate another person in his place.

Nomination of new arbitrator in place of one dying or failing to act.

223. If in any of the cases provided for by section two hundred and twenty-one or section two hundred and twenty-two, any party fail for a week to nominate in manner aforesaid, the officer making the reference shall appoint some person to act as arbitrator.

Nomination by Collector when parties fail.

The arbitrators shall determine and award concerning the matters referred to them for arbitration; and the parties disputing, and all persons claiming through them respectively, shall abide by and perform the award of the arbitrators.

224. If the arbitrators require the presence of the parties, or any other persons whose evidence may be necessary, they shall apply to the officer making the reference, who shall summon such parties or persons;

Summoning parties to give evidence.

and all such parties or persons shall be bound to attend, either in person or by agent, as the arbitrators may require, and to state the truth and to produce such documents and other things as may be required before the arbitrators.

Obligation of persons summoned.

225. The award shall be made in writing under the hands of the arbitrators and shall be submitted by them to the officer making the reference, who shall cause notice to be served on the parties to attend and hear the award.

Preparation and submission of award.

226. The officer making the reference may remit the award or any of the matters referred to arbitration to the reconsideration of the same arbitrators,

In what cases award or subject of arbitration may be remitted to arbitrators.

(a) if the award has left undetermined some of the matters referred to arbitration, or if it determine matters not referred to arbitration;

(b) if the award is so indefinite as to be incapable of execution;

(c) if an objection to the legality of the award is apparent upon the face of the award;

227. No award shall be liable to be set aside except on the ground of corruption or misconduct of all or any of the arbitrators.

Grounds on which award may be set aside.

Any application to set aside an award shall be made within ten days after the day appointed for hearing the award.

Application to set aside.

228. If the officer making the reference does not see cause to remit the award or any of the matters referred to arbitration for reconsideration in the manner afore-said,

Decision according to award.

and if no application has been made to set aside the award,

or if he has refused such application,

he shall decide in accordance with the award of the majority of the arbitrators, and shall fix the amount to be allowed for the expenses of the arbitration and direct by and to whom, and in what manner, the same shall be paid.

229. Such decision shall not be open to appeal, and shall be at once carried out;

Bar to appeal and suit in Civil Court.

and no Civil Court shall entertain any suit for the purpose of setting it aside or against the arbitrators on account of their award.

ENFORCEMENT OF DECISIONS.

230. Any officer mentioned in section two hundred and five may execute all decisions made by him under the provisions of this Act, in cases wherein a specific sum of money is adjudged to be due, or any costs or damages are awarded, by levying the same by any process in use for the recovery of an arrear of revenue or rent.

Execution of decisions made by Commissioner, &c.

231. In cases wherein possession of immoveable property is adjudged, the officer making the award may deliver over possession in the same manner, and with the same powers in regard to all contempts, resistance and the like, as may be lawfully exercised by the Civil Courts in execution of their own decrees.

Delivery of possession of immoveable property.

POWERS OF COLLECTORS.

232. Collectors of the District may, in addition to their own powers, exercise all the powers conferred by this Act on Assistant Collectors.

Powers of Collectors of District.

233. An Assistant Collector in charge of a Sub-division of a District shall, as such, have the following powers:—

Powers of Assistant Collectors in charge of Sub-divisions.

(1.) To refer cases for enquiry or decision to his subordinates, under section eighteen:

(2.) To withdraw cases from his subordinates and to deal with them himself, or to refer them for disposal to any other subordinate officer competent to deal with them, under the same section:

(3.) To appoint patwáris on nomination of proprietors under section twenty-five:

(4.) To appoint patwáris on failure of proprietors to nominate, under section twenty-seven:

(5.) To appoint a patwári, if disqualified person be nominated by the proprietors, under section twenty-eight:

(6.) To order changes in the proprietary register, under section ninety-three:

(7.) To levy fees for mutations, under section ninety-five:

(8.) To enquire into cases of reported transfers, under section ninety-seven:

(9.) To levy fines, under section ninety-nine:

(10.) To declare the person best entitled to property, and put him in possession, under section one hundred:

(11.) To enquire into cases of disputed transfer of non-proprietary rights, under section one hundred and one:

(12.) To report on revenue-free holdings, and to assess revenue on resumed grants, under section one hundred and two:

(13.) To receive applications for partition, under section one hundred and six:

(14.) To issue notification of partition, under section one hundred and eight:

(15.) To hear objections to partition and disallow partition, under section one hundred and nine:

(16.) To hear objections raising questions of title or proprietary right, and to decide them or refer them to arbitration, under section one hundred and ten:

(17.) To give parties the option of making partition, or of appointing arbitrators, or himself to make partition, under section one hundred and thirteen:

(18.) To make partitions, under sections one hundred and thirteen to one hundred and nineteen (both inclusive):

(19.) To fix the rent of land occupied by a building, and the rent to be paid therefor, under section one hundred and twenty-one:

(20.) To fix the rent of land which a former co-sharer continues, after partition, to cultivate in another mahál, under section one hundred and twenty-two:

(10.) To resume and assess revenue-free land, under section eighty-six.

(11.) To decide claims to hold land-revenue-free, under sections eighty-eight and eighty-nine.

Powers of Assistant Settlement Officers.

237. All other powers conferred on Settlement Officers by this Act shall be exercised by Assistant Settlement Officers under such restrictions as the officer in charge of a settlement may from time to time impose.

Investing of Settlement Officers with powers for partition and union.

238. The Local Government may invest any Officer in charge of a Settlement with all the powers of a Collector of a District, and any Assistant Settlement Officer with the powers of Assistant Collectors within such limits and with such restrictions and for such period as it thinks fit.

Matters excepted from cognizance of Civil Courts.

239. Subject to the provisions of section one hundred and eighty-five, no Civil Court shall take cognizance of any of the following matters:—

(a) Claims by any person to any of the offices mentioned in sections twenty-four and thirty-three or to any emolument appertaining to such office, or in respect of any injury caused by his exclusion therefrom:

(b) The right of any person to be settled with, or the validity of any engagement with Government for the payment of revenue, or the amount of revenue, cess or rate to be assessed on any mahâl, or share of a mahâl under this or any other Act for the time being in force:

(c) Any claims connected with or arising out of any process enforced on account of neglect or refusal to accept the assessment or terms of sub-settlement proposed by the Settlement Officer:

(d) The formation of the record-of-rights,

the preparation, signing, or attestation of any of the documents contained therein, or the notification of settlement:

(e) The determination of the class of a tenant or the rent payable by him, or the period for which such rent is fixed under this Act.

(f) The distribution of the land or allotment of the revenue of a mahâl by partition; or the determination of the rent to be paid by a co-sharer for land held by him after the partition in the mahâl of another co-sharer:

(g) Any matters provided for in sections fifty-two to fifty-nine (both inclusive):

(h) Any matters provided for in sections eighty-six to eighty-nine (both inclusive.)

(i) Claims connected with, or arising out of, the collection of revenue, (other than claims under section one hundred and eighty-five,) or any process enforced on account of an arrear of revenue:

or on account of any sum which is by this or any other Act realizable as revenue.

(j) Claims to set aside a sale for arrear of revenue other than claims under section one hundred and seventy-seven.

(k) Any matter falling within the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, or on which the jurisdiction of that Court is actively exercised, except for the purpose of recovering mahâls committed by that Court to the charge of the Collector of the District.

In all the above cases, jurisdiction shall rest with the revenue authorities only.

Note by the Hon'ble E. C. Bayley, dated 20th September 1873.

We the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the recovery of Rent in the North-Western Provinces was referred, have considered the amended Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to present this Final Report.

2. We have made the amendments in the Penal Code, the Mofussil Small Cause Courts Act, and Act XVIII of 1871, which will be necessitated by the repeal of Act X of 1859.

3. We have altered the definition of "mahál" so as to render our meaning more distinct and we have omitted the definition of 'tenant,' and have supplied the omission by alterations in the body of the Bill.

4. In the case of privileged tenants, who shall have lost or parted with their rights before the passing of the proposed Act, we have barred the acquisition of such rights—

(a) in lands sub-let by an occupancy-tenant or a tenant at fixed rates:

(b) in sír-land let by a sharer in the village other than the person who has acquired the rights so lost or parted with.

5. We have prevented the acquisition of a right of occupancy under the twelve years' rule by any tenant holding under a written lease of any kind, and by his sub-lessee.

6. We have reduced to ten years the term for which the rent of a privileged or of an occupancy-tenant may be fixed. This alteration has been made because the majority of us, having regard to the weighty opinions given in favour of shortening the term, think it the more prudent course. We have also added to the grounds on which a landholder may at the expiration of such term claim an enhancement, the increase (if any) in the value of the produce of the land.

7. We have made the provisions as to applications for the ejectment of tenants applicable to farmers or lessees on the termination of their leases.

8. We have embodied the provisions of Act XIV of 1863, as to the exercise of the power of distress by sharers in joint undivided mahále.

9. We have transferred the five paragraphs relating to suits for enhancement, compensation for illegal dispossession, for the recovery of the occupancy of land of which a tenant has been illegally dispossessed, for abatement, and for leases or counterparts, from clause 90 to clause 94, the object being to bring questions of this class entirely within the cognizance of the Revenue authorities.

10. We have provided for the enforcement of orders passed on applications made under clause 94, and have declared that they shall have the same effect as judgments of the Civil Courts.

11. We have provided a period of limitation of six months for applications for compensation for illegal dispossession, and for the recovery of the occupancy of land of which a tenant has been illegally dispossessed.

12. We have enabled the Collector of the District to withdraw and transfer any case or class of cases under the proposed Act.

13. In the case of a decree for ejectment for damaging land, we have empowered the Court to allow the tenant to repair the damage within one month, or to order him to pay compensation, and have declared that if the damage be repaired or compensation paid, the decree shall not be executed.

14. We have barred appeals from orders made under clause 182 for admitting appeals.

15. We have made several changes in the wording and arrangement, and we recommend that the Bill thus amended be passed.

SCHEDULE.—Forms.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the recovery of Rent in the North-Western Provinces.

[AS RE-AMENDED BY THE SELECT COMMITTEE.]

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the recovery of Rent in the North-Western Provinces of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873:"

Local extent.

It extends to the territories for the time being under the government of the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, except the Districts described in the second schedule hereto annexed;

But nothing herein contained applies to land for the time being occupied by dwelling-houses or manufactories, or appurtenant thereto.

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

Acts repealed.

2. Act No. X of 1859 (to amend the law relating to the recovery of Rent in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal), Act No. XIV of 1863 (to amend Act X of 1859), and Act XXII of 1872 (to explain and amend Act No. X of 1859) are hereby repealed. But such repeal shall not legalize any practice which immediately before the passing of this Act was unlawful.

Illustration (a) to the Indian Penal Code, section nineteen, and Act XI of 1865, section fifty-two, shall be read as if, for "Act X of 1859" the words and figures, "the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873," were substituted. And section fifteen of Act No. XVIII of 1871 (for the levy of rates on land in the North-Western Provinces) shall be read as if for "section twenty-three of Act No. X of 1859, and in section one of Act No XIV of 1863" the words and figures "section ninety of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873," were substituted, and as if for "Act No. X of 1859 and Act No. XIV of 1863" the words and figures "the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873," were substituted.

Acts amended.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

Interpretation-clause.

'Mahál.'

(1.) 'Mahál' means—

(a) any local area held under a separate engagement for the payment of land-revenue, and for which a separate record of rights has been framed:

(b) any local area of which the revenue has been assigned or redeemed, and for which a separate record of rights has been framed.

'Rent.'

(2.) 'Rent' means whatever is to be paid, delivered or rendered by a tenant on account of his holding, use or occupation of land:

'Landholder.'

(3.) 'Landholder' means the person to whom a tenant is liable to pay rent.

'Sír-land.'

(4.) 'Sír-land' means—

(a) land recorded as sír at the last settlement of the District in which it is situate, and continuously so recorded since;

(b) land continuously cultivated by the proprietor himself, with his own stock, or by his servants, or by hired labour, for twelve years;

(c) land recognized by village-custom as the special holding of a co-sharer, and treated as such in the distribution of profits or charges among the co-sharers.

'Collector of the District.'

(5.) 'Collector of the District' means the chief officer in charge of the Revenue Administration of the District.

'Commissioner.'

(6.) "Commissioner" means the Chief Officer in charge of the Revenue Administration of a Division.

'Board.'

(7.) "Board" means the Board of Revenue for the North-Western Provinces.

'Civil Jail.'

(8.) 'Civil Jail' means the civil jail of the District, and includes any place appointed by the Local Government for the confinement of prisoners under sentence of any Court constituted under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF LANDHOLDERS AND TENANTS.

Persons holding land at fixed rent without change since permanent settlement to continue to hold at such rates.

4. In the permanently settled districts persons who possess a permanent transferable interest in land, and who are intermediate between the proprietor of a mahál and the occupants, and who hold (otherwise than under a terminable lease) at a fixed rent which has not been changed from the time of the Permanent Settlement, shall continue to hold at such rent.

Tenants at fixed rates.

5. All tenants in districts or portions of districts permanently settled, who hold lands at fixed rates of rent which have not been changed since the Permanent Settlement, shall have a right of occupancy at those rates, and shall be called "tenants at fixed rates."

Presumption where rent of land not changed for 20 years.

6. Whenever in any suit to which the provisions of section four or section five apply, it is proved that the rent at which land is held has not been changed for a period of twenty years next before the commencement of the suit, it shall be presumed that the land has been held at that rent from the time of the Permanent Settlement, unless the contrary be shown, or unless it be proved that such rent was fixed at some later period.

Privileged tenants.

7. Every tenant in a village who, before the passing of this Act, has lost or parted with his proprietary rights in that village, or whose ancestors from whom he might have inherited such rights have lost or parted with the same rights since the introduction of British rule, in any of the ways following, namely,

(1.) by sale for arrears of revenue;

(2.) by sale in execution of a decree of a Civil or Revenue Court; or

(3.) by agreement with his or their co-sharers, or by gift, sale, exchange or mortgage:

shall have a right of occupancy, at favourable rates, in land actually cultivated by him in such village at the date of the passing of this Act.

This right shall not be acquired—

(a) in land sublet by an occupancy-tenant or a tenant at fixed rates,

(b) in sír-land let by a sharer in the village other than the person who has acquired the right so lost or parted with.

Every person who may hereafter lose or part with his proprietary rights in any mahál in any of the ways above-mentioned shall have a right of occupancy at favourable rates in the land held by him as sír at the date of such loss or parting.

Persons having such rights of occupancy shall be called "privileged tenants," and shall have all the rights of occupancy-tenants.

Occupancy-tenants.

8. Every tenant who has actually occupied or cultivated land continuously for twelve years has a right of occupancy in the land so occupied or cultivated by him.

Such tenants shall be called "occupancy-tenants."

The occupation or cultivating of the father or other person from whom the tenant inherits, shall be deemed to be the occupation or cultivating of the tenant within the meaning of this section:

Tenants barred from right of occupancy.

Provided that no tenant shall acquire under this section a right of occupancy—

(a) in land which he holds from an occupancy-tenant, or from a privileged tenant, or from a tenant holding at fixed rates;

(b) in sír-land;

(c) in land held by him in lieu of wages.

Time excluded from reckoning period necessary for acquiring right of occupancy.

Provided also that when a tenant actually occupies or cultivates land under a written lease without having a right of occupancy in such land, the period of twelve years necessary for acquiring a right of occupancy therein by him or any one claiming under him shall begin on the expiration of the term of such lease. If during the currency of such lease he ceases to occupy the land comprised therein, and sublets it to another, no right of occupancy in such land shall be acquired by the sub-lessee during the currency of the lease.

Rights under sections 7 and 8 when transferable.

9. The right of tenants at fixed rates shall be heritable and transferable. No other right of occupancy shall be transferable by grant, will or otherwise, except as between persons who have become by inheritance co-sharers in such rights.

When any person entitled to such last mentioned right dies, the right shall devolve as if it were land: provided that no collateral relative of the deceased who did not then share in the cultivation of his holding shall be entitled to inherit under this section.

Determination of class of tenure of tenant.

10. On the application of any tenant to have his class of tenure determined, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall determine the class to which he belongs, namely,

whether he is a tenant at fixed rates,

or a privileged tenant,

or an occupancy-tenant,

or whether he is a tenant without a right of occupancy.

Bar to enhancement of rent of tenants at fixed rates.

11. The rent paid by tenants at fixed rates shall not be liable to enhancement.

Enhancement in case of privileged and occupancy-tenants.

12. The rent paid by privileged and occupancy-tenants shall not be liable to enhancement, except—

(a) by a written agreement registered under the Indian Registration Act, 1871, or recorded before the patwárí of the village or the kánúngo: or

(b) by order of a Settlement Officer passed under the law for the time being in force: or

(c) by order under this Act.

Grounds of enhancing rent of occupancy-tenants.

13. Where the rent of any occupancy-tenant has not been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer under the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873, or by a decree under this Act, or where the rent has been fixed by such order or decree, but the term for which it has been fixed has expired, the landholder may apply to enhance the rent of such tenant on one of the following grounds and on no others:—

(a) that the rate of the rent paid by such tenant is below the prevailing rate payable by the same class of tenants for land of similar quality with similar advantages,

(b) that the value of the produce has, or the productive powers of the land have, been increased otherwise than by the agency or at the expense of the tenant;

(c) that the quantity of land held by the tenant has been proved by measurement to be greater than the quantity for which rent has been previously paid by him.

Selection of villages for comparison.

Whenever the district or tahsíl, or other local area in which such land is situated, has been divided by the Settlement Officer into circles of like capacity and soil, the land of similar quality, with similar advantages, shall, for the purpose of this section, be selected from the same circle.

When the Settlement Officer has not so divided the district or other local area as aforesaid, the land regarding which the application has been made shall be compared with land of similar quality and with similar advantages, in the same tahsíl or in a tahsíl immediately adjacent.

Enhancement of rent of privileged tenants.

14. Where the rent of any privileged tenant has not been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer under the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873, or by an order under this Act, or where the rent has been fixed by such order, but the term for which it has been fixed has expired, the landholder may apply to enhance the rent of such tenant as if he were an occupancy-tenant, provided that if his rent be raised, such rent shall not be less than two annas, or more than four annas, in the rupee below the rate which he would have to pay if he were an occupancy-tenant.

Abatement in like cases.

15. Where the rent of any privileged tenant or occupancy-tenant has not been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer under the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873, or by an order under this Act, or where the rent has been fixed by such order, but the term for which it has been fixed has expired,

the tenant may apply for an abatement of his rent on one of the following grounds, and on no others:—

(a) that the area of the land held by him has been diminished by diluvion or otherwise:

(b) that the value of the produce has, or the productive powers of such land have, been decreased by any cause beyond his power.

Time of enhancement or abatement where rent of privileged or occupancy tenant has been fixed by order under this Act

16. Where the rent of any privileged or occupancy-tenant has been fixed by an order under this Act, such rent shall not be liable to be enhanced or abated until the expiration of ten years from the date on which such order took effect, or until the conclusion of the period of settlement of the District, or until the revision of the settlement of the District by order of the Local Government, whichever of the said three events first occurs.

Grounds of enhancement and abatement where rent has been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer or under this Act.

17. Where the rent of any privileged or occupancy-tenant has been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer under the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873, or by an order under this Act, the landholder may apply to enhance the rent of such tenant during the currency of the term for which the rent has been so fixed, on one of the following grounds, and on no others:—

(a) that the area of the tenant's holding has been increased by alluvion or otherwise;

(b) that the productive powers of the land held by the tenant have since the date of the order been increased otherwise than by the agency or at the expense of the tenant,

And the tenant may apply for abatement of his rent on one of the following grounds and on no others:

(c) that the area of the land held by him has been diminished by diluvion or otherwise;

(d) that the productive powers of such land have been decreased by any cause beyond his control.

Grounds of enhancement or abatement of rent of tenant at fixed rates.

18. In the case of a tenant at fixed rates, the landholder may apply to enhance his rent on the ground that the area of the land in his holding has been increased by alluvion or otherwise, and the tenant may apply for abatement of his rent on the ground that the area of the land in his holding has been diminished by diluvion or otherwise.

Day before which applications for enhancement or abatement must be made.

19. Applications for enhancement or abatement of rent must be made on or before the fifteenth day of November next before the year commencing on the first day of July from which the rent is to be enhanced or abated,

Orders when to take effect.

and all orders for enhancement or abatement shall take effect from the first day of July next following the date of the order.

Consideration of caste of tenant in determining rate.

20. In determining, under this chapter, the rate of rent payable by any tenant, his caste shall not be taken into consideration, unless it is proved that, by local custom, caste is taken into account in determining such rate.

Tenants-at-will.

21. No tenant-at-will of land shall be liable to pay rent in excess of the rent (if any) payable by him in the previous year ending on the thirtieth day of June, unless the landholder and tenant have agreed as to the rent to be paid to the former by the latter, and such agreement has been recorded by the patwárí of the village or the kánúngo of the pargana in which such land is situate.

Rent of privileged or occupancy-tenant fixed by agreement.

22. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, when the rent of any privileged or occupancy-tenant has been fixed by agreement between the parties, such rent shall not be liable to enhancement or abatement for such term as may be agreed on.

(a.)—Leases.

Lease to which tenant is entitled.

23. Every tenant is entitled to receive from the landholder, and may at any time during the continuance of his holding, apply for a lease containing the following particulars:—

(a) the quantity of land held by him, and where the fields have been numbered in a Government survey, the number of each field:

(b) the amount of annual rent payable for such land:

(c) the instalments in which, and the dates on which, such rent is to be paid:

(d) any special conditions of the lease:

(e) if the rent is payable in kind, or is calculated on a valuation of the produce, the proportion of produce to be delivered, the mode of valuation, and the time, manner, and place of delivery.

Tenants at fixed rates.

24. Tenants at fixed rates are entitled to receive leases at such rates.

Privileged and occupancy-tenants.

25. Privileged and occupancy-tenants are entitled to receive leases at the rates hitherto paid by them, or determined in accordance with the provisions of the Act.

Leases to which other tenants are entitled.

26. All other tenants are entitled to leases only on such terms as may be agreed upon between them and the landholders.

Landholder granting lease entitled to reciprocal engagement.

27. Every landholder who grants a lease is entitled to receive a reciprocal engagement from the tenant, executed by the tenant, and conformable with the terms of the lease.

The tender to any tenant of a lease, such as he is entitled to receive, shall entitle the landholder to receive a reciprocal engagement from such tenant.

Lease for period exceeding term of landholder's engagement.

28. If any lease be granted, or if any agreement be entered into by any landholder fixing the rent of land for any period exceeding the term of his own engagement with Government for his land, such lease or agreement shall, on the expiration of the term aforesaid, be void at the option of either party.

Resumption of rent-free grants.

29. a. And whereas all grants for holding land exempt from the payment of rent which have been made since the first day of December 1790, by any authority other than that of the Governor-General in Council, were declared by Bengal Regulation XIX of 1793, section ten, to be null and void; and such Regulation also provides that no length of possession shall be considered to give validity to any such grant, either with regard to the property in the soil or the rents of it, it is hereby further enacted as follows:—

Applications to resume.

b. Applications by the proprietor to resume such grants or to assess rent on the land, shall be made to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and, subject to rules to be made under section two hundred and three, shall be dealt with as other applications under this Act.

Validity of grants which grantor has expressly agreed not to resume.

c. Grants of land held under a written instrument, by which the grantor expressly agrees that the grant shall not be resumed, shall be held valid as against him (but not as against his representatives after his death) during the continuance of the settlement of the district in which the land is situate, which is current at the date of the grant.

When rent-free tenure confers proprietary right.

d. Where any land has been for fifty years or upwards, and still is held rent-free and by at least two successors to the original grantee, such holding shall be deemed to confer on the holder a proprietary right.

e. Nothing in the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, shall bar the right to make an application under this Act to assess to rent land held rent-free.

f. Nothing in this section shall apply to either of the following cases:—

(1) Where land is previously to the passing of this Act held rent-free under a judicial decision,

(2) Where previously to the passing of this Act land held rent-free is purchased for a valuable consideration, and resumption thereof has been barred under Act No. X of 1859, section twenty-eight, or under the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, schedule II, No. 130.

(b.)—Relinquishment and Ejectment.

Relinquishment of land by tenant.

30. Every tenant not holding under a lease shall continue liable for the rent of the land in his holding for the ensuing year, unless on or before the first day of May in any year he gives notice in writing to the landholder, or his recognized agent, of his desire to relinquish such land on the thirtieth day of June next ensuing, and relinquishes it accordingly; or unless it has been let to any other person by such landholder or agent.

Service of notice through tahsíldár, if landholder or agent refuse to receive it.

31. If the landholder or his agent refuse to receive such notice, or if he receive it but refuses to sign a receipt for the same, the tenant may make an application to the tahsíldár, who shall thereupon cause the notice to be served on such landholder or agent, the tenant paying the costs of service.

Mode of serving notice.

32. The notice shall, if practicable, be served personally on the landholder or his agent; but if the landholder or his agent cannot be found, or if he evades service of the notice, service may be made by affixing the notice at his usual place of residence, or, if he does not reside in the district wherein the land is situate, at the chaupál, or other conspicuous place in the village where the land is situate.

Where the delay in serving the notice is owing to the fault of the landholder or his agent, the notice shall be deemed to have been served at the first attempt to serve it.

Liability of tenant to pay interest on arrear and to be ejected.

33. When an arrear of rent remains due from any tenant, he shall be liable to pay interest on such arrear at one per cent. per mensem; and if the arrear remains due on the thirtieth day of June, to be ejected from the land in respect of which the arrear is due:

Bar to ejectment without decree.

No tenant at fixed rates, privileged tenant, occupancy-tenant, or tenant holding under a lease, the term of which has not expired, shall be ejected otherwise than in execution of a decree or order under the provisions of this Act.

Ejectment not to be decreed for certain acts or omissions.

No ejectment of a tenant or cancelment of a lease shall be decreed on account of any act or omission of the tenant which is not detrimental to the land in his occupation, or which is not inconsistent with the purpose for which the land was let.

Ejectment of tenant with right of occupancy, or holding under unexpired lease.

34. If the landholder desire to eject a tenant at fixed rates, a privileged tenant, an occupancy-tenant, or a tenant holding under an unexpired lease, against whom a decree for arrears has been passed and remains unsatisfied, he may, after the expiration of the year, ending on the thirtieth day of June, in which such arrears accrued, apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who shall, on receiving such application (subject to the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, and of section one hundred and sixty-one of this Act) cause a notice to be served on the tenant, stating the amount due under the decree, and informing the tenant that if he does not pay such amount into Court within fifteen days from receipt of the notice, he will be ejected from his land.

If such amount be not so paid, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may eject the tenant.

Such notice shall be deemed to be a process for enforcing the decree of arrears of rent within the meaning of section one hundred and twenty-seven.

Service of notice on tenant for limited period.

35. If the landholder desire to eject a tenant not having a right of occupancy, or any other tenant holding only for a limited period, after the determination of his tenancy, he may cause a writ on notice of ejectment to be served on such tenant under the provisions of this Act.

Contents of notice.

36. The notice of ejectment shall be written in the vernacular language and character of the district:

it shall specify the land from which the tenant is to be ejected;

and it shall inform him that he must vacate such land on or before the first day of May next following; or that, if he means to contest the right to eject him, he must apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector for that purpose on or before that date.

Mode of serving notice.

37. The notice shall be issued and served through the office of the tahsildár on or before the first day of April, and the landholder shall pay the cost of service: it shall be served personally on the tenant, if practicable; but if he cannot be found, service may be made by affixing the notice to his usual place of residence.

Effect of failure of tenant to institute suit to contest liability to ejectment.

38. The tenant, on whom such notice has been served, may, on or before the first day of May next after the service, make an application to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, contesting his liability to be ejected.

When such an application is made, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall proceed to determine the question between the parties, as in the case of a suit by a landholder to eject a tenant.

If no such application is made, the tenancy of the land in respect of which the notice has been served shall be held to cease on the first day of May next after the service; unless, after the service the landholder authorises the tenant to continue in the occupation of the land.

Procedure to enforce ejectment.

39. If the landholder require assistance to eject the person whose tenancy is alleged to have ceased under the provisions of section thirty-eight he may apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector for such assistance before the ploughing for the kharif harvest commences; and the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall order the ejectment of such tenant if he is satisfied—

(a) that the notice was duly served on such tenant under section thirty-seven;

(b) that he has not been authorised by the landholder to continue in occupation;

(d) that if such application has been made, the question has been determined adversely to the tenant.

Provided that no such application for the ejectment of a farmer on the determination of a lease shall be received if the lease be of the kind in which an advance has been made by the leaseholder, and the proprietor's right of re-entry at the end of the term is contingent on the repayment of such advance either in money or by the usufruct of the land. In all such cases the landholder must proceed by suit in the Civil Court.

Notice of ejectment when void.

40. If the landholder allow the tenant, on whom the notice of ejectment has been served, or against whom any proceedings in ejectment under section thirty-nine have been taken, to remain in occupation of the land, and to prepare it for the kharif harvest, the proceedings shall become void.

Rights of ejected tenant.

41. Any tenant ejected in accordance with the provisions of this Act, shall be entitled to any growing crops or other ungathered products of the earth belonging to the tenant, and growing on the land at the time of his ejectment, and to use the land for the purpose of tending and gathering in such crops or other products, paying adequate rent therefor.

Effect of tender by landlord of payment for crops.

Provided that, if the landholder desire to purchase such crops or other products, he may tender their price to the tenant; and thereupon the right of the tenant to such crops and other products, and to use the land for the purpose aforesaid, shall cease.

Power to determine rent and price.

In the case of a dispute under this section, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may, on the application of the landlord or tenant, award the rent and price so payable; and the amount of such award, or of any tender accepted under this section, shall be recoverable as an arrear of rent by suit under this Act.

Application by tenant for officer to divide produce or appraise crop.

42. Wherever rent is taken by division of the produce in kind, or by estimate or appraisement of the standing crop, or other procedure of a like nature, requiring the presence both of the cultivator and landholder, either personally or by agent, if either landholder or tenant personally, or by agent, neglect to attend at the proper time, or if there is a dispute as to the amount or value of the crop, an application may be presented to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, requesting that a proper officer be deputed to make the division, estimate, or appraisement.

Procedure on such application.

On receiving such application, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall issue a written notice to the opposite party or his agent to attend, on the date, and at the time specified in the notice, and shall depute an officer before whom such division, estimate, or appraisement shall be made.

If on or before the date appointed, the dispute have not been amicably adjusted, three residents of the village or neighbourhood shall be appointed assessors; one by each of the parties, and one by the officer deputed to divide the grain or estimate or appraise the crops, and the officer deputed shall decide the amount of rent payable by their award, and shall give to the party applying a written authority to divide the grain or cut the crops.

Provided that if either party fail to attend, the officer deputed shall nominate an assessor on his behalf.

The officer deputed shall report his proceedings to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who shall determine the amount of costs properly incurred under this section, and the share of the costs to be paid by either party.

(c.)—Compensation for Improvements made by Tenants.

Tenants' right to compensation for improvements.

43. If any tenant, or any person from whom he has inherited or purchased, make any such improvements on the land in his possession as are hereinafter mentioned, neither he nor his representative shall be ejected from the same land without payment of compensation for such improvements.

Explanation.—The word "improvements" as used in this section means works by which the annual letting value of the land has been, and at the time of demanding compensation continues to be, increased, and comprises—

(a) tanks, wells and other works for the storage, supply or distribution of water for agricultural purposes,

(b) works for the drainage of land, for the reclaiming of land from floods, or from erosion or other damage by water,

(c) the reclaiming, clearing, or enclosing of lands for agricultural purposes,

(d) the renewal, or re-construction of any of the foregoing works, or alterations therein, or additions thereto.

Basis of, and mode of making, compensation.

44. Such compensation may, at the option of the landholder or his representative, be made—

1*st.*—by payment in money;

2*nd.*—by the grant of a beneficial lease of the land, by the landholder or his representative, to the tenant or his representative;

3*rd.*—partly by payment in money, and partly by the grant of such lease as aforesaid.

Settlement of difference as to amount or value of compensation.

45. In case of difference as to the amount or value of the compensation tendered, either party may apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector stating the matter in dispute, and requesting a determination thereof.

On receiving such application, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall

(a) cause notice thereof to be served on the other party,

(b) take such evidence as the parties or either of them may adduce,

(c) make such further inquiry as the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may deem necessary, and

(d) determine the amount of the payment, or the terms of the lease, or both.

Considerations in determining compensation.

46. In determining the amount or value mentioned in section forty-five or the terms of such lease, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall take into account any assistance given to the tenant by the landholder either directly in money, material or labour, for the purpose of making such improvements, or indirectly by allowing the tenant to hold at a favourable rate of rent.

(d.)—Compensation for wrongful Acts and Omissions.

Right of tenant to compensation for exactions in excess of rent or for withholding receipt.

47. Every tenant from whom any sum is exacted in excess of the rent specified in his lease or payable under the provisions of this Act, and every tenant from whom a receipt is withheld for any sum of money paid by him as rent, shall be entitled to recover from the landholder compensation not exceeding double the amount so exacted or paid.

Contents of receipt.

Receipts for rent shall specify the period or crop on account of which the rent is acknowledged to have been paid;

and any refusal to make such specification shall be held to be a withholding of a receipt.

Damages for extorting payment of rent by duress.

48. If payment of rent, whether the same be legally due or not, is extorted from any tenant by illegal confinement or other duress, he shall be entitled to recover from the person guilty of such extortion such compensation, not exceeding the sum of two hundred rupees, as the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector thinks reasonable.

Liability to punishment for extortion not affected.

An award of compensation under this section shall not bar or affect any penalty or punishment to which the person guilty of such extortion may be subject under the Indian Penal Code.

(e.)—Deposit of Rent in Government Treasury.

Deposit of amount tendered by tenant and refused.

49. If any tenant tenders to the landholder full payment of the rent due from him, and if the amount so tendered be not accepted, and a receipt for the amount forthwith granted, the tenant may thereupon apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector for leave to deposit such amount in his Court to the credit of the landholder.

Form and verification of application.

50. The application to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall be as nearly as may be in the form (A) in the first schedule hereto annexed, and shall be verified in the manner prescribed for the verification of plaints under section one hundred and three:

Penalty for false statement.

and the person making the verification shall be punishable, if the application contain any averment which he knows or believes to be false, or does not know or believe to be true.

Notice to issue on deposit being made.

51. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall receive the amount which the tenant desires to deposit, and shall thereupon issue to the person to whose credit it has so been deposited, a notice in English or the vernacular language of the district in the form (B) in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

And such deposit shall in all questions between the landholder and the tenant be deemed to be a payment made by the tenant to the landholder on account of the rent.

Mode of serving notice.

52. Such notice shall be served through the tahsíldár upon the person to whom it is addressed, or upon his recognized agent.

In their absence the notice shall be affixed at the chaupál, or other conspicuous place in the village in which the land for which the rent is due is situate.

Payment to person served with notice on his application.

53. If at any time before the expiration of three years from the date of the deposit the person on whom such notice is served, or his recognized agent, appears and applies that the money in deposit be paid to him, it shall be paid accordingly, unless it has been repaid or paid in accordance with the provisions next hereinafter contained.

Refund to depositor.

54. If no application be made by such person or his recognized agent, the sum shall be repaid to the depositor on the expiration of three years from the date of the deposit.

And at any time before the expiration of such period, on the joint application of the depositor and the person to whose credit the said sum was deposited, such sum shall be paid in such manner as the joint applicants desire.

CHAPTER III.

DISTRESS.

Produce of land hypothecated for rent.

55. The produce of all land in the occupation of a tenant shall be deemed to be hypothecated for the rent payable in respect of such land;

Recovery of arrears by distress.

and when an arrear of rent is due from any cultivator, the person entitled to receive rent immediately from him may, instead of suing for the arrear as hereinafter provided, recover the same by distress and sale of the produce of the land in respect of which the arrear is due, under the rules contained in this Chapter.

Bar to distress of produce covered by security.

56. Provided always that, when a tenant has given security for the payment of his rent, the produce of the land for the rent of which security has been given, shall not be liable to be distrained:

Sharer not entitled to distrain.

Provided also, that no sharer in any mahál shall have power to distrain upon any tenant unless he is entitled to collect the whole rent from such tenant.

Provided also, that no sharer in a joint undivided mahál shall exercise such power otherwise than through a manager authorised to collect the rents of the whole mahál on behalf of all the sharers therein: Provided also, that in pattídárí mahále distress shall be made only through a lumberdár, or where the rent of a pattí is not collected by a lumberdár through the pattídár who is entitled to collect the rent.

No distress for overdue arrear, nor, without agreement, for excess over past year's rent.

57. A distress shall not be made for any arrear which has been due for a longer period than one year;

nor for the recovery of any sum in excess of the rent payable for the same land in the preceding year, unless the rent has been enhanced under the provisions hereinbefore contained, or unless the cultivator has agreed to pay such excess and such agreement has been attested before the patwárí or kánúngo.

Distress by managers under Court of Wards, &c.

58. The power to distrain conferred by sections fifty-five and fifty-six may be exercised by managers under the Court of Wards, and other persons lawfully entrusted with the charge of immoveable property;

and also by the agents employed by such persons as aforesaid, in the collection of rent, if expressly authorized by power-of-attorney in that behalf:

Liability for illegal act.

If any wrongful act is committed by any such agent, under colour of the exercise of the said power, such agent and his principal shall be jointly and severally liable to make compensation for such act.

Written authority to servants employed to distrain.

59. When any person, empowered to distrain property under section fifty-five, section fifty-six, or section fifty-eight, employs a servant or other person to make the distress, he shall give him a written authority for the same, and the distress shall be made in the name of the person giving such authority.

Standing crops and crops gathered liable to distress.

60. Standing crops and other ungathered products of the earth, and crops or other products when reaped or gathered, and deposited in any threshing-floor or place for treading out grain or the like, whether in the field or within a homestead, may be distrained by persons invested with power to distrain under the provisions of this Act.

Exception.

But no such crops or products, other than the produce of the land in respect of which an arrear of rent is due, or of land held under the same engagement, and no grain or other produce after it has been stored by the cultivator, and no other property whatsoever, shall be liable to be distrained under this Act.

Defaulter to be served with written demand and account.

61. Before or at the time when a distress is made under this Act, the distrainer shall cause the defaulter to be served with a written demand for the amount of the arrear, together with an account exhibiting the grounds on which the demand is made.

The demand and account shall, if practicable, be served personally on the defaulter; or, if he abscond or conceal himself, so that they cannot be so served, shall be affixed at his usual place of residence.

Mode of service.

62. Unless the amount of the demand is immediately paid or tendered, the distrainer may distrain property as aforesaid equal in value, as nearly as may be, to the amount of the arrear and the costs of the distress; and shall prepare a list or description of the said property, and deliver a copy of the same to the owner, or, if he be absent, affix it at his usual place of residence.

Distress to be proportionate to arrear.

List of property to be prepared and copy served on owner.

63. Standing crops and other ungathered products may, notwithstanding the distress, be reaped and gathered by the cultivator, and may be stored in such granaries or other places as are commonly used by him for the purpose.

Standing crops, &c., when attached, may be reaped and stored.

If the cultivator neglect to do so, the distrainer shall cause the said crops or products to be reaped or gathered, and in such case shall store the same either in such granaries or other places as aforesaid, or in some other convenient place in the neighbourhood.

In either case the distrained property shall be placed in the charge of some person appointed by the distrainer for the purpose.

Crops or products which from their nature do not admit of being stored, may be sold before they are cut or gathered, under the rules hereinafter provided; but in such case, the distress shall be made at least twenty days before the time when the crops or products or any part of the same are fit for cutting or gathering.

Sale of products which cannot be stored.

64. If a distrainer is opposed, or apprehends resistance, and desires to obtain the assistance of a public officer, he may apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who may, if he thinks necessary, depute an officer to support the distrainer in making the distress.

Assistance to distrainer opposed or apprehending resistance.

65. If at any time after property has been distrained and before the day fixed for putting it up to sale as hereinafter provided, the owner of the property tender payment of the arrear demanded of him, and of the expenses of the distress, the distrainer shall receive the same, and shall forthwith withdraw the distress.

Distress to be withdrawn on tender of arrear and expenses before sale.

66. Within five days from the time of the storing of any distrained crops or products,

Application for sale.

or if the crops or products do not from their nature admit of being stored, within five days from the time of making the distress, the distrainer shall apply for sale of the same to the officer for the time being authorized by the Local Government to sell distrained property within the tahsíl in which they are situate.

67. The application shall be in writing and shall contain—

Contents of application.

(a) an inventory or description of the property distrained,

(b) the name of the defaulter and his place of residence,

(c) the amount due, and the date of the distress, and

(d) the place in which the distrained property is deposited.

Together with the application, the distrainer shall deliver to the said officer the fee for the service of a notice upon the defaulter as hereinafter provided.

Deposit of cost of service of notice.

68. Immediately on receipt of the application the said officer shall send a copy of it to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector; and shall serve a notice in the form (C) contained in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect, on the person whose property has been distrained, requiring him either to pay the amount demanded, or to institute a suit to contest the demand before the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector within the period of fifteen days from the receipt of the notice.

Procedure on receipt of application.

He shall at the same time send to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, for the purpose of being put up in his office and in the office of the tahsíldár, a proclamation fixing a day for the sale of the distrained property, which shall not be less than twenty days from the date of the application; and shall deliver a copy of the proclamation to the peon charged with the service of the notice, to be put up by him in the place where the distrained property is deposited.

The proclamation shall contain—

(a) a description of the property,

and shall specify—

(b) the demand for which it is to be sold, and

(c) the place where the sale is to be held.

69. If a suit is instituted before the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector in pursuance of the aforesaid notice, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall send to the officer referred to in section sixty-six, or, if so requested, shall deliver to the owner of the distrained property, a certificate of the institution of such suit; and on such certificate being received by, or presented to, the said officer, he shall suspend the sale.

Suspension of sale on receipt of Collector's certificate of institution of suit.

70. A person whose property has been distrained in manner hereinbefore provided, may institute a suit to contest the demand of the distrainer immediately after the distress, and before the issue of notice of sale.

Suit to contest distrainer's demand before issue of notice of sale.

When such suit is instituted, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall proceed in the manner prescribed in the last preceding section.

If, thereafter, application for the sale of the property is made to the said officer, he shall send a copy of the application to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and suspend further proceedings, pending the decision of the case.

Distress when to be withdrawn.

71. The person whose property has been distrained may, at the time of instituting any such suit as aforesaid, or at any subsequent period, execute a bond with a surety, binding himself to pay whatever sum may be adjudged to be due from him, with interest and costs of suit;

and when such bond is executed, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall give to the owner of the property a certificate to that effect, and, if so requested, shall serve the distrainer with notice of the same;

and upon such certificate being presented to the distrainer by the owner of the property, or served on him by order of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, the property shall be released from distress.

When sale may be proceeded with.

72. On the expiration of the period fixed in the proclamation of sale, if the institution of a suit to contest the demand of the distrainer has not been certified to the said officer in manner hereinbefore provided, he shall, unless the said demand, with such costs of the distress as shall be allowed by him be discharged in full, proceed, in manner hereinafter mentioned, to sell the property or such part of it as may be necessary to satisfy the demand with the costs of distress and sale.

Place of sale.

73. The sale shall be held at the place where the distrained property is deposited, or at the nearest place of public resort, if the said officer is of opinion that it is likely to sell there to better advantage.

Manner of sale.

The property shall be sold by public auction, in one or more lots, as the officer holding the sale may think advisable;

Withdrawal of distress when demand and costs satisfied.

and if the demand with the costs of distress and sale be satisfied by the sale of a portion of the property, the distress shall be immediately withdrawn with respect to the remainder.

If fair price be not offered, sale may be postponed and shall be then completed.

74. If, on the property being put up for sale, a fair price (in the estimation of the officer holding the sale) be not offered for it, and the owner of the property, or some person authorized to act on his behalf, apply to have the sale postponed until the next day, or the next market-day, if a market be held at the place of sale, the sale shall be postponed until such day and shall be then completed whatever price may be offered for the property.

Payment of purchase-money.

75. The price of every lot shall be paid for in ready money at the time of sale, or as soon thereafter as the officer holding the sale thinks necessary;

Re-sale on default.

and, in default of such payment, the property shall be put up again and sold.

Certificate to purchaser.

When the purchase-money has been paid in full, the officer holding the sale shall give the purchaser a certificate, describing the property purchased by him and the price paid.

Deduction from proceeds of costs of sale.

76. From the proceeds of every sale of distrained property under this Act, the officer holding the sale shall make a deduction at the rate of one anna in the rupee on account of the costs of the sale, and shall send the amount so deducted to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector.

Payment of distrainer's expenses.

He shall then pay to the distrainer the expenses incurred by the distrainer on account of the distress, and of the issue of the notice and proclamation of sale prescribed in section sixty-eight, to such amount as, after examination of the statement of expenses furnished by the distrainer, he thinks proper to allow.

Discharge of arrear with interest.

The remainder shall be applied to the discharge of the arrear for which the distress was made, with interest thereon up to the day of sale;

Surplus.

and the surplus (if any) shall be delivered to the person whose property has been sold.

Sale officers and employees prohibited from purchasing.

77. Officers holding sales of property under this Act, and all persons employed by or subordinate to such officers, are prohibited from purchasing either directly, or indirectly, any property sold by such officers.

Report of irregularities by distrainer.

78. Officers holding sales under this chapter are required to bring to the notice of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector any material irregularities committed by distrainers under colour of this Act;

Postponement of sale, and report to Collector when defaulter has not received due notice.

and if, in any case, on proceeding to hold any such sale the officer holding it find that the owner of the property has not received due notice of the distress and intended sale, he shall postpone the sale and report the case to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who shall thereupon

direct the issue of another notice and proclamation of sale under section sixty-eight, or pass such other order as he thinks fit.

Levy of charge when sale officer attends, and no sale takes place.

79. When an officer goes to any place for the purpose of holding a sale under this Act, and no sale takes place, either for the reason stated in section seventy-eight, or because the demand of the distrainer has been previously satisfied, no intimation of such satisfaction having been given by the distrainer to such officer, the charge of one anna in the rupee on account of expenses shall be leviable and shall be calculated on the estimated value of the distrained property.

Recovery from owner.

If the distrainer's demand be not satisfied until the day fixed for the sale, the charge for expenses shall be paid by the owner of the property, and may be recovered by the sale of such portion thereof as may be necessary.

Recovery from distrainer.

In every other case it shall be paid by the distrainer and may be recovered by attachment and sale of his property under the warrant of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector:

Limit to charge.

Provided that in no case shall a larger amount then ten rupees be recoverable under this section.

Order of sale when amount adjudged due.

80. When a suit has been instituted to contest the demand of a distrainer, and the property has not been released on security, if the demand or any portion of it is adjudged to be due, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall issue an order to the officer authorizing the sale of the property;

Second proclamation of sale.

and on the application of the distrainer, within five days from the receipt of such order by the officer, such officer shall publish a second proclamation in the manner prescribed in section sixty-eight, fixing another day for the sale of the distrained property, which shall not be less than five nor more than ten days from the date of the proclamation;

Sale on failure to pay debt and costs.

and, unless the amount adjudged to be due with the costs of distress be paid, shall proceed to sell the property in the manner hereinbefore provided.

In suit to contest his demand, distrainer to prove arrear.

81. In all suits instituted to contest the distrainer's demand he shall be required to prove the arrear in the same manner as if he had himself brought a suit for the amount under the provisions hereinafter contained.

Recovery of amount decreed in favour of distrainer.

If the demand or any part thereof is found to be due, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall make a decree for the amount in favour of the distrainer, and such amount may be recovered by sale of the property, as provided in the last preceding section, if the distress has not been withdrawn;

and if any balance remain due after such sale, by execution of the decree against the person and any other property of the defaulter, or if the property have been released on security, by execution of the decree against the person and property of the defaulter and of his surety.

Compensation in case of vexatious distress.

If the distress is adjudged to be vexatious or groundless, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, besides directing the release of the distrained property, may award such compensation to the plaintiff as the circumstances of the case require.

Suit by person claiming property distrained for arrears alleged to be due from another.

82. If any person claim as his own, property which has been distrained for arrears of rent alleged to be due from any other person, the claimant may institute a suit against the distrainer and such other person, to try the right to the property, in the same manner and under the same conditions as to the time of instituting the suit and to the consequent postponement of sale, as a person whose property has been distrained for an arrear of rent alleged to be due from him, may institute a suit to contest the demand.

Release of property on security being given.

When any such suit is instituted the property may be released upon security being given for the value of the same.

Order of Collector when claim dismissed.

If the claim is dismissed, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall make an order for the sale of the property, or for the recovery of the value thereof, as the case may be, for the benefit of the distrainer.

Decree for release and compensation when claim upheld.

If the claim is upheld, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall decree the release of the distrained property with costs, and such compensation (if any) as the circumstances of the case require:

Saving of prior claim of person entitled to rent of land.

Provided that no claim to any produce of land liable to distress under this Act, which at the time of the distress may have been found in the possession of a defaulting cultivator shall bar the prior claim of the person entitled to the rent of the land, nor shall any attachment in execution of a judgment of any Civil Court prevail against such prior claim.

Procedure where right to distrain is claimed by other than distrainer.

83. If in any case in which property has been distrained for an arrear of rent, and a suit has been instituted to contest the demand, the right to distrain for such arrears is claimed by or on behalf of any person other than the distrainer, on the ground of such other person being actually and in good faith in the receipt and enjoyment of the rent of the land, such other person shall be made a party to the suit, and the question of the actual receipt and enjoyment of the rent by him before and up to the time of the commencement of the suit shall be enquired into, and in deciding the suit the result of such inquiry shall be taken into consideration.

Saving of right to sue in Civil Court.

Provided that the decision of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall not affect the right of any person who may have a legal title to the rent of the land, to establish his title by suit in the Civil Court if instituted within one year from the date of the decision.

Persons prevented from suing in time to save property from sale, may sue for damages.

84. If any person whose property has been distrained for the recovery of a demand not justly due, or of a demand due or alleged to be due from some other person, is prevented by any sufficient cause from bringing a suit to contest the demand or to try the right to the property, as the case may be, within the period allowed by section ninety-three, and his property is in consequence brought to sale, he may, nevertheless, institute a suit under this Act to recover compensation for the illegal distress and sale of his property.

Wrongful acts of distrainer.

85. If any person empowered to distrain property, or employed for the purpose under a written authority by a person so empowered, distrain or sell, or cause to be sold, any property for the recovery of an arrear of rent alleged to be due, otherwise than according to the provisions of this Act, or if any distrained property is lost, damaged, or destroyed by reason of the distrainer not having taken proper precautions for the due keeping and preservation thereof, or if the distress is not immediately withdrawn when it is required to be withdrawn by any provision of this Act, the owner of the property may institute a suit under this Act to recover compensation for any injury which he has thereby sustained through any act or omission mentioned in the former part of this section.

Suit by owner against person distraining or selling without authority.

86. If any person not empowered to distrain property under sections fifty-five, fifty-six or fifty-eight, nor employed for the purpose under a written authority by a person so empowered, fraudulently distrains or sells or causes to be sold any property under colour of this Act, the owner of the property so distrained or sold may institute a suit under this Act to recover compensation from such person for any injury which the plaintiff has sustained from the distress or sale,

Penalty in addition to damages.

and the defendant shall be held to have committed criminal trespass, and shall be subject to the penalties provided for that offence in addition to any damages which may be awarded against him in such suit.

Limitation of suits under sections 84, 85, 86.

87. Provided that every suit instituted under any of the three last preceding sections shall be commenced within the term prescribed by section ninety-three.

Procedure in case of resistance of distress.

88. If any person resists a distress of property duly made under this Act, or forcibly or clandestinely removes any distrained property, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, upon complaint being made within fifteen days from the date of such resistance or removal, shall cause the person accused to be arrested and brought with all convenient speed before the Collector or Assistant Collector, who shall, if possible, proceed forthwith to try the case.

If the case cannot be at once heard, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may, if he think fit, require the party arrested to give security for his person, and, in default of such security, may commit him to the civil jail until the case is tried, and if the offence be proved and the offender be the owner of the property concerned, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall order him to be imprisoned in the civil jail for six months, or until the whole arrear due to the distrainer, with all expenses and costs, is paid or levied under warrant of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector by distress and sale of the property of the offender.

If the offender be not the owner of the property, he shall make good to the distrainer the value of the same, and shall further be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, or in default of payment thereof, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a period not exceeding two months.

Proceedings of officers subject to revision and orders of Collector.

89. All proceedings of officers under this chapter shall be subject to the revision and orders of the Collector of the District.

CHAPTER IV.

PROCESS.

Mode of serving process.

90. Every process issued by a Collector of a District or Assistant Collector under this Act shall be under his seal and signature, and shall be served or executed by the Názir, or by such other officer as the Collector of the District or the Assistant Collector may direct, at the cost of the party at whose instance it is issued.

Deposit before issue.

The amount of such cost, and, in the case of summons to a witness, the sum required for his travelling expenses, shall be deposited in Court before the process is issued:

Power to direct service free of charge.

Provided that, if in any case the Collector of the District or the Assistant Collector is satisfied that a party is unable to pay the cost of any necessary process, he may direct such process to be served free of charge.

Punishment for resistance of process.

91. Any resistance or opposition to the lawful process of a Collector of the District or Assistant Collector under this Act may be punished by him according to the provisions of the law for the time being in force for the punishment of resistance or opposition to the processes of the courts of civil justice.

Power to issue summons and warrant.

When, in any such case, the offender is not present, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may summon him to answer to the charge: and if after due service of the summons he fail to attend, may issue a warrant for his apprehension.

CHAPTER V.

JURISDICTION OF COURTS.

Suits cognizable by Revenue Courts only.

92. Except in the way of appeal as hereinafter provided, no Courts other than Courts of Revenue shall take cognizance of any dispute or matter in which any suit of the nature mentioned in this section might be brought,

and such suits shall be heard and determined in the said Courts of Revenue in the manner provided in this Act, and not otherwise:

(a) for arrears of rent on account of land or on account of any rights of pasturage, forest-rights, fisheries or the like;

(b) to eject a tenant for any act or omission detrimental to the land in his occupation or inconsistent with the purpose for which the land was demised, or

(c) to cancel a lease for the breach of any condition binding on the tenant, and which by law, custom or special agreement, involves the forfeiture of the lease;

(d) for the recovery of any overpayment of rent, or for compensation under sections forty-seven or forty-eight;

(e) for compensation for withholding receipt for rent paid;

(f) for contesting the exercise of the powers of distress conferred on landholders and others by this Act, or any thing purporting to be done in the exercise of the said power, or for compensation for wrongful acts or omissions of a distrainer;

(g) suits by lumberdárs for arrears of Government revenue, payable through them by the co-sharers whom they represent, and for village-expenses and other dues for which the co-sharers may be responsible to the lumberdár;

(h) suits by co-sharers for their share of the profits of a mahál, or any part thereof, after payment of the Government revenue and village-expenses, or for a settlement of accounts;

(i) suits by muáffidárs, or assignees of the Government revenue, for arrears of revenue owing to them, as such muáffidárs or assignees;

(j) suits by taluqdárs and other superior proprietors, for arrears of revenue due to them as such.

Limitation of suits.

93. Suits for arrears of rent or revenue or, for a share of the profits of a mahál, or of village-expenses or other dues, shall not be brought after three years from the day on which the arrears or share became due:

Suits relating to distress shall not be brought after three months from the day on which the right to sue accrued:

All other suits may be brought within one year from the day on which the right to sue accrues, unless otherwise specially provided for in this Act.

The day on which the arrears become due or the day on which the right to sue accrues (as the case may be) shall be excluded in computing the periods of limitation prescribed by this section.

Applications cognizable by Revenue Courts only.

94. No Courts other than Courts of Revenue shall take cognizance of any dispute or matter on which any application of the nature mentioned in this section might be made: such applications shall be heard and determined in the said Courts in manner provided under this Act, and not otherwise:—

(a) Application to determine the nature and class of a tenant's tenure, under section ten.

(b) Application by a landholder, or his agent, to compel a patwárí to produce his accounts relating to land.

(c) Application to resume rent-free grants under section twenty-nine, and to assess to rent land previously held rent-free.

(d) Application from a landholder to eject a tenant, under section thirty-four or section thirty-five.

(e) Applications made by a tenant, under section thirty-eight.

(f) Application from a landholder under section thirty-nine for assistance to eject a tenant.

(g) Application from a tenant or landholder to determine the value of any standing crop, or ungathered products of the earth, belonging to the tenant and being on the land at the time of his ejectment, under section forty-one.

(h) Application by a landholder to determine rent payable for land used by a tenant for the purpose of tending or gathering in the crop, under section forty-one.

(i) Application by a landholder or tenant for assistance in the division or appraisement of a standing crop, under section forty-two.

(j) Application by a landholder or tenant to determine compensation for improvements of land.

(k) Application by a tenant for leave to deposit rent.

(l) Application for enhancement of rent.

(m) Application for compensation for illegal dispossession.

(n) Application for the recovery of the occupancy of any land of which a tenant has been illegally dispossessed.

(o) Application for abatement of rent.

(p) Application for leases or counterparts, and for the determination of the rates of rent at which such leases or counterparts are to be delivered.

Points of procedure relating to applications.

95. (a.) All applications under section ninety-four shall be made in the district in which the land, crops or products referred to is or are situate, and may, with the consent of the parties, be referred to arbitration under sections two hundred and seventeen to two hundred and twenty-eight (both inclusive) of the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873.

(b.) All orders passed on applications under this section shall be proved in the same manner, and when proved shall have the same effect as judgments of the Civil Courts.

(c.) In cases wherein a specific sum of money is adjudged to be due, or any costs or damages are awarded, all such orders may be executed by any process in use for the recovery of an arrear of revenue or rent.

(d.) In cases wherein possession of immoveable property is adjudged, the officer making the award may deliver over possession in the same manner, and with the same power, in regard to contempts, resistance, and the like, as may be lawfully exercised by the Civil Courts in execution of their own decrees.

(e.) Applications under heads (m) and (n) of section ninety-four shall not be brought after six months from the date of the illegal dispossession.

96. The Local Government may invest any officer with the powers of an Assistant Collector of the first or second class under this Act, and may at any time withdraw such powers.

Local Government may invest officers with Assistant Collector's powers, and withdraw them.

97. Assistant Collectors of either class shall have, as such, power to try suits and applications of the following descriptions:—

Suits and applications cognizable by Collectors.

(a) suits for arrears of rent on account of land or on account of any rights of pasturage, forest-rights, fisheries or the like;

(b) suits for compensation for withholding receipt for rent paid, under section forty-seven;

(c) suits to contest the exercise of the powers of distress conferred on landholders and others by this Act, or anything purporting to be done in exercise of the said powers, or for compensation for wrongful acts or omissions of a distrainer;

(d) suits by lumberdárs for arrears of Government revenue, payable through them by the co-sharers whom they represent, and for village-expenses and other dues, for which the co-sharers may be responsible to the lumberdár;

(e) suits by muáfídárs or assignees of the Government revenue, for arrears of revenue owing to them as such muáfídárs or assignees;

(f) applications by a landholder, or by an agent employed by a landholder, to compel the production of accounts by patwáris;

(g) applications by a tenant or landholder to determine the value of any standing crops or ungathered products of the earth, and being on the land at the time of his ejectment, under section forty-one;

(h) applications by a landholder to determine the amount of rent payable by a tenant using land for the purpose of tending or gathering in crops, under section forty-one;

(i) applications by a landholder or a tenant for assistance in the division or appraisement of standing crops, under section forty-two;

(j) suits by taluqdárs or other superior proprietors for arrears of revenue due to them as such.

(k) applications by tenants for leave to deposit rent.

98. Assistant Collectors of the first class, in addition to the suits and applications specified in section ninety-seven, shall have power to try suits and applications of the following descriptions:—

Additional suits and applications cognizable by Assistant Collectors, first class.

(a) suits to eject a tenant for any act or omission detrimental to the land in his occupation, or inconsistent with the purpose for which the land was let;

(b) suits to cancel a lease for any breach of any condition binding on the tenant;

(c) applications by a landholder to eject a tenant with right of occupancy, under section thirty-four;

(d) applications under section thirty-eight by a tenant contesting notice of ejectment;

(e) applications by a landholder under section thirty-nine, for assistance to eject a tenant on whom notice of ejectment has been served;

(f) applications for compensation for illegal dispossession;

(g) applications by a landholder or tenant to determine the amount to be paid as compensation for improvements;

(h) suits for the recovery of any over-payment or rent or for compensation, under section forty-seven or section forty-eight;

(i) suits by co-sharers for their recorded shares of the profits of a mahál or any part thereof, after payment of the Government revenue and village-expenses, or for a settlement of accounts;

(j) applications to recover the occupancy of any land from which a tenant has been illegally dispossessed by the landholder.

99. In addition to the powers specified in sections ninety-seven and ninety-eight, an Assistant Collector of the first class specially empowered by Government in this behalf shall have power to try the following applications:—

Additional suits cognizable by Collector, first class, specially empowered.

(a) applications for enhancement of rent of a privileged or an occupancy-tenant;

(b) applications for abatement of rent;

(c) applications under section twenty-nine for the resumption of rent-free grants, or for the assessment to rent of land hitherto held rent-free;

(d) applications for leases or counterparts, and the determination of the rates of rent at which such leases or counterparts are to be delivered;

(e.) applications to determine the nature or class of a tenant's tenure.

100. The Collector of the District, or any Assistant Collector in charge of a sub-division of a district, or officer in charge of a settlement, may make over any case, or class of cases for inquiry and decision, from his own file, to any of his subordinates competent to deal with such case or class of cases under the provisions of this Act.

Power to make over cases.

101. Collectors of Districts, and Assistant Collectors in charge of sub-divisions of Districts, and officers in charge of a settlement, may, respectively, withdraw any case or class of cases from any Revenue Officers subordinate to them, and may deal with such case or class of cases themselves, or refer it for disposal to any other such Revenue Officer competent to deal with the same under the provisions of this Act.

Power to withdraw cases.

Exercise by Collector of District of powers conferrible on Assistant Collector.

102. The Collector of the District may exercise

(a) all powers given by this Act to Collectors of Districts,

(b) all powers which by this Act are conferred, or can be conferred, on Assistant Collectors.

Investment of officer in charge of sub-division with powers of Collector of District.

The Local Government may invest any officer placed in charge of a sub-division of a district with all or any of the powers conferred by this Act on a Collector of a District.

CHAPTER VI.

PROCEDURE IN SUITS UP TO JUDGMENT.

Place where suits to be instituted.

103. Suits under this Act shall be instituted in the District in which the subject of the suit, or some part thereof, is situate,

Mode of instituting suits. Contents of plaint or statement of claim.

and all such suits shall be commenced by presenting to the Court a plaint or statement of claim, which shall contain—

(a) the name, description and place of abode of the plaintiff;

(b) the name, description and place of abode of the defendant, so far as they can be ascertained;

(c) the subject-matter of the claim, and its amount or value computed according to the Court Fees Act, 1870; and

(d) the date on which the right to sue accrued.

Managers of estates to be deemed landholders.

104. For the purpose of suing or being sued under this Act, the managers of estates, whether held under the Court of Wards or under direct management, shall be deemed to be landholders.

Suits by sharers in a mahál.

105. No co-sharer in an undivided property shall in that character be entitled separately to sue a tenant under this Act unless he is authorized to receive from such tenant the whole of the rent payable by such tenant to all the co-sharers. Save as aforesaid all suits shall in such cases be brought by the lumberdár (if any) entitled to receive the rent or by all the co-sharers jointly.

Statement by whom to be presented.

106. The statement of claim shall be presented by the plaintiff, or by an agent duly authorized on his behalf, who has personal knowledge of the facts of the case, or by an agent accompanied by a person who has such knowledge.

Verification of statement.

The statement of claim shall be subscribed and verified at the foot by the plaintiff or his agent in the manner following, or to the like effect:—

"I, A. B., do declare that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief."

False averment.

If the statement contains any averment which the person making the verification knows or believes to be false, or does not know or believe to be true, he shall be punishable according to the law for the punishment of giving or fabricating false evidence.

Document relied on by plaintiff to be presented with statement.

107. If the plaintiff rely in support of his claim on any document in his possession, he shall deliver the same to the Court at the time of presenting his statement of claim.

Admission afterwards.

Unless such document be so delivered or its non-production be sufficiently excused, or unless the Court see fit to extend the time for producing the same, it shall not afterwards be admitted.

Procuring production of document in possession of defendant.

108. If the plaintiff require the production of any document in the possession or power of the defendant, he may, at the time of presenting his statement of claim, deliver to the Court a description of the document, in order that the defendant may be required to produce the same.

Statement in suits for arrears of rent.

109. If the suit be for the recovery of an arrear of rent, revenue, share of profit, village-expenses, or other due under section ninety-two, the statement shall specify the name of the village and estate, and of the pargana or other local division in which the land is situate:

and, if the suit be for an arrear of rent alleged to be due from any tenant, the summons shall also specify the quantity of land, and (where fields have been numbered in a Government survey) the number of each field, and yearly rent of the land; the amount (if any) received on account of the year for which the claim is made; and in all cases coming under this section the statement shall specify the amount in arrear, and the time in respect of which it is alleged to be due.

Statement in suits for ejectment.

110. If the suit be for the ejectment of a tenant, from any land, the statement shall describe (as circumstances may require) the extent, situation and designation of the land; and, if necessary for its identification, shall set forth it boundaries.

Return or amendment of statement.

111. If the statement of claim do not contain the several particulars hereinbefore required to be specified therein, or be not subscribed and verified as hereinbefore required, the Court may return the statement to the plaintiff, or, at its discretion, allow it to be amended.

Issue of summons.

112. If the statement of claim be in proper form, the Court, except as otherwise hereinafter specially provided, shall direct the issue of a summons to the defendant,

Order for personal attendance or appearance by agent.

and if the plaintiff require the personal attendance of the defendant, and satisfy the Court that such attendance is necessary, or the Court of its own accord require such attendance, the summons shall contain an order for the defendant to appear personally on a day to be specified in the summons.

If the plaintiff or the Court does not require the personal attendance of the defendant, the summons shall order the defendant to appear either personally or by an agent duly authorized on his behalf, who has personal knowledge of the subject, or is accompanied by a person who has such personal knowledge.

Fixing of day to be specified in the summons.

113. The day to be specified in the summons shall be fixed with reference to the state of the file and the distance that the defendant may be or be supposed to be at the time from the place where the Court is held,

and the summons shall order the defendant to produce any document in his possession or power of which the plaintiff demands inspection, or upon which the defendant relies in support of his defence.

Order to produce documents.

It shall also direct him to bring with him his witnesses, if they are willing to attend without issue of process, and shall be in the form D contained in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

Order to bring witnesses.

114. The summons shall be served by delivering a copy thereof to the defendant personally when practicable;

Mode of serving summons.

or, if the copy cannot be delivered to the defendant personally, by affixing copy of the summons to some conspicuous part of his usual residence, and also affixing a copy of the same in the Collector's Office.

115. If the summons be served by delivering a copy to the defendant personally, the Názir shall endorse on the summons the fact of such service.

Endorsement on summons.

If personal service be not effected, the Názir shall endorse on the summons the reason of not serving it personally, and how it has been served.

116. If the usual residence of the defendant be in another district, the summons, together with the cost of the service thereof, shall be sent by the public post to the Collector of such District, who shall issue the summons, and return the same, after service, with the prescribed endorsement, to the officer by whom it was transmitted to him.

Service of summons in another district.

117. The amount of the cost of serving the summons,

Deposit of cost of serving summons or warrant.

or, if a warrant be issued as provided in the next succeeding section, of serving the warrant, shall in all cases be deposited in Court by the plaintiff within such time before the issue of such summons or warrant as is fixed by the Court issuing the process.

If the said amount be not so deposited (except in cases in which the Court in exercise of the discretion reserved to it in section eighty-eight allows the summons to be issued gratis), the case shall be struck off the file of suits;

Effect of failure to deposit.

but in such case the plaintiff may present another plaint at any time within the period allowed by the rules herein contained for the limitation of suits.

118. a.—If in any suit against a tenant for the recovery of an arrear of rent, or in any suit for the recovery of an arrear of revenue, or a share of profits or village-expenses or other dues, the plaintiff desires a warrant of arrest to be issued against the defendant, such defendant being resident within the district in which the suit is instituted, the plaintiff shall present, with his statement of claim, an application for the issue of such warrant.

Procedure when plaintiff desires issue of warrant of arrest.

b.—When such application is presented, the Court shall examine the plaintiff or his agent, according to the law for the time being in force in relation to the examination of witnesses, and inspect the documents adduced by him in support of his claim; and if primâ facie it appear to the Court that the claim is well founded, and that, if a summons be issued, the defendant will abscond instead of appearing to answer the claim, the Court may issue a warrant for his arrest.

c.—The Court shall fix a reasonable time for the return of the warrant, and the officer entrusted with the service thereof shall, at the time of arresting the defendant, deliver to him a notice addressed to the defendant containing the particulars of the claim, and requiring the defendant, if he contest the claim, to bring with him any document upon which he relies in support of his defence.

d.—Every warrant issued and notice delivered under this section, shall be respectively in the forms E and F in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

119. If a defendant be arrested under the warrant of arrest, he shall be brought with all convenient speed before the Court, and the Court shall commit him to custody, unless he deposit in Court such sum as may be specified in the notice.

Procedure after arrest of defendant.

120. When a defendant is brought before the Court under warrant, the Court shall with all convenient speed proceed to try the case in the manner hereinafter provided;

Procedure when defendant is brought before Court under warrant.

and if the suit cannot be at once adjudicated, the Court may, if it think fit, require the defendant to give security for his appearance whenever the same may be required at any time whilst the suit is pending, or until execution of the final decree which may be passed thereon, and may commit him to the civil jail to be there detained until he furnishes such security or deposit such sum as the Court orders.

The security-bond shall be in the form G contained in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

Form of security-bond.

121. If the defendant cannot be arrested under the warrant, the Court, on the application of the plaintiff, shall either postpone the case for such period as to it seems proper, in order that the plaintiff may apply within the said period for another warrant to be issued for the arrest of the defendant, or shall forthwith issue a proclamation, to be affixed in its own office and at the residence of the defendant, appointing a day for the hearing of the case, which shall not be less than ten days from the date of the publication of the notice, at the residence of the defendant.

Procedure when defendant cannot be arrested under warrant.

If the defendant appear in pursuance of the proclamation, he shall be dealt with as provided in the last preceding section.

Compensation for arrest applied for without reasonable cause.

122. If it appear to the Court that the arrest of the defendant was applied for without reasonable cause, the Court may, in its decree, award to him such sum not exceeding one hundred rupees as it may deem a reasonable compensation for any injury or loss which he has sustained by reason of such arrest, or of his detention in jail during the pendency of the suit.

Consequence of neither party appearing on day fixed.

123. If on the day fixed by the summons or proclamation for the appearance of the defendant, or on any subsequent day to which the hearing of the case may be adjourned prior to the recording of an issue for trial as hereinafter provided, neither of the parties appear in person or by an agent, the case may be struck off, with liberty to the plaintiff to bring a fresh suit, unless precluded by the rules herein contained for the limitation of suits.

Judgment by default.

124. If on any such day the defendant only appear, the Court shall pass judgment against the plaintiff by default, unless the defendant admit the plaintiff's right to the relief which he claims, in which case the Court shall proceed to give judgment for the plaintiff upon such admission without costs:

Decree upon admission of claim.

Proviso.

Provided that such judgment, if there be more than one defendant, shall be only against the defendant who makes the admission.

If plaintiff only appear, Court may proceed ex parte.

125. If on any such day the plaintiff only appear, the Court, upon proof that the summons or proclamation has been duly served according to the provisions of this Act, shall proceed to examine the plaintiff or his agent, and after considering the allegations of the plaintiff, and any documentary or other evidence adduced by him, may either dismiss the case or postpone the hearing of it to a future day for the attendance of any witness the plaintiff may wish to call, or may pass judgment ex parte against the defendant.

If defendant appear on adjourned hearing, Court may allow him to be heard in answer.

126. If the defendant appear on any subsequent day to which the hearing of the suit is postponed under the last preceding section, the Court may, upon such conditions, if any, as to costs or otherwise as it thinks proper, allow the defendant to be heard in answer to the suit as if he had appeared on the day fixed for his attendance.

No appeal from judgment ex parte or by default;

127. No appeal shall lie from a judgment passed ex parte against a defendant who has not appeared, or from a judgment against a plaintiff by default for non-appearance.

but Court may revive suit and alter or rescind decree.

But in all such cases if the party against whom judgment has been given appears, either in person or by agent, if a plaintiff, within fifteen days from the date of the Court's order, and, if a defendant, within fifteen days after any process for enforcing the judgment has been executed, or at any earlier period, and shows good and sufficient cause for his previous non-appearance, and satisfies the Court that there has been a failure of justice, the Court may, upon such terms and conditions as to costs or otherwise as it thinks proper, revive the suit and alter or rescind the decree, according to the justice of the case.

Adverse party to be summoned.

But no decree shall be reversed or altered without previously summoning the adverse party to appear and be heard in support of it.

Examination and cross-examination of parties.

128. When both parties appear in person or by agent on the day named in the summons, or upon any subsequent day to which the hearing of the case may be adjourned, for sufficient reason to be recorded by the Court, the Court shall proceed to examine such of the parties as may be present, and either party or his agent may cross-examine the other party or his agent.

Examination and cross-examination of agents.

129. If either of the parties be not bound to attend personally, any agent by whom he appears or any person accompanying such agent, may be examined and cross-examined in like manner as the party himself would have been if he had attended personally.

Defendant may file written statement.

130. At the time of the examination, the defendant may, if he think fit, file a written statement in his defence.

Mode of examination.

131. The examination of the parties or their agents or such other persons as aforesaid shall be according to the law for the time being in force relative to the examination of witnesses.

The substance of the examination shall be reduced to writing in the vernacular language of the presiding officer, and shall be filed with the record.

Witness produced may be examined.

132. If either of the parties produce a witness on such day, the presiding officer may take the evidence of such witness.

Document relied on by defendant to be produced at first hearing.

133. If the defendant rely on any document in support of his defence, he shall deliver the same into Court at the first hearing of the suit:

and unless such document be so delivered, or its non-production be sufficiently excused, or unless the presiding officer see fit to extend the time for delivering the same, it shall not afterwards be admitted.

Decree after examination, if no further evidence is required.

134. If after the examination required by section one hundred and twenty-eight, and also the examination of any witness who may attend to give evidence on behalf of either of the parties, and after a consideration of the documentary evidence adduced, a decree can be properly made without further evidence, the Court shall make its decree accordingly.

Party to attend in person when his agent is unable to answer.

135. If on such examination as aforesaid either party be absent and his agent be unable to answer any material question relating to the case which the Court is of opinion that the party whom he represents ought to answer, and is likely to be able to answer if interrogated in person, the Court may postpone the hearing of the case to a future day, and direct that the party whose agent was unable to answer as aforesaid shall attend in person on such day;

Judgment or order if he fail to appear.

and if such party fails to appear in person on the day appointed, the Court may pass judgment as in case of default, or make such other order as it deems proper in the circumstances of the case.

Procedure when parties at issue on question requiring evidence.

136. If on such examination as aforesaid it appear that the parties are at issue on any question upon which it is necessary to hear further evidence, the Court shall declare and record such issue, and shall fix a convenient day for the examination of witnesses and the trial of the suit; and the trial shall take place on that day, unless there be sufficient reason for adjourning it, which reason shall be recorded by the Court.

Parties to produce witnesses or procure attendance by summons.

137. The parties shall produce their witnesses on the day of trial, and if either party require assistance to procure the attendance of a witness on such day, either to give evidence or to produce a document, he shall apply to the Court in sufficient time before the day fixed for the trial, to enable the witness to be summoned to attend on that day; and the Court shall thereupon issue a summons requiring such witness to attend.

Provisions regarding attendance, examination, &c., of witnesses.

138. The law and rules for the time being in force relating to the evidence of witnesses, for procuring the attendance of witnesses and the production of documents, and for the examination, remuneration and punishment of witnesses, whether parties to the case or not, in cases before the Civil Courts, shall, except so far as may be inconsistent with the provisions herein contained, apply to suits under this Act.

Case to be struck off if neither party appears.

139. If on the day fixed for the trial of any issue neither of the parties appear, the case may be struck off, with liberty to the plaintiff to bring a fresh suit, unless precluded by the rules herein contained for the limitation of suits.

Trial of issue ex parte.

If on any such day one only of the parties appear, the issue may be tried and determined in the absence of the other party, upon such evidence as may be then before the Court.

Provisions to apply when suits are instituted or defended on behalf of landholders by agents.

140. When suits under this Act are instituted or defended by authorised agents employed in the collection of rent or management of land, in the name and on the behalf of the landholders by whom they are so employed, all the provisions of this Act, by which the personal appearance or attendance of parties to a suit is or may be required, shall be applicable to such agents; and anything which, by this Act, is required or permitted to be done by a party in person, may be done by any such person as aforesaid.

Processes served on such agents.

Processes served on any such agent shall be as effectual for all purposes in relation to the suit, as if the same had been served on the landholder in person:

and all the provisions of this Act relative to the service of processes on a party to the suit shall be applicable to the service of processes on such agent.

Personal attendance of female plaintiff or defendant when not required.

141. A female plaintiff or defendant shall not be required to attend in person, if she be of a rank or class which, according to the custom and manners of the country, would render it improper for her to appear in public.

Parties may employ agents or mukhtárs;

142. Any party to a suit may employ an authorized agent or mukhtár to conduct the case on his behalf:

Personal attendance when not excused.

But the employment of such agent or mukhtár shall not excuse the personal attendance of the plaintiff or defendant, in cases where his personal attendance is required by the summons, or any order of the Court;

Fee for agents not chargeable as costs.

and no fee for any agent or mukhtár shall be charged as part of the costs of suit in any case under this Act, unless the Court certify that, under the circumstances of the case, such fee is proper to be allowed.

Court may grant time or adjourn hearing.

143. The Court may in any case grant time to the plaintiff or defendant to proceed in the prosecution or defence of a suit, and may also, from time to time, in order to the production of further evidence, or for other sufficient reason to be recorded by the Court, adjourn the hearing of any case, to such day as to it may seem fit.

Court may cause local enquiry and report, or may itself enquire.

144. The presiding officer may, at any stage of a case, cause a local inquiry and report respecting the matter in dispute to be made by any officer subordinate to it, or by any other officer of Government, with the consent of the authority to whom such officer is subordinate, or may himself proceed to the spot, and make such local inquiry in person.

Provisions applied to such enquiry.

The provisions of the law for the time being in force relative to local inquiries by Amíns or Commissioners, under orders of the civil courts, shall apply to any local inquiry made by any officer under this section, and, so far as they are applicable, to inquiries made by the presiding officer of the court in person.

Record in case of enquiry by Court.

In the latter case the presiding officer, after completing the inquiry, shall record such observations as appear to him appropriate, and the observations so recorded shall form part of the proceedings in the suit.

Defendant may pay admitted debt and cost into Court.

145. The defendant in any suit under this Act may pay into Court such sum of money as he thinks a full satisfaction for the demand of the plaintiff, together with the costs incurred by the plaintiff up to the time of such payment, and such sums shall be paid to the plaintiff.

Plaintiff chargeable with subsequent costs if he proceed and recover no further sum.

If the defendant deposit less than the sum claimed and the plaintiff elect to proceed in the case, and ultimately recover no further sum than has been paid into Court, the plaintiff shall be charged with any costs incurred by the defendant in the suit after such payment.

No interest to plaintiff after date of deposit by defendant.

146. No interest shall be allowed to a plaintiff on any sum paid by the defendant into the Court from the date of such payment, whether such sum be in full of the plaintiff's claim, or fall short thereof.

In suits where right to receive rent is disputed, third person who has received it to be made a party.

147. When in any suit between a landholder and a tenant under this Act, the right to receive the rent of the land or tenure cultivated or held by the tenant is disputed on the ground that some third person has actually and in good faith received and enjoyed such rent before and up to the time when the right to sue accrued, such third person may be made a party to the suit, and the question of such receipt and enjoyment of the rent by such third person may be enquired into, and the suit shall be decided according to the result of such enquiry:

Saving of right to sue in Civil Court to prove title to rent.

Provided that the decision of the Court shall not affect the right of either party entitled to the rent of such land, to establish his title by suit in the Civil Court, if instituted within one year from the date of the decision.

Court may order tenant to repair damage caused by certain acts or omissions.

148. Whenever a decree is given for the ejectment of a tenant, or the cancelment of his lease, on account of any act or omission by which the land in his occupation has been damaged, or which is inconsistent with the purpose for which the land has been demised, the Court may, if it think fit, allow the tenant to repair such damage within one month from the date of the decree, or order him to pay such compensation, or make such other order in the case, as the Court thinks fit, and if such damage be so repaired, or compensation paid, or order obeyed, the decree shall not be executed.

Delivery of judgment.

149. Every judgment under this chapter shall be pronounced in open Court.

Language and contents.

150. The judgment shall be written in the vernacular language of the presiding officer and shall contain the reasons for the same, and shall be dated and signed by the presiding officer at the time it is pronounced:

When it may be in English.

Provided that the judgment may be written in English, if the presiding officer is able to write a clear and intelligible decision in that language.

Power to hold Court in any place within district.

151. Every officer invested with powers under this Act may hold a Court for hearing and determining suits under this Act in any place within the limits of the district to which he is appointed.

Every hearing shall be in open Court, and the parties to the suit or their authorized agents shall have due notice to attend in such place.

CHAPTER VII.

PROCEDURE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE.

Mode of executing decree for ejectment of tenant.

152. If the decree be for the ejectment of any tenant from land occupied by him, the decree shall be executed by giving the possession or occupancy of the land to the person entitled by the decree thereto.

Magistrate to give it effect in case of opposition.

If any opposition is made to the execution of the order for giving such possession or occupancy, by the party against whom the order is made, the Magistrate on the application of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, shall give effect to the same.

Power to order detention in, or commitment to, civil jail, in certain cases.

153. If the decree or order be for the payment of arrears of rent, or of money, or for the delivery of papers or accounts, and the defendant has been committed to jail, or appear in Court pursuant to the conditions of any security-bond given under section one hundred and twenty, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may order that he be detained in, or committed to, the civil jail, unless he immediately pay into court the amount of the decree with costs, or otherwise comply with the terms of the decree or order.

Process against surety on failure to deliver judgment-debtor into custody.

154. If the judgment-debtor has given security for his appearance, and is not present when judgment is pronounced, and the surety fails to deliver him into custody when required so to do, process of execution may be taken out against the surety in the same manner as if a decree for the amount due by the debtor had been passed against the surety.

Process of execution against person or property, but not both.

155. A writ of execution may be issued against either the person or the property of a judgment-debtor;

but process shall not be issued simultaneously against both person and property.

Applications on which it may issue.

Such writ may be issued on the oral application of the judgment-creditor, his agent, or mukhtár, made at the time the decree is passed, or thereafter, upon the written application of the judgment-creditor, his agent, or mukhtár.

Form of writ of execution.

Writ of execution against the person or moveable property of a debtor shall be in the form H or I contained in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

Execution against moveable property.

156. Any moveable property required to be seized under an execution shall, if practicable, be described in a list to be furnished by the judgment-creditor;

but, if the creditor is unable to furnish such list, he may apply for a general attachment of the debtor's effects, to the amount of the judgment and costs.

In either case, the property to be seized shall be pointed out to the officer entrusted with execution of the process by the creditor, or his agent:

Articles excepted from attachment.

Provided that no implements of husbandry, or cattle actually employed in agriculture, or tools of artisans, shall be attached under this section.

Date and duration of writs.

157. Every writ of execution shall bear date on the day on which it is signed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and shall continue in force for such period as he may direct (not being more than sixty days) calculated from such date.

Second and successive writs.

158. Second and successive writs of execution may be issued by order of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector on the application of the judgment-creditor, after the expiration of the period fixed for the continuance in force of a previous warrant.

After one year execution not to issue without notice to party concerned.

159. Process of execution shall not be issued upon any judgment without previous notice to the party against whom execution is applied for, if, when application for the issue of the process is made, a period of more than one year shall have elapsed from the date of the judgment, or from the date of the last previous application for execution.

Execution not to issue against heir or representative of deceased party without notice.

160. Execution on a judgment shall not issue against the heir or other representative of a deceased party, unless notice to appear and be heard have been previously served on such heir or other representative.

No process of execution after three years, if judgment be for sum not exceeding 500 rupees.

161. No process of execution shall be issued on a judgment under this Act, after the lapse of three years from the date of such judgment, unless the judgment be for a sum exceeding five hundred rupees;

Regulation of period in such cases.

in which case the period within which execution may be had shall be regulated by the general rules in force in respect to the period allowed for the execution of decrees of the Civil Court.

Procedure in execution of writ against person.

162. If a writ issue for taking any person in execution, the officer charged with the execution of the writ shall bring him with all convenient speed before the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector.

If such person does not then deposit in Court the full amount specified in the writ, or make such arrangement for the payment of the same as is satisfactory to the judgment-creditor, or satisfy the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector that he has no present means of paying the same amount,

the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall send him to the civil jail there to remain for such time as may be directed by a warrant addressed to the keeper of the jail, unless in the meantime he pays the full amount, for the payment of which he is liable under the decree:

Limit of imprisonment.

Provided that the time for which a debtor may be confined in execution of a decree under this Act, shall not exceed three months when the amount decreed (exclusive of costs) does not exceed fifty rupees, or six months when such amount does not exceed five hundred rupees, or two years in any other case.

No person to be imprisoned a second time under same judgment.

163. Any person once discharged from jail shall not be imprisoned a second time under the same judgment.

When further liability extinguished.

If the amount due under the decree do not exceed one hundred rupees, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may declare such discharged person absolved from further liability under that decree.

When not extinguished.

In other cases the discharge shall not extinguish the liability of the discharged person under the decree, or exempt any property belonging to such person from attachment in execution of the same.

Diet-money to be deposited at time of issue of warrant.

164. Every person applying for the issue of a warrant of arrest under section one hundred and eighteen, or suing out process of execution against the person of any judgment-debtor, shall deposit in Court, when the warrant issues, diet-money for thirty days at such rate not exceeding two annas per diem, as the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may direct, unless for any special reason he directs that deposit be made at a higher rate, which shall not exceed four annas per diem.

Effect of non-payment of diet-money in advance during imprisonment.

165. Payment of diet-money at the same rate shall be made previously to the commencement of each succeeding month of the imprisonment, on failure of which the party confined shall be discharged.

166. All diet-money spent in providing subsistence for any prisoner shall be added to the costs in the suit,

Diet-money spent to be costs in suit.

and any diet-money not so spent shall be returned to the person who deposited the same.

Refund of remainder.

167. In executing a writ of execution against the moveable property of a debtor liable under this Act, the officer charged with the execution of the writ shall prepare a list of the property pointed out by the judgment-creditor, and shall publish a proclamation, specifying the day upon which the sale is intended to be held, together with a copy of the said list, at the intended place of sale and at the residence of the debtor.

Procedure in executing writ against moveable property.

A copy of the said proclamation and list shall be sent to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and shall be affixed in his office.

168. No moveable property taken in execution under this Act shall be sold before the expiration of ten days next after the day on which such property is so taken.

Time to elapse before sale of moveable property.

Until such sale the property shall be deposited in some fit place, or it may remain in custody of some fit person approved by the officer executing the writ.

Custody meanwhile.

The provisions of sections seventy-three to seventy-seven (both inclusive) so far as the same are applicable, shall apply to sales under this section.

Provisions applied to sale.

169. No irregularity in publishing or conducting a sale of any moveable property under an execution shall vitiate such sale,

Sale not vitiated by regularity in publishing or conducting it.

but any person injured by such irregularity may recover compensation for such injury by suit in the Civil Court:

Right to sue for compensation.

Provided that such suit be brought within one year from the date of sale.

Limitation.

170. In the execution of any decree for the payment of money under this Act, if satisfaction of the judgment cannot be obtained by execution against the person or moveable property of the debtor, the judgment-creditor may apply for execution against any immoveable property belonging to such debtor, and such property may be sold under the rules contained in the North-Western Provinces Land Revenue Act, 1873, regulating the sale of land for arrears of land-revenue, but without prejudice to the incumbrances (if any) to which it is subject.

In executing decrees for money, when execution may be applied for against immoveable property.

171. If the immoveable property against which execution is applied for be other than a mahál, or share of a mahál, process shall be issued in the same manner as for the attachment and sale of moveable property: and the provisions of sections one hundred and sixty-seven, one hundred and sixty-eight, and one hundred and sixty-nine shall be applicable.

Process when the immoveable property is not a mahál.

172. When such property is a mahál, or a share of a mahal, the decree shall be sent for execution to the Collector of the District in which such property is situate,

Process when it is a mahál.

and if the judgment-debtor satisfies the Collector of the District that there is reasonable ground to believe that the amount of the judgment-debt may be raised by mortgage of the property, or by letting it on lease, or by disposing by private sale of a portion of the property or any other property belonging to the judgment-debtor, the Collector of the District may, on the application of the judgment-debtor, postpone the sale for such period as the Collector of the District thinks proper to enable the judgment-debtor to raise the amount, and if the judgment-debtor satisfies his creditor, the execution shall be stayed, and the Collector shall report the fact to the Court by which the decree was made.

But if the judgment-debtor fails to satisfy his creditor within the period so fixed, the Collector of the District shall cause an accurate rent-roll of the property to be prepared, and ascertain the annual income derivable therefrom.

173. If in the opinion of the Collector of the District such income is sufficient to pay off the judgment-debt with interest at six per cent. per annum, within any period not exceeding fifteen years from the date of the decree, he may transfer the property to the judgment-creditor, or if the judgment-creditor refuse to take it, to some other person, or he may hold it under his own management, for such period not exceeding fifteen years, as may be sufficient for the recovery of the debt with interest as aforesaid, and on such conditions as to the payment of such debt and interest as he deem expedient.

Power to transfer property to judgment-creditor.

Orders passed under this section shall be subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Division and the Board, but shall not be open to appeal to the Civil Court.

174. If in the opinion of the Collector of the District the recovery of the debt under section one hundred and seventy-three is impossible, or if the sale of the property appear to him advisable on other grounds, he shall report the case for orders to the Board.

Report of case to Board.

175. On the receipt of such report, the Board may make, or cause to be made, any further endeavours for the recovery of the debt under the provisions of section one hundred and seventy-three, as to it may seem practicable.

Procedure on receipt of report.

176. If it appear to the Board that the debt cannot be recovered under section one hundred and seventy-three, or if the sale of the property appear to it advisable on other grounds, it shall order the property to be sold, in which case the sale shall be made under the rules in force for the sale of land for arrears of land revenue, but without prejudice to the incumbrances (if any) to which such property may be subject.

Power to order sale of property.

177. If before the day fixed for any sale of any property under this Act, a third party appear before the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and claim a right or interest to or in any of the property, he shall examine such party or his agent, according to the law for the time being in force relative to the examination of witnesses,

Examination of third party claiming interest in property.

and, if he see sufficient reason for so doing, may stay the sale of such property.

Stay of sale.

178. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may adjudicate upon such claim, and make such order as he thinks fit between the claimant and the plaintiff and defendant in the original suit.

Adjudication of such claims.

In deciding such claim, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall be guided by the rules contained in this Act, so far as they may be applicable.

Rules applied.

179. If the claimant fail to establish his right to the property taken in execution, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may, at the time of disposing of the case, order him to pay to the judgment-creditor the costs of the proceedings on the claim, and also such sum as he thinks sufficient to cover any loss of interest or damage which the judgment-creditor may have sustained by reason of the postponement of the sale of the property.

Compensation awardable against claimant failing to establish right.

180. No appeal shall lie from any order passed under section one hundred and seventy-eight or section one hundred and seventy-nine.

No appeal from order under sections 178, 179.

But the party against whom the same is given may bring a suit in the Civil Court to establish his right at any time within one year from the date of the order:

Right to sue in Civil Court.

Provided that, if the order be for the sale of the property taken in execution, the suit shall not be for the recovery of such property, but shall be for compensation from the judgment-creditor by whom it was brought to sale.

Proviso.

CHAPTER VIII.

CHAPTER IX.

MISCELLANEOUS.

201. In computing the period of limitation prescribed for any suit under this Act, the day on which the right to sue accrued shall be excluded.

Time to be excluded in computing limitation period.

In computing the period of limitation prescribed for any appeal under this Act, the day on which the judgment or order complained of was pronounced and the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree or order appealed against shall be excluded.

Rule as to last day for presentation or deposit, when Court is closed on such day.

202. Whenever a Court is closed on the last day of any period provided in this Act for the presentation of any memorandum of appeal, or for the deposit or payment of any money in or into Court, the day on which the Court re-opens shall be deemed to be such last day.

Power of Local Government to make rules.

203. The Local Government may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) for the guidance of officers in determining the rent payable by privileged tenants under sections thirteen, fifteen and seventeen,

(b) for the guidance of officers assessing rent under section twenty-nine,

(c) as to the dates on which instalments of rent shall fall due.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Power of Board to make rules.

The Board of Revenue, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act,

(d) as to the procedure to be followed on all applications under section ninety-four,

(e) as to the reference of suits and such applications to arbitration,

(f) and generally for the guidance of all persons in matters connected with the enforcement of this Act.

Instalments when to be deemed in arrear.

204. When the Local Government has made a rule fixing the date on which instalment of rent shall fall due, no such instalment shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be in arrear unless it remains unpaid after the date fixed by such rule.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE.

FORM A. (See section 50.)

I, A. B. of do solemnly declare that I did personally, or by my agent C. B., on the day of , tender payment to E. F. of the sum of Rs. as and for the whole amount due from me on account of rent from the month of to the month of both inclusive. I further declare that the said E. F. refused to accept the sum so tendered, and to give a receipt in full for the same, and I do declare that, to the best of my belief, the sum of rupees —— so tendered, and which I now desire to pay into Court, is the full amount I owe the said E. F.

FORM B. (See section 51.)

Court of the Collector of , dated the day of .

To E. F. &c.

With reference to the written declaration of A. B., you are hereby informed that the sum of rupees therein mentioned is now in deposit in this Court, and that the above sum will be paid to you, or to your duly authorized agent, on application.

[This is to be written on a copy of the declaration in Schedule made by the person paying the money into Court.]

FORM C. (See section 68.)

FORM OF NOTICE TO OWNER OF DISTRAINED PROPERTY.

Office of Commissioner for sale of distrained property.

A. B., Distrainer.

[Name, description and address of the owner of the property.]

Whereas the said A. B. has applied to have the distrained property specified below sold for the recovery of alleged to be due to him as arrears of rent, you are hereby required either to pay the said sum to the said A. B., or to institute a suit before the Collector to contest the demand within fifteen days from the receipt of this notice, failing which the property will be sold.

Dated this day of 187 .

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, REVENUE, AND COMMERCE.

REPORT ON THE SURVEY OF THE BOUNDARY BETWEEN MUNIPUR AND THE NIGA HILLS TRACT, BY MAJOR H. H. GODWIN-AUSTIN, F.R.G.S., &c., DEPUTY SUPERINTENDENT, TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEY OF INDIA.

No. 42A, dated Shillong, the 14th June 1873.

From—Major H. H. GODWIN-AUSTEN, F.R.G.S., &c., Dy. Supdt., Topographical Survey,
To—The Surveyor General of India.

I HAVE the honor to forward report on the operations connected with the Munipur and Naga Hills Boundary Survey.

2. I left Calcutta on the 20th November, and proceeded to Khústia and thence by steamer up the Bráhmápútra to Dunsiri Múkh, where I found Mr. Ogle and Mr. McCay, with establishment told off for the Naga hills, awaiting my arrival; they had preceded me from Gowhatty a day or two by another steamer. Leaving Mr. McCay to proceed to his ground in the Mikir Hills close by, I took the remainder of the party on to Ningri Ting, arriving there on the 10th December. Golaghat was reached on the 12th, delayed there five days while 35 coolies were being collected, and marched on the 18th for Sámágúting. Captain Butler met me that day at the Namba hot-spring, and rode back the same evening to Borpathar after we had discussed our plans for the season's survey.

3. Sámágúting was reached on the 24th, and every thing was ready for a final start into the hills on the 27th, when I left with Mr. Ogle to take up the preliminary triangulation. Captain Butler started the same day (27th December) for Kenoma or Poplongmai, to meet the Political Agent of Munipur, and we were to all meet again at Kohima. On the 28th visited the Trigonometrical station of Kadinba with Mr. Ogle to fix the plane-tables and build the mark, and commenced work selecting trigonometrical stations, &c. As, prior to an advance eastwards, it was very necessary to extend the triangulation, and fix as many points as possible on the distant ranges, the plan of operations was as follows. Mr. Ogle was to visit and observe at the stations of Rékromah, Nidzúkrú, and back to Kadinba, and at the same time to sketch in as much of the country he passed over as possible on the ½-inch scale, and thus fill in sheets $\frac{\text{lat } 25°30' \text{ to } 26°}{\text{long } 94° \text{ to } 94°30}$ portions of which he had already done in a previous season. I was to proceed to Japvo Peak, the highest point on the Burrail, clear it, and connect with the old stations of Paona and Kadinba, observe angles to Mr. Ogle's new stations, then go on to Tellizo Peak, and, after fixing a few points on the disputed boundary line near the Sopvomah group, be ready to take up, in unison with the Political Agents, the survey of such boundary they might agree upon on a larger scale, and thus complete that portion of the work the Government were so anxious should be completed before any further advance was made.

4. Owing to a bad fall Captain Butler met with on march near Jotsomah, the Political Agents did not reach Kohima until the 3rd January 1873, but the intervening time was well spent in plane-tabling the country around. The same day (3rd), after arranging that the whole party should rendezvous at the village of Kidimah in about 14 days' time, Mr. Ogle marched for Rékromah with a guard of 15 constables of the Naga Hill Police, and, accompanied by another party, I left for Kigwémah, situated under the Burrail, and whence the ascent of Japvo was practicable. On the 4th, leaving tents and heavy baggage below, we made the ascent, starting at 9 A. M., and reaching the summit at about 4 P.M., a most laborious climb through forest, the path requiring to be cleared in many parts. Camp had to be formed 1,000 feet below the peak, as the last portion of the way led up over rocks where men with heavy loads could not well make their way; water would have been also too far off; it was already a two hours' ascent distant. The weather was very unpropitious; for four days driving cloud hid everything. The cold at this elevation just under 10,000 feet was very great all day, falling to 22° at night. During this time the clearing was in progress, and some 40 Nagas of Kigwémah came up and took a share in it with the Khási coolies.

5. After a heavy fall of sleet and snow on the night of the 9th January, there was a sign of a break in the weather, and it was clearing fast, when early next morning I reached the summit. By working very hard, the Khásis and Goorkha calashies cleared the way to Paona through the forest, and that station could be well seen by the evening. Mr. Ogle's marks were also up. The fine peak we had just seen the apex of from Kadinba H. S. came into view the last thing about sunset, then a fine snow-capped cone (since found to be 12,600 feet high), the highest yet observed south of the Bráhmápútra. It was too late that day to commence observing, but much work was done on plane-table. On the 10th January, all the angles, vertical and horizontal, were observed; it was punishing work, for the wind blew very cold, and at times my hands were powerless to clamp or unclamp the instrument. During the previous bad weather, the moisture-laden clouds meeting the cold air of the ridge, precipitated their moisture in hoar frost on the trees, which were covered with ice spicules two inches in length, having a beautiful effect; when a gleam of sunshine broke out, and as the clouds now and then cleared, the whole range appeared as if covered with snow. True flakes of snow seldom fell, but heavy falls of sleet occurred several times, leaving the ground quite white.

6. The view from Japvo was superb, one of the finest I have ever seen. On the north, over the valley of the Bráhmápútra, covered with a pall of white sea-like fog, out of which at 100 miles distant rose the snowy peaks of the Western Bhútan Himáláyá. East, over the gradually ascending main range beautifully broken into well-marked peaks, all over 11,000. The main ridges trending to the north, and ending in the low intricate hills, upon the plain of Assam near Nazirah. To the south, a low depression in the mass of the hills allowed a portion of the valley of Munipur to be seen with the higher hills beyond in the Kamhow Kúki country. On the south-east, the peak of Japvo falls almost perpendicularly into the valley below 4,000 feet, and the eye follows this lateral valley to its junction with the Zúllo, the large Naga villages shewing clear on all the commanding points of the many spurs thrown off from the Burrail. On the 12th I joined the Political Agents at Kidimah, and commenced the survey on one inch-to-mile scale of the line of boundary they had determined on. This leaves the line of main watershed of the Peak of Khúnho, takes a sweep round to the north, and again rejoins the watershed at the Peak of Tellizo, thus giving over the Sopvomah or Mao group of villages to Munipur. * * * * *

* * * * * * * *

7. While working in this part, Munipuris under Major Romah Sing were in our camp. They could neither collect supplies in the Mao or Sopvomah group, or even in villages like Sikhámi on the watershed, yet Captain Butler could obtain any amount; this was partly owing, no doubt, to the fact that the Munipuris never pay for any supplies they obtain, partly to the determination on the part of the villagers to shew they were not in any way under Munipuri authority, although they were repeatedly told they were to be in future under that State. * *

* * * * * * * *

8. Boundary pillars were set up to mark the new line at both its extremities, and across the spur between the Zúllo and Sijjo rivers; three of these are trigonometrical stations. On the 17th, Major Romah Sing (the Raja not being satisfied with this new line) announced his intention of knocking them all down; this would have at once brought matters to a crisis, and completely stopped the progress of the triangulation and survey of the line. However, owing to the firm attitude assumed by Captain Butler, the Munipuris did not carry out their design, and the survey of this part of the ground, 30 miles on the inch scale, was completed, and the original submitted to your office on the 24th January. The Major then, by orders to the guard and coolies supplied to Colonel Mowbray Thomson by the Raja, tried to prevent that officer moving with us to the extreme point of this new line of boundary, but eventually they were allowed to go as far as Kézákenomi just below Tellizo; the reason for this action was soon apparent. The day we arrived in that village, news from the other side of the high range was brought in that a Munipuri force of 400 sepoys, Kukis, &c., was encamped on the Lanier, and were threatening certain villages on that side; this news was confirmed on our return to Kézákenomi a few days afterwards. The anxiety of the Munipuris and attempt to prevent our moving in this direction was now apparent, but this act of Munipur was the more glaring from the fact of the Raja having lately declared in letter his inability to provide a proper escort for the survey of the watershed line, owing, as he stated, to financial difficulties brought about by the late Lushai expedition.

9. As neither guard nor coolies with Colonel Thomson would go any further, it became necessary to return to Sikhámi, give the Munipur Major another chance, or arrange in some way for that officer's advance with us. Before leaving, the villages of Kézákenomi promised to send up and clear the Kopamedza Peak, and I left two Goorkhas with them to assist and shew how to build the mark. This was up by the 26th, and that day Thizámi must have been burnt. Gaziphimi had been destroyed on or about the 23rd. The trigonometrical mark over Razámi shewed the raiding force we were close by, and they retired without making the attempt to take it, as they had intended. The return to Sikhámi was of no avail, and we only lost three good days by doing so. Neither Romah Sing, guard, or coolies would proceed with the Political Agent, and that officer then decided to leave every thing behind and go on with us, and by reducing, we were enabled to supply the coolies. We returned to Kézákenomi on the 25th, crossed the Kopamedza range on the 28th to Razámi, and found that all the Naga information regarding the Munipuri force was correct.

10. The next day ascended to the peak which had been cleared by the men of both Kézákenomi and Razámi, and observed all the angles, assisted by Mr. Ogle, who was sketching this part on the ½-inch scale; the weather was extremely fine, and the distant ranges all in view. On the 30th we marched through the site of Thizámi to Gaziphimi, where the people were living in hurriedly-constructed huts of boughs and the few mats they had saved. The stockaded camp of the Munipuri force was seen on the banks of the Lanier below the village; we heard all the details of the attack, and it appeared they had never visited these villages before. It was a trial expedition to see whether they could bring these villages to pay up their demands, and, had it succeeded, it would have been brought forward to establish their claim of long occupation and attachment.

11. On the 31st, Mr. Ogle and myself proceeded to the east, plane-tabling, and on the 1st February marched towards the westward along the ridge, intending to encamp at Shipvomi. Mr. Ogle and myself remained behind, plane-tabling as we came along, so that it was not until 3 P. M. that we got to the stream at the bottom of the valley below the village, where breakfast had been prepared. Captain Butler and Colonel Thomson having finished theirs, were waiting for us; the latter did not wait long, but started on to look after the camp. Captain Butler remained with us until breakfast was nearly over, but started a few minutes in advance. I had not got up the hill side more than 200 yards, when Captain Butler shouted out to come on quickly, as there was a row in front. We pushed on as hard as the steep path would let us (the ascent from valley to village was about 1,500 feet), and it seemed an age before we came up with the advance guard, and hearing shots fired far up the slope only made the time appear the longer and the path the steeper, struggling as we believed we were against time. On getting to the front there was naturally a little confusion among the coolies, but it soon subsided, and the rear guard having come up with us, line was extended on both sides of the path, and we slowly advanced through the jungle up the spur towards the village. The Nagas, who we could hear in front, retired, and as we entered the village defence at two points only a few shewed themselves on the highest part, and they bolted on a few shots being fired. Two of their number had already been hit when they charged down on Thomson and the advance guard; another was now hit and carried off. It appeared that that officer had come up with the advance guard just in time; some fifty or more were assembled up the hill with spears and shields, after a parley, and failing to make Thomson leave the path, they charged, but a volley from the police caused an immediate retreat. Just after dark they came in and fired the south-east end of the village. We had, however, selected a strong position near a fine large shingled house on the highest part, and, by pulling down and firing the houses in our vicinity, and stockading the north side, made our position very secure.

12. However, contrary to expectation, we were not annoyed by the Nagas during the rest of the night, and all kept watch in turn; to the burning houses in the village we probably owed this quiet, for they lit up the whole place as bright as day. Villagers of Yémai, the next village on the east, came in next day and tendered their submission, and promised supplies should we proceed their way; these men were detected about noon firing the few houses that were left standing, and were much to their surprise immediately put in charge of the guard; we, however, let them go back to their village late in the evening. The second night the Nagas were heard about, and some seen passing to the side we had come in by; the night was dark, but by keeping up large fires in advance of the sentries the ground could be seen for some distance. They began surrounding our position about 8 A. M., numbers of them coming up the spur from the south-east, fully armed, many helmeted in their peculiar way. They were not allowed to come near, and a shot was fired now and then, on which they got under cover behind trees and rocks at about 400 to 500 yards.

13. Captain Butler with the interpreters went out towards the other end of the village, and shouted to them to come in without their arms, and after about an hour, two of the chiefs did so. The first parley did not end in anything satisfactory being done; they were told if they wanted to fight to do so, but if they wanted to make peace we were willing to leave the place. They left saying they would confer with the other men of the village. After the lapse of an hour they returned ready to make peace, and this was duly ratified by the sacrifice of a fowl. We marched out as they came in, and began collecting the remains of their burnt property, and had it not been for their old enemies, the men of Yémai, a great many more houses would have been left standing, and much more of their grain would have escaped destruction, for these men even fired the pits in which it was stored. We took the road to Yémai, and halted there one day to sketch the country towards the head of the Lanier, and I was able to fix the position of the village where the Munipuris had located themselves, Mezimah of the Nagas, the Prowi thanna of the Munipuris, as we afterwards discovered.

14. The next day we crossed the watershed into the Iril valley, and viá Unromai over the high south extension of the Kopamedza ridge to Mehulmai, and thence back to Sikhámi. The wildest rumours had been circulated about the country, with the addition that we had all been cut up; this led the Nagas of Sikhámi to actually make a demonstration against the small Munipur guard left there with Colonel Thomson's baggage, whom they surrounded in a threatening way, and were only kept at a distance by being fired at, and not a man in camp slept that night. Romah Sing joined this camp the next day, and the news came in the interim that Shipvomi had been burnt. This affair only shewed how small a spark would kindle a rising, and had we, by any possibility, suffered a reverse, commencing in a general stampede of the coolies, and loot of the baggage, I think it not improbable Sámágúting might have been threatened, where but very few men had been left. I therefore consider it would be a wise precaution, when such expeditions are on foot, which denude the head-quarter station of its best men, that a reserve of the Native Infantry be moved up to some convenient place, ready as a reserve in case of accidents, yet more to show the hill people we have plenty of men to fall back on, and that any falseness on their part would be followed by retribution.

15. It must not be forgotten that, although the larger Naga villages have been severely handled by us on one or two occasions, yet this is only remembered by the old men; all the youngsters, who will have it soon their own way, and have it in some villages, scarcely believe the tale, and make light of it. Arms and ammunition they are greedily anxious to obtain, and, undoubtedly, do so every year despite all precautions we may take to prevent it. A very close watch should be kept on the side of Munipur; they will soon have a large number of old muskets to get rid of in some way or other, the only incentive being the turning of them into money. Packages of cartridges made in Munipur we saw in the hands of Nagas, the paper used in one case being some journal on photography.

16. As it had been ascertained without doubt that the Munipuris had crossed the main watershed, in direct disobedience to the orders of the Government of India, and that the Raja was able to send a marauding force beyond it, while at the same time he was stating his inability to aid the Political Officers and survey in making a map of the country, the Political Officers resolved to go into Munipur itself, and see the Raja in person, after which Captain Butler hoped that he would enter into our plans, and give the required assistance on his north-east frontier. This arrangement did not interfere with my own particular work, for, having discovered that the sources of the Lanier lay so far to the south-east, it was quite as easy to get into that quarter from the side of Munipur, up one of the main valleys, as from the Naga Hill district side. Moreover, it was very questionable what the Munipuris would have done had we pushed on into the Tangkol Naga country by ourselves. Even with regard to the attack made on us at Shipvomi, suspicion was not altogether removed from Major Romah Sing's camp, although we were willing to attribute the action of that village to the fate that had but lately attended Gaziphimi, &c. This the villagers of Thiwa did say, that men of Mekribama had come over the ridge, sent by the Munipuris, to tell the men of Shipvomi to put their spears into us, should we attempt to pass that way; this was on the direct road to Prowi, where the thanna had been established; and to prevent our seeing or getting to Prowi was the point they had all along endeavoured to gain. Before we learnt the geography of that part of the country, the Munipuris always stated Prowi to be on the Munipur side of the watershed.

17. It then being decided that it was politic to go to Munipur, new plans for the survey had to be formed, and I decided on a secondary series of triangulation extending from the base Khúnho to Tellizo, due south, as far as we could carry it into the Munipur valley, and to carry on a sketch of the country on the ¼-inch scale. As the regular marches were made, this became very heavy work, and for the four days we were marching into the valley neither myself nor Mr. Ogle got into camp until between 9 and 10 o'clock. Very fortunately we had fine moonlight nights, thus a good survey of this route was made and hills were selected and marks set up. Mwor Romah Sing at once objected, and the villagers were warned not to assist; this did not however, prevent the plane-tabling. After arrival at the Residency at Imphal, and meeting the Raa in Durbar, who refused most distinctly to give any assistance, I desisted from all survey work. It was very apparent that the Raja by putting off the survey as long as he could, hoped the season would get so advanced we should perhaps be unable or at least unwilling to proceed with it, and more time would be gained. Hints were often thrown out by the Tangal Major "of the increasing heat of the weather," "the approaching rains," &c., and they were not without hopes in a change of the Political Agentship before the survey could be accomplished. However, after ten days of inactivity (but during which interval I marched south as far as the Logtak Lake to look at the country), a change seeming to have come over the officials, I sent a letter through the Political Agent to the Raja, asking for purwanas on the villages in the valley, and that I desired to visit certain hill-tops. After a delay of two days the permission was accorded, but nearly all the hills mentioned were barred, as being the abode of certain deities. However, this matter was adjusted with Tangal Major, and men were sent off at once to pole up the selected points. Mr. Ogle proceeded to the north-west and myself to the north-east working back east to south.

18. We were soon engaged at the triangulation and sketching of the valley; in the last we were much aided by the points I had fixed in 1868-69, and by Mr. Ogle in 1869-70 from stations on the Burrail, near Ossalee. All the clearing and mark-building was done by our Khási coolies, and I am sorry to add that several of these marks, which took hours to collect materials for and build, were wantonly cut down, and the mark-stones dug up; as they were not touched for many days, and the villagers were certainly not inimical, and that they were cut down about the same day, I have reason to suspect that some order was issued. However, all the triangles were finished in neighbourhood of the capital by the time the peremptory orders of Government came up from Calcutta, and before all was arranged for final start up the Iril valley. Mr. Ogle and myself started ahead, and the former surveyor eventually went off by himself to the north-west to carry on the triangulation, and I, after observing at one other station, Laisen, marched on with the Political Agents up the Thobal valley, in the direction of Prowi, sketching all the country en route to the source. Here we crossed the main watershed, and were again in sight of the above place. Before going there we proceeded to the south-east to Shirúi and the peak above Shiruifúrar, whence I got a magnificent view of all that side of Munipur, and erected a trigonometrical mark on it. We reached Prowi on the 31st March. The Munipuris burnt their stockade on the 1st April, and all their store of rice laid in at the expense of the villagers, to whom they gave the significant warning,—"The Sahibs are here to-day, but we are here always." As it was now late in the season, and the triangulation still to be connected, we left Prowi the next day, to finish the intermediate piece of watershed on the west, near Kachai and Thiwa, crossed the Iril below Gnamchow, and the Kopamedza range above that village, and again descended on the Barak river at Maithaiphum.

19. Mr. Ogle had made great progress, had not been impeded, and joined us on the 8th April. We remained there to observe at the last stations in the neighbourhood; only Tellizo and Khúnho now remained to be visited. Mr. Ogle proceeded to the first, Colonel Mowbray Thomson returned to Munipur, and Captain Butler and self left for Sopvomah below Khúnho. On the ascent to this peak I met with what might have been a very nasty accident by falling into a concealed pitfall in middle of the path; fortunately the pit was not spiked, so that I escaped with a severe shaking and a bad cut on joint of forefinger, which has caused a permanent stiff joint, but I was able to go on fortunately and finish the angles, and closed the work for the season. Halted two days at Sopvomah, as the fall had left me so stiff and bruised. We reached Sámágúting viá Jotsomah on the 15th April, and left again on the 21st. At Dunapur we waited a day for Captain Butler to come up. I took the opportunity of exploring the old ruined temple there, which is very curious and interesting; we made a plan of the place, and I was able to make several drawings of the pillars and the sculptured stones. Reached Golaghat on the 26th, and thence we came on by boat down the Dunsiri to the Múkh on the Bráhmápútra, and by steamer to Gowhatty, arriving at recess quarters here (Shillong) on the 8th May.

Individual exertions of Assistants. Mr. M. T. Ogle, Surveyor, 4th grade.

20. This surveyor has worked with his usual zeal, and seconded me in every way. It is mainly to his efforts that the connection of the triangulation commenced in Munipur was carried successfully and closed on the base of the first work at Khúnho and Tellizo. Mr. Ogle also filled in the topography at same time between the base of the Koupru range and the river Iril. I brought this Assistant's services to your notice in February, and you were good enough to promote him at once to the rank of surveyor; he completed 295 square miles on ½ inch, and 460 square miles on ¼ inch.

Mr. J. McCay, Assistant Surveyor, 4th grade.

21. Has turned out very well 670 square miles on the ½-inch scale of a portion of the Mikir and Rengma Naga hills, working the whole time in most difficult ground, covered, I may say the whole of it, with dense forest jungle. This is a great addition to our topography on the Assam side. The extra points supplied by the great trigonometrical survey under Mr. H. Beverley proved most valuable in getting an accurate map of this little-known tract. I have much pleasure in being able to report so favorably of this young assistant.

Area surveyed and triangulation.

22. The total area surveyed is 3,005 square miles, of which, including the 30 square miles of boundary survey on the 1-inch scale, 172 is re-survey and overlap, giving a total of fresh topographical detail 2,833 square miles. The area of triangulation is 3,850 square miles. 24 stations were observed at, and about 105 points will have been laid down from them on completion from the computations.

The cost of the detached party on the Naga hills side was Rs. 23,643 up to the end of May, or about Rs. 7-14-0 per square mile.

Health of party.

23. The Khásis, who marched early in season from Gowhatty to Golaghat, suffered many of them from fever, and two died, but they soon threw it off in the fine climate of the Naga hills, and returned to Sámágúting in capital health, as well as the rest of the native establishment. From Dunsiri Múkh I brought them out to Gowhatty by steamer, and thus they arrived in the same good health in Shillong. The welfare of the Khásis is important; they have done excellent service as coolies for years with this party, but they would naturally be chary of proceeding into more remote parts of the frontier if they found many of their number lost their health and lives in the expedition.

Physical aspect of the country, Geology, &c.

24. Proceeding from Golaghat towards Sámágúting, crossing by the ferry to the left bank of the Dunsiri, the road keeps close to its winding courses the whole distance. At five miles from Golaghat the forest is entered, and this is continuous to the foot of the hills for a distance of forty-four miles. Only one open piece of ground occurs, called Borpather, which is under rice cultivation, and is the site of a village inhabited by Assamese and Aitonias, descendants of Shan Burmese by Assamese women; this open bit is not more than 1½ miles long by 1 mile broad. This valley of the Dunsiri stretching from the base of the Mikir hills on the west to the base of the Lhota Naga on the east, with a breadth of some 15 miles, is a dead level, only just raised above the inundation level of the streams. The Doyong flows through the eastern side to join the Dunsiri just above Golaghat. On the Golaghat side of the Namba stream, which comes in on the left bank, the road rises and passes over a low terrace of older river conglomerate, a remnant left abutting against the low hills. In the bed of the Namba rock in situ is seen thin-bedded sandstones nearly horizontal, which abut against gneiss where the river falls suddenly from a higher level of this rock. One of the highest beds exposed here is a fossiliferous limestone, which has been burnt for lime in small quantities; it is, however, not pure enough to be used for white-washing, though making a good mortar. Mr. H. B. Medlicott, of the Geological Survey, reports on this section in his "Coal of Assam," and considers these rocks of cretaceous age. Coal has been found by Captain Butler higher up the Namba, and the specimen which I have from that officer is similar to the cretaceous coal.

25. The dead level portion of the Dunsiri valley comes to an end a few miles to the westward of Dunapur; and at a very short distance towards Sámágúting the surface gradually rises over the broad conglomerate deposits swept down out of the gorges of mountain streams like the Diphúpáni. The first line of hills rises abruptly to 2,000 feet, with a strike with the strata north-east and south-west, dipping south-east, towards the main range at about 30° on the crest, the dip increasing rapidly northwards until nearly perpendicular at the very base, probably marking a great meridional bend in the rocks. These consist of sandstones, very thick bedded in the upper portion of red and ochrey color, interstratified with thinner beds of an indurated, light colored clay, nodules of which are very numerous and conspicuous in some of the soft sandstones. In exposed sections, such as that near the new tank, the strata is seen to be closely faulted in direction of the strike, the upthrow never exceeding a few feet. These beds I should refer to the Siwalik series; no mammalian remains have, as yet, been found in the neighbourhood.

26. Nowhere is a better and more comprehensive view obtained of the broad alluvial valley of the Dunsiri and its great forest than from Sámágúting; mile beyond mile of this dark forest stretches away, and is lost in the distant haze. During the cold weather this is usually in the early morning covered with a dense woolly fog; this about 10 o'clock begins to roll up from the Bráhmápútra against the northern slope of the Burrail, and often hangs over Sámágúting and all the outer belt of hills late into the afternoon, when the increasing cold dissipates it. This makes Sámágúting even in the cold weather such an undesirable residence.

27. The sandstone ridge on which Sámágúting is situated runs parallel with the Burrail at a distance of 15 to 16 miles, measuring from crest to crest respectively. The Burrail rises very suddenly on its northern face, and the intervening country for a breadth of 8 miles is very low, forming a miniature "Dhún;" this intermediate depression continues westward for many miles, the outer range marked by the hills of Phegi H. S. and Laikhek H. S. It terminates to the eastward on the Kadiuba spur, thrown off from the high north-east extremity of the Burrail, and this spur coincides with the great east upthrows of the Sub-Himalayan rocks composing the highest parts of that range, and this, I believe, is a great north-north-west—south-south-east dislocation in the mountain mass, marked by the course and gorge of the Zubza. This dislocation is, I think, intimately connected with the change in direction of the main axis of elevation, which has thrown the line of main watershed away to the south-east from its normal south-west—north-east direction which it assumes at Ásálu. The dip of these tertiary rocks of the Burrail is steadily to the south-eastward throughout the whole distance, but it gradually changes round to due west, the beds on the highest part, Japvo turning up at an angle of 35° west, being fine slightly-micaceous ochre-grey sandstones, very massive and weathering pinkish grey. From this the elevated outcrop of these sandstones trends to the south, and is continued south of the Barak in that direction right away into Munipur, conforming with the change in the strike of all the ridges, the parallelism of which is such a conspicuous feature of the physical geography. To the north-north-west the great change in this mountain system is marked by the broad re-entering arm of the Dunsiri, and the sudden appearance of the granitic series in force in the Mikir and Rengma Naga hills, seen in the bed of the Namba, and which becomes the principal feature eastwards as far as the Garo hills. Extensive and thick-bedded deposits of clay and conglomerate are seen in the Sámágúting Dhún, forming broad plateau-topped spurs. I had no time to examine these closely; they appeared to be nearly horizontal, and may belong to the highest beds of the Siwalik formation, or the remains of deposits formed prior to the cutting through of the Diphúpáni gorge. Analogous deposits to the last occur in the Dhúns of the North-West and Punjab Himalaya.

28. At the base of the Burrail, proceeding to the depression at the sources of the Zullo and Sijjo, the Sub-Himalayan rocks pass downwards into thin-bedded sandy shales, with the steady westerly underlie. Whether the lowest beds represent nummulitic or even cretaceous rocks it is impossible to say; the thickness is very great, at least 3,000 feet; they rest on an older series of rocks, with a totally different lithological aspect. There is unconformability not always apparent, for they partake of a general westerly dip. The strong-bedded younger rocks are but little disturbed, and on the east of the Sijjo come in again at Tellizo, nearly horizontal, with a slight dip to east on main ridge towards Kopamedza, marking an anticlinal axis; their horizon is, however, lower. The older beds on the contrary are much crushed, and change their dip and strike very frequently, the result of prior disturbance. They are composed of clay slates and very dark blue friable shales alternating with others of pale ochrey tint; they are saliferous, and veins of milky quartz occasionally occur. Several salt springs occur near the bottom of the Zullo valley under Visvemah, where the Nagas evaporate the water to obtain it; a warm mineral spring also occurs here.

Nomenclature of the different ranges, &c.

29. The natives of the country have no general term to express a range, and only distinguish by name certain of the peaks. In writing of their run and physical features, a nomenclature must be supplied. I have adopted the name of the highest peak, or best-known peak on a range, to discriminate one from the other. The Burrail is a well-established name for the mountain range up to 94°10′ longitude, its highest part at Japvo and Tennepú, where it terminates. It is quite unsuited to the main range east of this, and I shall designate the whole mountain mass east of the Doyong and its tributaries up to the neighbourhood of the Patkai pass as the "eastern Naga range," in contra-distinction to the western Naga or Burrail; beyond the above pass it is already well known on our maps as the "Patkai" up to the sources of the Dihing on longitude 97° east. A glance at the map will shew that east of the Burrail the hill region is a component of many parallel ridges alternating high and low, with a general north-east—south-east strike, given off from a watershed considerably lower than these ridges, having a more or less north-east—south-east run.

30. The first of these ridges, commencing on the west under the Burrail scarp, I call the Sopvomah, from the group of villages situated near where it is given off from the main watershed. It separates the Zullo and Sijjo, and runs north north-east for twenty-four miles, the two streams there uniting to form the Doyong. Orographically this ridge, still a subordinate one, is continued south of the Barak by the Khiba ridge to Yangbalang Khong and the Langol Fila close to Munipur; the high Koúpru ridge rises above it on the west. The next ridges or rather range on the east is of considerable elevation, some 8,000 feet, and a principal feature in the landscape, shutting out the view of all the country to the eastward, and separates completely the Naga tribes of the respective sides. This I name the "Kopamedza ridge," from the name of a high point and trigonometrical station. It commences with the gradual rise to Tellizo peak, and continues to the north north-east into the Lhota Naga country for forty-five miles, and to the south-east for thirty-four miles to the junction of Ihang and Iril. On its western face are the main sources of the Barak or Kwedzú, and on it are the peaks of Chingbú, Laisom, and Khamjom, the two last being trigonometrical stations.

31. The lowest point on the watershed occurs just under and to the east of this range close to the village of Yémai in $\frac{\text{lat. } 25°24'}{\text{long. } 94°20'}$ and the source of the Iril; it is here only 5,000 feet above the sea. From this point the line of main watershed has a direction due north and south for ten miles to the source of the Ihang, a second low depression in the range. This north and south line is continued by a ridge between the Ihang and Iril, which, from being very low, rises suddenly to the hill of Laisen, about 5,000 feet; it ends on the sharp bend of the Ihang, but the strike of elevation is taken up again south by the Mungching ridge. At Kachai, south of the Ihang depression, the Padhai ridge is given off south south-west, and runs parellel to the valley of the Thobal for thirty-six miles north north-east, by the village of Humi, to the Lanier ten miles, and can be traced by the subordinate features on west face of the Swemi ridge. The main watershed, again, takes a southerly direction for three miles on the ridge of Toroikáchu, turns sharp to the east under that peak, and is connected by another low saddle of 5,500 feet with the Rapfo ridge, another line of elevation remarkably straight cut through by the Lanier on the north and Thobal on the south. From the peak of Rapfo it is continuous north 15° east by Swemi peak and ridge for thirty-four miles, and south 15° west, viâ Lamlang to the Maphitel ridge, the eastern boundary of the Munipur valley for twenty-eight miles. The main watershed follows the Rapfo ridge southward for five miles, turning sharp east again and heading the sources of the Lanier near Ukrul, and thence to the peak of Shirnifúrar. The ridge, which I name after this peak, continues north for 35 miles, the river Nongtum washing its eastern base; south it extends for a long distance with an easterly inclination, the valley of the Tuyungba on one side and the Jatrik valley on the other.

32. A minor ridge of 15 miles extends north from the watershed at three miles east of Shirnifúrar, and at seven miles the main watershed, having attained a height of about 10,000 feet, turns north-north-east towards Sárámethi; this high portion I shall name the "eastern Naga range." Turning to the lines of lowest depression, and the lowest points on main watershed and ridges, it is interesting to note how exceedingly straight such lines are, and how, eastward, they regularly change direction a few degrees. A slight shift of these lines to the eastward takes place on a line north-west south-east drawn through the peak of Kabalong parallel also to the mean direction of the watershed, and upon this line we find the courses of all the rivers to take a sudden change of direction, and break through what would otherwise be continuous ridges from northward to southward. At this break we also find a change of about 10° in the strike of the valleys and spurs, conformable to that of the rock masses. These features are not accidental, but it is a beautiful example of how present geographical features are subservient to a system of dislocations, due to forces of upheaval and compression, in a past state of the earth's crust. On all the ridges abovementioned the newer deposits, all sandstone, dip to the west at moderate angle, and strike with the ridge, while the stratified rocks at the base do not always follow the same strike, and are often seen with a north-west south-east one, and dip at high angles. Only at Yémai did I find any fossils, in a transported block from the high range, and at Laisen carbonaceous shales occurred, both in favor of the cretaceous rocks being represented. In the above shales indistinct fern remains were noticed, but there was no time with so much triangulation to get through to search for good specimens.

33. On the ridge to Rapfo coarse crystalline sandstone caps it, and altered sandstones also occurred associated with a bed of pure limestone at Phunggum.* Here it was interesting to find, just below the village to the south, a larger boss of injected trap projecting out of the side of the spur, its western face perpendicular and perfectly flat. It accounted for the altered state of some of the rocks. In the bottom of the Lainer valley, a great thickness of hard thin-bedded shaly rocks dipped 75° high to east south-east. The boulders in bed of this stream are nearly all of dark green trap, a few of clay slate veined with quartz, and others of white quartz. These last were the stones good for striking a light, which the Kézakenomah men had mentioned when describing the Lainer, good quartz being very rare on their side. Coarse, pale and bluish sandstones, so like the base of the cretaceous, are seen capping the spur as an outlier dipping west 30°, and resting on the older series, which in ravine east of Shirni village are 80° south-south-east, sharp up against the trap, of which I found the whole mass of the Peak of Shirinfúrar to be for 2,500 feet. Much of this trap is composed of large and small nodular lumps of harder greenstones in a full-green matrix, giving it a very lava-like appearance, and the color of the harder rolled boulders in the streams is a very rich tint of green. It appears to be the base of all the rocks, and I expect will form the main axis of the high range, probably associated with granite towards Sárámethi. It is highly magnetic, the compass being deflected about 10°, so that I found it useless in setting the plane-table.

34. There can be no doubt but that the highly-inclined shales (age unknown) that first come in with the anticlinal axis east of the Burrail are the same as those out of which the low Tilasin Munipur have been formed, and subsequently silted round with the valley alluvium. Beds containing nodular concretions are very characteristic, the nodules having a crystalline nucleus probably originally in organic matter. Veins of quartz are, however, very common in the valley beds, particularly so in the south towards the Logtak, generally running across the bedding east and west; these veins are often very crystalline, and pure isolated crystals of the same an inch or two in length are seen in these lowest rocks all round the valley. Sandstones shewing signs of metamorphism dip at about 30° on the Tila of Nungshigum, probably cretaceous. In unaltered state, sandstone caps the hill of Mungching, which is on the same axis as Laisen, and dip in same direction. The highest beds on Nongmaiching also appear to belong to this series. The Konpru range bounds the valley on the west with a mean height near Peak of that name of 8,000 feet; this is gradually reduced on the south: the strata have a uniform dip to the westward. The Maphitel ridges on opposite side of valley separates the Munipur drainage from that of the Kubbu valley, the strata dipping easterly, apparently the younger sandstones leaving out minor kinds in the rocks. The Munipur valley lies along a great anticlinal curve first noticed between the Burrail and Tellizo.

35. About the very centre of the valley, as at Chingamukka, Langol, Langthabal Tilas, and those in the south, the lower shales are formed tilted at angles near the perpendicular, and shew an apparent great thickness; but on the east extremity of the Langol hill sharp folding is apparent; they are also very closely jointed, generally in planes at right angles to dip; and on the Langol ridge this structure has broken up the harder indurated shales into long pencil-shaped pieces. Interstratified with these clay shales are thicker beds of very hard dark-green and grey altered sandstones, quite quartzitic in appearance. Between the topmost beds of the Burrail and the lowermost shales it is not impossible both the nummulitic and cretaceous are represented, but the actual lines of separation will be difficult to fix, as is the case in the scarp at Cherra. The limestone seen at Prowi is very likely to be nummulitic rocks, so very similar to the lowest cretaceous occurring on the flank of Shirinfúrar. We have evidence in this mountain area of very old (geologically) original elevation and compression acting on a north-west south-east bearing, which took place prior to a later elevation of the mass into its present horizon, producing the north-north-east—south-south-west features, and that this last change was accompanied by local trap intrusion, altering the cretaceous rocks, as at Phunggum, and on a still greater scale at Shillong in the section presented at the falls of the Umshirpi, where much altered conglomerates and sandstone abut up against a great development of trap rock.

Old glacial action.

36. Evidence of past glacial action is very marked on the north-east side of the Burrail, where its elevation is close under 10,000 feet. Small moraines project beyond the gorges of the lateral valleys. These moraines originally consisted of much earthy matter due to the soft sandstones out of which they were derived; this and long surface weathering has lead to the surface being well cultivated and terraced, but the original lines of larger angular blocks are still apparent. Through these moraines the present stream has cut its channel down to the solid rock, leaving the slopes at an angle of 45°, out of which project great masses of the sub-angular sandstones. The thickness of the moraine at Kigwema is quite 300 feet at the terminal slope, and the length of the former glacier 4 miles to the west of range at Japvo. At the head of the Zullo traces of this former state of things are shewn by the even height at which large transported blocks of the tertz sandstones lie up against the sides of the ravine, resting on patches of rubble.

Physical aspect, scenery, &c.

37. No part of the Burrail is more beautiful than that between Kigwema and Sopovmah, looking up the lateral glacial gorges with their frowning, steep sides, running up to the crest of the Burrail, which is for the greater part a wall of grey rock and precipice. Dense forest covers the slopes, but from their steepness many parts are bare, breaking the usual monotony of the dark-colored mountain scenery. Where the steep rise in the slope commences, the spurs are at once more level, and are terraced for rice cultivation; not a square yard of available land has been left, and the system of irrigation canals is well laid out. I have never even in the better-cultivated parts of the Himalayas seen terrace cultivation carried to such perfection, and it gives a peculiarly civilized appearance to the country. The rice raised is exceedingly fine and very nourishing, containing much sugar and gluten; it appears coarse when compared with the table rice of Assam and Munipur, but we always preferred it to the latter, and it can be cleaned to boil quite white. While on the subject of rice, I may mention that the kind grown by the Kukis is remarkably fine and nutritious, no doubt due to their system of joom cultivation, the crop being taken year after year off virgin soil. The Naga rice owes its fineness to the natural richness of the decomposed clay shales, but they also manure at the time of breaking up the soil and before the first water is let in upon the fields. The rice is sown in nurseries and planted out just before the rains. In April these nurseries were just up, and the water was being run into the terraces. A great deal of other cultivation is carried on upon the hill slopes, dependent on the natural rain-fall, and jooming is also adopted; this is the sole method practised by the Nagas living on the outermost slopes upon the north.

* Which was again seen at Prowi in greater quantity, extending along the spur from Rapfo.

38. Leaving the valleys of Zullo and Sijjo, and crossing into the upper Barak, a great change takes place in the appearance of the country. The opposite range (Kopamedza) is above forest-clad to about half way down, thence all the slopes falling to the river, are quite bare, and covered with grass, much of it spear grass. This is also the state of all those spurs that are thrown off from the low part of the watershed on the right bank. A few pines of the Khàsi hill species are scattered here and there. The river Barak flows with a very serpentine course through a broad alluvial belt, 500 to 700 yards broad; this commences under the village of Gnámi. Here extensive development of water-worn material, which above closes on the stream, comes to an end, and it is continuous in narrow terraces on either side here and there down the valley, and up into the larger lateral valleys, quite into the narrow gorge of the Barak. It is often as much as 120 feet thick. It points to a time of former lake conditions here, and probably is coeval with the glacial period on this southern latitude. The level ground on either side of the river is mostly under rice cultivation, but near Maithaiphum, which has dwindled down to a very small village, hundreds of acres of fine land have been given up.

39. The gorge of the Barak commences where it takes a great bend in a loop of seven miles long round the narrow spur of Itahmi, and thence away through a great and deeper gorge towards Togwemah. The next valley on the road to Munipur from the Naga hills district is the Ngordui, or Koimaru, broad and open; here again thick-bedded gravel and boulders are seen on the flanks of the valley; and at somewhat higher level than the last of these accumulations seen in the gorge of Barak, and gave rather the idea of a change in surface-level since their deposition. On crossing the low pass at head of this valley, the drainage area of the Irrawaddy is entered, and the road passes through an old lake bed about four miles long by a little more than a mile wide, its edge well marked on the west. It was evidently formed by the detritus brought down by the stream from the Koupru peak, extending right across the valley and damming it up. With the present conditions the Koupru stream now washes this terrace of detrital matter, and combined with the main stream has cut a channel through it on the east side of the valley. The road runs over the plateau, and thence at the base of the spurs from the Koupru range through very pretty wooded scenery, leading out into the valley above Sengmai, which is well out into the alluvial flat of the Munipur valley. These Munipuri villages have a very great resemblance to those in Cachar, and seen from a distance stand out like in black patches against the ochre coloring of the dried-up grass and rice fields.

40. The valley of Munipur was no doubt at one time to a great extent under water, and has gradually silted up, and is even now, by the annual overflowing of the rivers, heavily laden with mud; this gradual silting up is well shewn in the small patches of water and marsh that invariably occur under the lee of the low spurs given off from the parallel ridges north of the valley, and in the re-entering angles of such spurs, where the gradual flow of the sediment south is arrested, and can only enter in smaller quantity. The piece of open water and swamp of Lamphel, under Langol, and under Phunan, towards Thobal, are the best illustrations of this action. Down in the south end of the valley the lake Loglak must have long existed, and no doubt extended much further to the north, gradually but very gradually silting up, yet this entirely depends on the width and depth of the exit channel below, and not so much on the amount of silt brought down and yearly deposited in an equal way over all the inundated portion of the valley. But the extent of this lake has been, I fancy, altered by earthquakes; even that of 1869 (January 10th) produced in a short time great changes, and the fishermen say it has never recovered its former state. The water then retired off a large area, shewing the fish at the bottom, and returning swept immense numbers up high and dry. Such earthquakes, and no doubt many worse, have occurred at longer and shorter periods of past time over this area, and would as often tend to increase a lake of this sort as to drain it. In fact, the original formation of this mountain valley, 2,500 feet above the sea, may be due to a present tendency to depression. The sedimentary deposits extend away in broad belts up the northern valleys, like arms of the sea, gradually narrowing. The limit of deposit is shewn to be attained by the very great depth the Iril above Imphal has cut down below the surface; in the cold season it is 35 feet below the bank, and its present course is much straighter. On looking down upon the valley here an older and more winding course can be just made out.

41. There is no reason for supposing that the alluvial deposits in the valley are of immense depth, as stated by Pemberton, nor can they possibly rest on limestone rock, no limestone rock occurring anywhere round and in the valley. All lime is made from a travertine or calcareous tufa, obtained near the banks of streams, often shewing casts of leaves, &c. It occurs at the head of the Loimakhong valley and in some other spots under the Maphitel ridge.

42. Imphal or Munipur is a straggling large place extending along the rivers that flow through it for a distance of five miles with a mean breadth of about one and a half mile. There is no arrangement of the houses into streets or bazars; the main roads, however, have been regularly laid out, leading away into the country from the Raja's residence and the great market place near the entrance gateway. The houses are situated in small compounds having a low mud wall round them, by the side of which bamboo is planted, and grows into luxuriant clumps, hiding completely the houses in the place. These bamboo clumps, fruit trees of the usual kind in lower Bengal, pepul, &c., give the place at a distance and from the surrounding hills the appearance of an extensive wood. Thobal has also the same character. The river Iril is navigable for small canoes up as far as Kaibikunas, and a canal fed partly by water from the marsh under Langoltila passes along the western side of the place, and by both streams the Logtak lake can be reached. The great institution of the place is the daily market; this is largely attended by buyers and sellers, the latter nearly all women, and it does not break up until past 8 P. M. There every tribe from the surrounding hills is represented. Burmese, Cacharis, and Sylhetias, even the tall Sikhs, a few of whom are in the Raja's service, make up a busy, most picturesque scene.

Natural History.

43. This portion of the north-east frontier hills is extremely rich in its avi fauna; we have a great mingling in this direction of the Indian with Indo-Chinese forms. Many birds extremely rare in collections and only represented by a few solitary examples described by Hodgson and Blyth from Nipal, &c., were obtained here again, and a large number have yet to be either identified or compared with specimens from other distant quarters. To enumerate them is not in the scope of this report (already too long); some 280 species were collected. Other families of Natural History are equally rich, none more so than the insects; and interesting forms of land molluscæ are numerous. The great forest of Dunsiri swarms with insect life, the lepidoptera conspicuous by their numbers and coloration. Leaving this, and ascending the spurs of Burrail, with the changing flora, new forms are constantly appearing, and I could point to few areas where a naturalist can find more rare object for his search than the slopes of this range. The larger wild animals are those common to Assam in general, and to enumerate the more common is only repeating the usual report formula, "Elephant, rhinoceros, &c., &c." It may be worth mention that the latter animal is not now found in the Munipur valley, not even on the Logtak, driven out by the presence of man and the extensive fires he is annually the cause of. The Hulook (Hylobates) is found as high as 8,000 feet in January, shewing that they can stand very considerable changes of temperature.

Climate.

44. The climate of the Naga and Munipur hills is almost perfect during the cold weather. The minimum temperature during January in the vicinity of the high range was 32° to 37°. In the valley of Koimárú in camp Maiyangkang it fell as low as 25° from 12th to 14th February. Rising early before sunrise, as we did to be off to work, the heavy frost on the ground gave the whole country a wintry look one seldom sees in this part of India. Munipur was very hot and dry in March, the maximum in shade being about 74° mean, of minimum 47°. The climate of the northern base of the hills is on the contrary very unpleasant and unhealthy, owing to the fog that so often hangs over it. When clear, Sámágúting is hot and dry, but succeeded in a few minutes by cold damp wind and driving mist; these changes cause much sickness among the natives, and Ghoorkhas cannot be prevailed on to stay there. Fine sites for a station at 5,000 or 6,000 feet are to be found on the Nidzukru ridge, between that and the peak of Thebzuthu close over Sonúrigam and 36 miles (direct as crow flies) from Golaghat. An examination of the country here would, I think, lead to the discovery of a shorter line of road to Golaghat, avoiding the long unhealthy valley of the Dunsiri, while the station would be in the immediate neighbourhood of the Lhotah Nagas, keeping them effectively under control. A road along the ridge south leads direct into Kohima and the very heart of the largest Anghámi villages, and is a far easier line than that at present in use from Sámágúting, which leads up and over every lateral spur from the Burrail, and a large stream like the Diphúpáni cutting off all communication during the rains.

Races and tribes.

45. The Naga race is broken up into many large and small communities, some consisting of many large villages, others of no more than two or three; the best term in speaking of them is that of tribe. The villages are again sub-divided into clans, which are not always living on terms of amity, although within the same defences. This collection of different clans is no doubt the result of the lawless state they have for ever lived in, but it tends to prevent the utter extermination of a clan when worsted by a superior enemy; they would then join some other community. The Sopvomah tribe has been the subject of official correspondence and report for some years, so I shall not allude to them.

46. To the east of the Sijjo and under the Kopamedza ridge are the Kézámis, inhabiting the seven villages of—one, Kézá Kenomi, two, Chéromi, three, Téphimi-júmi, four, Nizami, five, Kálúmi, six, Nákromi, and seven, Tekhunubámi; they are very like the Anghámi, use the same form of spear, long, narrow, ornamented shield and showy ornaments of hair, but like the men of Sopvomah wear more constantly the fine cane-plaited short leggings. Here we saw shingle-roofed houses for the first time, the shingles cut into oblong form. This tribe is a large and powerful one, and at feud with Kidima across the Sijjo on one side and with Megwimi on the Munipur side. To the east of the Kopamedza we have another tribe, the Zami Nagas, consisting of five villages—

Called by themselves.	By the Nagas on the west.
1. Zami	1. Rázámi
2. Zàllomi	2. Thizámi
3. Tilomi	3. Thetcholúmi
4. Váphomi	4. Gáziphimi
5. Zémi	5. Khiphimi

of which numbers 2, 4, and 5 were burnt by the Munipuris for refusing to pay revenue. These Nagas differ somewhat from the last described; they carry very long spears, 10 feet long, and oblong short leather shield, and are not so smart in their dress.

47. Rázámi is a fine village of some 300 houses, many of which were very old and large, the front portion covered with the heads of animals killed at feasts. Gaziphimi was of equal size, and extended some way along the ridge. Just before entering the village we passed the place where heads taken in their constant fights were set up on poles about ten feet high, each skull fixed on the top by a pointed peg of hard wood driven through the centre. There were fifty-two of these skulls lying on the ground, others still in position; hands were tied on small sticks stuck up at the base of the posts; much might be said and written on these heads, and why cannot the custom be stopped? It is wide-spread. In villages within twelve miles of Imphál skulls and scalps are to be seen stuck on spikes near the villages. * * *

48. There is one custom of the Zami Nagas that must not be overlooked, that is, smoking of pipes made on same plan as those used by the Kúki women; the water in the bowl through which the smoke passes being put by in small bamboo vessels and afterwards sipped, the liquor being held in the mouth for some time and then rejected. Neither the Sopvomah nor Tengimah nor any of the western Nagas smoke these pipes. I have already mentioned their very different armament to the tribes on the west.

49. The next tribe we came across was a section of the Tangkúl Nagas, a very distinct race from those on the north; this section has been discriminated by Colonel McCulloch as the Lahúpoh (from "Lahup," a hat in Munipuri), from the large helmet they wear; there is certainly much that is different in their appearance, especially the way of cutting the hair. The Tangkul nearer Munipur shaves all except a narrow high ridge, extending from the sinciput to occiput, and terminating in a little tail tied in a knot. The men of Shipvomi, Swémi, Yémai, and Aphomai trim the hair down to about 1½ to 2 inches all over the head, and by shaving all round over the ears, leave it somewhat like an inserted basin-shape cut. Many wear large circular earings of brass-wire and a circular neck-piece of cane stained red and ornamented with cowries; from the fastening at the back hang long cotton tassels; these are sometimes of hair. This ornament I noticed is worn by the Tangkúls as far into Munipur as Laisén.

50. The changes that take place in the different tribes are very gradual one into the other, but at last these accumulating one finds the Anghámi and the Tangkúl differing most widely; some of these differences one can hardly describe on paper, for the eye alone can detect the slightest difference in cut of hair, manner of putting on their dress, and particularly expression. Thus the Gaziphimi men, although belonging to the Zámi community, had an affinity to those of Shipvomi, and these again with Yémai, and so on into the Tangkúl of the south. Customs peculiar to the Anghámi would now and then re-appear, such as the building of platforms over graves and mode of decorating them. All Nagas wear the cane rings round the leg, just below the knees, and the more they can get on the better style it is with them. The Nagas of the north always dye their's black, while to the south, commencing with the Máráms, they are generally uncolored. Certain Tangkúls wear a plaited kind, dyed yellow and red, in keeping with a narrow flat fillet of same coloring round the head, and the spear handle also ornamented with plaited cane work laid over it.

51. The great distinguishing social custom of the Tangkúl, however, is the wearing of a small ring of bone, ivory, or wood, into which the foreskin is drawn. When employed in their fields during the heat of the day, they are generally stark naked, and hundreds were to be seen working thus on a new line of road the Raja was constructing. The women, however, dress much as those of other tribes, the petticoat usually in broad alternate stripes of black and white, the body to over the breast wrapped round with a white cloth. The chudder or cloth of the Tangkúl is of home manufacture, and very stout and strong, in stripes of a maroon red and indigo, with narrow lines of white, the red predominating; and these colors blend most harmoniously.

52. In the Tangkúl villages, visited east of the Laimakhong valley, the women wear a coarse cotton kerchief on the head, which is folded and brought back and tied with string behind to the knot of hair. These Tangkúls differ by their using the bow and arrow; the arrows are very short, barbed, and poisoned. The helmet is worn by all the Tangkúls from Shipvomi south to Kúntúck and Lailén; it is strongly made of plaited cane, rather conical in form in front, and on each side is fixed securely one or two (generally two) round discs, ornamented with concentric circles of white and red beads; between this hangs loosely a circular polished disc of bell metal or brass flatly conical in the centre, and which flashes in the sun with every movement; rising from the top of the helmet is generally a long white plume of feathers, and hanging from the two side discs a broad band, covered with red seeds, and from which and from the side ornaments hangs a quantity of black hair; with this on, his long spear, shield, and dâo, he looks most formidable.

53. The Tangkúls of the villages of Mézimeh or Prowi, Phunggum, and Shirai have characteristics which link them on to tribes who tattoo on the east, as the Shans. The women of these villages are all tattooed in a pattern of three parallel lines extending from under the lip to chin, down centre of neck and bosom to the navel, from the shoulders down to the breasts, and again down to outside of the arm and occasionally on the back. They are perhaps less particular in covering the upper part of their body than the other women we saw when at work. A broad semi-circular collar or neck-piece of brass is very frequently worn by the men, and is no doubt worn as a piece of armour against a dâo cut. It is very evident that these Láhúpahs, in Colonel McCulloch's time, were not under Munipur, for he distinguishes them from other Láhúpahs, vide page 68 in his "Account of the valley of Munipur." "The Láhúpah in the far north being more warlike, are much feared by those south of them. The women of the former are tattooed, &c.," and again read the paragraph commencing at foot of page 66.

54. The Marams are located on the Barak and its sources, and scarcely differ from the Anghámi, wearing like them the short kilt; they are not so fine a race of men; in build none carry away the palm from the men of the large villages like Kohima, Mozamah, &c. The Láhúpah, although so highly praised for his superior stature by Colonel McCulloch, I did not notice was particularly tall. The roofing of houses with shingles is mainly dependent on the proximity of pine woods, and is not a custom peculiar to the Tangkúl or Láhúpah. The dog of the Láhúpah is, as Colonel McCulloch justly remarks, a very fine animal, quite a different breed; when young they have long thick soft hair, but they lose this to a great extent as they become adult.

55. The Kúki colonies in Munipur are gradually moving away north to the Burrail, and will many of them settle there eventually.

Those in the northern valleys are Thados, or, as they are called in Munipur, "Khongjais." The most flourishing colony I saw was at Aimulkún, west of the Koimárú valley, and close to the Barak; it is also the most northerly.

Stone monuments.

56. I was much interested to find, on entering the Anghámi country, that they and other Nagas also erect monolithic monuments like the Khásis, and that the custom was still in force. The finest slabs are to be seen near Sopvomah and Togwema; they are quite equal in size to those in the Khási hills. Large stones are also set up on three or more supports in dolmen form. These on the Sopvomah ridge were all of sandstone, which must, at the cost of very great labor, have been dragged up out of the bed of the Zúllo, the ridge being of friable shales. They move the stones on wooden sledges constructed for the purpose, dragged by ropes, and rollers used where necessary. The Tangkúls do not greet these larger monuments, but in the villages of Prowi and Phunggum I noticed long lines of small stones, generally the white weathered limestone, sunk nearly flush with the surface, and extending for many yards along the sides of the paths leading from the village; and rows of small stones, two or three feet high, were here and there noticed.

57. Among the Anghámis they are set up by individuals during their life-time to perpetuate their own memory and that of the feast given at the time; after a day or two of feasting the men assembled, all go in a body and drag in the stones, which are set up on the side of the principal road near the village or on a conspicuous knoll. The number set up is apparently unlimited, and they are arranged differently to the Khási stones, the largest and highest on the right, the others in gradation of size. I have seen as many as twelve to fifteen in a row, but one to three is the most usual number.

On the line of boundary, &c.

58. East of Tellizo the villages on the main watershed are—1, Yémi or Yémai; 2, Aphomai; 3, Káchai or Achámi; 4, Humi; 5, Taloi; 6, Langthang; and 7, Siarhi. North of and near the watershed we have 1, Rázámi; 2, Thizámi; 3, Khiphimi; 4, Shipvomi; 5, Raimeh; 6, Thiwa; 7, Phunggum; 8, Hwining; 9, Ukrul; and 10, Nungvar. Of these I am of opinion Munipur has had for some years a certain kind of intercourse and influence; they are, 1, Yémi; 2, Aphomai; 3, Kachai; 4, Humi; 5, Taloi; 6, Hwining; 7, Phunggum; 8, Ukrul; 9, Langthang; and 10, Siruhi. On Gaziphimi a raid was made by the Munipuris some years back, and that village bought its safety by a payment of cloths and other things, but this village and certainly Rázámi and the others composing the Zámi group have never been under Munipur or paid annual tribute. This year certainly Swémi and Mezimeh assisted Munipur at the destruction of Gaziphimi, but this was solely due to the existence of old blood feuds. Shipvomi had not paid tribute. It is not many years since Munipur has established any kind of influence over Yémi; it was formerly a very large village, the refusal to pay tribute had led to its being burnt, and a number of the men were killed; the village yet shews this in the badly-built houses and partly burnt timber put into them. Raimeh and Thiwa openly declared their independence in our camp at Kachai, and I do not believe pay tribute yet.

59. After the establishment of the Thanna at Prowi, late last autumn, the Munipuris penetrated down the river east of Swemi, and over the next ridge to the Nongtum river, up to the villages of Vumé or Thusum, and Láphumeh or Wahong; they know but little of the villages of Chullo and Kuhsom; all their information is supplied by the head-man of Ukrul, who attended Thangal Major to the top of Shiruifúrar; but the Munipuris were quite in the dark concerning the villages on that side, and their map had evidently been put together by the aid of this man in Munipur. The line of main watershed would, I think, be the best boundary, leaving to Munipur all villages situated on it, who would continue their cultivation on both sides as usual, but would give the Munipuris no excuse for crossing the boundary at that point, or interfering in any way with other villages. To throw in Hwining and Ukrul a very simple modification can be made.

60. By following the main watershed east of Toloi, to where the road turns north to Rapfo hill, where a Trigonometrical Station has been built, thence down the very marked ravine to the Lanier and junction of the Shirni stream up to the peak, where it would follow the main watershed again by the peaks known in our triangulation as Far Blue Range, Nos. 4, 5, 2, and 1. To more than the villages such boundary would give Munipur has no claims in the strict sense of the term.

61. It might have been expedient to have made other modifications, but this, if I may be permitted to express an opinion, would now be most impolitic, after the manner in which the officers deputed by Government to settle this line of frontier were thwarted, and even opposed by servants of the Raja like Major Romah Sing. * * * *

Assistance of Political Agents.

62. I cannot close this report without recording the truly zealous aid afforded to the survey operations by Captain J. Butler, Officiating Political Agent, Naga Hills. Having a knowledge of survey work, he well understands its requirements, and can allow for the changes of weather and unforeseen difficulties that so often entail delay and retard work. His knowledge of the people, energy, and physical powers make him just the man for such work as we were employed on. To Colonel Mowbray Thomson my thanks are also due for the assistance he rendered us on the Munipur side, first in obtaining the Raja's sanction to our taking up work in the valley, and secondly the aid afforded to Mr. Ogle when working alone. This officer, I may mention, is very anxious that this survey party should take up the remaining unsurveyed part of Munipur, and that, should he remain in political charge, an officer be deputed to proceed with him and lay down the eastern boundary in the Kubbu valley, and also visit the valley of Jatrik, lately invaded by the Munipuris, a question that certainly should be looked into, or difficult questions may arise regarding the boundary of Burma in that quarter.

RETURN OF THE NUMBER AND VALUE OF SERVICE AND PRIVATE TELEGRAMS TRANSMITTED FROM EACH DIVISION OF THE GOVERNMENT TELEGRAPH DEPARTMENT DURING 1872-73.

No. 127, dated Simla, the 27th June 1873.

From—LIEUTENANT-COLONEL R. MURRAY, Offg. Director General of Telegraphs in India.
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

I have the honour to submit Return of the number and value of Service and Private Messages transmitted from each Division of this Department during the YEAR 1872-73, showing the Collections on, and the Number of, Inland and Foreign Messages separately, with an Abstract in the margin exhibiting in one view the percentage of Increase and Decrease in the number of Paid Messages and Indian share of Collections under each head, as compared with those of the previous year, 1871-72.

IRRIGATION OPERATIONS IN THE N. W. PROVINCES DURING THE YEAR 1872-73.

No. 02227 $\frac{1}{C}$, dated 23rd August 1873.

RESOLUTION—By His Honor the Lieutenant Governor, N. W. Provinces.

Read the following papers:—

1. Resolution by His Honor the Lieutenant Governor on irrigation operations for the khurreef, 1872-73, No. 862I, dated the 27th of March 1873.
2. Statements A5, B5, C5, for the rubbee, 1872-73.
3. Statements A5, B5, C5, for the year 1872-73.

OBSERVATIONS.—The areas irrigated, and revenue derived from all sources for the past seven years have been:—

Years.	Area in acres.	Gross Revenue. Rs.
1866-67	983,390	21,74,431
1867-68	761,460	19,04,172
1868-69	1,441,918	31,47,160
1869 70	1,089,673	25,69,792
1870-71	1,050,808	25,51,169
1871-72	852,489	21,75,733
1872-73	940,577	23,12,436

Years.	Areas in acres.		Revenue.
	Rubbee.	Khurreef.	Rubbee.	Khurreef.
			Rs.	Rs.
1869-70	588,048	501,625	12,29,981	13,39,811
1870-71	654,409	396,399	13,43,903	12,07,266
1871-72	519,372	333,117	11,32,919	10,42,814
1872-73	586,958	353,619	13,05,157	10,07,280

2. The areas irrigated for rubbee and khurreef, with revenue, are given in the margin for the last four years.

3. The following table shows the areas of the principal crops irrigated for the last three years:—

Years.	Sugarcane.	Rice.	Wheat.	Barley.	Bajra, jowar, and other grains.	Cotton and other fibres.	Indigo and other dyes.	Opium and other drugs.
1870-71 ...	112,141	96,479	461,534	134,192	30,208	37,529	120,651	3,654
1871-72 ...	94,816	76,850	365,950	99,650	19,883	22,082	120,149	5,449
1872-73 ...	102,242	83,956	363,529	160,023	14,761	16,007	131,631	7,994

It will be observed that there has been no very marked variation in the main staples of wheat, rice, and sugarcane: but there has been a sensible increase in the khurreef for indigo, and in the rubbee for barley. There is also some falling off in the irrigation of cotton and the inferior khurreef crops,—a variation due to the regularity of the rainy season.

4. The increase over the previous year's returns in khurreef irrigation, 20,502 acres, has already been explained in the Resolution on the irrigation operations for that harvest, to be due more to the spread of indigo, than to any great difference between the two seasons.

5. In the rubbee, the increase was 67,586 acres, distributed over all classes of crops, and over all districts, except Saharunpore, Moozuffernuggur, and Meerut. It will be seen that there was a more abundant fall of rain in December and January in these districts than in those lower down the Doab, which accounts for the area irrigated being relatively less in the former than in the latter; but considering that the season was everywhere so much drier than that of the previous year, it is not easy to explain the general falling off; and indeed a much larger increase might have been looked for in the lower districts.

6. The cause of disappointment may be found in the lateness of the September rains, which enabled the cultivators to plough and sow without artificial irrigation; and when this is once done, the cultivator holds off in the hope that his harvest may be matured without the aid of canal-water; and this expectation was in fact very largely realized in the upper section of the Doab, by the help of the winter rains which fell copiously.

7. Turning to the annual statements, it will be seen that the districts which show the largest increase in area are Mynpoorie, Etawah, and Cawnpore, irrigated principally by the two terminal divisions of the Ganges Canal. In each division the present area was exceeded only in the famine year in 1868-69, while the area irrigated by the whole Ganges Canal was less than that irrigated in three out of the six previous years:—

Years.	Cawnpore Division.	Etawah Division.	Total of Ganges Canal.
	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
1866-67	109,418	69,262	634,734
1867-68	81,900	79,258	533,456
1868-69	166,773	156,884	1,078,399
1869-70	108,095	101,868	780,406
1870-71	104,340	112,056	766,614
1871-72	85,841	87,541	606,555
1872-73	119,736	130,431	685,163

This result may be ascribed to the steady development of irrigation and to the creditable exertions of the officers in charge, as well as to the large supply of water which has been maintained in the Ganges Canal during the past year.

8. The decrease in the area irrigated in the Meerut Division, and the increase in that irrigated in the Boolundshuhur Division, is chiefly due to an alteration of boundaries of those divisions.

9. On the Eastern Jumna Canal (which irrigates the three districts mentioned in paragraph 5 as having enjoyed exceptional rain), the area irrigated was less than it was last year. On all other canals there was an increase.

ORDER.—Ordered, that copies of this Resolution and connected papers be forwarded to the Government of India, and circulated to the officers of the Department, to the General Department, and Board of Revenue, and published in the Gazette of these Provinces.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following further Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as now settled by them, is published by order of His Excellency the Governor General :—

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Land-Revenue in the North-Western Provinces was referred, have considered the amended Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to present this Final Report.

Note by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, dated 24th February 1873.
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces, No. 1930 A, dated 6th September 1873, and enclosures.
Memorandum by E. Atkinson, Esq.
" by H. Hobart, Esq., dated 12th May 1873.
" by C. Currie, Esq., " 17th "
Remarks by C. W. Carpenter, Esq., " 21st "
Note by E. Buck, Esq., " 23rd "
Remarks by R. M. Edwards, Esq., " 24th "
Note by J. R. Reid, Esq., " 27th "
Memorandum by F. C. Chapman, Esq., " 29th "
Note by Bábu Gangápershád of Bareli, dated 26th May 1873.
Note by His Highness the Mahárájá of Jaypur.
Memorial from the Zamíndárs of Jaunpur.
Note by Hon'ble E. C. Bayley, dated 20th September 1873.

2. We have altered the definition of 'mahál' so as to render our intention clearer, and we have omitted as useless the definition of 'tenant.'

3. We have made the power of the Collector of the District to transfer cases from his own file clearly extend to all cases whether arising under the provisions of the intended Act or otherwise.

4. We have enabled the Local Government to devote a portion of the patwári rate to the payment of charges incurred for the supervision, maintenance and correction of the patwáris' records.

5. We have empowered (clause thirty-nine) the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, from time to time to make general rules regarding the mode in which the revenue demand is to be assessed.

6. We have provided (clause forty-six) that in the case of a mahál held by co-sharers in severalty, the Settlement Officer shall distribute the assessment among the co-sharers.

7. In clauses 47, 49 and 51 we have altered the allowance to the person excluded from settlement to an allowance not less than 5 nor more than 15 per cent. on the proposed assessment.

8. In clause 64 we have provided that the Settlement Officer shall record the instalments of rent and the respective dates fixed for their payment, and any other matter which, by the rules to be framed under clause 255, he may be directed to record.

9. In clause 65 we have provided for consolidating with rent the cesses paid by tenants of land, whether revenue-free or assessed to revenue. We have also declared that the Settlement Officer shall record a list of all other cesses levied in accordance with village-custom, if generally or specially sanctioned by Government, and that the Local Government may impose on the collection of any cesses so sanctioned conditions as to conservancy, police, &c., connected with the village, bázár or fair in or on account of which the cesses are levied.

10. We have transferred to the Rent Act the clauses (70, 71 and 74) relating to tenants at fixed rates, privileged tenants and occupancy-tenants.

11. In clauses 72 and 76 we have reduced to ten years the term for which the rent of privileged tenants and occupancy-tenants shall be fixed in all districts. This alteration has been made because the majority of us, having regard to the weighty opinions given in favour of shortening the term, think it the more prudent course.

12. We have extended clause 78 (as to the joinder of tenants in suits for enhancement or abatement) to suits for commutation of rent.

13. We have made it clear that the clause relating to the commutation of rent in kind to money-rent applies to cases in which the rent is paid by rates varying with the crop, or partly in such way and partly in kind, or on the estimated value of a portion of the crop.

14. We have provided that clause 83 (as to resumption of rent-free grants) shall not apply to cases where land is held rent-free under a judicial decision or to cases where land held rent-free has been purchased for a valuable consideration, and a resumption of such land has been barred by Act No. X of 1859, section twenty-eight, or by the Indian Limitation Act, second schedule, No. 130.

15. As to the partition of lands held in severalty, we have provided that the aggregate revenue of the new mahâls shall not exceed the revenue assessed on the mahâl immediately before partition.

16. We have declared that no partition shall be disallowed on the ground of incompactness except with the sanction of the Board of Revenue.

17. We have enabled the Board, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, to make rules as to the instalments, &c., by which the revenue is to be paid.

18. We have expressly declared that no interest shall be demanded on arrears of revenue.

19. As to sales of land for arrears of revenue, we have followed Act I of 1845 in declaring that certain leases shall not be deemed to be 'incumbrances' within the meaning of clause 165.

20. We have empowered the Collector of the District to postpone such sales, reporting such postponements to the Commissioner.

21. In the case of sales of land other than that on which the arrear accrued, we have provided (clause 188) that no incumbrances created or contracts entered into by the defaulter in good faith shall be rendered invalid by such proceedings.

22. To the list of persons held "disqualified to manage their own lands" we have added persons declared by the Local Government, on their own application, toe b disqualified.

23. In clause 213 we have required the officer making an investigation under the clauses therein mentioned, where the evidence is not taken down in full by him, to record a memorandum of the substance of the evidence of each witness.

24. As to reference to arbitration, we have excluded cases provided for by clauses 113 and 116 from those which a Settlement Officer may refer without the parties' consent.

25. We have also provided that the officer making the reference shall fix the amount to be allowed for the expenses of the arbitration, and direct by and to whom they shall be paid.

26. In clause 239 we have excluded the Civil Courts from taking cognizance of the amount of any rate or cess to be assessed under any Act for the time being in force, on any mahâl or share of a mahâl.

27. We have added to the schedule of repealed enactments so much of Regulation III of 1803 as has not been repealed, and section twenty-six of Regulation V of 1803.

28. We have altered section two of Act XL of 1858, so as to exclude from the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts proprietors of estates not assessed to revenue who are under the protection of the Court of Wards.

29. We have for the present confined the operation of the intended Act to the regulation parts of the North-Western Provinces. We have made several changes in arrangement and wording, and we recommend that the Bill as amended should be passed. But we are of opinion that it has undergone such alterations as to render its re-publication desirable.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Land-Revenue and the jurisdiction of Revenue Officers in the North-Western Provinces.

[AS RE-AMENDED BY THE SELECT COMMITTEE.]

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to land-revenue and the jurisdiction of Revenue Officers in the North-Western Provinces of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873:"

Local extent.

It extends to all the territories for the time being under the government of the Lieutenant-Governor of the said Provinces except those specified in the first schedule hereto annexed;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

Enactments repealed.

2. The Regulations and Acts mentioned in the second schedule hereto annexed are repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof.

But all rules prescribed, appointments made, powers conferred, and notifications published under any such enactment, and all other rules (if any) now in force and relating to any of the matters hereinafter dealt with, shall be deemed to have been respectively prescribed, made, conferred and published under this Act.

Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,

'Mahál.'

(1.) "Mahál" means—

(a) any local area held under a separate engagement for the payment of the land-revenue, and for which a separate record-of-rights has been framed, and

(b) any local area of which the revenue has been assigned or redeemed, and for which a separate record-of-rights has been framed.

'Collector of the District.'

(2.) "Collector of the District" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue administration of a District:

'Commissioner.'

(3.) "Commissioner" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue administration of a Division:

'Rent.'

(4.) "Rent" means whatever is to be paid, delivered or rendered by a tenant on account of his holding, use or occupation of land:

Sír-land.'

(5.) "Sír-land" means—

(a) land recorded as sír at the last settlement of the district in which it is situate, and continuously so recorded since; or,

(b) land continuously cultivated by the proprietor himself, with his own stock, or by his servants, or by hired labour, for twelve years; or,

(c) land recognized by village custom as the special holding of a co-sharer, and treated as such in the distribution of profits or charges among the co-sharers:

'Annual value.'

(6.) "Annual value" means double the amount of the revenue, or, in the case of mahále permanently assessed or exempt from the payment of revenue, double the amount that would be assessable on such mahále if they were liable to assessment or revision of assessment:

'Incumbrance.'

(7.) "Incumbrance" means a charge upon or claim against land arising out of private contract:

'Agricultural year.'

(8.) "Agricultural year" means a year commencing on the first day of July, and ending on the thirtieth day of June:

'Revenue Court.'

(9.) "Revenue Court" means all or any of the following authorities, (that is to say) all members of the Board of Revenue, Commissioners, Collectors, Assistant Collectors, Settlement Officers, Assistant Settlement Officers and Tahsíldárs:

'Board.'

(10.) "Board" means the Board of Revenue of the North-Western Provinces:

'Minor.'

(11.) "Minor" means a person who has not completed his age of eighteen years.

CHAPTER II.

CONSTITUTION AND POWERS OF REVENUE OFFICERS.

Chief controlling authority in revenue matters.

4. The chief controlling authority in all matters connected with the revenue of the said territories is vested in the Board, subject to the Local Government.

Subject to the orders of the Local Government, the Board shall sit in any place in the North-Western Provinces that it thinks fit, and it shall have the powers conferred by Chapter VII of this Act on Commissioners and Collectors.

Appointment of Members of Board.

5. The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, shall appoint, and may from time to time remove, the members of the Board.

Power to distribute business.

6. With the previous sanction of the Local Government, and subject to rules which it may from time to time prescribe, the Board may distribute its business and make such territorial division of its jurisdiction amongst its members as to the Board may seem fit.

Orders of Member to be orders of Board.

All orders made or decrees passed by a Member of the Board in accordance with such distribution or division shall be held to be the orders or decrees (as the case may be) of the Board.

Alteration or reversal of orders.

7. No decree or order coming under the consideration of the Board on appeal or on being called for or reported for orders, shall be altered or reversed without the concurrent judgment of two Members of the Board.

Reference to Local Government in case of difference of opinion.

8. When the Members of the Board are equally divided in opinion as to the order to be made in any matter coming under their consideration otherwise than on appeal, the question regarding which there is such division shall be referred for decision to the Local Government.

Power of Board to review and alter its orders and decrees.

9. The Board may review, and may rescind, alter or confirm, any order made by itself, or by any of its Members in the course of its non-judicial business.

But no decree passed by it judicially shall be so reviewed except on the application of a party to the cause within ninety days from the passing of the decree, or, if good cause be shown, within any longer period.

Members not empowered to alter each other's orders.

A single Member vested with all or any of the powers of the Board shall not have power to alter or reverse a decree or order passed by the Board or by any Member other than himself.

Power to authorize Member to exercise powers of Board.

10. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, the Local Government may authorize any Member of the Board to perform or exercise, either generally or in any particular locality, all or any of the duties and powers imposed and conferred on the Board.

Commissioners of Division.

11. The Local Government shall appoint in each Division a Commissioner, who shall within his Division exercise the powers and discharge the duties conferred and imposed on a Commissioner of Division under this Act, or under any other law for the time being in force, and who shall, subject to the control of the Board, exercise authority over all the Revenue Officers in his Division.

Collector of the District.

12. The Local Government shall appoint in each District an officer, who shall be the Collector of the District, and shall exercise throughout his District all the powers and discharge all the duties conferred and imposed on a Collector or an Assistant Collector by this Act or any other law for the time being in force.

The Local Government may confer on any Assistant Collector in charge of a Sub-division of a District all or any of the powers of a Collector of a District, and all powers so conferred shall be exercised subject to the control of the Collector of the District.

Assistant Collectors.

13. The Local Government may appoint to each district as many other persons as it thinks fit to be Assistant Collectors of the first or second class.

All such Assistant Collectors and all other persons employed in collecting the land-revenue or in maintaining revenue-records shall be subordinate to the Collector of the District.

Power to alter limits of Divisions, &c., and to form Sub-divisions.

14. The Local Government may from time to time alter the limits of any Division, District or Tahsíl, and may divide any District into Sub-divisions, and from time to time alter the limits of such Sub-divisions.

All existing tahsíls shall be Sub-divisions of districts until they are so altered.

Assistant Collector in charge of Sub-division of District.

15. The Local Government may place any Assistant Collector of the first class in charge of one or more Sub-divisions of a District, and may at any time remove him therefrom.

Such Assistant Collector shall be called an Assistant Collector in charge of a Sub-division of a District, and shall exercise the powers conferred upon him by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force, subject to the control of the Collector of the District.

The Local Government may, from time to time, delegate its powers under this section to the Collector of the District, and may revoke such delegation.

Subordination of Revenue Officers.

16. Every officer of a Sub-division of a District employed in collecting the land-revenue or in maintaining revenue-records shall be subordinate to the Assistant Collector (if any) in charge of such Sub-division, subject to the general control of the Collector of the District.

Conferring of powers.

17. In conferring powers under this Act, the Local Government may empower persons by name, or classes of officials generally, by their official titles.

Transfer of cases to subordinates.

18. The Collector of the District, or any Assistant Collector in charge of a Sub-division or a District, or Officer in charge of a Settlement, may make over any case, or class of cases, arising under the provisions of this Act or otherwise for enquiry or decision from his own file to any of his subordinates competent to deal with such case or class,

Power to withdraw cases from subordinates.

or may withdraw any such case or class of cases from any Revenue Officer subordinate to them respectively, and may deal with such case or class themselves, or refer it for disposal to any other such Revenue Officer competent to deal with the same.

Power to vary and cancel powers.

19. The Local Government may vary or cancel any order conferring powers under this Act.

Collector of the District in case of temporary vacancy.

20. If the Collector of the District dies, or is otherwise disabled from performing his duties, the officer who succeeds temporarily to the chief executive administration of the District in revenue matters shall be held to be the Collector of the District under this Act until the Local Government appoints a successor to the Collector so dying or otherwise disabled, and such successor takes charge of his appointment.

Powers of officers transferred to another district.

21. Whenever any person holding an office in the service of Government, who has been invested with any powers under this Act in any district is transferred to an equal or higher office of the same nature within another district, he shall, unless the Local Government otherwise directs, be held to be invested with the same powers in the district to which he is so transferred.

Appointment of Tahsíldárs.

22. Tahsíldárs shall be appointed by the Board, subject to such rules as to qualification or otherwise as the Local Government may make under section two hundred and fifty-five.

Power to form and alter patwáris' circles.

23. The Collector of the District, or the Settlement Officer, with the sanction of the Board, may arrange all the villages of such district in patwáris' circles, and may, from time to time, alter the limits of such circles

But no such arrangement or alteration shall be final unless and until it has been sanctioned by the Board.

Appointment of patwárí to each circle.

24. A patwárí shall be appointed to each circle, whether the mahálls in such circle are assessed to revenue or not.

Nomination and appointment of patwáris to fill vacancies.

25. On the occurrence of a vacancy by the death or dismissal of a patwárí or otherwise, the proprietors of the circle in which the vacancy has occurred, or the persons standing in their place, shall in accordance with local custom nominate a successor, who shall be appointed by the Collector of the District or Settlement Officer, or Assistant Collector.

Which nominee to be appointed in case of disagreement.

26. In case of disagreement as to the nominee, the Collector or Settlement Officer or Assistant Collector shall ascertain the local custom, if any, and shall appoint the person nominated in accordance therewith.

Where no such custom can be ascertained, the Collector, Settlement Officer, or Assistant Collector shall appoint the nominee of those proprietors who represent the largest amount of annual value in the circle, or of the persons standing in their place.

If a mahál is held under direct management, or if the proprietor be under the charge of the Court of Wards, the Collector of the District, or Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division, shall be held to be the proprietor for the purpose of nominating a patwárí under this section.

Appointment of patwárí in case of failure or neglect of person entitled to nominate.

27. If the persons in whom the nomination is vested neglect to nominate a successor to the patwárí within fifteen days from the occurrence of the vacancy, the Collector of the District, Settlement Officer or Assistant Collector shall call on them by notice to make the nomination, and if they fail to do so within fifteen days from the receipt of notice, the Collector shall make the appointment.

Procedure in case of nomination of unfit person.

28. If the person or persons in whom the nomination is vested nominate a man disqualified by any cause to perform the duties of a patwárí or in the nomination neglect to follow the local custom, the Collector of the District, Settlement Officer or the Assistant Collector shall refuse to appoint the nominee; and if no fit person be nominated within fifteen days from the date of the notification of such refusal, he shall himself appoint a person to the vacant office.

Preference to member of patwárí's family.

Provided that the Collector of the District, Settlement Officer or Assistant Collector, in making the appointment under this and the last preceding section, shall always give preference to any member of the late patwárí's family, not disqualified by reason of minority or otherwise to perform the duties of the office.

Payment of patwáris.

29. A rate may be imposed by order of the Collector of the District or the Settlement Officer, on the annual value or on the cultivated area of all the mahál composing the circle of each patwárí, or partly in the one way, and partly in the other, for defraying the salary of such patwárí, and any charges incurred on account of any additional establishment required for the proper supervision, maintenance and correction of the patwárí's records

Fixing amount of rate.

30. The amount of the rate to be imposed under section twenty-nine in any District or Sub-division of a District, shall be determined by the Board under the orders of the Local Government:

Provided that such rate shall not exceed three per cent. on the annual value of the rated mahál, and that the amount to be imposed on each mahál shall be fixed in the temporarily settled districts for the term of settlement, and in permanently-settled districts for thirty years, or such shorter period as the Local Government may direct.

Collection of rate.

31. The rate shall be collected with the revenue, and shall, in case of default, be recoverable by the same process as arrears of revenue.

Salaries of patwáris.

32. The amount of the salaries of the patwáris shall be fixed from time to time by the Board under the orders of the Local Government.

Appointment of Kánúngos and filling vacancies among them.

33. One or more Kánúngos may be appointed in each tahsíl for the proper supervision, maintenance and correction of the patwáris' records.

In case of a vacancy in the office of a Kánúngo, preference shall be given to some duly qualified member of a family in which the office of Kánúngo of the tahsíl or any part thereof is hereditary.

If no such qualified member can be found, then one of the patwáris of the tahsíl shall, if duly qualified, be appointed to the vacancy, and failing any person duly qualified among them, some other fit and competent person shall be appointed thereto.

Amount of Kánúngos' salaries.

34. The amount of the salaries of the Kánúngos shall from time to time be fixed by the Local Government.

Kánúngos and patwáris to be public servants, and their records public records.

35. Every Kánúngo and patwárí, and every person appointed temporarily to discharge the duties of any such officer, shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, and all official records and papers kept by any such officer shall be held to be public records and the property of Government.

CHAPTER III.

SETTLEMENT.

Notification as to settlement.

36. Whenever the Local Government thinks that any local area liable to be brought under settlement shall be so brought, it shall publish a notification specifying such area and declaring whether the settlement is to include the assessment of the land-revenue or the preparation of the revenue records or both.

Settlement to be deemed in progress until closing notified.

37. Such local area shall be held to be under settlement from the date of the notification published under section thirty-six until the issue of another notification declaring settlement operations to be closed therein.

Settlements now in progress brought under operation of Act.

Every district or local area under settlement at the time of the passing of this Act, shall be held to be under settlement within the meaning of this section without the issue of the notification prescribed by section thirty-six.

Appointment and powers of Settlement Officers.

38. The Local Government may from time to time appoint an officer to be in charge of the settlement of one or more districts, or part of a district, and as many Assistant Settlement Officers as to it may seem fit; and such officers shall exercise the powers conferred upon them by this Act so long as such district or districts or part of a district is or are under settlement.

Local Government to issue rules as to mode of assessment and to fix period of settlement.

39. The Local Government shall from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, frame and issue rules regarding the mode in which the revenue demand is to be assessed.

Powers of Settlement Officers as to erection of boundary-marks and decision of disputes.

40. When any district, or part of a district, is under settlement, the Settlement Officer shall have power to call upon all proprietors, by proclamation to be stuck up in some conspicuous place in each village, to erect within fifteen days such boundary-marks as he may think necessary to define the limits of their villages, mahâls, or fields; and in default of their compliance within the time specified in the notice, he may cause such boundary-marks to be erected, and he shall recover the cost of the erection from the proprietors, as if it were an arrear of revenue.

In case of dispute concerning any boundary-marks, the Settlement Officer shall decide such dispute on the basis of possession, or may refer it to arbitration, as provided for in section two hundred and eighteen to section two hundred and twenty-nine (both inclusive).

Power of Settlement and Survey Officers to enter on lands.

41. All Settlement Officers and all officers in charge of a survey made in connection with the revenue, and their assistants, servants, agents and workmen, may do all acts necessary for any purpose connected with the settlement or survey, as the case may be.

Power to require attendance of persons concerned.

42. The Settlement Officer may order all persons, whose presence is in his opinion necessary for the purposes of settlement or survey, to attend at any specified time and place, and to produce any written document in their possession or power; and all such persons shall be legally bound to obey such order.

With whom settlement to be made.

43. The settlement shall be made with the proprietor of the land; or, if the proprietor have transferred possession of his land to a mortgagee or conditional vendee, then with such mortgagee or vendee.

Settlement of mahâl in possession of lunatic or minor.

If, at the time of settlement, a mahâl or any share thereof, be in the possession of a lunatic, minor, or other person incapable of making a contract, the settlement shall be made with his guardian or manager on his behalf.

Power to make joint settlement with several proprietors or their elected representatives.

44. When several persons hold a mahâl, the Settlement Officer shall have power to make a joint settlement with all such persons, or with their representatives elected according to the custom of the mahâl.

Framing and reporting proposals of assessment.

45. Whenever the Settlement Officer frames proposals of assessment he shall report them through the Commissioner to the Board in accordance with the rules made under section two hundred and fifty-five and after receipt of the orders of the Board thereon, and subject to such orders, he shall declare to the persons with whom the settlement is to be made the assessment proposed for their mahâls.

Declaration of assessment to persons concerned.

Such declaration shall be made on a date to be notified by proclamation at the tahsîl in which such mahâls are situated.

Effect of agreement to assessment proposed.

46. If the persons with whom the settlement is to be made agree to the assessment so proposed, they shall become liable from the date of such agreement, or from such subsequent date as the Board directs, to pay such assessment, and in mahâls in which the land or part of the land is held in severalty the Settlement Officer shall distribute such assessment on the lands so held.

Enforcement of custom as to re-distribution of land and adjustment of revenue of shares.

47. In any mahâl where, by the established custom, the land or the amount of revenue payable by each sharer is subject to periodical re-distribution or re-adjustment, the Settlement Officer may, on application of the co-sharers, enforce such re-distribution or re-adjustment according to the established custom of the mahâl.

Exclusion of person declining or failing to accept, settlement.

48. If the person to be settled with refuse to accept the assessment offered by the Settlement Officer, or fail to accept such assessment within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section forty-five, the Settlement Officer shall report the case to the Board, and the Board may direct that the person so refusing or failing be excluded from the settlement for such term not exceeding fifteen years from the date of such direction, as the Board shall fix. And the Collector, with the previous sanction of the Board may either farm the mahâl or hold it under direct management during such term or any part thereof.

Allowance to person excluded.

In such case, the person so excluded, shall be entitled (subject to the orders of the Board) to an allowance of not less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the proposed assessment.

Procedure in case of some of several proprietors refusing assessment.

49. If in a pattîdârî or imperfect pattîdârî mahâl some of the co-sharers refuse or fail within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section forty-five to accept the proposed assessment, the shares of the persons so refusing or failing shall be dealt with under the provisions of section forty-eight, and they shall receive an allowance as laid down in that section in proportion to their respective shares in the mahál.

Farm of shares of proprietors refusing.

Provided that the farm of such shares shall be offered in the first instance to those proprietors who have accepted the proposed terms.

Adjustment of rent of the sír-lands of proprietors of estate farmed under section 48 or 49.

50. Any proprietor of a mahál, or a portion of a mahál, who may be excluded from settlement under section forty-eight or forty-nine shall be entitled to hold his sír-land as a privileged tenant, and the rent to be paid by him for such land during such exclusion shall be fixed by the Settlement Officer accordingly.

Provided that the difference between the rent so fixed, and the rent which such proprietor would be liable to pay, if he were not a privileged tenant, together with any allowance assigned to him under section forty-eight or forty-nine shall not be less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the assessment proposed by the Settlement Officer.

Offer of settlement to excluded proprietor on expiry of term of farm.

51. On the expiration of the term fixed under section forty-eight, the settlement of such mahál or portion shall be offered by the Collector of the District to the person then entitled to be settled with in respect of such mahál, or portion at such assessment for the remainder of the term of settlement of the district as the Board may direct.

Procedure on refusal.

And if such person refuse to accept the offer, the Collector of the District shall report such refusal to the Board, and such person may be excluded from settlement for such period not exceeding the term of the settlement of the District as the Board may direct, and shall then receive the allowance to which he would be entitled if sections forty-eight and forty-nine applied to his case. And the rent to be paid by him as a privileged tenant for his sír-land shall be fixed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector in accordance with the North-Western Provinces Rent Act.

Power to direct which of several parties having separate and differing interests shall be admitted to settlement;

52. Whenever several persons possess separate heritable and transferable proprietary interests in any mahál, such interests being of different kinds, the Settlement Officer may, under the rules for the time being in force, determine

(a) which of such persons shall be admitted to engage for the payment of the revenue, due provision being made for securing the rights of the others, and

and to prescribe distribution of profits.

(b) the manner and proportion in which the nett profits of the mahál shall be allotted to the several persons possessing separate interests as aforesaid for the term of the settlement.

Power to make sub-settlement with inferior proprietor in behalf of superior proprietor of mahal coming under section 52.

53. If in any mahál coming under the provisions of the preceding section, the separate properties bear to each other the relation of superior and inferior, and the settlement be made with the party possessing the superior right, the Settlement Officer may make, on behalf of the superior proprietor, a sub-settlement with the inferior proprietor, by which such inferior shall be bound to pay to the superior an amount equal to the Government demand in respect of the mahál, together with the share of the profits thereof allotted to the superior proprietor under section fifty-two.

Exclusion of inferior proprietor from sub-settlement in case of refusal of terms.

Provided that, if the inferior proprietor refuse to agree to the terms of such sub-settlement, the mahál shall be made over to the superior proprietor for the term of settlement

Allowance.

And in such case the inferior proprietor shall hold as a privileged tenant the land (if any) cultivated by him at the date of such refusal, and the superior proprietor shall pay him such annual allowance as when added to the difference between the rent fixed for such land and the rent which the inferior proprietor would be liable to pay therefor if he were not a privileged tenant, shall not be less than five, or more than fifteen per cent. of the profits allotted to him under section fifty-two.

Assessment on inferior proprietor when settlement made with him.

54. If the settlement of a mahál be made with the inferior proprietor, the amount to be paid by him shall be fixed by the Settlement Officer at such a sum as may be equal to the Government demand in respect of such mahál, together with the share of the profits allowed to the superior proprietor under section fifty-two; and in this case the share of the superior proprietor shall be realized as revenue, and paid to him from the Government Treasury.

Power to make arrangements for the benefit of persons possessing rights which do not entitle them to settlement.

55. If in any mahál there exist persons possessing proprietary rights therein which are not of such a nature as to entitle their possessors to settlement, the Settlement Officer may make such arrangements as shall secure such persons in possession of their existing rights, or of an equivalent thereto.

This may be done

(a) by the formation of a sub-settlement on behalf of the proprietors with such persons for any lands actually in their possession, or,

(b) in mahál held as joint undivided property and where the said rights are rights to receive from the tenants any money-payment or portion of the agricultural produce, by assigning, in lieu thereof, the proprietary right in a certain portion of the mahál, the profits of which are equivalent in the opinion of the Settlement Officer to the said payment or portion:

(c) in such other way as shall maintain the persons referred to in the first clause of this section in the enjoyment of, or of an equivalent to, their existing rights.

Separate settlement of waste-land in excess.

56. When the waste-land belonging to, and included at the previous settlement within the boundaries of, any mahál assessed to the payment of revenue is so extensive as, in the opinion of the Settlement Officer, confirmed by the Board, to exceed the requirements of the owner of such mahál with reference to pastoral or agricultural purposes, such officer may make a separate settlement of the waste-land which he considers to be so in excess, and shall offer such waste-land to the owner of the mahál to which it belongs, at such assessment and for such term, not exceeding the period of settlement of the mahál, as the Board may order.

If the owner of the mahál accepts such offer, the Settlement Officer shall make the settlement of such waste-land accordingly, and on the expiration of the term of such settlement, a further settlement of such waste-land shall be offered on such terms as the Board directs to the person entitled to be settled with in respect thereof.

Allowance to owner of mahál refusing offer of settlement.

If the owner of such mahál refuses such offer, the Settlement Officer shall mark off the quantity so in excess, and declare it to be a separate mahál, and at the disposal of Government. Provided that there shall be allowed to the owner of the mahál to which the waste-land originally belonged such annual sum as the Board may direct, being not less than five and not more than ten per cent. on the nett revenue realized by Government from such waste-land.

Procedure as to waste-land not included in any mahál at previous settlements.

57. Any waste-land which has neither been judicially declared to be part of any mahál, nor included within the boundaries of any mahál at any previous settlement, shall be marked off by the Settlement Officer, and he shall record a proceeding declaring such land to be the property of Government, and cause a proclamation to that effect to be stuck up in the District Revenue Court and in the office of the tahsíl in which such land is situated, and shall call on all persons having any claims on such land to make the same within three months from the date of the proclamation.

Such proclamation shall be held to be an advertisement of the disposal of such land within the meaning of Act No. XXIII of 1863 (to provide for the adjudication of claims to waste-lands, section one, and any person having claims to such land must proceed according to the provisions of that Act.

Procedure as to waste-land unclaimed or adjudged to belong to Government.

58. If no claim is made to the proprietary right of such waste-land, or if such waste-land is decided to be the property of Government, but the proprietor of the adjoining mahál proves that he has theretofore enjoyed the use of such land for pastoral or agricultural purposes, the Settlement Officer may assign to such mahál so much of such waste land as he may consider requisite for such purposes, and he shall mark off the remainder and declare it to be the property of Government.

Settlement of waste-land adjudged to belong to claimant.

59. If the claimant obtain a decree under the provisions of the said Act No. XXIII of 1863, for the whole or part of such waste-land, the Settlement Officer may deal with the land to which a title is so established under the provisions of section fifty-six.

Confirmation of settlement and revision of assessment.

60. No settlement shall be considered final until it has been confirmed by the Local Government.

The Local Government shall at some time before confirming the settlement fix the period for which the settlement is to be made.

Such period shall be fixed with reference to the agricultural year.

The assessment may be revised, if the Local Government so directs, at any time before it is confirmed, and in such case the revised assessment shall be proposed to the proprietors, and the provisions of sections forty-three to fifty-one (both inclusive) shall apply.

RECORD-OF-RIGHTS.

Framing of record-of-rights.

61. Whenever the Local Government thinks that a record-of-rights in land, whether permanently settled, temporarily settled, or revenue-free, should be prepared, for any specified area, it shall issue a notification to that effect, and such notification shall remain in force until another notification is issued, declaring the operations in such area to be closed.

Register and statement to be included in record.

62. The Settlement Officer shall frame for each mahál a record containing a list of

(a) all the co-sharers,

(b) all other persons occupying any portion of the land therein, or who is in possession of any heritable or transferable interest in such land, or receiving rent in respect thereof,

(c) the nature and extent of the interest held therein by each of such co-sharers and other persons, and

(d) all persons holding land free of rent, or revenue-free.

List of persons holding rent-free or at fixed rent.

63. The record shall also specify the persons (if any) holding land at a rent fixed by grant or by contract, or on condition of service or otherwise, and all other tenants in the mahál, the name and caste of each, the area of their holdings, and all conditions of their tenure.

Settlement of disputes as to entries in record.

64. All entries in the record made under sections sixty-two and sixty-three shall be founded on the basis of actual possession, and all disputes regarding such entries, whether taken up by the Settlement Officer of his own motion or upon the complaint of the party concerned, shall be investigated and decided by him on that basis. And all persons not in possession, but claiming the right to be so, shall be referred by him to the proper Court.

Arrangements of co-sharers.

65. The Settlement Officer shall also record the arrangement made by himself or agreed to by the co-sharers,

(a) for the distribution of the profits derived from sources common to the proprietary body,

(b) for fixing the share which each co-sharer is to contribute of the Government revenue and of the cesses levied under any law for the time being in force, and of the village expenses,

(c) as to the manner in which lumberdars or co-sharers are to collect from the cultivators,

(d) the instalments of rent and the respective dates fixed for their payment, and

(e) any other matters which he may be directed to record under rules framed under section two hundred and fifty-five.

Cesses to be recorded.

66. All cesses payable by tenants on account of the occupation of land assessed to revenue and taken into account in such assessment, or which, in the case of land not assessed to revenue, would have been taken into such account had the land been assessed, or in lieu of which proprietary rights have been assigned under section fifty-five, clause (b), shall be consolidated with the rent payable by them.

A list of all other cesses levied in accordance with village custom shall, if generally or specially sanctioned by the Local Government, be recorded by the Settlement Officer, and no cesses not so recorded shall be enforced in any Civil or Revenue Court.

The Local Government may from time to time impose on the collection of any cesses so sanctioned, such conditions as to conservancy, police or other establishments connected with the village, bázár or fair in or on account of which the cesses are levied, as it thinks fit.

Record in case of mahál in which rights and interests are in dispute.

67. If it appear to a Settlement Officer that there exist in any mahál under settlement any disputes relative to any of the matters which he is bound to record, under section sixty-five or section sixty-six, he may of his own motion, and without complaint being made, investigate and determine such disputes in accordance with the existing village custom, and frame the record accordingly.

Particulars to be stated in list of tenants.

68. In framing the list of tenants mentioned in section sixty-three the Settlement Officer shall state as to each tenant the following particulars:—

(a) Whether, under the provisions contained in the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, he is a tenant holding at fixed rates, or a privileged tenant, or an occupancy-tenant, or a tenant without a right of occupancy:

(b) The rent which the landholder and the tenant then admit to be payable by the latter:

(c) If he be a tenant without a right of occupancy, the number of years during which he has held the land then in his possession:

(d) Any other condition of the tenure, whether contained in a written lease or otherwise.

Determination of class of tenants and rent payable by each.

69. In case of any dispute respecting the class or tenure of any tenant, the Settlement Officer shall decide according to the principles laid down in sections five, seven and eight of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873.

In case of any dispute regarding the rent payable by any tenant, the Settlement Officer shall decide according to the principles hereinafter laid down.

Enhancement of rent of privileged tenants.

70. If the proprietor apply to the Settlement Officer to enhance the rent of a privileged tenant, the Settlement Officer shall enhance the rent of such tenant to a rate which shall be not less than two and not more than four annas in the rupee below the rate fixed by the Settlement Officer for land of a similar quality with similar advantages held by occupancy-tenants in the same circle or tahsíl.

Rate at which such rent shall be fixed.

71. If no such application is made, the rent of the privileged tenant shall be fixed at the rate paid by him for the agricultural year next before the settlement.

Provided that if he apply under section seventy-three as an occupancy-tenant for an abatement of the rent previously paid by him, his rent may be abated, but not below the rate at which it would be fixed if he were merely an occupancy-tenant.

Determination of rent by Settlement Officer.

72. If a landholder apply to enhance the rent previously paid by any of his occupancy-tenants, or, if an occupancy-tenant apply for an abatement of the rent previously paid by him, or, if a dispute exists as to the rent to be paid by an occupancy-tenant,

the Settlement Officer may fix the rent to be paid by such tenant either by reference to the standard of the rent-rate sanctioned by the Board for purposes of assessment for similar land, with similar advantages, or by reference to the customary rate of rent for similar land, with similar advantages, in the circle or tahsíl in which the holding of such tenant is situate.

Power to commute rent in kind to money rents.

73. In all cases in which rents have heretofore been paid in kind, or on the estimated value of a portion of the crop, or by rates varying with the crop, or partly in one of such ways and partly in another or others of such ways, application to commute such rent to a fixed money rent may be made to the Settlement Officer either by the land-holders or by any privileged tenant, or an occupancy-tenant.

Procedure on receiving application to commute.

74. On receipt of such application the Settlement Officer shall deal with the case as if it were an application under section seventy or seventy-two, and shall determine the sum to be paid in commutation in accordance with the provisions of those sections.

Joinder of tenants in suits for enhancement or determination of rent.

75. Whenever an application for enhancement or abatement or commutation of rent, against or by any number of tenants, is brought before a Settlement Officer, such tenants may be sued or may sue collectively: and it shall be no ground for dismissing or refusing to hear the application that such tenants are wrongly joined as plaintiffs or defendants, provided all such tenants cultivate in the same mahál;

Decree when to be passed in suits for enhancement.

but no order shall be passed in such case in which enhancement, abatement or commutation of rent is claimed, unless the officer making such order is satisfied that every tenant has had an opportunity to appear and make objection to the claim preferred against him.

Decree what to specify.

76. Every decree passed in any such case shall specify the extent to which each of the tenants named on the decree shall be affected thereby.

Rent from what date payable. Bar to enhancement.

77. The rent determined by order of the Settlement Officer shall be payable from the first day of July next following the date of the order of the Settlement Officer, and shall not be liable to enhancement for the years from such first day of July.

Exceptions.

But this rule, so far as relates to enhancement, shall not apply—

(a) to land which has been gained by alluvion after the date of such order;

(b) to additions made since the date of such order to the tenant's holding;

(c) to land of which the productive powers have been increased otherwise than by the agency or at the expense of the tenant after the date of such order.

Powers of Local Government as to commutation-suits.

78. The Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette,

(a) declare the provisions of section seventy-three, seventy-five, seventy-six and seventy-seven applicable to any district or portion of a district not under settlement;

(b) declare what officers are empowered to hear and decide applications under section seventy-three in such district or portion of a district, and lay down rules for their guidance;

(c) withdraw any notification previously published under this section.

Resumption of rent-free grants.

79. And whereas all grants for holding land exempt from the payment of rent which have been made since the first day of December 1790, by any authority other than that of the Governor General in Council were declared by Bengal Regulation XIX of 1793, section ten, to be null and void; and such Regulation also provides that no length of possession shall be considered to give validity to any such grant, either with regard to the property in the soil or the rents of it, it is hereby further enacted as follows:—

Disposal of applications to resume grants.

Applications by the proprietors to resume such grants or to assess rent on the land shall, when the district in which the land is situate is a district under settlement, be made to the Settlement Officer, who may make such order thereon as he deems just.

Saving of certain lands held rent-free.

80. Nothing in section seventy-nine applies to either of the following cases,

(a) where land is previously to the passing of this Act held rent-free under a judicial decision,

(b) where previously to the passing of this Act land held rent-free has been purchased for a valuable consideration and its resumption has been barred by Act No. X of 1859, section twenty-eight, or by Act IX of 1871, second schedule, No. 130.

Validity of grants which grantor has expressly agreed not to resume.

81. Grants of land held under a written instrument by which the grantor expressly agrees that the grant shall not be resumed shall be held valid as against him (but not as against his representatives after his death) during the continuance of the settlement of the district in which the land is situate, which was current at the date of the grant.

When rent-free tenure confers proprietary right.

82. Where any land has been for fifty years or upwards, and still is held rent-free and by at least two successors to the original grantee, such holding shall be deemed to confer on the holder a proprietary right.

Nothing in the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, shall bar the right to make an application under this Act to assess to rent land held rent-free.

Saving of liability for Government revenue.

83. No length of rent-free occupancy of any land, nor any grant of land made by the proprietor, shall release such land from its liability to be charged with the payment of Government revenue.

Sections 70 and 72, to apply.

84. In assessing rent under sections seventy-nine and eighty the Settlement Officer shall be guided by the provisions of sections seventy and seventy-two so far as they apply.

Form of register of revenue-free tenures.

85. The Settlement Officer shall record all revenue-free tenures in such form of register as the Board from time to time prescribes.

Resumption in certain cases of land held revenue-free.

86. The Settlement Officer shall enquire into the case of all lands released, conditionally or for a term, from the payment of revenue, and shall assess such lands if it appear to him that the conditions have been transgressed, or the term has expired.

Title to hold free to be proved.

87. Any person claiming land free of revenue not recorded as revenue-free, shall be bound to prove his title to hold such land free of revenue.

Report to Government where title proved.

88. If he prove his title to the satisfaction of the Settlement Officer, the case shall be reported to the Local Government whose orders thereon shall be final.

Assessment and settlement on failure of proof.

89. If the title be not so proved, the Settlement Officer shall proceed to assess the land, and to make the settlement of it with the person in actual possession as proprietor.

Form and attestation of record-of-rights.

90. The Board shall from time to time prescribe the form in which the record to be made under the provisions of this Chapter shall be drawn up, and the manner in which it shall be attested.

Presumption as to entries.

91. All entries in the record so made and attested shall be presumed to be true until the contrary is proved.

Power to invest officer with Settlement Officer's powers.

92. At any time during the currency of a settlement the Local Government may invest any officer with all or any of the powers of a Settlement Officer under this Act within such limits, and with such restrictions, and for such period, as it thinks fits;

but not so as to enable him to enhance the total amount of revenue payable on account of any mahál except in respect of land added thereto or becoming liable to payment of revenue since the confirmation of the settlement.

No officer so invested shall alter the classification of tenants made under this Act except on the application of a party concerned.

CHAPTER IV.

REGISTRATION AND MAINTENANCE OF RECORDS.

Collector to maintain record-of-rights,

93. The Collector of the District shall keep and maintain the record-of-rights;

and register changes,

and he shall from time to time cause to be registered all changes that may take place, and anything that may affect any of the rights or interests recorded;

and correct errors.

and shall correct any errors which the parties interested admit to have been made in the record.

Power to order which registers shall be kept. Changes to be duly authorized.

94. The Board shall order such registers to be kept up as may be necessary for the purposes of the last preceding section; and no such changes shall be recorded without the order of the Collector of the District or of some officer duly authorized (either generally or specially) by him in this behalf.

Power to prescribe fees for mutations.

95. The Local Government may prescribe proper fees for mutations in the registers: provided that no fee for a single mutation shall exceed one hundred rupees.

Levy of fees.

Appropriation.

Such fees shall be levied from the person in whose favour the mutation is made and shall be expended in such manner as the Local Government thinks fit.

Successions to be notified.

96. All persons succeeding to any proprietary right in a mahál, or the profits thereof whether by inheritance, purchase, gift, or other form of transfer, shall notify the same immediately after it has taken place to the tahsíldár of the tahsíl in which the mahál is situated, and the tahsíldár shall report such notice to the Collector of the District or the Assistant Collector.

Procedure on notification.

97. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, on receiving such report, shall make such enquiry as appears necessary to ascertain the truth of the alleged succession to, or transfer of, the property, and if the succession or transfer appears to have taken place, he shall record the same in the register:

Saving of rights of other persons interested.

Provided that no such entry shall be held to affect the rights of any other person who may claim and establish in any Civil or Revenue Court any interest in the land to which the entry has reference.

Notification in case of minority or other disqualification.

98. If the person so succeeding is a minor or otherwise disqualified, the guardian or other person who has charge of his property shall make the notification required by section ninety-six.

Fine for neglect to notify.

99. Any person neglecting to make the notification required by sections ninety-six and ninety-eight within three months from the date of the transfer having taken place shall be liable, at the discretion of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, to a fine not exceeding five times the amount of the fee which would otherwise have been payable under section ninety-five.

Power to declare and record party in possession in case of dispute.

100. If in the course of inquiry made under section ninety-seven a dispute regarding the possession of the property arises, and the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector is unable to satisfy himself as to which party is in possession, he shall ascertain by summary enquiry who is the person best entitled to the property, and shall put such person in possession, and make the necessary entry in the record accordingly, subject to any order that may be subsequently passed by the Civil Court.

Registry of transfers of certain interests in land.

101. The transfers of all interests in land other than those referred to in section ninety-six shall be recorded by the Kánúngo and patwárí in such manner as the Board from time to time directs;

Enquiry in disputed cases.

and all disputed cases shall be reported to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who shall make such enquiry as may be necessary to ascertain the truth, and cause the record to be amended accordingly.

Annual enquiry as to revenue-free grants.

102. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall enquire annually into the cases of all land released conditionally or for a term from the payment of revenue.

If the condition be broken, he shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division to the Board for orders, and if the term has expired, or (where the grant is for the life of the grantee) if the grantee has died, he shall assess the land and report his proceedings through the Commissioner of the Division to the Board for sanction.

Inspection of records.

103. All records kept under this Act, shall be open to public inspection at such hours and on such conditions as to fees or otherwise as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe.

PARTITION AND UNION OF MAHÁLS.

Partitions.

104. Partition is either perfect or imperfect.

'Perfect partition.'

'Perfect partition' means the division of a mahál into two or more mahále.

'Imperfect partition.'

'Imperfect partition' means the division of a mahál into two or more properties, jointly responsible for the revenue assessed on the whole mahál.

Persons entitled to perfect partition.

105. Any recorded co-sharer in a mahál, and any person in whose favour a decree has been passed by any Civil Court awarding to him the proprietary right in a portion of a mahál, whether such portion consists of a fractional share in the whole or a part of the mahál, or of specific lands, is entitled to claim perfect partition of his share.

Any two or more recorded co-sharers may claim that their shares be divided from the other shares by a perfect partition, and be held by them as a single mahál.

Applications for perfect partition.

106. Applications for perfect partition are to be made in writing to the Collector of the District or the Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division of the District in which the mahál is situated;

and shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the record, showing the share held by the applicant in the mahál.

Provision as to estates situated in more than one district;

Provided that, if the mahál be situated in two or more districts, the application may be made in any one of those districts, and the partition shall be made by such one of the Collectors of those districts as the Board may direct.

and as to estates in more than one Sub-division

107. If the mahál is situated in two or more Sub-divisions of a District, the partition shall be made by such one of the Assistant Collectors respectively in charge of such Sub-divisions as the Collector of the District may direct.

Notification of application.

108. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, on receiving an application for partition shall, if the application be in order and not open to objection on the face of it, publish a notification of the same at his office, and at some conspicuous place on the mahál to which the application relates,

Notice to co sharers not joining.

and shall serve a notice on all such of the recorded co-sharers in the mahál as have not joined in the application, requiring any co-sharer in possession who may object to the partition to appear before him to state his objection, either in person or by a duly authorized agent, on a day to be specified in the notice, not being less than thirty or more than sixty days from the date on which such notice was issued.

Notification when alone sufficient.

Where, from any cause, notice cannot be personally served on any co-sharer, the notification shall be deemed sufficient notice under this section.

Power to refuse partition when objection admitted.

109. If, on or before the day specified, any objection be made to the partition by any co-sharer in possession, and the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, on a consideration of such objection, be of opinion that there is any good and sufficient reason why the partition should be absolutely disallowed, he may refuse the application, recording the grounds of his refusal.

Procedure if question of title be raised.

110. If the objection raise any question of title, or of proprietary right, which has not been already determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may either decline to grant the application until the question in dispute has been determined by a competent Court, or he may proceed to inquire into the merits of the objection.

In the latter case the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, after making the necessary inquiry and taking such evidence as may be adduced, shall record a proceeding declaring the nature and extent of the interests in the actual possession of the party or parties applying for the partition, and any other party or parties who may be affected thereby.

Reference to arbitrators.

The procedure to be observed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector in trying such cases shall be that laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure for the trial of original suits, and he may refer any question arising in such case to arbitration, and the provisions of Chapter VI (relative to arbitrators) of the same Code shall apply to such references.

Collector's decision equivalent to decision of Civil Court.

111. All orders and decisions passed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector under the last preceding section, for declaring the rights of parties, shall be held to be decisions of a Court of Civil Judicature of first instance, and shall be open to appeal to the District or High Court, under the rules applicable to regular appeals to those Courts.

Appellate Court may stay partition.

Upon such appeal being made, the District or High Court, as the case may be, may issue a precept to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector desiring him to stay the partition pending the decision of the appeal.

Special appeal to High Court.

112. From every decision passed under section one hundred and eleven by a District Court, a special appeal shall lie to the High Court, under the rules for the time being in force relating to special appeals to that Court.

113. When it has been decided to make a partition under this Chapter, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may give the parties the option of making the partition among themselves, or of appointing arbitrators for the purpose; or he shall make the partition himself or cause it to be made by any Assistant Collector subordinate to him.

Option to parties to make partition themselves or to appoint arbitrators.

If arbitrators are appointed, the provisions of sections two hundred and eighteen to two hundred and twenty-nine, both inclusive, shall apply.

114. In making partitions, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector and any person appointed by him shall have the same powers to enter on the land under partition for marking out the boundaries, surveying the mahál, and other purposes, as have been conferred on Settlement Officers under Chapter III.

Power to enter on land for purposes of partition.

115. Where there are no lands held in common, the lands held in severalty by the applicant for partition shall be declared a separate mahál, and shall be separately assessed to the Government revenue.

Partition of lands held only in severalty.

116. Where some of the lands are held in common, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall allot to the applicant for partition his share of such lands in accordance with village custom, if any such exist.

Partition of lands, some of which are held in common.

If no such custom exist, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall make such division as may secure to the applicant his fair portion of the common lands.

117. The portion of the common lands falling by such partition to the share of the applicant shall be added to the land held by him in severalty, and the maháls thus formed shall be assessed and declared separate maháls.

Formation of separate maháls from shares allotted in partition.

118. In making partitions under sections one hundred and fifteen to one hundred and seventeen, the Collector or Assistant Collector shall give effect to any transfer of lands held in severalty forming part of the mahál agreed to by the parties, and made previous to the declaration of the partition.

Transfers to be effectuated in making partition.

119. Where all the lands are held in common, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall make such a partition as may secure to the applicant his fair share of the mahál.

Partition where all lands held in common.

120. In all cases each mahál shall be made as compact as possible: Provided that, except with the sanction of the Board, no partition be disallowed solely on the ground of incompactness.

Maháls to be compact; partition not to be disallowed for incompactness.

121. If in making the partition it be necessary to include in the mahál assigned to one sharer, the land occupied by the dwelling-house or other building in the possession of another co-sharer, such other co-sharer shall be allowed to retain it, with any buildings thereon, on condition of his paying a reasonable ground-rent for it to the sharer into whose portion it may fall.

Rule when dwelling-house of one sharer is included in mahál assigned to another.

The limits of such land, and the rent to be paid for it, shall be fixed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector.

122. No sír-land belonging to any co-sharer shall be included in the mahál assigned on partition to another co-sharer, unless with the consent of the co-sharer who cultivates it, or unless the partition cannot otherwise be conveniently carried out.

Rule as to sír-land of one sharer being included in mahál assigned to another.

If such land be so included, and after partition such co-sharer continue to cultivate it, he shall be an occupancy-tenant of such land, and his rent shall be fixed by order of the Collector of the District or of the Assistant Collector.

123. Tanks, wells, water-courses and embankments shall be considered as attached to the land for the benefit of which they were originally made.

Rule as to tanks, wells, water-courses and embankments.

In cases in which, from the extent, situation or construction of such works, it is found necessary to continue them to the joint property of the proprietors of two or more of the maháls into which the mahál may be divided, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall determine the extent to which the proprietors of each mahál may make use of the said works, and the proportion of the charges for repairs of such works to be borne by such proprietors respectively, and the manner in which the profits, if any, derived from such works, shall be divided.

124. Places of worship and burial-grounds, held in common previous to the partition of a mahál, shall continue to be so held, unless the parties otherwise agree among themselves. In such cases they shall state in writing the agreement into which they have entered, and such writing shall be filed with the record.

Rule as to places of worship and burial-grounds.

125. The amount of revenue to be paid by each portion of the divided mahál shall be determined by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, provided that the aggregate revenue of the new maháls shall not exceed the revenue assessed on the mahál immediately before partition, Determination of revenue payable by each division of a mahál.

and the proprietors of the new maháls shall be held liable for the portions of the revenue severally assessed on their maháls, whether new engagements be taken from them or not.

Liability of proprietors.

126. The Board shall make rules for determining the costs of partitions under this Act, and the mode in which such costs are to be apportioned:

Power to make rules as to costs.

Provided that the cost of surveying a mahál, when such survey is necessary for the purpose of partition, shall be paid rateably by all the co-sharers of the mahál, according to their shares therein.

Cost of survey.

Case may be struck off for default as to costs.

127. If the costs to be paid by the applicant for partition are not paid within a time to be fixed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, the case may be struck off the file.

Power to stay partition.

And if at any stage of the proceedings there appears to be any reason for stopping the partition, the Collector of the District may of his own motion, or on the report of the Assistant Collector making the partition, stay the partition and order the proceedings to be quashed.

Partitions to be made or confirmed by Collector, and notified to parties.

128. Every partition shall either be made by the Collector of the District, or if made by an Assistant Collector be reported to the Collector of the District for his sanction and confirmation;

and on completion of a partition the Collector of the District shall publish a notification of the fact at his office and at some conspicuous place on each of the new maháls, or in the village of which they form part;

When to take effect.

and it shall take effect from the first day of July next, after the date of such notification.

Appeal to Commissioner from orders of Collector.

129. An appeal against the decision of the Collector of the District making or confirming a partition, shall lie to the Commissioner within one year from the date on which such partition takes effect.

Power to order new allotment of revenue on proof of fraud or error in first distribution.

130. Where the public revenue is fraudulently or erroneously distributed at the time of the partition, the Local Government may within twelve years from the time of discovery of the fraud or error order a new allotment of the public revenue upon the several maháls into which the mahál has been divided, on an estimate of the assets of each mahál at the time of the partition, to be made conformably to the best evidence and information procurable respecting the same.

Making of imperfect partitions.

131. Imperfect partition shall be carried out according to the provisions of the preceding sections, so far as they are applicable:

Consent required.

Provided that no application for imperfect partition shall be entertained unless the consent of all the recorded co-sharers in the mahál be first obtained.

Civil Courts barred from entertaining applications for partition.

132. No Civil Court shall entertain any suit or application for the partition of a mahál.

Union of maháls originally part of same village.

133. If two or more revenue-paying maháls have originally formed portion of the same village, the proprietors shall be entitled to have such maháls united and to hold them as a single mahál.

Application for such union.

134. Every application for the union of such maháls shall be made in writing to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division of the District in which the maháls are situate.

How to be dealt with.

135. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, as the case may be, see no objection, he shall comply with the application, and cause the necessary entries to be made in the records of his office, reporting the case to the Commissioner.

Application of Act to partition or union of revenue-free maháls.

136. The provisions of this Chapter so far as they are applicable, may be applied by the order of the Collector of the District to the partition or union of maháls held free of revenue.

MAINTENANCE OF BOUNDARIES.

Power of Collector and subordinates to enter and survey land, mark boundaries, and settle disputes.

137. The Collector of the District, Assistant Collectors and their subordinates shall have power to enter upon and survey land, and to demarcate the boundaries of maháls, villages or fields.

Obligations of owners as to boundary-marks.

138. All owners of maháls, villages or fields are bound to maintain and keep in repair at their own cost the boundary-marks lawfully erected thereon.

Penalty for erasing, removing, or injuring marks.

139. Any person convicted before a Collector of the District or Assistant Collector of wilfully erasing, removing or damaging such boundary-marks, may be ordered by the convicting officer to pay such sum, not exceeding fifty rupees for each mark so erased, removed or damaged, as may be necessary to defray the expense of restoring the boundary-marks so erased, removed or damaged, and of rewarding the informer through whom the conviction was obtained.

Who to be charged for re-erection and repair when offenders not discoverable.

140. Whenever the person erasing, removing or damaging any such mark cannot be discovered, or if for any other reason it is found impracticable to recover from him the sum which he has been so ordered to pay, the mark shall be re-erected or repaired at the charge of the owner or owners of such one or more of the conterminous fields or maháls, as to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector seems fit.

Powers of Collector as to repair of boundary-marks.

141. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may decide on the basis of possession all disputes concerning boundaries, and may at any time direct the owners of maháls, villages or fields, by written notice served upon them,

(a) to cause proper boundary-marks to be erected on such maháls, villages or fields,

(b) to repair the boundary-marks lawfully erected on such maháls, villages or fields.

In default of their compliance with such direction within fifteen days from the date of the service of the notice, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall cause such boundary-marks to be erected or repaired, as the case may be, and shall charge the cost of such erections or repairs to the owners of the conterminous villages, fields or mahâls, in such proportion as he thinks fit.

Recovery of fines and costs.

142. All fees, fines, costs and other sums ordered to be paid under this Chapter shall be recoverable as an arrear of revenue.

CHAPTER V.

COLLECTION OF LAND-REVENUE.

Responsibility for revenue.

143. In the case of every mahâl the entire mahâl and all the proprietors jointly and severally shall be responsible to Government for the revenue for the time being assessed on the mahâl.

Board may make rules as to payment of revenue.

144. The Board may, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, from time to time, make rules as to the instalments by which, and the persons, places and times to whom and at which, the revenue payable in respect of any land shall be paid.

Until the issue of such rules the said revenue shall be paid in such instalments to the persons and at the times and places by which, to whom and at which it is now paid.

Arrear. Defaulter.

145. Any sum not so paid becomes thereupon an arrear of revenue and the person from whom it is due becomes a defaulter.

No interest shall be demanded on any arrear of land-revenue.

Lumberdar when included as defaulter.

If the settlement has been made with a lumberdar on behalf of the proprietary body, both the lumberdar and the co-sharer or co-sharers from whom the arrear is due shall be deemed defaulters.

Certified account to be evidence as to arrear.

146. A statement of account certified by the tahsíldár shall be conclusive evidence of the existence of the arrear, of its amount, and of the person who is the defaulter.

Process for recovery of arrears.

147. An arrear of revenue may be recovered by the following processes:—

(a) by serving a writ of demand (dastak) on the defaulter;

(b) by arrest and detention of his person;

(c) by distress and sale of his moveable property;

(d) by attachment of the share, or pattí, or mahâl, in respect of which the arrear is due;

(e) by transfer of such share or pattí, to a solvent co-sharer in the mahâl;

(f) by annulment of the settlement of such pattí, or of the whole mahâl;

(g) by sale of such pattí or of the whole mahâl.

When writs may issue.

148. Writs of demand may be issued on or after the day following that on which the arrear accrues.

Power to frame rules as to writs.

The Board shall, from time to time, frame rules for the issue of such writs, and fix the costs recoverable from the defaulter as an arrear of revenue, and direct by what officer such writs shall be issued.

Arrest and detention of defaulter.

149. At any time after an arrear becomes due, the defaulter may be arrested and detained in custody for fifteen days, unless the arrear, together with the costs of arrest, is sooner paid.

The Board may, from time to time, declare by what officers or class of officers the powers of arrest conferred by this Act may be exercised.

Distress and sale of his moveable property.

150. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may, whether the defaulter has been arrested or not, distrain and sell his moveable property, with the exception of the implements of husbandry and cattle actually employed by him in agriculture, and, in the case of an artizan, of his tools.

Exceptions.

Power to attach defaulter's land and take it under direct management.

151. When an arrear of land revenue has become due, the Collector of the District may, in addition to or instead of any of the other processes before specified, cause the share or pattí, or mahâl, in respect of which the arrear is due, to be attached and taken under the management of himself or any agent whom he appoints for that purpose.

Powers and obligations of manager.

152. The Collector of the District or the agent so appointed shall be bound by all the engagements which existed between the person or persons who immediately before the attachment was or were in possession of the land attached and the subordinate proprietors or tenants, if any,

and shall be entitled to manage the land attached, and to receive all rents and profits accruing therefrom to the exclusion of such person or persons, until the arrears of land-revenue due therefrom have been satisfied, or until the Collector of the District restores to the management thereof the person or persons whose interest has been attached.

Application of surplus profits.

153. All surplus profits of the land attached, beyond the cost of such attachment and management, including the payment of the current revenue, shall be applied in defraying the said arrear;

Limit to term of attachment.

and no land shall be attached for the same arrears for a longer term than five years from the first day of July next after the attachment; provided that, if the arrear be sooner liquidated, the land shall be released and the surplus receipts (if any) made over to the proprietor.

Transfer of defaulter's share to co-sharers.

154. When the arrear is due in respect of a share or pattí of a mahâl, the Collector of the District may, with the previous sanction of the Board, transfer such share or pattí for a term not exceeding fifteen years from the first day of July next after the date of the sanction to any or all of the other co-sharers, on condition of their paying such arrear and on such terms as the Board in each case may think fit.

Liability of co-sharers not affected.

This procedure shall not affect the joint and several liability of the co-sharers of the mahál in which it is enforced.

When report may be made to Board and settlement annulled.

155. When any arrear of land revenue is due and the Collector of the District is of opinion that the processes hereinbefore provided are not sufficient for the recovery of such arrear, he may, in addition to or instead of all or any of the other processes mentioned in section one hundred and forty-seven, report the matter to the Board, and the Board may thereupon order the existing settlement of the share or pattí or mahál, in respect of which the arrear is due, to be annulled.

Exception of certain arrears.

The provisions of this section shall not be put in force for the recovery of any arrear of land-revenue which may have accrued on land,

(a) while under attachment under section one hundred and fifty-one, or

(b) while under the charge of the Court of Wards.

When settlement annulled, Collector may manage land himself, or by agent, or let it in farm.

156. When the settlement of any land has been annulled, the Collector of the District may, with the previous sanction of the Board, either manage the land himself or through an agent, or he may let it in farm to any person willing to accept the same, for such term and on such conditions as may be sanctioned by the Board:

Provided that the term for which land may be so held or farmed be not longer than fifteen years from the first day of July next after the date of such annulment.

Suspension of contracts.

And no contracts made by the persons who immediately before the annulment of the settlement were in possession of the lands comprised therein, or by the persons through whom they respectively claim, relating to such lands, shall, during such term, be binding on the Collector of the District, or his agent, or lessee.

Proclamation of attachment or annulment of settlement.

157. When the Collector of the District attaches any land under section one hundred and fifty-one, or when the settlement of any land has been annulled under section one hundred and fifty-five, he shall make public proclamation thereof on the mahál.

Payments thereafter to defaulter not to discharge payer.

158. No payment made after such proclamation on account of rent or any other asset of the mahál, to any person other than the Collector of the District or his agent, or lessee, shall be credited to the person making such payment, or relieve him from liability to payment to the Collector of the District, his agent or lessee.

Payments to defaulter in anticipation of due date.

159. No payment made to the defaulter, in anticipation of the usual period for the payment of the rents shall, without the special sanction of the Collector, be credited to the person making the same in account with the Collector of the District or with the person to whom he gives possession.

Recovery of revenue due from lessee.

160. When any land has been farmed for arrears of revenue, any balance of revenue due from the farmer may be recovered from him or his surety as an arrear of revenue under the provisions of this Act.

Suspension of responsibility of co-sharers for revenue of portion of mahál as to which settlement is annulled.

161. Whenever the settlement of a portion of a mahál is annulled under section one hundred and fifty-five the joint responsibility of the co-sharers for the revenue of such portion of the mahál shall be in abeyance until a new settlement of such portion is made under section one hundred and sixty-two.

Offer of settlement to proprietor on expiry of period for which land is farmed or taken under management.

162. After the expiration of the period for which any land has been farmed, or held pursuant to section one hundred fifty-six under direct management for the recovery of an arrear of revenue, the Collector of the District shall offer to the person entitled to be settled with under section forty-three a new settlement, on such conditions as the Board may direct, for the remainder of the term of the settlement of the district; and if he refuse such offer, the Collector of the District may (with the previous sanction of the Board) farm the land to some other person, or hold it under direct management under the provisions of sections forty-eight, forty-nine, and fifty.

Power to sell by auction defaulter's share, &c.

163. When an arrear of land-revenue has become due and the Collector of the District is of opinion that the other processes hereinbefore provided are not sufficient for the recovery of such arrear, he may, in addition to, or instead of, all or any of such other processes and subject to the provision hereinafter contained and with the previous sanction of the Board, sell by auction the pattí or mahál in respect of which such arrear is due.

Bar to sale for certain arrears.

Provided that no land shall be sold—

(a) for any arrear which may have accrued while it was under the charge of the Court of Wards, or was so circumstanced that the Court of Wards might have exercised jurisdiction over it under the provisions of section one hundred and ninety-two, clauses (a), (b), (c), (d), or (e);

(b) for any arrear which may have accrued while it was under attachment under section one hundred and fifty-one;

(c) for any arrear which may have accrued while it was held under direct management by the Collector of the District, or in farm by any other person, under sections forty-eight, forty-nine, one hundred and fifty-six, or one hundred and sixty-two.

Land to be sold free of incumbrances.

164. Land sold under the last preceding section shall be sold free of all incumbrances, and all grants and contracts previously made by any person other than the purchaser in respect of such land shall become void as against the purchaser at the auction-sale.

Contracts void against purchaser.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies—

(a) in districts or portions of districts permanently-settled, to farms granted in good faith at fair rents, and for specified areas by a former proprietor for terms not exceeding twenty years, under written leases duly registered;

(b) in all districts, to lands held under bonâ fide leases at fair rents, temporary or perpetual, for the erection of dwelling-houses, or manufactories, or for mines, gardens, tanks, canals, places of worship, burying grounds, such lands continuing to be used for the purposes specified in such leases.

165. On the receipt of the sanction of the Board to the sale of any land, the Collector of the District shall issue a proclamation, in the vernacular language of the District, of the intended sale, specifying the time and place of sale,

Procedure in effecting sale.

and (when the land to be sold is a mahál or part of a mahál paying revenue to Government) the revenue assessed upon it, together with any other particulars he may think necessary.

166. When the land is sold for arrears of revenue due thereon, the proclamation shall declare that the land is to be sold free of any incumbrance except the farms and leases (if any) mentioned in section one hundred and sixty-four.

Proclamation of sale.

Such proclamation shall be made at the head-quarters of the tahsíl in which the land is situate, and also in the village of which it is a part.

167. A written notice of the intended sale and of the time and place thereof shall be affixed in the office of the Collector of the District, and where the Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division in which the land is situate has a separate office then also in such office, and a copy of such notice shall be served on the defaulter.

Notification of sale.

168. The sale shall be made either by the Collector of the District in person or by an Assistant Collector specially appointed by him in this behalf.

Time when sale may be made.

No such sale shall take place on a Sunday or other authorized holiday, or until after the expiration of at least thirty days from the date on which the said notice thereof has been affixed in the office of the Collector of the District, and proclamation of the sale has been made in the village in which the land is situate.

The Collector of the District may from time to time postpone the sale, reporting such postponement to the Commissioner.

169. If the defaulter pay the arrear in respect of which the land is to be sold at any time before the day fixed for the sale, to the person appointed by Government under section one hundred and forty-four to receive payment of the land-revenue assessed on such land, or to the Collector of the District, or the Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division of the District in which the land is situate, the sale shall be stayed.

When sale may be stayed.

170. The person declared to be the purchaser shall be required to deposit immediately twenty-five per cent. on the amount of his bid, and in default of such deposit the land shall forthwith be again put up and sold.

Deposit by purchaser.

Re-sale in default of deposit.

171. The full amount of purchase-money shall be paid by the purchaser before sunset of the fifteenth day from that on which the sale of the land took place, or, if the said fifteenth day be a Sunday or other authorized holiday, then on the first office day after such fifteenth day;

Purchase-money when to be paid.

and in default of payment within such period, the deposit, after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale, shall be forfeited to Government, and the property shall be re-sold, and the defaulting purchaser shall forfeit all claim to the property, or to any part of the sum for which it may be subsequently sold.

Effect of default.

172. If the proceeds of the sale which is eventually made be less than the price bid by such defaulting purchaser, the difference shall be leviable from him under the rules contained in the Code of Civil Procedure for enforcing payment of money in satisfaction of a decree of Court.

Liability of purchaser for loss by re-sale.

173. Every re-sale of land in default of payment of the purchase-money shall be made after the issue of a fresh notice in the manner prescribed for original sales.

Notification before re-sale.

174. Every sale of land under this Act shall be reported by the Collector of the District to the Commissioner of the Division.

Sale to be reported to Commissioner.

175. At any time within thirty days from the date of the sale, application may be made to the Commissioner of the Division to set aside the sale on the ground of some material irregularity or mistake in publishing or conducting it;

Application to set aside sale.

but no sale shall be set aside on such ground unless the applicant proves to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that he has sustained substantial injury by reason of the irregularity or mistake complained of.

176. On the expiration of thirty days from the date of the sale, if no such application as is mentioned in the last preceding section has been made, or if such application has been made and rejected, the Commissioner of the Division shall make an order confirming the sale;

Order confirming or setting aside.

and if such application be made and allowed, the Commissioner shall make an order setting aside the sale.

Every order made under this section shall be final.

Bar of claims against Government.

177. If no such application be made within the time allowed by section one hundred and seventy-five, all claims founded on the irregularity or mistake complained of shall as against the Government be barred.

Nothing herein contained shall preclude the institution of a suit in a Civil Court for the purpose of setting aside a sale on the ground of fraud.

Refund of purchase-money when sale set aside.

178. Whenever the sale of any land is set aside, the purchaser shall be entitled to receive back his purchase-money, with or without interest, in such manner as the Commissioner of the Division thinks fit.

Certificate to purchaser when sale becomes absolute.

179. After a sale of land has been confirmed in manner aforesaid, the Collector of the District in which the land is situate shall put the person declared to be the purchaser into possession of the land and shall grant him a certificate, to the effect that he has purchased the land to which the certificate refers, free of every incumbrance, and such certificate shall be deemed to be a valid transfer of such land.

Bar of suit against certified purchaser.

180. The certificate shall state the name of the person declared at the time of sale to be the actual purchaser; and any suit brought, whether in a Civil or Revenue Court, against the certified purchaser on the ground that the purchase was made on behalf of another person not the certified purchaser, though by agreement the name of the certified purchaser was used, shall be dismissed with costs.

Application of proceeds of sale.

181. When a sale of land under this Act has been confirmed, the proceeds of the sale shall be applied in the first place to defraying the expenses of the sale and to the payment of any arrears due in respect of such land at the date of the confirmation of such sale, and recoverable as an arrear of land-revenue, and the surplus (if any) shall be paid to the person whose land has been sold;

or, if the land sold were held in shares, then to the co-sharers collectively, or according to the amount of their recorded interests, at the discretion of the Collector of the District.

Surplus not to be paid to creditors, nor retained by Government, except under order of Court.

182. Such surplus shall not (except under an order of a Civil Court) be payable to any creditor of the person whose land has been sold, nor shall it (except under a like order) be retained in the Government Treasury.

Liability of purchaser for revenue.

183. The person named in the certificate of title as purchaser of any land shall be liable for all instalments of land-revenue becoming due in respect of such land subsequently to the date of the confirmation of the sale.

Pre-emption by co-sharers when land sold is a pattí of a mahál.

184. Where any land sold under section one hundred and sixty-three is a pattí of a mahál, any registered co-sharer, not being himself in arrear with regard to such land, may, if the lot has been knocked down to a stranger, claim to take the said land at the sum last bid:

Provided that the said demand of pre-emption be made on the day of sale, and before the officer conducting the sale has left the office for the day, and provided that the claimant fulfil all the other conditions of the sale.

Payment under protest and suit for recovery.

185. Whenever proceedings are taken under this Chapter against any person for the recovery of any arrear of revenue, he may pay the amount claimed under protest to the officer taking such proceedings, and upon such payment the proceedings shall be stayed,

and (subject to the pecuniary limitations prescribed by law) the person against whom such proceedings were taken may sue the Government for the amount so paid in any Civil Court situate in the district where such proceedings were taken;

and in such suit, the plaintiff may, notwithstanding section one hundred and forty-six, give evidence of the amount which he alleges to be due from him.

Proprietor of mahál attached, &c., holding sír-land therein, to be recorded as privileged tenant.

186. Any proprietor of a mahál or portion of a mahál that is attached, transferred, held under direct management, farmed, or sold under the provisions of this Act, who may hold sír-land in such mahál or portion, shall be recorded as a privileged tenant of such sír-land; and the rent to be paid by him for such land shall be fixed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector accordingly.

Power to proceed against interest of defaulter in property other than that in respect of which default is made.

187. If the arrear cannot be recovered by any of the above processes, and the defaulter owns any other mahál, or any share in any other mahál, or any house, or interest in a house, the Collector of the District may proceed against such mahál, share, house or interest as if it were the land on account of which the revenue is due, under the provisions of this Act:

Provided that no other interests save those of the defaulter alone shall be so proceeded against, and no incumbrances created or contracts entered into by him in good faith shall be rendered invalid by such proceeding.

Tenure of land under expired settlement until new settlement is made.

188. If the term for which any settlement has been made expires before a new settlement is made, all persons with whom a settlement has been made, who continue after the expiration of such term to occupy the land comprised in the expired settlement shall, until a new settlement is made, hold the said land upon the conditions of the expired settlement.

Provisions applied to arrears due at commencement of Act.

189. The provisions of this Act with regard to the recovery of arrears of revenue shall apply to all arrears of land-revenue and sums of money recoverable as arrears of land-revenue and due when this Act comes into force.

Assessment of alluvial land.

190. All land added by alluvion to a mahál is liable to assessment. Such land may be assessed and settled under rules to be framed under section two hundred and fifty-five.

CHAPTER VI.

COURT OF WARDS.

Board to have powers of Court of Wards.

191. The Board shall have the powers of a Court of Wards for the superintendence of the persons and property of all proprietors of mahále or parts of mahále who are disqualified for the management of their own lands, or who are put under the charge of the Collector of the District by order of a Civil Court under the provisions of any Act for the time being in force.

Proprietors when disqualified for management of their lands.

192. Proprietors shall be held disqualified to manage their own lands when they are

(a) females deemed by the Local Government incompetent to manage their estates;

(b) minors;

(c) idiots;

(d) lunatics;

(e) persons otherwise rendered incapable by physical defects or infirmities from managing their own estates;

(f) persons disqualified in the opinion of the Local Government by vice or bad character from managing their estates;

(g) persons declared by the Local Government, on their own application, to be disqualified from managing their estates.

Power to Court of Wards to decline superintendence.

193. The Court of Wards may, in its discretion, assume or refrain from assuming the superintendence of the person or property of any disqualified proprietor, and may at any time release any person or property from its superintendence.

Proviso as to person or property placed under superintendence.

Provided that such person or property has not been placed under the Court of Wards by any competent authority, whose order is necessary for his or its release.

Collector to report what proprietors are disqualified.

194. The Collector of the District shall ascertain and report to the Court of Wards from time to time what proprietors may come within the description of disqualified landholders under section one hundred and ninety-two;

and the Court of Wards shall, on receipt of the report of the Collector, make such order as may seem to them expedient.

Power to enforce this Chapter without report.

195. Nothing in section one hundred and ninety-four shall prevent the Court of Wards or the Local Government from putting the provisions of this Chapter in force without any report from the Collector.

Report to Government when Court of Wards' right of superintendence is disputed.

196. If, in any case not specially provided for by any law in force for the time being, the right of the Court of Wards to assume or retain the superintendence of the person and property of a disqualified proprietor is disputed by such proprietor, or, if he be a minor, by some person on his behalf, the case shall be reported to the Local Government, whose orders thereon shall be final.

Appointment, removal and control of managers and guardians.

197. The Court of Wards may appoint managers of the property of disqualified proprietors; and, if such proprietors be minors, idiots or lunatics, the Court of Wards may appoint guardians for the care of their persons, and may remove and control such managers and guardians.

Proprietors may appoint guardians for their heirs, if disqualified, by will executed and attested in manner required by the Indian Succession Act, 1865; but such appointment shall not be valid till confirmed by the Court of Wards.

Powers of Court of Wards as to male minors within jurisdiction.

198. The Court of Wards may direct where all male minors under its jurisdiction shall reside for the purpose of education or otherwise.

Powers of manager.

199. The manager appointed by the Court of Wards shall have power to collect the rents of the land entrusted to him as well as all other money due to the disqualified proprietor, and to grant receipts therefor;

and he may, subject to the control of the Court, grant or renew such leases and farms, not being for a longer period than five years, as may be necessary for the good management of the property.

Duties of manager.

200. The manager shall manage the property committed to him diligently and faithfully for the benefit of the proprietor, and shall in every respect act to the best of his judgment for the proprietor's interest as if the property were his own.

Powers of Court of Wards as to property under its charge.

201. The Court of Wards shall have power to give such leases or farms of the whole or parts of the property under its charge, and to mortgage or sell any part of such property, and to do all such other acts, as it may judge to be most for the benefit of the property and the advantage of the disqualified proprietors.

Exercise of their powers by Court of Wards through others.

202. The Court of Wards may exercise all powers conferred on it by this Act through the Collectors of the Districts in which any part of the property of its Wards may be situated, or through any other person whom it may appoint for such purpose.

Suits by and against proprietors under guardianship.

203. All disqualified proprietors whose property is in charge of the Court of Wards, and for whom guardians have been appointed, shall sue and be sued by and in the name of their guardians:

Provided that no such suit shall be brought by any such guardian without the previous sanction of the Court of Wards.

Rules relating to managers.

204. Every manager appointed by the Court of Wards shall—

(a) give such security as the Court of Wards thinks fit, duly to account for what he shall receive in respect of the rents and profits of the property for which he is appointed;

(b) pass his accounts at such periods and in such form as the Court of Wards directs;

(c) pay the balance due from him thereon;

(d) apply for the sanction of the Court of Wards to any act which may involve the property in expense not previously sanctioned by such Court;

(e) be entitled to such allowance as the Court of Wards thinks fit for his care and pains in the execution of his duties;

(f) be responsible for any loss occasioned to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence.

CHAPTER VII.

PROCEDURE OF REVENUE COURTS.

Place for holding Court.

205. A Commissioner of a Division may hold his Court at any place within his Division that he thinks fit.

A Collector of a District, an Assistant Collector (whether in charge or not in charge of a Subdivision of a District), or a Settlement Officer or Assistant Settlement Officer, may hold his Court at any place within the limits of the District to which he is appointed.

A Tahsíldár may hold his Court at any place within the limits of his tahsíl.

Hearing and decision. Notice to parties.

Every hearing and decision shall be in open Court, and the parties or their authorized agents shall have due notice to attend.

Power to summon persons to give evidence and produce documents.

206. Any officer mentioned in section two hundred and five shall have power to summon any person whose attendance he considers necessary for the purpose of any investigation, suit, or other business before him.

All persons so summoned shall be bound to attend either in person or by an authorized agent, as such officer may direct, and to state the truth upon any subject respecting which they are examined or make statements, and to produce such documents and other things as may be required.

Summons to be in writing signed and sealed.

207. Every summons shall be in writing in duplicate, and shall be signed and sealed by the officer issuing it or by such person as he empowers in this behalf,

Mode of service.

and shall be served by tendering or delivering a copy of it to the person summoned, or, if he cannot be found, by affixing a copy of it to some conspicuous part of his usual residence.

Service in district other than that of issuer.

208. If his usual residence be in another district, the summons may be sent by post to the Collector of that District, who shall serve it in accordance with the preceding section.

Procedure for procuring attendance of witnesses.

209. In any suit instituted before any officer mentioned in section two hundred and five, if either party desires the attendance of witnesses, he shall follow the procedure prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure, section one hundred and fifty-one.

Hearing in absence of party neglecting to attend, and ex parte order.

210. Whenever any party to the suit or matter under investigation neglects to attend on the day specified in the summons, the suit or matter may be heard and determined in his absence, and an order passed by default, or ex parte, as the case may be.

No appeal from ex parte order.

211. No appeal shall lie from an order passed ex parte, or by default.

Re-hearing on proof of good cause for non-appearance.

But in all such cases, if the party against whom judgment has been given appears either in person or by agent (if a plaintiff within fifteen days from the date of such order, and if a defendant, within fifteen days after any process for enforcing the judgment has been executed, or at any earlier period), and shows good cause for his non-appearance, and satisfies the officer making the order that there has been a failure of justice, such officer may, upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as he thinks proper, re-investigate the case and alter or rescind the order according to the justice of the case:

Order not to be altered without summons to adverse party.

Provided that no such order shall be reversed or altered without previously summoning the party in whose favour judgment has been given to appear and be heard in support of it.

Mode of taking evidence in certain cases.

212. In all cases coming under sections one hundred, one hundred and two, one hundred and nine, one hundred and ten, one hundred and twenty-three, and one hundred and thirty-nine, the evidence shall be taken down in full in writing in the language in ordinary use in the district, by or in the presence and hearing and under the personal superintendence and direction of the officer making the investigation, and shall be signed by him.

In cases in which the evidence is not taken down in full in writing by the officer making the investigation, he shall, as the examination of each witness proceeds, make a memorandum of the substance of what such witness deposes; and such memorandum shall be written and signed by such officer with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

If such officer is prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so.

The Local Government may declare what shall, for the purpose of this section, be deemed to be the language in ordinary use in any district.

Taking evidence given in English. Translation to be on record.

213. When the evidence is given in English, such officer may take it down in that language with his own hand, and an authenticated translation of the same in the language in ordinary use in the district shall be made and shall form part of the record.

214. In all cases other than those specified in section two hundred and twelve such officer may either cause the evidence to be taken down in full as aforesaid, or may make a memorandum in his vernacular language of the substance of the evidence of each witness as the examination of such witness proceeds.

Taking evidence in other cases.

Such memorandum shall be written and signed by such officer with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

Memorandum to be in writing signed.

215. All decisions under this Act shall be written by the officer passing the same in his own handwriting, and shall be explained by him in open Court to the parties or their agents.

Writing and explanation of decisions.

216. Every notice under this Act may be served, either by tendering or delivering a copy thereof to the person on whom it is to be served;

Mode of serving notices.

or, if such person is a proprietor of land, to his agent,

or by affixing a copy thereof to some conspicuous place on the land to which such notice refers.

217. No such notice shall be deemed void on account of any error in the name or designation of any person referred to therein, unless when such error has produced substantial injustice.

Notice not void for error.

REFERENCE TO ARBITRATION.

218. A Commissioner of a Division, a Collector of a District, an Assistant Collector of the first class, a Settlement Officer, an Assistant Settlement Officer may, with the consent of the parties, by order, refer any dispute before him to arbitration,

Power to refer to arbitration.

and except in the cases provided for by sections one hundred and ten, and one hundred and thirteen, a Settlement Officer, or Assistant Settlement Officer, may, by order, refer the dispute to arbitration without the consent of the parties,

Reference to arbitration.

and a Tahsildár invested with the powers described in sections one hundred and thirty-seven to one hundred and forty-one (both inclusive) may, with the consent of the parties, refer to arbitration any dispute arising before him respecting the matters mentioned in the same sections.

219. In referring any such dispute to arbitration, the officer making the reference shall specify, in the order of reference, the precise matter submitted to the arbitrators, and such period as he may think reasonable for the delivery of the award;

What to be specified in order of reference.

and he may from time to time extend such period.

Note by the Hon'ble E. C. Bayley, dated 20th September 1873.

We the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the recovery of Rent in the North-Western Provinces was referred, have considered the amended Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to present this Final Report.

2. We have made the amendments in the Penal Code, the Mofussil Small Cause Courts Act, and Act XVIII of 1871, which will be necessitated by the repeal of Act X of 1859.

3. We have altered the definition of "mahál" so as to render our meaning more distinct and we have omitted the definition of 'tenant,' and have supplied the omission by alterations in the body of the Bill.

4. In the case of privileged tenants, who shall have lost or parted with their rights before the passing of the proposed Act, we have barred the acquisition of such rights—

(a) in lands sub-let by an occupancy-tenant or a tenant at fixed rates:

(b) in sír-land let by a sharer in the village other than the person who has acquired the rights so lost or parted with.

5. We have prevented the acquisition of a right of occupancy under the twelve years' rule by any tenant holding under a written lease of any kind, and by his sub-lessee.

6. We have reduced to ten years the term for which the rent of a privileged or of an occupancy-tenant may be fixed. This alteration has been made because the majority of us, having regard to the weighty opinions given in favour of shortening the term, think it the more prudent course. We have also added to the grounds on which a landholder may at the expiration of such term claim an enhancement, the increase (if any) in the value of the produce of the land.

7. We have made the provisions as to applications for the ejectment of tenants applicable to farmers or lessees on the termination of their leases.

8. We have embodied the provisions of Act XIV of 1863, as to the exercise of the power of distress by sharers in joint undivided mahále.

9. We have transferred the five paragraphs relating to suits for enhancement, compensation for illegal dispossession, for the recovery of the occupancy of land of which a tenant has been illegally dispossessed, for abatement, and for leases or counterparts, from clause 90 to clause 94, the object being to bring questions of this class entirely within the cognizance of the Revenue authorities.

10. We have provided for the enforcement of orders passed on applications made under clause 94, and have declared that they shall have the same effect as judgments of the Civil Courts.

11. We have provided a period of limitation of six months for applications for compensation for illegal dispossession, and for the recovery of the occupancy of land of which a tenant has been illegally dispossessed.

12. We have enabled the Collector of the District to withdraw and transfer any case or class of cases under the proposed Act.

13. In the case of a decree for ejectment for damaging land, we have empowered the Court to allow the tenant to repair the damage within one month, or to order him to pay compensation, and have declared that if the damage be repaired or compensation paid, the decree shall not be executed.

14. We have barred appeals from orders made under clause 182 for admitting appeals.

15. We have made several changes in the wording and arrangement, and we recommend that the Bill thus amended be passed.

SCHEDULE.—Forms.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the recovery of Rent in the North-Western Provinces.

[AS RE-AMENDED BY THE SELECT COMMITTEE.]

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the recovery of Rent in the North-Western Provinces of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873:"

Local extent.

It extends to the territories for the time being under the government of the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, except the Districts described in the second schedule hereto annexed;

But nothing herein contained applies to land for the time being occupied by dwelling-houses or manufactories, or appurtenant thereto.

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

Acts repealed.

2. Act No. X of 1859 (to amend the law relating to the recovery of Rent in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal), Act No. XIV of 1863 (to amend Act X of 1859), and Act XXII of 1872 (to explain and amend Act No. X of 1859) are hereby repealed. But such repeal shall not legalize any practice which immediately before the passing of this Act was unlawful.

Illustration (a) to the Indian Penal Code, section nineteen, and Act XI of 1865, section fifty-two, shall be read as if, for "Act X of 1859" the words and figures, "the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873," were substituted. And section fifteen of Act No. XVIII of 1871 (for the levy of rates on land in the North-Western Provinces) shall be read as if for "section twenty-three of Act No. X of 1859, and in section one of Act No. XIV of 1863" the words and figures "section ninety of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873," were substituted, and as if for "Act No. X of 1859 and Act No. XIV of 1863" the words and figures "the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873," were substituted.

Acts amended.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

Interpretation-clause.

'Mahál.' (1.) 'Mahál' means—

(a) any local area held under a separate engagement for the payment of land-revenue, and for which a separate record of rights has been framed:

(b) any local area of which the revenue has been assigned or redeemed, and for which a separate record of rights has been framed.

'Rent.' (2.) 'Rent' means whatever is to be paid, delivered or rendered by a tenant on account of his holding, use or occupation of land:

'Landholder.' (3.) 'Landholder' means the person to whom a tenant is liable to pay rent.

'Sír-land.' (4.) 'Sír-land' means—

(a) land recorded as sír at the last settlement of the District in which it is situate, and continuously so recorded since;

(b) land continuously cultivated by the proprietor himself, with his own stock, or by his servants, or by hired labour, for twelve years;

(c) land recognized by village-custom as the special holding of a co-sharer, and treated as such in the distribution of profits or charges among the co-sharers.

'Collector of the District.' (5.) 'Collector of the District' means the chief officer in charge of the Revenue Administration of the District.

'Commissioner.' (6.) "Commissioner" means the Chief Officer in charge of the Revenue Administration of a Division.

'Board.' (7.) "Board" means the Board of Revenue for the North-Western Provinces.

'Civil Jail.' (8.) 'Civil Jail' means the civil jail of the District, and includes any place appointed by the Local Government for the confinement of prisoners under sentence of any Court constituted under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF LANDHOLDERS AND TENANTS.

Persons holding land at fixed rent without change since permanent settlement to continue to hold at such rates.

4. In the permanently settled districts persons who possess a permanent transferable interest in land, and who are intermediate between the proprietor of a mahál and the occupants, and who hold (otherwise than under a terminable lease) at a fixed rent which has not been changed from the time of the Permanent Settlement, shall continue to hold at such rent.

Tenants at fixed rates.

5. All tenants in districts or portions of districts permanently settled, who hold lands at fixed rates of rent which have not been changed since the Permanent Settlement, shall have a right of occupancy at those rates, and shall be called "tenants at fixed rates."

Presumption where rent of land not changed for 20 years.

6. Whenever in any suit to which the provisions of section four or section five apply, it is proved that the rent at which land is held has not been changed for a period of twenty years next before the commencement of the suit, it shall be presumed that the land has been held at that rent from the time of the Permanent Settlement, unless the contrary be shown, or unless it be proved that such rent was fixed at some later period.

Privileged tenants.

7. Every tenant in a village who, before the passing of this Act, has lost or parted with his proprietary rights in that village, or whose ancestors from whom he might have inherited such rights have lost or parted with the same rights since the introduction of British rule, in any of the ways following, namely,

(1.) by sale for arrears of revenue;

(2.) by sale in execution of a decree of a Civil or Revenue Court; or

(3.) by agreement with his or their co-sharers, or by gift, sale, exchange or mortgage:

shall have a right of occupancy, at favourable rates, in land actually cultivated by him in such village at the date of the passing of this Act.

This right shall not be acquired—

(a) in land sublet by an occupancy-tenant or a tenant at fixed rates,

(b) in sír-land let by a sharer in the village other than the person who has acquired the right so lost or parted with.

Every person who may hereafter lose or part with his proprietary rights in any mahál in any of the ways above-mentioned shall have a right of occupancy at favourable rates in the land held by him as sír at the date of such loss or parting.

Persons having such rights of occupancy shall be called "privileged tenants," and shall have all the rights of occupancy-tenants.

Occupancy-tenants.

8. Every tenant who has actually occupied or cultivated land continuously for twelve years has a right of occupancy in the land so occupied or cultivated by him.

Such tenants shall be called "occupancy-tenants."

The occupation or cultivating of the father or other person from whom the tenant inherits, shall be deemed to be the occupation or cultivating of the tenant within the meaning of this section:

Tenants barred from right of occupancy.

Provided that no tenant shall acquire under this section a right of occupancy—

(a) in land which he holds from an occupancy-tenant, or from a privileged tenant, or from a tenant holding at fixed rates;

(b) in sír-land;

(c) in land held by him in lieu of wages.

Time excluded from reckoning period necessary for acquiring right of occupancy.

Provided also that when a tenant actually occupies or cultivates land under a written lease without having a right of occupancy in such land, the period of twelve years necessary for acquiring a right of occupancy therein by him or any one claiming under him shall begin on the expiration of the term of such lease. If during the currency of such lease he ceases to occupy the land comprised therein, and sublets it to another, no right of occupancy in such land shall be acquired by the sub-lessee during the currency of the lease.

Rights under sections 7 and 8 when transferable.

9. The right of tenants at fixed rates shall be heritable and transferable. No other right of occupancy shall be transferable by grant, will or otherwise, except as between persons who have become by inheritance co-sharers in such rights.

When any person entitled to such last mentioned right dies, the right shall devolve as if it were land: provided that no collateral relative of the deceased who did not then share in the cultivation of his holding shall be entitled to inherit under this section.

Determination of class of tenure of tenant.

10. On the application of any tenant to have his class of tenure determined, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall determine the class to which he belongs, namely,

whether he is a tenant at fixed rates,

or a privileged tenant,

or an occupancy-tenant,

or whether he is a tenant without a right of occupancy.

Bar to enhancement of rent of tenants at fixed rates

11. The rent paid by tenants at fixed rates shall not be liable to enhancement.

Enhancement in case of privileged and occupancy-tenants.

12. The rent paid by privileged and occupancy-tenants shall not be liable to enhancement, except—

(a) by a written agreement registered under the Indian Registration Act, 1871, or recorded before the patwárí of the village or the kánúngo: or

(b) by order of a Settlement Officer passed under the law for the time being in force: or

(c) by order under this Act.

Grounds of enhancing rent of occupancy-tenants.

13. Where the rent of any occupancy-tenant has not been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer under the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873, or by a decree under this Act, or where the rent has been fixed by such order or decree, but the term for which it has been fixed has expired,

the landholder may apply to enhance the rent of such tenant on one of the following grounds and on no others:—

(a) that the rate of the rent paid by such tenant is below the prevailing rate payable by the same class of tenants for land of similar quality with similar advantages,

(b) that the value of the produce has, or the productive powers of the land have, been increased otherwise than by the agency or at the expense of the tenant;

(c) that the quantity of land held by the tenant has been proved by measurement to be greater than the quantity for which rent has been previously paid by him.

Selection of villages for comparison.

Whenever the district or tahsíl, or other local area in which such land is situated, has been divided by the Settlement Officer into circles of like capacity and soil, the land of similar quality, with similar advantages, shall, for the purpose of this section, be selected from the same circle.

When the Settlement Officer has not so divided the district or other local area as aforesaid, the land regarding which the application has been made shall be compared with land of similar quality and with similar advantages, in the same tahsíl or in a tahsíl immediately adjacent.

Enhancement of rent of privileged tenants.

14. Where the rent of any privileged tenant has not been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer under the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873, or by an order under this Act, or where the rent has been fixed by such order, but the term for which it has been fixed has expired, the landholder may apply to enhance the rent of such tenant as if he were an occupancy-tenant, provided that if his rent be raised, such rent shall not be less than two annas, or more than four annas, in the rupee below the rate which he would have to pay if he were an occupancy-tenant.

Abatement in like cases.

15. Where the rent of any privileged tenant or occupancy-tenant has not been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer under the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873, or by an order under this Act, or where the rent has been fixed by such order, but the term for which it has been fixed has expired,

the tenant may apply for an abatement of his rent on one of the following grounds, and on no others:—

(a) that the area of the land held by him has been diminished by diluvion or otherwise:

(b) that the value of the produce has, or the productive powers of such land have, been decreased by any cause beyond his power.

Time of enhancement or abatement where rent of privileged or occupancy tenant has been fixed by order under this Act.

16. Where the rent of any privileged or occupancy-tenant has been fixed by an order under this Act, such rent shall not be liable to be enhanced or abated until the expiration of ten years from the date on which such order took effect, or until the conclusion of the period of settlement of the District, or until the revision of the settlement of the District by order of the Local Government, whichever of the said three events first occurs.

Grounds of enhancement and abatement where rent has been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer or under this Act.

17. Where the rent of any privileged or occupancy-tenant has been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer under the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873, or by an order under this Act, the landholder may apply to enhance the rent of such tenant during the currency of the term for which the rent has been so fixed, on one of the following grounds, and on no others:—

(a) that the area of the tenant's holding has been increased by alluvion or otherwise;

(b) that the productive powers of the land held by the tenant have since the date of the order been increased otherwise than by the agency or at the expense of the tenant,

And the tenant may apply for abatement of his rent on one of the following grounds and on no others:

(c) that the area of the land held by him has been diminished by diluvion or otherwise;

(d) that the productive powers of such land have been decreased by any cause beyond his control.

Grounds of enhancement or abatement of rent of tenant at fixed rates.

18. In the case of a tenant at fixed rates, the landholder may apply to enhance his rent on the ground that the area of the land in his holding has been increased by alluvion or otherwise, and the tenant may apply for abatement of his rent on the ground that the area of the land in his holding has been diminished by diluvion or otherwise.

Day before which applications for enhancement or abatement must be made.

19. Applications for enhancement or abatement of rent must be made on or before the fifteenth day of November next before the year commencing on the first day of July from which the rent is to be enhanced or abated,

Orders when to take effect.

and all orders for enhancement or abatement shall take effect from the first day of July next following the date of the order.

Consideration of caste of tenant in determining rate.

20. In determining, under this chapter, the rate of rent payable by any tenant, his caste shall not be taken into consideration, unless it is proved that, by local custom, caste is taken into account in determining such rate.

Tenants-at-will.

21. No tenant-at-will of land shall be liable to pay rent in excess of the rent (if any) payable by him in the previous year ending on the thirtieth day of June, unless the landholder and tenant have agreed as to the rent to be paid to the former by the latter, and such agreement has been recorded by the patwárí of the village or the kánúngo of the pargana in which such land is situate.

Rent of privileged or occupancy-tenant fixed by agreement.

22. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, when the rent of any privileged or occupancy-tenant has been fixed by agreement between the parties, such rent shall not be liable to enhancement or abatement for such term as may be agreed on.

(a.)—Leases.

Lease to which tenant is entitled.

23. Every tenant is entitled to receive from the landholder, and may at any time during the continuance of his holding, apply for a lease containing the following particulars:—

(a) the quantity of land held by him, and where the fields have been numbered in a Government survey, the number of each field:

(b) the amount of annual rent payable for such land:

(c) the instalments in which, and the dates on which, such rent is to be paid:

(d) any special conditions of the lease:

(e) if the rent is payable in kind, or is calculated on a valuation of the produce, the proportion of produce to be delivered, the mode of valuation, and the time, manner, and place of delivery.

Tenants at fixed rates.

24. Tenants at fixed rates are entitled to receive leases at such rates.

Privileged and occupancy-tenants.

25. Privileged and occupancy-tenants are entitled to receive leases at the rates hitherto paid by them, or determined in accordance with the provisions of the Act.

Leases to which other tenants are entitled.

26. All other tenants are entitled to leases only on such terms as may be agreed upon between them and the landholders.

Landholder granting lease entitled to reciprocal engagement.

27. Every landholder who grants a lease is entitled to receive a reciprocal engagement from the tenant, executed by the tenant, and conformable with the terms of the lease.

The tender to any tenant of a lease, such as he is entitled to receive, shall entitle the landholder to receive a reciprocal engagement from such tenant.

Lease for period exceeding term of landholder's engagement.

28. If any lease be granted, or if any agreement be entered into by any landholder fixing the rent of land for any period exceeding the term of his own engagement with Government for his land, such lease or agreement shall, on the expiration of the term aforesaid, be void at the option of either party.

Resumption of rent-free grants.

29. a. And whereas all grants for holding land exempt from the payment of rent which have been made since the first day of December 1790, by any authority other than that of the Governor-General in Council, were declared by Bengal Regulation XIX of 1793, section ten, to be null and void; and such Regulation also provides that no length of possession shall be considered to give validity to any such grant, either with regard to the property in the soil or the rents of it, it is hereby further enacted as follows:—

Applications to resume.

b. Applications by the proprietor to resume such grants or to assess rent on the land, shall be made to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and, subject to rules to be made under section two hundred and three, shall be dealt with as other applications under this Act.

Validity of grants which grantor has expressly agreed not to resume.

c. Grants of land held under a written instrument, by which the grantor expressly agrees that the grant shall not be resumed, shall be held valid as against him (but not as against his representatives after his death) during the continuance of the settlement of the district in which the land is situate, which is current at the date of the grant.

When rent-free tenure confers proprietary right.

d. Where any land has been for fifty years or upwards, and still is held rent-free and by at least two successors to the original grantee, such holding shall be deemed to confer on the holder a proprietary right.

e. Nothing in the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, shall bar the right to make an application under this Act to assess to rent land held rent-free.

f. Nothing in this section shall apply to either of the following cases:—

(1) Where land is previously to the passing of this Act held rent-free under a judicial decision,

(2) Where previously to the passing of this Act land held rent-free is purchased for a valuable consideration, and resumption thereof has been barred under Act No. X of 1859, section twenty-eight, or under the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, schedule II, No. 130.

(b.)—Relinquishment and Ejectment.

Relinquishment of land by tenant.

30. Every tenant not holding under a lease shall continue liable for the rent of the land in his holding for the ensuing year, unless on or before the first day of May in any year he gives notice in writing to the landholder, or his recognized agent, of his desire to relinquish such land on the thirtieth day of June next ensuing, and relinquishes it accordingly; or unless it has been let to any other person by such landholder or agent.

Service of notice through tahsíldár, if landholder or agent refuse to receive it.

31. If the landholder or his agent refuse to receive such notice, or if he receive it but refuses to sign a receipt for the same, the tenant may make an application to the tahsíldár, who shall thereupon cause the notice to be served on such landholder or agent, the tenant paying the costs of service.

Mode of serving notice.

32. The notice shall, if practicable, be served personally on the landholder or his agent; but if the landholder or his agent cannot be found, or if he evades service of the notice, service may be made by affixing the notice at his usual place of residence, or, if he does not reside in the district wherein the land is situate, at the chaupál, or other conspicuous place in the village where the land is situate.

Where the delay in serving the notice is owing to the fault of the landholder or his agent, the notice shall be deemed to have been served at the first attempt to serve it.

Liability of tenant to pay interest on arrear and to be ejected.

33. When an arrear of rent remains due from any tenant, he shall be liable to pay interest on such arrear at one per cent. per mensem; and if the arrear remains due on the thirtieth day of June, to be ejected from the land in respect of which the arrear is due:

Bar to ejectment without decree.

No tenant at fixed rates, privileged tenant, occupancy-tenant, or tenant holding under a lease, the term of which has not expired, shall be ejected otherwise than in execution of a decree or order under the provisions of this Act.

Ejectment not to be decreed for certain acts or omissions.

No ejectment of a tenant or cancelment of a lease shall be decreed on account of any act or omission of the tenant which is not detrimental to the land in his occupation, or which is not inconsistent with the purpose for which the land was let.

Ejectment of tenant with right of occupancy, or holding under unexpired lease.

34. If the landholder desire to eject a tenant at fixed rates, a privileged tenant, an occupancy-tenant, or a tenant holding under an unexpired lease, against whom a decree for arrears has been passed and remains unsatisfied, he may, after the expiration of the year, ending on the thirtieth day of June, in which such arrears accrued, apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who shall, on receiving such application (subject to the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, and of section one hundred and sixty-one of this Act) cause a notice to be served on the tenant, stating the amount due under the decree, and informing the tenant that if he does not pay such amount into Court within fifteen days from receipt of the notice, he will be ejected from his land.

If such amount be not so paid, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may eject the tenant.

Such notice shall be deemed to be a process for enforcing the decree of arrears of rent within the meaning of section one hundred and twenty-seven.

Service of notice on tenant for limited period.

35. If the landholder desire to eject a tenant not having a right of occupancy, or any other tenant holding only for a limited period, after the determination of his tenancy, he may cause a written notice of ejectment to be served on such tenant under the provisions of this Act.

Contents of notice.

36. The notice of ejectment shall be written in the vernacular language and character of the district:

it shall specify the land from which the tenant is to be ejected;

and it shall inform him that he must vacate such land on or before the first day of May next following; or that, if he means to contest the right to eject him, he must apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector for that purpose on or before that date.

Mode of serving notice.

37. The notice shall be issued and served through the office of the tahsíldár on or before the first day of April, and the landholder shall pay the cost of service: it shall be served personally on the tenant, if practicable; but if he cannot be found, service may be made by affixing the notice to his usual place of residence.

Effect of failure of tenant to institute suit to contest liability to ejectment.

38. The tenant, on whom such notice has been served, may, on or before the first day of May next after the service, make an application to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, contesting his liability to be ejected.

When such an application is made, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall proceed to determine the question between the parties, as in the case of a suit by a landholder to eject a tenant.

If no such application is made, the tenancy of the land in respect of which the notice has been served shall be held to cease on the first day of May next after the service; unless, after the service the landholder authorises the tenant to continue in the occupation of the land.

Procedure to enforce ejectment.

39. If the landholder require assistance to eject the person whose tenancy is alleged to have ceased under the provisions of section thirty-eight he may apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector for such assistance before the ploughing for the kharíf harvest commences; and the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall order the ejectment of such tenant if he is satisfied—

(a) that the notice was duly served on such tenant under section thirty-seven;

(b) that he has not been authorised by the landholder to continue in occupation;

(c) that the tenant has not made the application mentioned in section thirty-eight; or

(d) that if such application has been made, the question has been determined adversely to the tenant.

Provided that no such application for the ejectment of a farmer on the determination of a lease shall be received if the lease be of the kind in which an advance has been made by the leaseholder, and the proprietor's right of re-entry at the end of the term is contingent on the repayment of such advance either in money or by the usufruct of the land. In all such cases the landholder must proceed by suit in the Civil Court.

Notice of ejectment when void.

40. If the landholder allow the tenant, on whom the notice of ejectment has been served, or against whom any proceedings in ejectment under section thirty-nine have been taken, to remain in occupation of the land, and to prepare it for the kharíf harvest, the proceedings shall become void.

Rights of ejected tenant.

41. Any tenant ejected in accordance with the provisions of this Act, shall be entitled to any growing crops or other ungathered products of the earth belonging to the tenant, and growing on the land at the time of his ejectment, and to use the land for the purpose of tending and gathering in such crops or other products, paying adequate rent therefor.

Effect of tender by landlord of payment for crops.

Provided that, if the landholder desire to purchase such crops or other products, he may tender their price to the tenant; and thereupon the right of the tenant to such crops and other products, and to use the land for the purpose aforesaid, shall cease.

Power to determine rent and price.

In the case of a dispute under this section, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may, on the application of the landlord or tenant, award the rent and price so payable; and the amount of such award, or of any tender accepted under this section, shall be recoverable as an arrear of rent by suit under this Act.

Application by tenant for officer to divide produce or appraise crop.

42. Wherever rent is taken by division of the produce in kind, or by estimate or appraisement of the standing crop, or other procedure of a like nature, requiring the presence both of the cultivator and landholder, either personally or by agent,

if either landholder or tenant personally, or by agent, neglect to attend at the proper time, or if there is a dispute as to the amount or value of the crop, an application may be presented to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, requesting that a proper officer be deputed to make the division, estimate, or appraisement.

Procedure on such application.

On receiving such application, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall issue a written notice to the opposite party or his agent to attend, on the date, and at the time specified in the notice, and shall depute an officer before whom such division, estimate, or appraisement shall be made.

If on or before the date appointed, the dispute have not been amicably adjusted, three residents of the village or neighbourhood shall be appointed assessors; one by each of the parties, and one by the officer deputed to divide the grain or estimate or appraise the crops, and the officer deputed shall decide the amount of rent payable by their award, and shall give to the party applying a written authority to divide the grain or cut the crops.

Provided that if either party fail to attend, the officer deputed shall nominate an assessor on his behalf.

The officer deputed shall report his proceedings to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who shall determine the amount of costs properly incurred under th s section, and the share of the costs to be paid by either party.

(c.)—Compensation for Improvements made by Tenants.

Tenants' right to compensation for improvements.

43. If any tenant, or any person from whom he has inherited or purchased, make any such improvements on the land in his possession as are hereinafter mentioned, neither he nor his representative shall be ejected from the same land without payment of compensation for such improvements.

Explanation.—The word "improvements" as used in this section means works by which the annual letting value of the land has been, and at the time of demanding compensation continues to be, increased, and comprises—

(a) tanks, wells and other works for the storage, supply or distribution of water for agricultural purposes,

(b) works for the drainage of land, for the reclaiming of land from floods, or from erosion or other damage by water,

(c) the reclaiming, clearing, or enclosing of lands for agricultural purposes,

(d) the renewal, or re-construction of any of the foregoing works, or alterations therein, or additions thereto.

Basis of, and mode of making, compensation.

44. Such compensation may, at the option of the landholder or his representative, be made—

1*st.*—by payment in money;

2*nd.*—by the grant of a beneficial lease of the land, by the landholder or his representative, to the tenant or his representative;

3*rd.*—partly by payment in money, and partly by the grant of such lease as aforesaid.

Settlement of difference as to amount or value of compensation.

45. In case of difference as to the amount or value of the compensation tendered, either party may apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector stating the matter in dispute, and requesting a determination thereof.

On receiving such application, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall

(a) cause notice thereof to be served on the other party,

(b) take such evidence as the parties or either of them may adduce,

(c) make such further inquiry as the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may deem necessary, and

(d) determine the amount of the payment, or the terms of the lease, or both.

Considerations in determining compensation.

46. In determining the amount or value mentioned in section forty-five or the terms of such lease, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall take into account any assistance given to the tenant by the landholder either directly in money, material or labour, for the purpose of making such improvements, or indirectly by allowing the tenant to hold at a favourable rate of rent.

(d.)—Compensation for wrongful Acts and Omissions.

Right of tenant to compensation for exactions in excess of rent or for withholding receipt.

47. Every tenant from whom any sum is exacted in excess of the rent specified in his lease or payable under the provisions of this Act, and every tenant from whom a receipt is withheld for any sum of money paid by him as rent, shall be entitled to recover from the landholder compensation not exceeding double the amount so exacted or paid.

Contents of receipt.

Receipts for rent shall specify the period or crop on account of which the rent is acknowledged to have been paid;

and any refusal to make such specification shall be held to be a withholding of a receipt.

Damages for extorting payment of rent by duress.

48. If payment of rent, whether the same be legally due or not, is extorted from any tenant by illegal confinement or other duress, he shall be entitled to recover from the person guilty of such extortion such compensation, not exceeding the sum of two hundred rupees, as the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector thinks reasonable.

Liability to punishment for extortion not affected.

An award of compensation under this section shall not bar or affect any penalty or punishment to which the person guilty of such extortion may be subject under the Indian Penal Code.

(e.)—Deposit of Rent in Government Treasury.

Deposit of amount tendered by tenant and refused.

49. If any tenant tenders to the landholder full payment of the rent due from him, and if the amount so tendered be not accepted, and a receipt for the amount forthwith granted, the tenant may thereupon apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector for leave to deposit such amount in his Court to the credit of the landholder.

Form and verification of application.

50. The application to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall be as nearly as may be in the form (A) in the first schedule hereto annexed, and shall be verified in the manner prescribed for the verification of plaints under section one hundred and three:

Penalty for false statement.

and the person making the verification shall be punishable, if the application contain any averment which he knows or believes to be false, or does not know or believe to be true.

Notice to issue on deposit being made.

51. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall receive the amount which the tenant desires to deposit, and shall thereupon issue to the person to whose credit it has so been deposited, a notice in English or the vernacular language of the district in the form (B) in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

And such deposit shall in all questions between the landholder and the tenant be deemed to be a payment made by the tenant to the landholder on account of the rent.

Mode of serving notice.

52. Such notice shall be served through the tahsíldár upon the person to whom it is addressed, or upon his recognized agent.

In their absence the notice shall be affixed at the chaupál, or other conspicuous place in the village in which the land for which the rent is due is situate.

Payment to person served with notice on his application.

53. If at any time before the expiration of three years from the date of the deposit the person on whom such notice is served, or his recognized agent, appears and applies that the money in deposit be paid to him, it shall be paid accordingly, unless it has been repaid or paid in accordance with the provisions next hereinafter contained.

Refund to depositor.

54. If no application be made by such person or his recognized agent, the sum shall be repaid to the depositor on the expiration of three years from the date of the deposit.

And at any time before the expiration of such period, on the joint application of the depositor and the person to whose credit the said sum was deposited, such sum shall be paid in such manner as the joint applicants desire.

CHAPTER III.

DISTRESS.

Produce of land hypothecated for rent.

55. The produce of all land in the occupation of a tenant shall be deemed to be hypothecated for the rent payable in respect of such land;

Recovery of arrears by distress.

and when an arrear of rent is due from any cultivator, the person entitled to receive rent immediately from him may, instead of suing for the arrear as hereinafter provided, recover the same by distress and sale of the produce of the land in respect of which the arrear is due, under the rules contained in this Chapter.

Bar to distress of produce covered by security.

56. Provided always that, when a tenant has given security for the payment of his rent, the produce of the land for the rent of which security has been given, shall not be liable to be distrained:

Sharer not entitled to distrain

Provided also, that no sharer in any mahál shall have power to distrain upon any tenant unless he is entitled to collect the whole rent from such tenant.

Provided also, that no sharer in a joint undivided mahál shall exercise such power otherwise than through a manager authorised to collect the rents of the whole mahál on behalf of all the sharers therein: Provided also, that in pattídári maháls distress shall be made only through a lumberdár, or where the rent of a pattí is not collected by a lumberdár through the pattídár who is entitled to collect the rent.

No distress for overdue arrear, nor, without agreement, for excess over past year's rent.

57. A distress shall not be made for any arrear which has been due for a longer period than one year;

nor for the recovery of any sum in excess of the rent payable for the same land in the preceding year, unless the rent has been enhanced under the provisions hereinbefore contained, or unless the cultivator has agreed to pay such excess and such agreement has been attested before the patwárí or kánúngo.

Distress by managers under Court of Wards, &c.

58. The power to distrain conferred by sections fifty-five and fifty-six may be exercised by managers under the Court of Wards, and other persons lawfully entrusted with the charge of immoveable property;

and also by the agents employed by such persons as aforesaid, in the collection of rent, if expressly authorized by power-of-attorney in that behalf:

Liability for illegal act.

If any wrongful act is committed by any such agent, under colour of the exercise of the said power, such agent and his principal shall be jointly and severally liable to make compensation for such act.

Written authority to servants employed to distrain.

59. When any person, empowered to distrain property under section fifty-five, section fifty-six, or section fifty-eight, employs a servant or other person to make the distress, he shall give him a written authority for the same, and the distress shall be made in the name of the person giving such authority.

Standing crops and crops gathered liable to distress.

60. Standing crops and other ungathered products of the earth, and crops or other products when reaped or gathered, and deposited in any threshing-floor or place for treading out grain or the like, whether in the field or within a homestead, may be distrained by persons invested with power to distrain under the provisions of this Act.

Exception.

But no such crops or products, other than the produce of the land in respect of which an arrear of rent is due, or of land held under the same engagement, and no grain or other produce after it has been stored by the cultivator, and no other property whatsoever, shall be liable to be distrained under this Act.

Defaulter to be served with written demand and account.

61. Before or at the time when a distress is made under this Act, the distrainer shall cause the defaulter to be served with a written demand for the amount of the arrear, together with an account exhibiting the grounds on which the demand is made.

The demand and account shall, if practicable, be served personally on the defaulter; or, if he abscond or conceal himself, so that they cannot be so served, shall be affixed at his usual place of residence.

Mode of service.

62. Unless the amount of the demand is immediately paid or tendered, the distrainer may distrain property as aforesaid equal in value, as nearly as may be, to the amount of the arrear and the costs of the distress; and shall prepare a list or description of the said property, and deliver a copy of the same to the owner, or, if he be absent, affix it at his usual place of residence.

Distress to be proportionate to arrear.

List of property to be prepared and copy served on owner.

63. Standing crops and other ungathered products may, notwithstanding the distress, be reaped and gathered by the cultivator, and may be stored in such granaries or other places as are commonly used by him for the purpose.

Standing crops, &c., when attached, may be reaped and stored.

If the cultivator neglect to do so, the distrainer shall cause the said crops or products to be reaped or gathered, and in such case shall store the same either in such granaries or other places as aforesaid, or in some other convenient place in the neighbourhood.

In either case the distrained property shall be placed in the charge of some person appointed by the distrainer for the purpose.

Crops or products which from their nature do not admit of being stored, may be sold before they are cut or gathered, under the rules hereinafter provided; but in such case, the distress shall be made at least twenty days before the time when the crops or products or any part of the same are fit for cutting or gathering.

Sale of products which cannot be stored.

64. If a distrainer is opposed, or apprehends resistance, and desires to obtain the assistance of a public officer, he may apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who may, if he thinks necessary, depute an officer to support the distrainer in making the distress.

Assistance to distrainer opposed or apprehending resistance.

65. If at any time after property has been distrained and before the day fixed for putting it up to sale as hereinafter provided, the owner of the property tender payment of the arrear demanded of him, and of the expenses of the distress, the distrainer shall receive the same, and shall forthwith withdraw the distress.

Distress to be withdrawn on tender of arrear and expenses before sale.

66. Within five days from the time of the storing of any distrained crops or products,

Application for sale.

or if the crops or products do not from their nature admit of being stored, within five days from the time of making the distress,

the distrainer shall apply for sale of the same to the officer for the time being authorized by the Local Government to sell distrained property within the tahsíl in which they are situate.

67. The application shall be in writing and shall contain—

Contents of application.

(a) an inventory or description of the property distrained,

(b) the name of the defaulter and his place of residence,

(c) the amount due, and the date of the distress, and

(d) the place in which the distrained property is deposited.

Together with the application, the distrainer shall deliver to the said officer the fee for the service of a notice upon the defaulter as hereinafter provided.

Deposit of cost of service of notice.

68. Immediately on receipt of the application the said officer shall send a copy of it to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector;

Procedure on receipt of application.

and shall serve a notice in the form (C) contained in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect, on the person whose property has been distrained, requiring him either to pay the amount demanded, or to institute a suit to contest the demand before the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector within the period of fifteen days from the receipt of the notice.

He shall at the same time send to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, for the purpose of being put up in his office and in the office of the tahsíldár, a proclamation fixing a day for the sale of the distrained property, which shall not be less than twenty days from the date of the application; and shall deliver a copy of the proclamation to the peon charged with the service of the notice, to be put up by him in the place where the distrained property is deposited.

The proclamation shall contain—

(a) a description of the property,

and shall specify—

(b) the demand for which it is to be sold, and

(c) the place where the sale is to be held.

69. If a suit is instituted before the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector in pursuance of the aforesaid notice, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall send to the officer referred to in section sixty-six, or, if so requested, shall deliver to the owner of the distrained property, a certificate of the institution of such suit;

Suspension of sale on receipt of Collector's certificate of institution of suit.

and on such certificate being received by, or presented to, the said officer, he shall suspend the sale.

70. A person whose property has been distrained in manner hereinbefore provided, may institute a suit to contest the demand of the distrainer immediately after the distress, and before the issue of notice of sale.

Suit to contest distrainer's demand before issue of notice of sale.

When such suit is instituted, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall proceed in the manner prescribed in the last preceding section.

If, thereafter, application for the sale of the property is made to the said officer, he shall send a copy of the application to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and suspend further proceedings, pending the decision of the case.

Distress when to be withdrawn.

71. The person whose property has been distrained may, at the time of instituting any such suit as aforesaid, or at any subsequent period, execute a bond with a surety, binding himself to pay whatever sum may be adjudged to be due from him, with interest and costs of suit;

and when such bond is executed, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall give to the owner of the property a certificate to that effect, and, if so requested, shall serve the distrainer with notice of the same;

and upon such certificate being presented to the distrainer by the owner of the property, or served on him by order of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, the property shall be released from distress.

When sale may be proceeded with.

72. On the expiration of the period fixed in the proclamation of sale, if the institution of a suit to contest the demand of the distrainer has not been certified to the said officer in manner hereinbefore provided, he shall, unless the said demand, with such costs of the distress as shall be allowed by him be discharged in full, proceed, in manner hereinafter mentioned, to sell the property or such part of it as may be necessary to satisfy the demand with the costs of distress and sale.

Place of sale.

73. The sale shall be held at the place where the distrained property is deposited, or at the nearest place of public resort, if the said officer is of opinion that it is likely to sell there to better advantage.

Manner of sale.

The property shall be sold by public auction, in one or more lots, as the officer holding the sale may think advisable;

Withdrawal of distress when demand and costs satisfied.

and if the demand with the costs of distress and sale be satisfied by the sale of a portion of the property, the distress shall be immediately withdrawn with respect to the remainder.

If fair price be not offered, sale may be postponed and shall be then completed.

74. If, on the property being put up for sale, a fair price (in the estimation of the officer holding the sale) be not offered for it, and the owner of the property, or some person authorized to act on his behalf, apply to have the sale postponed until the next day, or the next market-day, if a market be held at the place of sale, the sale shall be postponed until such day and shall be then completed whatever price may be offered for the property.

Payment of purchase-money.

75. The price of every lot shall be paid for in ready money at the time of sale, or as soon thereafter as the officer holding the sale thinks necessary;

Re-sale on default.

and, in default of such payment, the property shall be put up again and sold.

Certificate to purchaser.

When the purchase-money has been paid in full, the officer holding the sale shall give the purchaser a certificate, describing the property purchased by him and the price paid.

Deduction from proceeds of costs of sale.

76. From the proceeds of every sale of distrained property under this Act, the officer holding the sale shall make a deduction at the rate of one anna in the rupee on account of the costs of the sale, and shall send the amount so deducted to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector.

Payment of distrainer's expenses.

He shall then pay to the distrainer the expenses incurred by the distrainer on account of the distress, and of the issue of the notice and proclamation of sale prescribed in section sixty-eight, to such amount as, after examination of the statement of expenses furnished by the distrainer, he thinks proper to allow.

Discharge of arrear with interest.

The remainder shall be applied to the discharge of the arrear for which the distress was made, with interest thereon up to the day of sale;

Surplus.

and the surplus (if any) shall be delivered to the person whose property has been sold.

Sale officers and employees prohibited from purchasing.

77. Officers holding sales of property under this Act, and all persons employed by or subordinate to such officers, are prohibited from purchasing either directly, or indirectly, any property sold by such officers.

Report of irregularities by distrainer.

78. Officers holding sales under this chapter are required to bring to the notice of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector any material irregularities committed by distrainers under colour of this Act;

Postponement of sale, and report to Collector when defaulter has not received due notice.

and if, in any case, on proceeding to hold any such sale the officer holding it find that the owner of the property has not received due notice of the distress and intended sale, he shall postpone the sale and report the case to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who shall thereupon

Order of Collector.

direct the issue of another notice and proclamation of sale under section sixty-eight, or pass such other order as he thinks fit.

Levy of charge when sale officer attends, and no sale takes place.

79. When an officer goes to any place for the purpose of holding a sale under this Act, and no sale takes place, either for the reason stated in section seventy-eight, or because the demand of the distrainer has been previously satisfied, no intimation of such satisfaction having been given by the distrainer to such officer, the charge of one anna in the rupee on account of expenses shall be leviable and shall be calculated on the estimated value of the distrained property.

Recovery from owner.

If the distrainer's demand be not satisfied until the day fixed for the sale, the charge for expenses shall be paid by the owner of the property, and may be recovered by the sale of such portion thereof as may be necessary.

Recovery from distrainer.

In every other case it shall be paid by the distrainer and may be recovered by attachment and sale of his property under the warrant of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector:

Limit to charge.

Provided that in no case shall a larger amount then ten rupees be recoverable under this section.

Order of sale when amount adjudged due.

80. When a suit has been instituted to contest the demand of a distrainer, and the property has not been released on security, if the demand or any portion of it is adjudged to be due, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall issue an order to the officer authorizing the sale of the property;

Second proclamation of sale.

and on the application of the distrainer, within five days from the receipt of such order by the officer, such officer shall publish a second proclamation in the manner prescribed in section sixty-eight, fixing another day for the sale of the distrained property, which shall not be less than five nor more than ten days from the date of the proclamation;

Sale on failure to pay debt and costs.

and, unless the amount adjudged to be due with the costs of distress be paid, shall proceed to sell the property in the manner hereinbefore provided.

In suit to contest his demand, distrainer to prove arrear.

81. In all suits instituted to contest the distrainer's demand he shall be required to prove the arrear in the same manner as if he had himself brought a suit for the amount under the provisions hereinafter contained.

Recovery of amount decreed in favour of distrainer.

If the demand or any part thereof is found to be due, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall make a decree for the amount in favour of the distrainer, and such amount may be recovered by sale of the property, as provided in the last preceding section, if the distress has not been withdrawn;

and if any balance remain due after such sale, by execution of the decree against the person and any other property of the defaulter, or if the property have been released on security, by execution of the decree against the person and property of the defaulter and of his surety.

Compensation in case of vexatious distress.

If the distress is adjudged to be vexatious or groundless, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, besides directing the release of the distrained property, may award such compensation to the plaintiff as the circumstances of the case require.

Suit by person claiming property distrained for arrears alleged to be due from another.

82. If any person claim as his own, property which has been distrained for arrears of rent alleged to be due from any other person, the claimant may institute a suit against the distrainer and such other person, to try the right to the property, in the same manner and under the same conditions as to the time of instituting the suit and to the consequent postponement of sale, as a person whose property has been distrained for an arrear of rent alleged to be due from him, may institute a suit to contest the demand.

Release of property on security being given.

When any such suit is instituted the property may be released upon security being given for the value of the same.

Order of Collector when claim dismissed.

If the claim is dismissed, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall make an order for the sale of the property, or for the recovery of the value thereof, as the case may be, for the benefit of the distrainer.

Decree for release and compensation when claim upheld.

If the claim is upheld, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall decree the release of the distrained property with costs, and such compensation (if any) as the circumstances of the case require:

Saving of prior claim of person entitled to rent of land.

Provided that no claim to any produce of land liable to distress under this Act, which at the time of the distress may have been found in the possession of a defaulting cultivator shall bar the prior claim of the person entitled to the rent of the land, nor shall any attachment in execution of a judgment of any Civil Court prevail against such prior claim.

Procedure where right to distrain is claimed by other than distrainer.

83. If in any case in which property has been distrained for an arrear of rent, and a suit has been instituted to contest the demand, the right to distrain for such arrears is claimed by or on behalf of any person other than the distrainer, on the ground of such other person being actually and in good faith in the receipt and enjoyment of the rent of the land, such other person shall be made a party to the suit, and the question of the actual receipt and enjoyment of the rent by him before and up to the time of the commencement of the suit shall be enquired into, and in deciding the suit the result of such inquiry shall be taken into consideration.

Saving of right to sue in Civil Court.

Provided that the decision of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall not affect the right of any person who may have a legal title to the rent of the land, to establish his title by suit in the Civil Court if instituted within one year from the date of the decision.

Persons prevented from suing in time to save property from sale, may sue for damages.

84. If any person whose property has been distrained for the recovery of a demand not justly due, or of a demand due or alleged to be due from some other person, is prevented by any sufficient cause from bringing a suit to contest the demand or to try the right to the property, as the case may be, within the period allowed by section ninety-three, and his property is in consequence brought to sale, he may, nevertheless, institute a suit under this Act to recover compensation for the illegal distress and sale of his property.

Wrongful acts of distrainer.

85. If any person empowered to distrain property, or employed for the purpose under a written authority by a person so empowered, distrain or sell, or cause to be sold, any property for the recovery of an arrear of rent alleged to be due, otherwise than according to the provisions of this Act, or if any distrained property is lost, damaged, or destroyed by reason of the distrainer not having taken proper precautions for the due keeping and preservation thereof, or if the distress is not immediately withdrawn when it is required to be withdrawn by any provision of this Act,

the owner of the property may institute a suit under this Act to recover compensation for any injury which he has thereby sustained through any act or omission mentioned in the former part of this section.

Suit by owner against person distraining or selling without authority.

86. If any person not empowered to distrain property under sections fifty-five, fifty-six or fifty-eight, nor employed for the purpose under a written authority by a person so empowered, fraudulently distrains or sells or causes to be sold any property under colour of this Act, the owner of the property so distrained or sold may institute a suit under this Act to recover compensation from such person for any injury which the plaintiff has sustained from the distress or sale,

Penalty in addition to damages.

and the defendant shall be held to have committed criminal trespass, and shall be subject to the penalties provided for that offence in addition to any damages which may be awarded against him in such suit.

Limitation of suits under sections 84, 85, 86.

87. Provided that every suit instituted under any of the three last preceding sections shall be commenced within the term prescribed by section ninety-three.

Procedure in case of resistance of distress.

88. If any person resists a distress of property duly made under this Act, or forcibly or clandestinely removes any distrained property, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, upon complaint being made within fifteen days from the date of such resistance or removal, shall cause the person accused to be arrested and brought with all convenient speed before the Collector or Assistant Collector, who shall, if possible, proceed forthwith to try the case.

If the case cannot be at once heard, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may, if he think fit, require the party arrested to give security for his person, and, in default of such security, may commit him to the civil jail until the case is tried, and if the offence be proved and the offender be the owner of the property concerned, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall order him to be imprisoned in the civil jail for six months, or until the whole arrear due to the distrainer, with all expenses and costs, is paid or levied under warrant of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector by distress and sale of the property of the offender.

If the offender be not the owner of the property, he shall make good to the distrainer the value of the same, and shall further be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, or in default of payment thereof, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a period not exceeding two months.

Proceedings of officers subject to revision and orders of Collector.

89. All proceedings of officers under this chapter shall be subject to the revision and orders of the Collector of the District.

CHAPTER IV.

PROCESS.

Mode of serving process.

90. Every process issued by a Collector of a District or Assistant Collector under this Act shall be under his seal and signature, and shall be served or executed by the Názir, or by such other officer as the Collector of the District or the Assistant Collector may direct, at the cost of the party at whose instance it is issued.

Deposit before issue.

The amount of such cost, and, in the case of summons to a witness, the sum required for his travelling expenses, shall be deposited in Court before the process is issued:

Power to direct service free of charge.

Provided that, if in any case the Collector of the District or the Assistant Collector is satisfied that a party is unable to pay the cost of any necessary process, he may direct such process to be served free of charge.

Punishment for resistance of process.

91. Any resistance or opposition to the lawful process of a Collector of the District or Assistant Collector under this Act may be punished by him according to the provisions of the law for the time being in force for the punishment of resistance or opposition to the processes of the courts of civil justice.

Power to issue summons and warrant.

When, in any such case, the offender is not present, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may summon him to answer to the charge: and if after due service of the summons he fail to attend, may issue a warrant for his apprehension.

CHAPTER V.

JURISDICTION OF COURTS.

Suits cognizable by Revenue Courts only.

92. Except in the way of appeal as hereinafter provided, no Courts other than Courts of Revenue shall take cognizance of any dispute or matter in which any suit of the nature mentioned in this section might be brought,

and such suits shall be heard and determined in the said Courts of Revenue in the manner provided in this Act, and not otherwise:

(a) for arrears of rent on account of land or on account of any rights of pasturage, forest-rights, fisheries or the like;

(b) to eject a tenant for any act or omission detrimental to the land in his occupation or inconsistent with the purpose for which the land was demised, or

(c) to cancel a lease for the breach of any condition binding on the tenant, and which by law, custom or special agreement, involves the forfeiture of the lease;

(d) for the recovery of any overpayment of rent, or for compensation under sections forty-seven or forty-eight;

(e) for compensation for withholding receipt for rent paid;

(f) for contesting the exercise of the powers of distress conferred on landholders and others by this Act, or any thing purporting to be done in the exercise of the said power, or for compensation for wrongful acts or omissions of a distrainer;

(g) suits by lumberdárs for arrears of Government revenue, payable through them by the co-sharers whom they represent, and for village-expenses and other dues for which the co-sharers may be responsible to the lumberdár;

(h) suits by co-sharers for their share of the profits of a mahál, or any part thereof, after payment of the Government revenue and village-expenses, or for a settlement of accounts;

(i) suits by muáfídárs, or assignees of the Government revenue, for arrears of revenue owing to them, as such muáfídárs or assignees;

(j) suits by taluqdárs and other superior proprietors, for arrears of revenue due to them as such.

Limitation of suits.

93. Suits for arrears of rent or revenue or, for a share of the profits of a mahál, or of village-expenses or other dues, shall not be brought after three years from the day on which the arrears or share became due:

Suits relating to distress shall not be brought after three months from the day on which the right to sue accrued:

All other suits may be brought within one year from the day on which the right to sue accrues, unless otherwise specially provided for in this Act.

The day on which the arrears become due or the day on which the right to sue accrues (as the case may be) shall be excluded in computing the periods of limitation prescribed by this section.

Applications cognizable by Revenue Courts only.

94. No Courts other than Courts of Revenue shall take cognizance of any dispute or matter on which any application of the nature mentioned in this section might be made: such applications shall be heard and determined in the said Courts in manner provided under this Act, and not otherwise:—

(a) Application to determine the nature and class of a tenant's tenure, under section ten.

(b) Application by a landholder, or his agent, to compel a patwári to produce his accounts relating to land.

(c) Application to resume rent-free grants under section twenty-nine, and to assess to rent land previously held rent-free.

(d) Application from a landholder to eject a tenant, under section thirty-four or section thirty-five.

(e) Applications made by a tenant, under section thirty-eight.

(f) Application from a landholder under section thirty-nine for assistance to eject a tenant.

(g) Application from a tenant or landholder to determine the value of any standing crop, or ungathered products of the earth, belonging to the tenant and being on the land at the time of his ejectment, under section forty-one.

(h) Application by a landholder to determine rent payable for land used by a tenant for the purpose of tending or gathering in the crop, under section forty-one.

(i) Application by a landholder or tenant for assistance in the division or appraisement of a standing crop, under section forty-two.

(j) Application by a landholder or tenant to determine compensation for improvements of land.

(k) Application by a tenant for leave to deposit rent.

(l) Application for enhancement of rent.

(m) Application for compensation for illegal dispossession.

(n) Application for the recovery of the occupancy of any land of which a tenant has been illegally dispossessed.

(o) Application for abatement of rent.

(p) Application for leases or counterparts, and for the determination of the rates of rent at which such leases or counterparts are to be delivered.

Points of procedure relating to applications.

95. (a.) All applications under section ninety-four shall be made in the district in which the land, crops or products referred to is or are situate, and may, with the consent of the parties, be referred to arbitration under sections two hundred and seventeen to two hundred and twenty-eight (both inclusive) of the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873.

(b.) All orders passed on applications under this section shall be proved in the same manner, and when proved shall have the same effect as judgments of the Civil Courts.

(c.) In cases wherein a specific sum of money is adjudged to be due, or any costs or damages are awarded, all such orders may be executed by any process in use for the recovery of an arrear of revenue or rent.

(d.) In cases wherein possession of immoveable property is adjudged, the officer making the award may deliver over possession in the same manner, and with the same power, in regard to contempts, resistance, and the like, as may be lawfully exercised by the Civil Courts in execution of their own decrees.

(e.) Applications under heads (m) and (n) of section ninety-four shall not be brought after six months from the date of the illegal dispossession.

96. The Local Government may invest any officer with the powers of an Assistant Collector of the first or second class under this Act, and may at any time withdraw such powers.

Local Government may invest officers with Assistant Collector's powers, and withdraw them.

97. Assistant Collectors of either class shall have, as such, power to try suits and applications of the following descriptions:—

Suits and applications cognizable by Collectors.

(a) suits for arrears of rent on account of land or on account of any rights of pasturage, forest-rights, fisheries or the like;

(b) suits for compensation for withholding receipt for rent paid, under section forty-seven;

(c) suits to contest the exercise of the powers of distress conferred on landholders and others by this Act, or anything purporting to be done in exercise of the said powers, or for compensation for wrongful acts or omissions of a distrainer;

(d) suits by lumberdárs for arrears of Government revenue, payable through them by the co-sharers whom they represent, and for village-expenses and other dues, for which the co-sharers may be responsible to the lumberdár;

(e) suits by muálídárs or assignees of the Government revenue, for arrears of revenue owing to them as such muálídárs or assignees;

(f) applications by a landholder, or by an agent employed by a landholder, to compel the production of accounts by patwáris;

(g) applications by a tenant or landholder to determine the value of any standing crops or ungathered products of the earth, and being on the land at the time of his ejectment, under section forty-one;

(h) applications by a landholder to determine the amount of rent payable by a tenant using land for the purpose of tending or gathering in crops, under section forty-one;

(i) applications by a landholder or a tenant for assistance in the division or appraisement of standing crops, under section forty-two;

(j) suits by taluqdárs or other superior proprietors for arrears of revenue due to them as such.

(k) applications by tenants for leave to deposit rent.

98. Assistant Collectors of the first class, in addition to the suits and applications specified in section ninety-seven, shall have power to try suits and applications of the following descriptions:—

Additional suits and applications cognizable by Assistant Collectors, first class.

(a) suits to eject a tenant for any act or omission detrimental to the land in his occupation, or inconsistent with the purpose for which the land was let;

(b) suits to cancel a lease for any breach of any condition binding on the tenant;

(c) applications by a landholder to eject a tenant with right of occupancy, under section thirty-four;

(d) applications under section thirty-eight by a tenant contesting notice of ejectment;

(e) applications by a landholder under section thirty-nine, for assistance to eject a tenant on whom notice of ejectment has been served;

(f) applications for compensation for illegal dispossession;

(g) applications by a landholder or tenant to determine the amount to be paid as compensation for improvements;

(h) suits for the recovery of any over-payment or rent or for compensation, under section forty-seven or section forty-eight;

(i) suits by co-sharers for their recorded shares of the profits of a mahál or any part thereof, after payment of the Government revenue and village-expenses, or for a settlement of accounts;

(j) applications to recover the occupancy of any land from which a tenant has been illegally dispossessed by the landholder.

99. In addition to the powers specified in sections ninety-seven and ninety-eight, an Assistant Collector of the first class specially empowered by Government in this behalf shall have power to try the following applications:—

Additional suits cognizable by Collector, first class, specially empowered.

(a) applications for enhancement of rent of a privileged or an occupancy-tenant;

(b) applications for abatement of rent;

(c) applications under section twenty-nine for the resumption of rent-free grants, or for the assessment to rent of land hitherto held rent-free;

(d) applications for leases or counterparts, and the determination of the rates of rent at which such leases or counterparts are to be delivered;

(e.) applications to determine the nature or class of a tenant's tenure.

100. The Collector of the District, or any Assistant Collector in charge of a sub-division of a district, or officer in charge of a settlement, may make over any case, or class of cases for inquiry and decision, from his own file, to any of his subordinates competent to deal with such case or class of cases under the provisions of this Act.

Power to make over cases.

101. Collectors of Districts, and Assistant Collectors in charge of sub-divisions of Districts, and officers in charge of a settlement, may, respectively, withdraw any case or class of cases from any Revenue Officers subordinate to them, and may deal with such case or class of cases themselves, or refer it for disposal to any other such Revenue Officer competent to deal with the same under the provisions of this Act.

Power to withdraw cases.

102. The Collector of the District may exercise

Exercise by Collector of District of powers conferrible on Assistant Collector.

(a) all powers given by this Act to Collectors of Districts,

(b) all powers which by this Act are conferred, or can be conferred, on Assistant Collectors.

The Local Government may invest any officer placed in charge of a sub-division of a district with all or any of the powers conferred by this Act on a Collector of a District.

Investment of officer in charge of sub-division with powers of Collector of District.

CHAPTER VI.

PROCEDURE IN SUITS UP TO JUDGMENT.

Place where suits to be instituted.

103. Suits under this Act shall be instituted in the District in which the subject of the suit, or some part thereof, is situate,

Mode of instituting suits. Contents of plaint or statement of claim.

and all such suits shall be commenced by presenting to the Court a plaint or statement of claim, which shall contain—

(a) the name, description and place of abode of the plaintiff;

(b) the name, description and place of abode of the defendant, so far as they can be ascertained;

(c) the subject-matter of the claim, and its amount or value computed according to the Court Fees Act, 1870; and

(d) the date on which the right to sue accrued.

Managers of estates to be deemed landholders.

104. For the purpose of suing or being sued under this Act, the managers of estates, whether held under the Court of Wards or under direct management, shall be deemed to be landholders.

Suits by sharers in a mahál.

105. No co-sharer in an undivided property shall in that character be entitled separately to sue a tenant under this Act unless he is authorized to receive from such tenant the whole of the rent payable by such tenant to all the co-sharers. Save as aforesaid all suits shall in such cases be brought by the lumberdár (if any) entitled to receive the rent or by all the co-sharers jointly.

Statement by whom to be presented.

106. The statement of claim shall be presented by the plaintiff, or by an agent duly authorized on his behalf, who has personal knowledge of the facts of the case, or by an agent accompanied by a person who has such knowledge.

Verification of statement.

The statement of claim shall be subscribed and verified at the foot by the plaintiff or his agent in the manner following, or to the like effect:—

"I, A. B., do declare that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief."

False averment.

If the statement contains any averment which the person making the verification knows or believes to be false, or does not know or believe to be true, he shall be punishable according to the law for the punishment of giving or fabricating false evidence.

Document relied on by plaintiff to be presented with statement.

107. If the plaintiff rely in support of his claim on any document in his possession, he shall deliver the same to the Court at the time of presenting his statement of claim.

Admission afterwards.

Unless such document be so delivered or its non-production be sufficiently excused, or unless the Court see fit to extend the time for producing the same, it shall not afterwards be admitted.

Procuring production of document in possession of defendant.

108. If the plaintiff require the production of any document in the possession or power of the defendant, he may, at the time of presenting his statement of claim, deliver to the Court a description of the document, in order that the defendant may be required to produce the same.

Statement in suits for arrears of rent.

109. If the suit be for the recovery of an arrear of rent, revenue, share of profit, village-expenses, or other due under section ninety-two, the statement shall specify the name of the village and estate, and of the pargana or other local division in which the land is situate:

and, if the suit be for an arrear of rent alleged to be due from any tenant, the summons shall also specify the quantity of land, and (where fields have been numbered in a Government survey) the number of each field, and yearly rent of the land; the amount (if any) received on account of the year for which the claim is made; and in all cases coming under this section the statement shall specify the amount in arrear, and the time in respect of which it is alleged to be due.

Statement in suits for ejectment.

110. If the suit be for the ejectment of a tenant, from any land, the statement shall describe (as circumstances may require) the extent, situation and designation of the land; and, if necessary for its identification, shall set forth it boundaries.

Return or amendment of statement.

111. If the statement of claim do not contain the several particulars hereinbefore required to be specified therein, or be not subscribed and verified as hereinbefore required, the Court may return the statement to the plaintiff, or, at its discretion, allow it to be amended.

Issue of summons.

112. If the statement of claim be in proper form, the Court, except as otherwise hereinafter specially provided, shall direct the issue of a summons to the defendant,

Order for personal attendance or appearance by agent.

and if the plaintiff require the personal attendance of the defendant, and satisfy the Court that such attendance is necessary, or the Court of its own accord require such attendance, the summons shall contain an order for the defendant to appear personally on a day to be specified in the summons.

If the plaintiff or the Court does not require the personal attendance of the defendant, the summons shall order the defendant to appear either personally or by an agent duly authorized on his behalf, who has personal knowledge of the subject, or is accompanied by a person who has such personal knowledge.

Fixing of day to be specified in the summons.

113. The day to be specified in the summons shall be fixed with reference to the state of the file and the distance that the defendant may be or be supposed to be at the time from the place where the Court is held,

and the summons shall order the defendant to produce any document in his possession or power of which the plaintiff demands inspection, or upon which the defendant relies in support of his defence.

Order to produce documents.

It shall also direct him to bring with him his witnesses, if they are willing to attend without issue of process, and shall be in the form D contained in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

Order to bring witnesses.

114. The summons shall be served by delivering a copy thereof to the defendant personally when practicable;

Mode of serving summons.

or, if the copy cannot be delivered to the defendant personally, by affixing copy of the summons to some conspicuous part of his usual residence, and also affixing a copy of the same in the Collector's Office.

115. If the summons be served by delivering a copy to the defendant personally, the Názir shall endorse on the summons the fact of such service.

Endorsement on summons.

If personal service be not effected, the Názir shall endorse on the summons the reason of not serving it personally, and how it has been served.

116. If the usual residence of the defendant be in another district, the summons, together with the cost of the service thereof, shall be sent by the public post to the Collector of such District, who shall issue the summons, and return the same, after service, with the prescribed endorsement, to the officer by whom it was transmitted to him.

Service of summons in another district.

117. The amount of the cost of serving the summons,

Deposit of cost of serving summons or warrant.

or, if a warrant be issued as provided in the next succeeding section, of serving the warrant, shall in all cases be deposited in Court by the plaintiff within such time before the issue of such summons or warrant as is fixed by the Court issuing the process.

If the said amount be not so deposited (except in cases in which the Court in exercise of the discretion reserved to it in section eighty-eight allows the summons to be issued gratis), the case shall be struck off the file of suits;

Effect of failure to deposit.

but in such case the plaintiff may present another plaint at any time within the period allowed by the rules herein contained for the limitation of suits.

118. a.—If in any suit against a tenant for the recovery of an arrear of rent, or in any suit for the recovery of an arrear of revenue, or a share of profits or village-expenses or other dues, the plaintiff desires a warrant of arrest to be issued against the defendant, such defendant being resident within the district in which the suit is instituted, the plaintiff shall present, with his statement of claim, an application for the issue of such warrant.

Procedure when plaintiff desires issue of warrant of arrest.

b.—When such application is presented, the Court shall examine the plaintiff or his agent, according to the law for the time being in force in relation to the examination of witnesses, and inspect the documents adduced by him in support of his claim; and if primâ facie it appear to the Court that the claim is well founded, and that, if a summons be issued, the defendant will abscond instead of appearing to answer the claim, the Court may issue a warrant for his arrest.

c.—The Court shall fix a reasonable time for the return of the warrant, and the officer entrusted with the service thereof shall, at the time of arresting the defendant, deliver to him a notice addressed to the defendant containing the particulars of the claim, and requiring the defendant, if he contest the claim, to bring with him any document upon which he relies in support of his defence.

d.—Every warrant issued and notice delivered under this section, shall be respectively in the forms E and F in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

119. If a defendant be arrested under the warrant of arrest, he shall be brought with all convenient speed before the Court, and the Court shall commit him to custody, unless he deposit in Court such sum as may be specified in the notice.

Procedure after arrest of defendant.

120. When a defendant is brought before the Court under warrant, the Court shall with all convenient speed proceed to try the case in the manner hereinafter provided;

Procedure when defendant is brought before Court under warrant.

and if the suit cannot be at once adjudicated, the Court may, if it think fit, require the defendant to give security for his appearance whenever the same may be required at any time whilst the suit is pending, or until execution of the final decree which may be passed thereon, and may commit him to the civil jail to be there detained until he furnishes such security or deposit such sum as the Court orders.

The security-bond shall be in the form G contained in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

Form of security-bond.

121. If the defendant cannot be arrested under the warrant, the Court, on the application of the plaintiff, shall either postpone the case for such period as to it seems proper, in order that the plaintiff may apply within the said period for another warrant to be issued for the arrest of the defendant, or shall forthwith issue a proclamation, to be affixed in its own office and at the residence of the defendant, appointing a day for the hearing of the case, which shall not be less than ten days from the date of the publication of the notice, at the residence of the defendant.

Procedure when defendant cannot be arrested under warrant.

If the defendant appear in pursuance of the proclamation, he shall be dealt with as provided in the last preceding section.

Compensation for arrest applied for without reasonable cause.

122. If it appear to the Court that the arrest of the defendant was applied for without reasonable cause, the Court may, in its decree, award to him such sum not exceeding one hundred rupees as it may deem a reasonable compensation for any injury or loss which he has sustained by reason of such arrest, or of his detention in jail during the pendency of the suit.

Consequence of neither party appearing on day fixed.

123. If on the day fixed by the summons or proclamation for the appearance of the defendant, or on any subsequent day to which the hearing of the case may be adjourned prior to the recording of an issue for trial as hereinafter provided, neither of the parties appear in person or by an agent, the case may be struck off, with liberty to the plaintiff to bring a fresh suit, unless precluded by the rules herein contained for the limitation of suits.

Judgment by default.

Decree upon admission of claim.

124. If on any such day the defendant only appear, the Court shall pass judgment against the plaintiff by default, unless the defendant admit the plaintiff's right to the relief which he claims, in which case the Court shall proceed to give judgment for the plaintiff upon such admission without costs:

Proviso.

Provided that such judgment, if there be more than one defendant, shall be only against the defendant who makes the admission.

If plaintiff only appear, Court may proceed ex parte.

125. If on any such day the plaintiff only appear, the Court, upon proof that the summons or proclamation has been duly served according to the provisions of this Act, shall proceed to examine the plaintiff or his agent, and after considering the allegations of the plaintiff, and any documentary or other evidence adduced by him, may either dismiss the case or postpone the hearing of it to a future day for the attendance of any witness the plaintiff may wish to call, or may pass judgment ex parte against the defendant.

If defendant appear on adjourned hearing, Court may allow him to be heard in answer.

126. If the defendant appear on any subsequent day to which the hearing of the suit is postponed under the last preceding section, the Court may, upon such conditions, if any, as to costs or otherwise as it thinks proper, allow the defendant to be heard in answer to the suit as if he had appeared on the day fixed for his attendance.

No appeal from judgment ex parte or by default;

127. No appeal shall lie from a judgment passed ex parte against a defendant who has not appeared, or from a judgment against a plaintiff by default for non-appearance.

but Court may revive suit and alter or rescind decree.

But in all such cases if the party against whom judgment has been given appears, either in person or by agent, if a plaintiff, within fifteen days from the date of the Court's order, and, if a defendant, within fifteen days after any process for enforcing the judgment has been executed, or at any earlier period, and shows good and sufficient cause for his previous non-appearance, and satisfies the Court that there has been a failure of justice, the Court may, upon such terms and conditions as to costs or otherwise as it thinks proper, revive the suit and alter or rescind the decree, according to the justice of the case.

Adverse party to be summoned.

But no decree shall be reversed or altered without previously summoning the adverse party to appear and be heard in support of it.

Examination and cross-examination of parties.

128. When both parties appear in person or by agent on the day named in the summons, or upon any subsequent day to which the hearing of the case may be adjourned, for sufficient reason to be recorded by the Court, the Court shall proceed to examine such of the parties as may be present, and either party or his agent may cross-examine the other party or his agent.

Examination and cross-examination of agents.

129. If either of the parties be not bound to attend personally, any agent by whom he appears or any person accompanying such agent, may be examined and cross-examined in like manner as the party himself would have been if he had attended personally.

Defendant may file written statement.

130. At the time of the examination, the defendant may, if he think fit, file a written statement in his defence.

Mode of examination.

131. The examination of the parties or their agents or such other persons as aforesaid shall be according to the law for the time being in force relative to the examination of witnesses.

The substance of the examination shall be reduced to writing in the vernacular language of the presiding officer, and shall be filed with the record.

Witness produced may be examined.

132. If either of the parties produce a witness on such day, the presiding officer may take the evidence of such witness.

Document relied on by defendant to be produced at first hearing.

133. If the defendant rely on any document in support of his defence, he shall deliver the same into Court at the first hearing of the suit;

and unless such document be so delivered, or its non-production be sufficiently excused, or unless the presiding officer see fit to extend the time for delivering the same, it shall not afterwards be admitted.

Decree after examination, if no further evidence is required.

134. If after the examination required by section one hundred and twenty-eight, and also the examination of any witness who may attend to give evidence on behalf of either of the parties, and after a consideration of the documentary evidence adduced, a decree can be properly made without further evidence, the Court shall make its decree accordingly.

Party to attend in person when his agent is unable to answer.

135. If on such examination as aforesaid either party be absent and his agent be unable to answer any material question relating to the case which the Court is of opinion that the party whom he represents ought to answer, and is likely to be able to answer if interrogated in person, the Court may postpone the hearing of the case to a future day, and direct that the party whose agent was unable to answer as aforesaid shall attend in person on such day;

Judgment or order if he fail to appear.

and if such party fails to appear in person on the day appointed, the Court may pass judgment as in case of default, or make such other order as it deems proper in the circumstances of the case.

Procedure when parties at issue on question requiring evidence.

136. If on such examination as aforesaid it appear that the parties are at issue on any question upon which it is necessary to hear further evidence, the Court shall declare and record such issue, and shall fix a convenient day for the examination of witnesses and the trial of the suit; and the trial shall take place on that day, unless there be sufficient reason for adjourning it, which reason shall be recorded by the Court.

Parties to produce witnesses or procure attendance by summons.

137. The parties shall produce their witnesses on the day of trial, and if either party require assistance to procure the attendance of a witness on such day, either to give evidence or to produce a document, he shall apply to the Court in sufficient time before the day fixed for the trial, to enable the witness to be summoned to attend on that day; and the Court shall thereupon issue a summons requiring such witness to attend.

Provisions regarding attendance, examination, &c., of witnesses.

138. The law and rules for the time being in force relating to the evidence of witnesses, for procuring the attendance of witnesses and the production of documents, and for the examination, remuneration and punishment of witnesses, whether parties to the case or not, in cases before the Civil Courts, shall, except so far as may be inconsistent with the provisions herein contained, apply to suits under this Act.

Case to be struck off if neither party appears.

139. If on the day fixed for the trial of any issue neither of the parties appear, the case may be struck off, with liberty to the plaintiff to bring a fresh suit, unless precluded by the rules herein contained for the limitation of suits.

Trial of issue ex parte.

If on any such day one only of the parties appear, the issue may be tried and determined in the absence of the other party, upon such evidence as may be then before the Court.

Provisions to apply when suits are instituted or defended on behalf of landholders by agents.

140. When suits under this Act are instituted or defended by authorised agents employed in the collection of rent or management of land, in the name and on the behalf of the landholders by whom they are so employed, all the provisions of this Act, by which the personal appearance or attendance of parties to a suit is or may be required, shall be applicable to such agents;

and anything which, by this Act, is required or permitted to be done by a party in person, may be done by any such person as aforesaid.

Processes served on such agents.

Processes served on any such agent shall be as effectual for all purposes in relation to the suit, as if the same had been served on the landholder in person:

and all the provisions of this Act relative to the service of processes on a party to the suit shall be applicable to the service of processes on such agent.

Personal attendance of female plaintiff or defendant when not required.

141. A female plaintiff or defendant shall not be required to attend in person, if she be of a rank or class which, according to the custom and manners of the country, would render it improper for her to appear in public.

Parties may employ agents or mukhtárs;

142. Any party to a suit may employ an authorized agent or mukhtár to conduct the case on his behalf:

Personal attendance when not excused.

But the employment of such agent or mukhtár shall not excuse the personal attendance of the plaintiff or defendant, in cases where his personal attendance is required by the summons, or any order of the Court;

Fee for agents not chargeable as costs.

and no fee for any agent or mukhtár shall be charged as part of the costs of suit in any case under this Act, unless the Court certify that, under the circumstances of the case, such fee is proper to be allowed.

Court may grant time or adjourn hearing.

143. The Court may in any case grant time to the plaintiff or defendant to proceed in the prosecution or defence of a suit, and may also, from time to time, in order to the production of further evidence, or for other sufficient reason to be recorded by the Court, adjourn the hearing of any case, to such day as to it may seem fit.

Court may cause local enquiry and report, or may itself enquire.

144. The presiding officer may, at any stage of a case, cause a local inquiry and report respecting the matter in dispute to be made by any officer subordinate to it, or by any other officer of Government, with the consent of the authority to whom such officer is subordinate, or may himself proceed to the spot, and make such local inquiry in person.

Provisions applied to such enquiry.

The provisions of the law for the time being in force relative to local inquiries by Amíns or Commissioners, under orders of the civil courts, shall apply to any local inquiry made by any officer under this section, and, so far as they are applicable, to inquiries made by the presiding officer of the court in person.

Record in case of enquiry by Court.

In the latter case the presiding officer, after completing the inquiry, shall record such observations as appear to him appropriate, and the observations so recorded shall form part of the proceedings in the suit.

Defendant may pay admitted debt and cost into Court.

145. The defendant in any suit under this Act may pay into Court such sum of money as he thinks a full satisfaction for the demand of the plaintiff, together with the costs incurred by the plaintiff up to the time of such payment, and such sums shall be paid to the plaintiff.

Plaintiff chargeable with subsequent costs if he proceed and recover no further sum.

If the defendant deposit less than the sum claimed and the plaintiff elect to proceed in the case, and ultimately recover no further sum than has been paid into Court, the plaintiff shall be charged with any costs incurred by the defendant in the suit after such payment.

No interest to plaintiff after date of deposit by defendant.

146 No interest shall be allowed to a plaintiff on any sum paid by the defendant into the Court from the date of such payment, whether such sum be in full of the plaintiff's claim, or fall short thereof.

In suits where right to receive rent is disputed, third person who has received it to be made a party.

147. When in any suit between a landholder and a tenant under this Act, the right to receive the rent of the land or tenure cultivated or held by the tenant is disputed on the ground that some third person has actually and in good faith received and enjoyed such rent before and up to the time when the right to sue accrued, such third person may be made a party to the suit, and the question of such receipt and enjoyment of the rent by such third person may be enquired into, and the suit shall be decided according to the result of such enquiry:

Saving of right to sue in Civil Court to prove title to rent.

Provided that the decision of the Court shall not affect the right of either party entitled to the rent of such land, to establish his title by suit in the Civil Court, if instituted within one year from the date of the decision.

Court may order tenant to repair damage caused by certain acts or omissions.

148. Whenever a decree is given for the ejectment of a tenant, or the cancelment of his lease, on account of any act or omission by which the land in his occupation has been damaged, or which is inconsistent with the purpose for which the land has been demised, the Court may, if it think fit, allow the tenant to repair such damage within one month from the date of the decree, or order him to pay such compensation, or make such other order in the case, as the Court thinks fit, and if such damage be so repaired, or compensation paid, or order obeyed, the decree shall not be executed.

Delivery of judgment.

149. Every judgment under this chapter shall be pronounced in open Court.

Language and contents.

150. The judgment shall be written in the vernacular language of the presiding officer and shall contain the reasons for the same, and shall be dated and signed by the presiding officer at the time it is pronounced:

When it may be in English.

Provided that the judgment may be written in English, if the presiding officer is able to write a clear and intelligible decision in that language.

Power to hold Court in any place within district.

151. Every officer invested with powers under this Act may hold a Court for hearing and determining suits under this Act in any place within the limits of the district to which he is appointed.

Every hearing shall be in open Court, and the parties to the suit or their authorized agents shall have due notice to attend in such place.

CHAPTER VII.

PROCEDURE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE.

Mode of executing decree for ejectment of tenant.

152. If the decree be for the ejectment of any tenant from land occupied by him, the decree shall be executed by giving the possession or occupancy of the land to the person entitled by the decree thereto.

Magistrate to give it effect in case of opposition.

If any opposition is made to the execution of the order for giving such possession or occupancy, by the party against whom the order is made, the Magistrate on the application of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, shall give effect to the same.

Power to order detention in, or commitment to, civil jail, in certain cases.

153. If the decree or order be for the payment of arrears of rent, or of money, or for the delivery of papers or accounts, and the defendant has been committed to jail, or appear in Court pursuant to the conditions of any security-bond given under section one hundred and twenty, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may order that he be detained in, or committed to, the civil jail, unless he immediately pay into court the amount of the decree with costs, or otherwise comply with the terms of the decree or order.

Process against surety on failure to deliver judgment-debtor into custody.

154. If the judgment-debtor has given security for his appearance, and is not present when judgment is pronounced, and the surety fails to deliver him into custody when required so to do, process of execution may be taken out against the surety in the same manner as if a decree for the amount due by the debtor had been passed against the surety.

Process of execution against person or property, but not both.

155. A writ of execution may be issued against either the person or the property of a judgment-debtor;

but process shall not be issued simultaneously against both person and property.

Applications on which it may issue.

Such writ may be issued on the oral application of the judgment-creditor, his agent, or mukhtár, made at the time the decree is passed, or thereafter, upon the written application of the judgment-creditor, his agent, or mukhtár.

Form of writ of execution.

Writ of execution against the person or moveable property of a debtor shall be in the form H or I contained in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

Execution against moveable property.

156. Any moveable property required to be seized under an execution shall, if practicable, be described in a list to be furnished by the judgment-creditor;

but, if the creditor is unable to furnish such list, he may apply for a general attachment of the debtor's effects, to the amount of the judgment and costs.

In either case, the property to be seized shall be pointed out to the officer entrusted with execution of the process by the creditor, or his agent:

Articles excepted from attachment.

Provided that no implements of husbandry, or cattle actually employed in agriculture, or tools of artisans, shall be attached under this section.

Date and duration of writs.

157. Every writ of execution shall bear date on the day on which it is signed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and shall continue in force for such period as he may direct (not being more than sixty days) calculated from such date.

Second and successive writs.

158. Second and successive writs of execution may be issued by order of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector on the application of the judgment-creditor, after the expiration of the period fixed for the continuance in force of a previous warrant.

After one year execution not to issue without notice to party concerned.

159. Process of execution shall not be issued upon any judgment without previous notice to the party against whom execution is applied for, if, when application for the issue of the process is made, a period of more than one year shall have elapsed from the date of the judgment, or from the date of the last previous application for execution.

Execution not to issue against heir or representative of deceased party without notice.

160. Execution on a judgment shall not issue against the heir or other representative of a deceased party, unless notice to appear and be heard have been previously served on such heir or other representative.

No process of execution after three years, if judgment be for sum not exceeding 500 rupees.

161. No process of execution shall be issued on a judgment under this Act, after the lapse of three years from the date of such judgment, unless the judgment be for a sum exceeding five hundred rupees;

Regulation of period in such cases.

in which case the period within which execution may be had shall be regulated by the general rules in force in respect to the period allowed for the execution of decrees of the Civil Court.

Procedure in execution of writ against person.

162. If a writ issue for taking any person in execution, the officer charged with the execution of the writ shall bring him with all convenient speed before the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector.

If such person does not then deposit in Court the full amount specified in the writ, or make such arrangement for the payment of the same as is satisfactory to the judgment-creditor, or satisfy the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector that he has no present means of paying the same amount,

the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall send him to the civil jail there to remain for such time as may be directed by a warrant addressed to the keeper of the jail, unless in the meantime he pays the full amount, for the payment of which he is liable under the decree:

Limit of imprisonment.

Provided that the time for which a debtor may be confined in execution of a decree under this Act, shall not exceed three months when the amount decreed (exclusive of costs) does not exceed fifty rupees,

or six months when such amount does not exceed five hundred rupees,

or two years in any other case.

No person to be imprisoned a second time under same judgment.

163. Any person once discharged from jail shall not be imprisoned a second time under the same judgment.

When further liability extinguished.

If the amount due under the decree do not exceed one hundred rupees, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may declare such discharged person absolved from further liability under that decree.

When not extinguished.

In other cases the discharge shall not extinguish the liability of the discharged person under the decree, or exempt any property belonging to such person from attachment in execution of the same.

Diet-money to be deposited at time of issue of warrant.

164. Every person applying for the issue of a warrant of arrest under section one hundred and eighteen, or suing out process of execution against the person of any judgment-debtor, shall deposit in Court, when the warrant issues, diet-money for thirty days at such rate not exceeding two annas per diem, as the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may direct, unless for any special reason he directs that deposit be made at a higher rate, which shall not exceed four annas per diem.

Effect of non-payment of diet-money in advance during imprisonment.

165. Payment of diet-money at the same rate shall be made previously to the commencement of each succeeding month of the imprisonment, on failure of which the party confined shall be discharged.

166. All diet-money spent in providing subsistence for any prisoner shall be added to the costs in the suit,

Diet-money spent to be costs in suit.

and any diet-money not so spent shall be returned to the person who deposited the same.

Refund of remainder.

167. In executing a writ of execution against the moveable property of a debtor liable under this Act, the officer charged with the execution of the writ shall prepare a list of the property pointed out by the judgment-creditor, and shall publish a proclamation, specifying the day upon which the sale is intended to be held, together with a copy of the said list, at the intended place of sale and at the residence of the debtor.

Procedure in executing writ against moveable property.

A copy of the said proclamation and list shall be sent to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and shall be affixed in his office.

168. No moveable property taken in execution under this Act shall be sold before the expiration of ten days next after the day on which such property is so taken.

Time to elapse before sale of moveable property.

Until such sale the property shall be deposited in some fit place, or it may remain in custody of some fit person approved by the officer executing the writ.

Custody meanwhile.

The provisions of sections seventy-three to seventy-seven (both inclusive) so far as the same are applicable, shall apply to sales under this section.

Provisions applied to sale.

169. No irregularity in publishing or conducting a sale of any moveable property under an execution shall vitiate such sale,

Sale not vitiated by regularity in publishing or conducting it.

but any person injured by such irregularity may recover compensation for such injury by suit in the Civil Court:

Right to sue for compensation.

Provided that such suit be brought within one year from the date of sale.

Limitation.

170. In the execution of any decree for the payment of money under this Act, if satisfaction of the judgment cannot be obtained by execution against the person or moveable property of the debtor, the judgment-creditor may apply for execution against any immoveable property belonging to such debtor, and such property may be sold under the rules contained in the North-Western Provinces Land Revenue Act, 1873, regulating the sale of land for arrears of land-revenue, but without prejudice to the incumbrances (if any) to which it is subject.

In executing decrees for money, when execution may be applied for against immoveable property.

171. If the immoveable property against which execution is applied for be other than a mahál, or share of a mahál, process shall be issued in the same manner as for the attachment and sale of moveable property: and the provisions of sections one hundred and sixty-seven, one hundred and sixty-eight, and one hundred and sixty-nine shall be applicable.

Process when the immoveable property is not a mahál.

172. When such property is a mahál, or a share of a mahal, the decree shall be sent for execution to the Collector of the District in which such property is situate,

Process when it is a mahál.

and if the judgment-debtor satisfies the Collector of the District that there is reasonable ground to believe that the amount of the judgment-debt may be raised by mortgage of the property, or by letting it on lease, or by disposing by private sale of a portion of the property or any other property belonging to the judgment-debtor, the Collector of the District may, on the application of the judgment-debtor, postpone the sale for such period as the Collector of the District thinks proper to enable the judgment-debtor to raise the amount,

and if the judgment-debtor satisfies his creditor, the execution shall be stayed, and the Collector shall report the fact to the Court by which the decree was made.

But if the judgment-debtor fails to satisfy his creditor within the period so fixed, the Collector of the District shall cause an accurate rent-roll of the property to be prepared, and ascertain the annual income derivable therefrom.

173. If in the opinion of the Collector of the District such income is sufficient to pay off the judgment-debt with interest at six per cent. per annum, within any period not exceeding fifteen years from the date of the decree, he may transfer the property to the judgment-creditor, or if the judgment-creditor refuse to take it, to some other person, or he may hold it under his own management, for such period not exceeding fifteen years, as may be sufficient for the recovery of the debt with interest as aforesaid, and on such conditions as to the payment of such debt and interest as he deem expedient.

Power to transfer property to judgment-creditor.

Orders passed under this section shall be subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Division and the Board, but shall not be open to appeal to the Civil Court.

174. If in the opinion of the Collector of the District the recovery of the debt under section one hundred and seventy-three is impossible, or if the sale of the property appear to him advisable on other grounds, he shall report the case for orders to the Board.

Report of case to Board.

175. On the receipt of such report, the Board may make, or cause to be made, any further endeavours for the recovery of the debt under the provisions of section one hundred and seventy-three, as to it may seem practicable.

Procedure on receipt of report.

176. If it appear to the Board that the debt cannot be recovered under section one hundred and seventy-three, or if the sale of the property appear to it advisable on other grounds, it shall order the property to be sold, in which case the sale shall be made under the rules in force for the sale of land for arrears of land revenue, but without prejudice to the incumbrances (if any) to which such property may be subject.

Power to order sale of property.

177. If before the day fixed for any sale of any property under this Act, a third party appear before the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and claim a right or interest to or in any of the property, he shall examine such party or his agent, according to the law for the time being in force relative to the examination of witnesses,

Examination of third party claiming interest in property.

and, if he see sufficient reason for so doing, may stay the sale of such property.

Stay of sale.

178. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may adjudicate upon such claim, and make such order as he thinks fit between the claimant and the plaintiff and defendant in the original suit.

Adjudication of such claims.

In trying such claim, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall be guided by the rules contained in this Act, so far as they may be applicable.

Rules applied.

179. If the claimant fail to establish his right to the property taken in execution, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may, at the time of disposing of the case, order him to pay to the judgment-creditor the costs of the proceedings on the claim, and also such sum as he thinks sufficient to cover any loss of interest or damage which the judgment-creditor may have sustained by reason of the postponement of the sale of the property.

Compensation awardable against claimant failing to establish right.

180. No appeal shall lie from any order passed under section one hundred and seventy-eight or section one hundred and seventy-nine.

No appeal from order under sections 178, 179.

But the party against whom the same is given may bring a suit in the Civil Court to establish his right at any time within one year from the date of the order:

Right to sue in Civil Court.

Provided that, if the order be for the sale of the property taken in execution, the suit shall not be for the recovery of such property, but shall be for compensation from the judgment-creditor by whom it was brought to sale.

Proviso.

CHAPTER VIII.

APPEALS.

(a).—From Decrees in Suits.

181. In suits under this Act, tried and decided by a Collector of a District or an Assistant Collector of the first class, if the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed one hundred rupees, his judgment shall be final, and not open to revision or appeal, except as hereinafter provided.

Judgment of Collector final where amount, or value of property in suit does not exceed 100 rupees.

182. All decisions of the Assistant Collector of the second class in suits mentioned in section ninety-two shall be appealable to the Collector of the District, whose order thereon shall (subject to the provisions of section one hundred and eighty-eight) be final where the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed one hundred rupees.

Appeal from decision of Assistant Collector of second class.

183. The petition of appeal shall be presented to the Collector of the District within thirty days from the date of the decree.

Time for presentation.

184. The Collector of the District may either dismiss the petition or may fix a day for hearing the appeal, and in that case shall cause notice of the same to be served on the respondent in the manner hereinafter prescribed for the service of summons.

Procedure on appeal.

If, on the day fixed for hearing the appeal, or any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the appellant does not appear in person or by an agent, the appeal may be dismissed for default.

If the appellant appears and the respondent does not appear in person or by an agent, the appeal may be heard ex parte.

185. If an appeal be dismissed for default of prosecution, the appellant may, within fifteen days from the date of the dismissal, apply to the Collector of the District to re-admit the appeal,

Re-admission of appeal.

and if it be proved to the satisfaction of the Collector of the District that the appellant was prevented by any sufficient cause from appearing when the appeal was called on for hearing, the Collector of the District may re-admit the appeal.

186. After hearing the appeal, the Collector of the District shall give judgment in the manner hereinbefore prescribed for giving judgment in original suits.

Judgment in appeal.

187. In suits in which the judgment of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector is final as provided in section one hundred and eighty-one, he may, upon the application of either party, if preferred within thirty days from the date of the decision, order the rehearing of a suit, upon the ground of the discovery of new evidence or matter material to the issue of the case, which the applicant had no knowledge of, or could not produce, at the time of trial.

Re-hearing of suits not open to appeal.

188. An appeal shall lie to the District Judge from the decision of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector of the first class, Appeal to District Judge.

in all suits mentioned in section ninety-two in which the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds one hundred rupees, or in which the proprietary title to land has been determined between parties having conflicting claim thereto:

Provided that where the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit exceeds five thousand rupees, the appeal shall lie to the High Court.

Appeal to High Court.

189. The rules for the time being in force in regard to the time within which appeals from the decisions of Civil Courts may be received, and to the manner in which such appeals are heard and determined, and to all proceedings which may be had in respect of such appeals, shall be applicable to appeals to the District Judge or High Court under this Act.

Rules as to time of presentation, &c., to apply.

190. The decisions of District Judges passed in regular appeal under this Act, shall be open to special appeal to the High Court, in the same manner, and subject to the same rules, as the decisions of District Judges passed in regular appeal are open to special appeal under the Code of Civil Procedure and the Indian Limitation Act, 1871.

Special appeal to High Court from District Judge.

(b).—Appeals from Orders.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, REVENUE, AND COMMERCE.

Reports on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the fortnight ending the 30th October 1873.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Heavy rain has fallen throughout Madras and Mysore, where prospects are satisfactory. In Sindh prospects appear to be fair. There has been no rain in Gujarat and Khandesh, but showers have fallen in the Deccan districts and the Southern Mahratta country: reports are generally favourable. In Bengal prospects are becoming worse: famine is apprehended in the Patna and Rajshaye divisions: the only parts which have had a tolerable rain-fall are Orissa, Chittagong, and parts of Assam. In Oudh the want of rain is becoming more and more felt, and much of the rice crop has failed. The same is the case in the North-Western Provinces east of Allahabad: west of that point the autumn harvest has been good, and the rubbee is progressing favourably. In the Punjab there has been no rain; its absence is causing damage in the north-western districts; elsewhere prospects are good. Reports from Rajputana and Central India are favourable. In the Central Provinces the rice crop has been extensively damaged by the early cessation of the rains. From Berar prospects are reported to be good.

Presidency or Province and District.	Rain-fall for fortnight preceding.	State of agricultural prospects.
Madras. (Oct. 30th)
Kistna (29th)	6·68 at Masulipatam.	Rain-fall abundant elsewhere; four feet water over anicut; canals and tanks quite full; dry crops still sowing; standing crops generally fair; sujjee, karra and maize reaping; prices steady; markets well supplied locally; pasture abundant; health fair; no cholera since the 10th; cattle fairly healthy.
Kurnool "	Nearly 3·0 in five days in Kurnool.	Rain general; many tanks have full supply; crops in good order; some being reaped; markets pretty well supplied; prices generally steady; pasture and water abundant; men and cattle generally healthy; prospects somewhat improved in Markapur; rain has fallen and tanks full; prices slightly lower; nearly one foot water over Sunkesala anicut.
Negapatam "	6·70 at Negapatam.	Rain-fall heavy elsewhere; rivers full; a few breaches occurred; supply to tanks fair; cultivation progressing; standing crops good on the whole, slightly injured in some parts by too much water; inferior paddy and some dry grains harvested; yield below the average; markets well supplied; prices steady; pasture sufficient; health good, but for small-pox here and there; cattle healthy.
Trichinopoly "	.....	Rain all over the district, but not monsoon rain; water-supply abundant; crops in good order; outturn below the average, except in one taluq; markets well supplied; prices steady; pasture ample; health good, but for small-pox and fever; condition of cattle good.
Calicut "	0·60	Rain-fall favourable for second crop cultivation, which is progressing; markets well supplied; prices steady; pasture good; small-pox and fever very slight; cattle healthy.
		General prospects satisfactory.
Bombay. (Oct 30th)
Sindh.
Kurrachee (29th)	.....	River at Kotri on 25th instant 7 feet 5 inches against 7 feet last year; locusts in Sewun division; rats doing damage in Shahbandar division; fever and cold prevalent.
Hyderabad "	.....	Khureef dry crop harvested; quality good; area deficient; rice crop reaping commenced; rubbee sowings general; cotton picking progressing, quality good; weather pleasant and unusually healthy.
Shikarpoor "	.....	Khureef reaping commenced; jowari and til crops very good; rice indifferent; rubbee sowings progressing; fever moderate; nights cool.
Upper Frontier "	.....	Khureef harvest commenced; horses dying from sar consequent on floods; horned cattle also suffering; fever general.
Gujarat.
Ahmedabad "	.....	Harvesting of khureef nearly completed; public health improving.
Kaira "	.....	Sowing of rubbee crops commenced; fever continues.
Surat "	.....	Cotton and standing crops good.
Broach "	.....	Wheat sown; crops good; fever prevalent.
Khandesh and Nasik.
Khandesh "	.....	Weather good; cotton picking commenced; bajri reaped; rubbee crops flourishing; fever and cough prevalent.
Nasik "	.....	Reaping of early crops in progress; late crops and public health good.
Thanna "	.....	Weather cool; early rice crops harvested; late crops being reaped; ague, cough and guinea-worm in the town of Thanna, and fever in Karra and Shapur taluqs; other taluqs healthy.
Deccan.
Poona "	0·95	Rain-fall almost general; khureef crop being reaped; rubbee sowings generally completed; public health good.
Ahmednugger "	.....	Rain wanted; rubbee crops fair; khureef being harvested; public health good.
Sholapoor "	.....	Slight rain throughout the district; khureef and cotton crops middling; rubbee good; cotton export six hundred docras; markets closed; public health good.
Sattara "	2·12	Rain-fall seasonable; sowing of rubbee generally finished; khureef crops and public health good; ague and cattle disease in Pattan.
Southern Mahratta Country.
Belgaum "	0·19	Crops good; murrain and fever in Bidi taluq.
Dharwar "	.....	Rain fair throughout the district; early crops good in most places; cotton plants good; sowing of late crops commenced.
Kaladghi "	.....	Slight rain throughout the district; rubbee sowing completed; public health good.
Canara "	.....	Crops fair; reaping in progress on the coast; fever, dysentery, and cattle disease prevail slightly.
Rajkote "	.....	Cotton crops good; weather hot.
Wudwan "	.....	Cold weather commenced; public health indifferent; cotton crops fair.
Baroda "	.....	Crops fair; public health good.
Bengal. (Oct. 29th)
Burdwan (14th)	Nil	Weather hot and dry; very slight showers at Bood-Bood, Raneegunge and Cutwa sub-divisions; very heavy showers in Ausgram, and part of Burdwan; prospects of crops very gloomy; crops suffering much from the continued drought; those on high lands irretrievably spoilt; much of the rice is flowering; prices rising.
24-Pergunnahs "	.....	Weather dry and hot during the day and cool at nights with heavy dews; a very small fall of rain at Diamond Harbour, Baraset, and Bariepoor Sub-divisions; clouds hanging about but no rain; most of the late rice crop on high lands is past remedy; unless rain comes soon it will totally fail in several places; the crops on lowlands are also beginning to suffer from the drought; the ground is too hard to permit winter sowings; prices of all food grains rapidly rising.
Dacca "	.....	Weather dry; occasional showers in the north of the district, but not enough to do any real good; clouds continue to hang about; prospects of crops are bad.

Presidency or Province and District.	Rain-fall for fortnight preceding.	State of agricultural prospects.
Bengal—(contd.)
Patna (28th)	.....	Weather cool; no change in the state of things, except that every day passes without rain; prospects of crops are getting worse and worse, and if it does not rain within ten days, there will be great scarcity, if not famine. Though much of the cold weather crops has germinated, a good deal has not been sown, and there is the fear of what has come up being burnt up; prices rising steadily.
Bhagulpoor "	.....	Weather cloudy now and then; good rain reported in the south of the district during the first part of the fortnight, but none in the latter part; rice crop still fair on lowlands; twelve annas outturn possible to the north of the Ganges; in Modhoopoorah Sub-division crops are not good, except in the south and south-west, where a fair outturn may be looked for; in Soopooli crops are as bad as they well can be; rain very much wanted for rice and cold weather sowings; with rain a good deal of the rice crop may turn out well.
Cuttack "	0·08	No rain during the first week, but during the second week it has fallen pretty generally in the interior, early rice has been a full crop; late rice good, except on high lands; cold weather crops promising; no scarcity apprehended now.
Kamroop "	0·22	Weather cold and foggy in the nights and mornings; late rice crop backward for want of rain; tea appears thriving on the whole; sugarcane, cotton, and pulses progressing favorably; mustard seed being sown.
		Public health.—Burdwan.—Fever prevalent. 24 Pergunahs.—Fever diminishing in Satkhira; at Bariepoor fever of a malarious type continues to prevail; ordinary fever at Basirhat. Dacca,—Fever reported in the west of the district, and some cholera in the town. Patna, Bhagulpoor, Cuttack and Kamroop.—Public health good; Purneah and Durrung fever prevalent. Moorshedabad and Maldah small-pox in some places.
		General Remarks.—Want of rain is the general complaint throughout the country with very few exceptions; slight showers have fallen in some places, but are too local to be of any real advantage to the rice crop; in most of the districts the late rice on highlands is past recovery; the rice on lowlands is also suffering, and if it does not rain soon, it will be seriously damaged; the cold weather crops have not been sown in many places for want of moisture, and where they have been sown, they are germinating slowly, but in some places they are doing well; the Patna Division is suffering most, and also parts of the Burdwan, Presidency, and Rajshaye Divisions; the districts of Backergunge, Chittagong, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Cuttack, Pooree, Khasi and Jynteeah Hills and Luckimpoor are the only places where the prospects are favourable, but in a few other districts the out-turn will not be very bad; prices are rising.
N.-W. Provinces. (Oct. 31st)
Goruckpoor ...	.....	No report received.
Bustee ...	.....	Prospects bad; scarcity expected.
Benares ...	.....	Land being irrigated for rubbee sowing; wheat and rice rising in price.
Mirzapoor ...	.....	No report received.
Allahabad ...	.....	Late rice has suffered much; other crops fair.
Banda ...	.....	No report received.
Humeerpoor ...	.....	Ditto ditto.
Jaloun ...	.....	Ditto ditto.
Jhansi ...	.....	Rubbee well sown; prices falling; relief works may soon be closed.
Cawnpoor ...	.....	All crops very good, except early rice, and cotton crops very good.
Futtehgurh ..	.....	Crops very good.
Agra ...	.....	No change in prospects.
Allyghur ...	.....	Khureef crops entering market and prices fair.
Meerut ...	.....	Prospects good.
Saharunpoor ...	.....	Khureef good; prospects of rubbee very good.
Bijnour ...	.....	Rice being cut; cotton fair.
Moradabad ...	.....	Khureef crops good, except rice.
Bareilly ...	.....	Prospects still good.
		General Remarks—East of Allahabad prospects poor and scarcity apprehended; elsewhere prospects good, both for khureef and rubbee.
Punjab. (Oct. 30th)
Delhi ...	Nil	Crops maturing; no epidemic, but fever still prevalent.
Umballa ...	.....	Crops and health good.
Jullundhur ...	.....	Ditto ditto.
Lahore ...	.....	Health improving; rain wanted in Barani lands.
Mooltan ...	.....	Canals dried up; in tahsil Sodhran outturn of khureef and indigo small; preparation for rubbee in progress; fever, but not fatal, and cattle disease (chichal) prevalent in one village of tehsil Pinjjabad, also in Seraisidhie; health of district good.
Rawul Pindee ...	.....	More rain wanted; h[illegible] prospects good; fodder dear; fever prevalent, but general health good.
Peshawur ...	.....	Crops on unirrigated lands require rain; fever prevalent.
		General Remarks.—Agricultural prospects and health generally good.
Oudh. (Oct. 30th)
Lucknow (29th)	.....	Want of rain severely felt; the rice crop has extensively failed; much of the harvest has withered; and although the rubbee sowings are being carried on, it is feared that the area under crops will be less than usual; district free from disease.

A. O. HUME,

Secretary to the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Resolution—By the Government of India, Public Works Department,—(Nos. 431—9 B—C, dated Simla, the 28th October 1873).

THE Governor General in Council has learned with deep regret that the prospects of the crops in parts of Bengal are such that it will no doubt be necessary shortly to find work for the people as a means of relief. Where such relief becomes an urgent necessity, works must be undertaken for the purpose; if there are no well considered projects already under execution, or in such a state of preparation that they can be at once set in hand.

2. The parts of the country reported to be in the most urgent need are the Patna Division and the Rajshahye Division.

3. In the southern part of the former of these tracts the Soane Canal Project is in course of execution, and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is authorized to extend active operations at once to all the branches where relief works are required, working on the rough estimates where detailed estimates are not ready. But where there are detailed estimates for works sufficiently near, such works should be preferred to those for which estimates are not yet ready.

4. In order to strengthen the engineering staff of the Soane Canals, the Government of the North-Western Provinces will be requested to hold in readiness a Superintending Engineer and the establishment of the Eastern Ganges Canal survey, to proceed to Behar on the requisition of the Government of Bengal; and the Government of the Punjab will likewise hold in readiness the Engineers of Survey Division of the Baree Doab Canal.

5. In the northern part of the Patna Division there is no large project in course of execution, and works, if required, must be selected from local projects, unless the lately deferred scheme for the revision of the Gunduck embankments (Bengal Government's letter No. 4640, dated 13th September 1873) should be found a suitable source of employment.

6. In the Rajshahye Division the Northern Bengal Railway project has lately been completed, and was referred to the Secretary of State for sanction in the Government of India's Despatch No. 204 R of the 15th instant. In anticipation of the approval of Her Majesty's Government, the Governor General in Council is now pleased to sanction the immediate commencement of work on this Railway. To strengthen the engineering staff, the greater part of the Engineers now employed under Mr. Collet in surveying for the projected Western Rajpootana Railway will be withdrawn and attached to the Northern Bengal Railway.

7. Such funds as may be required for the Northern Bengal Railway, and for relief works, and such additional funds as may be required for the more active prosecution of work on the Soane Canals, should be applied for at once by the Government of Bengal. For the Railway and the Soane Canal works the funds will be assigned under the extraordinary grant; for the other works not classed as loan works, the charge will fall on the Provincial revenues, or, if necessary, on the Imperial revenues of the year.

8. In the spring of 1869, when great scarcity existed in Upper India, the Government of India considered it right to endeavour to equalize the supplies of food grains over a large area. by arranging with the Guaranteed Railway Companies that they should lower their rates for the carriage of such grains to ⅛th pie per maund-mile (which was believed to be approximately the actual cost of carriage), and charge the loss that the Railways would thus incur to the Government. It may possibly be again necessary to resort to this measure in some parts of the country, and should this be the case, the Government of India will be prepared to incur the same liability. In this view the Consulting Engineer to the Government of India for Guaranteed Railways, Calcutta, should be directed to place himself forthwith in communication with the Government of Bengal, and to do every thing in his power to give effect to such instructions as he may receive from the Lieutenant Governor. The Governor General in Council will await an expression of His Honor's opinion on this point before taking final action in the matter.

9. In making provision for this possible contingency, the Governor General in Council relies on the hearty co-operation of the representatives of each Railway Company, and feels that the Government may rest assured that this will be given.

10. For further instructions for general guidance, the Governor General in Council desires that the attention of officers in the Public Works Department may be drawn to the Resolution of the Government of India in the Public Works Department, Nos. 248—59 I of 24th September 1868, which should be re-published with the present Resolution. Chapter XIII A of the Public Works Department Code contains a revision of the rules originally published with the Resolution of 1868.

ORDER.—Ordered, that the above Resolution be communicated to the Governments, Departments and Officers named in the margin, for information and guidance.

Government of Bengal, in the General Department.
Ditto ditto, in the Irrigation Department.
Ditto ditto, in the Public Works Dept.
Consulting Engineer for Guaranteed Railways, Calcutta.
Government of North Western Provinces, Public Works Department, Irrigation Branch.
Government of Punjab, Public Works Department, Irrigation Branch.

And to the Financial and Agriculture, Revenue and Commerce Departments for information.

Also that these proceedings be reported to the Secretary of State, and published in the Gazette of India.

Anticipated scarcity in Upper India.

Resolutions—By the Government of India, Public Works Department,—(Nos. 248—259 I., dated Simla, the 24th September 1868).

OBSERVATIONS.—The Governor General in Council has received with much concern the reports of the Lieutenant-Governors of the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab, and of the Chief Commissioners of Oudh and the Central Provinces, regarding the scanty fall of rain during the last three months. The latest accounts show that heavy rain has fallen in the western districts of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh during the last few days, but the deficiency of rain seems to threaten a serious or even complete failure of the khureef or autumn crops in many parts of Northern India. His Excellency in Council has already intimated to the Local Governments and Administrations that he will cordially support them in carrying out all measures of relief which they may deem requisite, should the present fears for the safety of the khureef harvest unfortunately prove well founded; and His Excellency in Council has stated that a further expression of his views would be communicated to them upon the general course which it may become proper to pursue.

2. The first consideration which arises is that the Government must be prepared not only forthe misfortune which now seems impending in some districts, the more or less complete loss of the khureef crop, but for the far more serious calamity of a failure of the rain in September and October, and the consequent loss of the ensuing rubbee or spring crop also. It seems probable from past experience that if the season is favorable for sowing the rubbee, and good winter rains follow, prices will not very greatly rise after the end of the year; that the distress caused by the failure of the khureef will have become severe in November or thereabouts, and that from the present time till then the pressure will gradually increase. But if there should further be a failure of the September and October rains, and the rubbee sowings be lost, preparation must be made for a great calamity, the intensity of which cannot be expected to cease till the first falls of the summer rain of the coming year towards the end of June 1869, and may even be prolonged for a further period.

3. It must be remembered that the harvests of last year are believed to have been unusually good in most districts, and that under no circumstanes could the crops of the present khureef have come into the market till November, nor could the rubbee crop of next year come forward for consumption till May of next year. There is, therefore, reason to hope that the pressure from a failure of the food crops is not in any case likely to be very suddenly developed, and that time may be allowed for the supply of a supplementary stock from other parts of India if the scarcity becomes intense in the North-West. The existence of the railway, which will very shortly be opened through between Calcutta and Lahore and Mooltan, will assuredly add in a most important degree to the facilities for importing the wanting grain for Upper India, and this gives an additional ground for hoping that, should the worst happen, so far as a failure of the rain is concerned, yet the actual rigour of the resulting scarcity may not be so aggravated as on former like occasions.

Comparing the condition of affairs in 1860 with that of the present time, it is worthy of remark that in 1860 prices began to rise after June, and that in August, in the upper part of the Doab, wheat was selling for about 11 and 12 seers for the rupee, and that the price never rose so high as 8 seers per rupee. The last accounts show that in the upper part of the North-West Provinces, the price of wheat is still about 20 seers per rupee, which is not greatly above the average of the last eight months. This seems to prove that the stock of wheat is now far larger than it was in 1860. The rise in the price of jowar and bajra, the chief food of the agricultural population, has, however, been much greater, being in July about double what it was in January. The extension of irrigation from the canals of the Doab and the Delhi territory, which has been steadily going on for many years past, must have greatly increased the available stock of food both for men and cattle; and everything has been and will be done during the present and coming seasons, to obtain the greatest general advantage from the available supply of water. The increase of irrigation due to the Ganges Canal alone since the famine of 1860-61 is about 300,000 acres, so that the area irrigated by this canal has nearly doubled.

4. The conclusion that the Governor General in Council draws from these reflections is, that there is still a period of about two months available for making preparations to meet what may be a very terrible calamity. That in or before November next, it will in all probability be possible to form a fair judgment from the amount of rain which may have fallen in September and October as to the prospects of the rubbee, and that then the Government will know whether the danger has passed, or whether it has to make provision for the worst. If the khureef only fails, the loss will in a great degree fall on the crops which give food for cattle, and the pressure on the people may probably be efficiently relieved by the employment which may be given them by the public works commonly in prosecution in the several districts. Great distress is not, perhaps, likely to arise, unless the rubbee sowings fail, and then not long before the end of the year; but if the rubbee fails, the scarcity will probably continue in a very severe form at least till the end of June 1869.

5. In proceeding to consider the manner in which the Government should act if severe scarcity arises, His Excellency in Council would first most earnestly impress upon all persons in authority the necessity for not permitting the smallest interference with the ordinary operations of trade during the continuance of the scarcity. On this subject the following extract from a paper drawn up in 1861 by Mr. J. Strachey, then Collector of Moradabad, may be regarded as expressing the views of the Government of India at the present time:—

There is one other point connected with this part of the question to which it is desirable to refer. The Government has already publicly expressed its disapproval of all interference by its officers with the object of reducing the price of food. I believe that orders still more strong and explicit would be useful. Unfortunately public education in these matters is at a miserably low ebb. In times of difficulty like the present, almost every Magistrate is constantly urged, both by Englishmen and by Natives, to interfere, in some way or other, for the purpose of cheapening food, or of rendering it easier of access to the consumers. Reports frequently become prevalent that in some part of the country such interference has been actually practised. Whether these reports be true or false, they are extremely mischievous. The determination of Government to allow no such interference ought to be so notorious, that reports of this kind shall obtain no credence. These rumours are the more readily believed, because they fall in with the general idea of what is proper and probable. The mere suspicion of any interference of the kind is sufficient to check the speculations of the corn merchants, and it cannot be doubted that this is a cause which often, in this country, has the effect of stopping the exportation of grain from distant markets.

It cannot be too clearly borne in mind that in time of extreme famine, when it is impossible to supply the deficiency of food by importation, the main safeguard against general starvation is the reduction of consumption, and that this can only be effectually brought about by a rise of prices. The grain-dealer, therefore, while he works for his own personal advantage by raising the price of food as it becomes scarce, is in fact providing the means for securing the community against the extremity of famine, and his action, so far from being, as it is too often ignorantly described to be, that of a public enemy, is much more that of a public benefactor.

6. Another point of great importance is that there should be no appearance or suggestion of Government interference in the introduction of grain, unless under most exceptional circumstances, which, so far as the Governor General in Council at present sees, can hardly arise in the districts of the plains. The experience of the famine in Orissa may possibly be brought forward as an argument for direct Government interposition on the present occasion. But the analogy of that case should not be permitted to lead to any disregard of the true principles which it is important to observe. To quote again from the paper before noticed—

There is no want of private speculation engaged in bringing grain from other districts. The actual quantity of food imported, although insufficient, is still very large, and any attempt by the Government to import grain upon its own account, or any interference with the operations of private traders, could hardly fail to be mischievous. "Direct measures," says Mr. J. S. Mill, "at the cost of the State, to procure food from a distance are expedient when, from peculiar reasons, the thing is not likely to be done by private speculation. In any other case they are a great error. Private speculators will not, in such cases, venture to compete with the Government, and, though a Government can do more than any one merchant, it cannot do nearly so much as all merchants."

The true limitation of the action of Government in this respect is here given. So soon as the Government is satified that private trade is manifestly inadequate for the introduction of grain into the suffering districts in sufficient quantity, then the analogy to the position of Orissa will be established, but not till then. The case of severe scarcity in the hill districts of Kumaon and Gurhwal, in which the means of communication are extremely bad, and where there is virtually no internal commerce except on the very smallest scale, is one in which the direct action of Government in importing grain has on former occasions been exercised, and would, under the rule above laid down, be fully justified. But judging from past experience, it may safely be assumed that the enterprise of individuals will, in the open districts of the plains, no more fail on this occasion than it has failed before under similar circumstances. The probabilities are altogether in an opposite direction. The greatly increased facilities for cheap transport given by the railways now open will do much to stimulate the activity of trade, and to draw into the impoverished districts supplies from a distance in a manner not before possible.

The Governor General in Council desires to point out in a marked manner that during the calamity of 1860-61, Sir G. Edmonstone, the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, allowed no Government interference of any description with the grain trade, and left the supply of food to the ordinary operations of the commercial community with most satisfactory results. It is apparent from the known facts that in that year, so far as the means of communication and transport available admitted, the import of food on a very large scale commenced as soon as the scarcity declared itself in a distinct form, and that the imports continued until the pressure ceased.

While, therefore, the only safe general rule will be to exercise no direct interference with the supply of grain, it will yet be most important to watch the condition of the markets, and to ascertain as exactly as possible the amount of the importations and the quarters from which the supplies are received. If an extreme condition of want arise, it may be right to enquire whether aid could be obtained from any of the more distant markets to which the action of private trade had not reached, and in the last resort the co-operation of the Government as an importer might be desirable. But these are contingencies on which a correct judgment can only be formed as the occasion actually arises.

7. It may be useful, in illustration of the powers of traders to deal with great operations, such as the feeding of a population of millions, to observe that it is a fact beyond question that the present normal condition of England in respect to the supply of grain for the food of the people cannot be less unfavorable, if the imports from foreign countries are disregarded, than that in which a province of India is placed in a time of famine. The true difference in the two cases is, that in England a very active and enterprising commerce has been established, involving the use of a large capital, by means of which the wants of the country are most closely watched and met as they arise. The foundation of such a commerce is without doubt to be traced to the advanced intelligence of the people as much as to their greater wealth, and to the far superior means of external and internal communication. An accurate knowledge of the real stock of food in the country, and of the quantity required to meet the wants of the people, must always be of essential value in leading to the establishment of a commerce of this sort on a satisfactory footing. In India unfortunately the means of obtaining such knowledge are singularly small, and there is hardly any other test for ascertaining the stock of grain remaining than the current price in the markets.

8. The publication of the prices of grain and other articles of food at short intervals has on former occasions been suggested, and this measure will again be worthy of adoption. In attending to this, all practicable precautions should be taken to ensure that the returns represent fairly the actual market rates of the commodities named. It is known that in many cases the official price currents have been very unreliable. Further, the movements of grain by the railway, or on the chief lines of road, or by water, so far as the information can be got without exciting suspicion of the motives of the Government, might also with great advantage be recorded and published at short intervals.

9. Passing next to the more detailed consideration of the system to be followed in giving relief, it may first be remarked, that so far as it is possible, a labor test should be insisted on. But it will be right to make a distinction between the able-bodied and the persons who are from any cause unfit for ordinary labor. It will by no means invariably follow that one labor test will be properly applicable to all persons alike. To require that those who cannot usefully be employed on public works should submit to such labor as a preliminary condition to receiving relief, is neither humane, nor expedient. As far as possible, those who are able to labor on public works should be separated from the remainder, and for the latter, relief might more suitably be provided in poor-houses organized on the sort of system adopted at Moradabad and other places in 1860-61. Persons relieved at poor-houses would be set to do whatever work was best suited to their habits or physical powers. Only in extreme cases would relief be given without some labor. The system of aiding the poorest class of females, of such social position that they cannot be induced to resort to a poor-house, which was adopted at Moradabad, may also be made to serve a very useful purpose.

10. On these subjects the following extract from the report by Mr. J. Strachey may be usefully added :—

It is not possible to look upon human suffering from an economical point of view alone. If we can save people from present starvation, we must do so, although the measures that we adopt may add to the difficulties of the rest of the community, and may bring with them evils which cannot be avoided. But the dispensers of public and private charity ought distinctly to acknowledge those evils, and strive to reduce them to a minimum. "The problem," as Mr. J. S. Mill says regarding Poor Laws, "is how to give the greatest amount of needful help with the smallest encouragement to undue reliance on it." Whether relief be given in the shape of simple charity, or in return for labor performed upon public works for the Government, the relief must be no greater than can be helped. It must be remembered that I am now assuming the existence of absolute famine and an actual deficiency of food. These conditions being granted, it is better, although it seems hard to say so, that we should give somewhat too little than too much.

The relief must never, even in times of less extreme pressure, be so lavish that the objects of our charity are placed in a better position than that held by those who are managing to support themselves by their independent exertions. Otherwise, the honest endeavours of the poor will be checked, and they will be encouraged to place their dependence on something far less really able to help them than their own determination. As the expenditure of money and of food increases, so will the prices of food continue to rise; the circle of distress will go on constantly widening; the poor who had not desisted from their labors, and who had not been tempted by the hope of obtaining better wages on the Government works than they could obtain for themselves, will be compelled by the high price of food to abandon their own exertions for their own support. "The first and most essential of all conditions of relief," say the English Poor Law Commissioners, "is that the situation of the pauper, upon the whole, should not be made really or apparently so eligible as the situation of the independent laborer of the lowest class. As the condition of the pauper class is elevated, the condition of the independent class will be depressed, their industry impaired, their employment rendered unsteady, and its remuneration diminished. Such persons, therefore, are under the strongest inducements to quit the less eligible class of laborers, and enter the more eligible class of paupers."

The general principles upon which public charity ought to be afforded are equally applicable to the able-bodied and to the infirm. It is a great mistake to suppose, as people have often done during the present scarcity, that every person apparently unable to work is a fit object for charity. The evils of indiscriminate private charity are universally admitted, but indiscriminate public charity is far worse; and it is the more injurious because it is the public recognition of a false and mischievous principle.

The rule laid down by the Government that the able-bodied poor shall receive relief only in return for labour was evidently the first essential of a reasonable system. But it is often difficult in practice to draw the line between those who are and those who are not able-bodied. Public works, undertaken by the Government, cannot, whatever be the scale of operations, give relief to all who require it. This is specially the case when, as at the present time, the chief sufferers belong to the non-agricultural classes. Many are incapable of working on roads and canals, who would be able to perform a fair amount of labour if employed in the ordinary occupations to which they have been accustomed. Many are physically unfit for out-door work, who are well able to perform work of a sedentary kind. This is the case with great numbers of women, and especially with those who have young children from whom they cannot be separated. It is useless to attempt to make people perform work for which they are altogether unfit. Not only is the result failure with respect to them, but they render it difficult to obtain a fair amount of work from the others associated with them, who are really able, and who might be willing to work. If, for example, there be a hundred applicants for relief, all of whom are capable of performing some kind of work, and out of this number only fifty are really fit for employment in road-making, only those fifty should be so employed. The remaining fifty ought to be employed in some other way; even if the employment be unprofitable, the loss will usually not be so great as under the other system. In times, therefore, of great distress, it becomes necessary, in addition to undertaking public works, to establish properly organized poor-houses, which shall be at the same time, strictly speaking, work-houses. Owing to the extreme cheapness and simplicity of the mechanical appliances required for carrying on the commoner Indian manufactures, this is not so difficult as it might be supposed to be.

11. The able-bodied who are fairly fit for out-door labour should alone be employed on public works. When it becomes necessary to undertake such works for the relief of the people on a great scale, they should, as far as possible, be set on foot, not in the districts where the distress is greatest, but in some other localities better provided with food. On this subject Mr. J. Strachey further remarks :—

It must be admitted that the importation of food in quantity sufficient to supply completely a deficiency of production is, in times of actual famine, impracticable in most of the districts of these Provinces. The only thing that remains which can afford relief is a reduction of consumption. We have in possession a certain limited quantity of food, and the object to be aimed at is that this food shall be economised to the utmost, and be made available for the greatest possible number of persons.

Up to a certain point this object is gained by mere increase in the price of food, but this increase, although in itself necessary and beneficial, involves, when it becomes extreme, the starvation or misery of thousands. The difficulties of the position are great. On the one hand there are multitudes of people who must be saved, if it be possible to save them. On the other hand, we have to bear in mind that while we are giving food to the starving, we are diminishing the general stock, and are adding to the difficulties of the rest of the community. The diminution of the number of consumers is the only efficient remedy which, under such circumstances, remains. And this, in countries dependent upon their own supplies, is one of the natural and universal remedies against famine. Where there are no proper means of communication, and the existing stock of food cannot be sufficiently increased by importations from without, the people who cannot get food at home remove themselves to places where food is obtainable. It is easier for them to go to the food than for the food to come to them. Famines are hardly ever universal through a great extent of country, and in India, as in other countries similarly situated, temporary emigration has always been, in times of difficulty, one of the chief modes of relief. When rain falls, and prospects improve, the people will not be long in returning to their homes. There is no danger that the number who remain will not be sufficient for the cultivation of the land meanwhile. The apprehensions that we sometimes hear expressed on this point are, I believe, quite unfounded. Particular estates may be injured by such emigration, but there is no danger that the country at large will suffer. There are, perhaps, no people in the world more attached to their homes than the people of this country, and if they do not return after their emigration to other quarters, it may safely be assumed that their position has been improved by the change. The question practically is whether people shall remain and die, or emigrate and live. Tens of thousands have, at the present time, answered this question rightly. There is hardly a village in some parts of these provinces from which many of the people have not emigrated to more fortunate districts.

All measures must be mischievous which tend to check this natural process of relief. Plans which are excellent in times of partial scarcity, when food can be obtained by paying for it, become inapplicable in times of actual famine. Thus, if the Government undertake great public works in a Province where the supply of food is insufficient, and into which the importation of food on a sufficient scale is impossible, the final results may probably be mischievous rather than useful. If they be undertaken on too large a scale, or if the wages offered be much more than sufficient to save people from starvation, the effect will be that the consumption of food instead of being checked will be stimulated; people who would otherwise have emigrated will be kept at home to increase the number of consumers; the supply of food being limited, the expenditure of money will cause prices to rise, and privation will be brought upon a higher class who might otherwise have escaped.

The relief afforded by the Government in the distressed districts ought, therefore, to be no greater than will preserve the people from actual starvation, and every encouragement to emigration should be given. Great public works should be undertaken in those parts of the country where no scarcity exists, and where the supply of food is not likely to run short. These works should be set on foot at the nearest points to the distressed districts at which these conditions can be fulfilled. It is almost unnecessary to add that other conditions have to be fulfilled also. The works, for instance, should of course be useful and remunerative works.

The certainty of obtaining work and food will act as a stimulus to emigration, and will draw away from the distressed districts those who are able to move. In cases of great emergency, the Government should do still more. It ought to take measures for assisting this voluntary emigration, by giving to the emigrants the means of subsistence on the road. It may even become necessary to organize a system for the promotion and regulation of emigration, and for enabling people to return to their homes when the crisis has passed over. The necessity for such measures as this has not actually arrived. But it is possible that it may arrive, and even now it is important that the fact be borne in mind that every reduction in the number of consumers leaves more food available for those who remain.

12. The people employed on the special relief works should be brought together in such numbers as will admit of the most satisfactory direction of their labour to a really useful purpose. To undertake numerous operations widely diffused over the country will almost certainly result in the work done being worthless or nearly so. It is not intended to imply that minor works may not be properly and usefully carried out locally within the means of the district officers, or that such means may not properly be supplemented by the Government. To give local employment to the population on a scale beyond what has been customary in ordinary years may be very desirable and unavoidable, but to stimulate unnecessarily the collection of numbers of starving men by undertaking works of unusual magnitude, where no proper provision can be made for the supply of food, will only tend to exaggerate the evil.

13. The Local Governments should, therefore, at once proceed to consider what works can be carried out within their territories which shall give the best approach possible to a compliance with the above conditions. It may not be very easy to find occupation in suitable localities in districts free from the pressure of famine. But where this is not practicable, places should be selected to which the supply of food is comparatively easy, either by reason of the vicinity of the railway, a navigable river, or a good road. The Local Governments can best determine how this may be none, but the works that suggest themselves to the Governor General in Council as most likely to be suitable will be mentioned.

14. It is understood that the districts north of the Ganges are more favourably circumstanced than the rest of the North-Western Provinces. The earth-works of the projected line of railway which traverses these districts may, therefore, probably be selected as suitable for the purpose in view. Ten or fifteen miles of the line might be at once marked out in readiness for actual work, where its position can be fixed at once with certainty.

15. In Oudh there are also portions of the same line of railway, the earth-work of which could certainly be at once put in hand.

The projected canal from the Sardah, though still by no means matured in design, might also in case of pressure be made to afford the means of occupation. The general direction of the principal branches of the canal is fixed by the natural features of the country; and there would be no insurmountable difficulty in arranging for the work to be done so as to make sure that the depth and breadth of excavation now to be carried out should not exceed the dimensions which would eventually be fixed. The levels could be ascertained with sufficient accuracy for such operations in a comparatively short period of time.

16. In the districts between the Ganges and Jumna, the only project for a large work likely to be suitable, which is at all advanced, is that for the Futtehgurh Branch of the Ganges Canal. On the plan suggested for the Oudh Canals, this, too, could be partly executed.

There are certain projects for still-water navigable lines in connection with the Ganges Canal, which might also be pushed forward so as to be taken up at once.

The new canal on the right bank of the Jumna below Delhi, though it is probable that the districts through which it passes will suffer greatly if a serious famine occurs, may also be made to give useful occupation. On this canal it would seem to be expedient on the general grounds before stated to commence work at the two extremities near Delhi and Agra, to which places there is railway communication, and to arrange the dimensions of the excavations on the most exact data that can be obtained.

If sufficient progress has been made with the design for the canal from Betwa river in Bundelkhund to admit of work being put in hand upon it, a commencement of the excavation on the main channel might be taken up in the manner before indicated.

17. The projected branch railway from Allygurh to join the Oudh and Rohilkhund line might also probably be taken up, and the earth-work begun, without much difficulty. There seems to be no doubt that Allygurh will be the proper terminus on the East Indian Railway, and that the line should be directed to Moradabad. It could be laid out as far as the Ganges, and prepared for the reception of work-people. A prolongation of such a line to the south towards Muttra would also be likely to be eventually useful.

If the Company's Engineers and the Local Government are satisfied as to the proper way of laying out the main line of the Oudh and Rohilkhund Railway, and if the levels have been ascertained, or can be indicated, some commencement of work might also be made on the Rohilkhund side of the Ganges. The same remarks will apply to the line which is to connect the main Rohilkhund line with the foot of the Kumaon hills.

Another possible line of railway, the earth-work of which could perhaps be set in operation, is a branch from Futtehgurh to the East Indian Railway, either direct to Etawah, or viâ Mynpoorie to some station higher up the line. Such a line would serve for the traffic from Agra or Allahabad, and would be preferable therefore to one from Cawnpoor. Should the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces desire to commence work on such a line as a relief work, he is at liberty to do so when the necessary preliminary operations are completed to his satisfaction.

18. For the Punjab territories, some of the projects connected with the Western Jumna Canal may no doubt be made to serve for supplying occupation to a distressed population from the west of the Jumna. The Sirhind Canal will also be in a state which will admit of active operations being commenced upon it, and the line on which work was carried out could possibly be extended towards Ferozepoor or Puttiallah as occasion might seem to require.

19. The Governor General in Council is well aware that to undertake, at such short notice, any considerable part of such a series of works will call for very great energy on the part of the Public Works Department, and will be quite out of the question unless every available means of direction and supervision is applied to the task. It would be easier to allow minor works of secondary public utility to be put in hand locally than to organize the labour of the population on more important undertakings such as those which have been named. But it is very important that the utmost real good should be secured from the employment of the population. This employment and the relief of the people incapable of work will cause a heavy drain on the public finances, and it is incumbent on the Government to do all in its power to utilize, in the best way practicable, the labour which will be placed at its command, and to obtain the best possible equivalent for the outlay which it will have to incur.

20. The Local Governments and Administrations are, therefore, authorized to take what measures seem to them most suitable for disposing, to the best advantage, the engineering establishments under their orders for carrying out such preliminary operations as may, on mature consideration, appear to be best calculated to prepare for giving occupation to a distressed population on a large scale.

The number of officers and subordinates now employed on works of minor importance should be reduced to the utmost, and their places supplied, so far as is essential, by such means as can for the moment be best obtained. In military stations, officers of the army may be no doubt found who can carry on less important work for a few months; and where the occasion may arise, the services of civil officers may without hesitation be also made use of in like manner, or temporary establishments may be engaged.

All works which are not of emergent importance should be postponed to admit of provision being made for the employment of the population in the most useful way possible. This should not, however, be interpreted to signify that any large work now going on, such as the construction of the new barracks, should anywhere be suspended. Such works will continue to be of much service in giving employment, but it will be important to economize the means of supervision as much as possible.

21. For the suggested railway works, the Local Governments and Administrations should not hesitate to solicit the co-operation of the Railway Companies' officers, which, so far as the circumstances of their more regular occupation will admit, the Governor General in Council feels assured the Agents of the Companies will readily sanction.

All railway works to be undertaken for the relief of the population should, unless the Railway Company concerned should otherwise desire, be carried out in the first place at the cost of the Government. Work, under the circumstances contemplated, is likely to cost more than in ordinary times, and it will therefore be but just that a Railway Company should be called upon to pay no more than the ordinary price for the work done. It may, however, be hoped that the Railway Engineers will be made available for the supervision of such work to the extent that is practicable.

22. Wherever works are thus taken up under the Public Works Department or Railway Engineers, it will not be difficult to ascertain beforehand the probable quantity of work to be done, and the number of persons who can conveniently be employed in each locality. With this information the necessary arrangements for distributing the population to be relieved to the different works can be determined, and the system of providing them with food matured.

23. It should be the aim of the Local Governments and Administrations in these operations to comply, as far as circumstances will admit, with all the ordinary rules regarding the disbursement of funds and accounting for them. In the larger works which, under ordinary conditions, call for the sanction of the Government of India, where a general approval has not already been given to the scheme, an outline or approximate statement of the contemplated operation and its cost may be furnished before work is actually begun. As regards the irrigation works, it will be desirable to obtain a preliminary approval of the general plan of operations from the Inspector General of Irrigation Works, who is likely to remain in the North-West Provinces or the vicinity till end of the year.

24. But the Governor General in Council while thus expressing his desire that these precautions should, as far as possible, be attended to, will not withhold from the Local Governments and Administrations the power of acting at once on their own judgment, in every case in which it shall seem to them essential to order the commencement of any work for the purpose of giving occupation to the people. It is the wish of the Government of India that work shall be everywhere offered to the population as soon as the grant of relief in such a manner is thought by the local authorities to be necessary. It is most expedient that such help should be offered before the population becomes seriously affected by want, and no formalities or risk of eventual loss on the operations put in hand, should be allowed to stand in the way of thus giving relief to any section of the community which seems to be seriously suffering from the high price of food.

25. It is not thought necessary to dwell at length on other matters relating to the manner of dealing with the emergency which may arise. In the North-Western Provinces, the orders given by the late Sir G. Edmonstone, the Lieutenant-Governor in 1860-61, will serve as excellent models to be followed. These and other papers of interest will be found in an Appendix to this Resolution. For convenience of reference, a memorandum approved by the Governor General in Council is also annexed, embodying the chief points to which attention has, on other similar occasions, been directed, or which the Government of India now thinks of importance.

26. It only remains for His Excellency in Council to add that the Government will be prepared to contribute in aid of local relief a sum equal to the amount of private subscriptions for that object, in every case in which the Local Government or Administration shall recognize the propriety of such a course.

Simla, the 1st November 1873.

No. 1131 of 1873.—His Excellency the Governor General in Council is pleased to make the following appointment:—

Major General Sir C. Reid, K. C. B., of the Bengal Staff Corps, to the Divisional Staff of the Army, to fill an existing vacancy on the establishment.

No. 1132 of 1873.—With reference to G. G. O. No. 859 of 1873, it is notified that no reduction will be made in the pay of teachers and monitresses who were actually holding their appointments when that order was published.

The 3rd November 1873.

No. 1133 of 1873.—With reference to G. G. O. No. 41, dated 12th January 1869, and to remove any misapprehension which may exist regarding the application of that order, His Excellency the Governor General in Council is pleased to publish for general information the following list of permanent public servants in the Bengal Presidency entitled to compensation for dearness of provisions under the above order.

2. Compensation will, however, be allowed only when the authorized ration, calculated on the cost of the second quality of the several articles of rations, exceeds Rs. 2-8-8 per mensem.

3. All extra pay now granted for dearness of provisions will cease, except in cases where such extra pay has been specially declared to be in addition to compensation.

4. This order in no way affects the principle on which compensation has heretofore been passed to Native Troops or fightingmen under the provisions of G. G. O. No. 454 of 27th May 1864.

BENGAL CIVIL FUND.

Notice is hereby given under Article XVII (18) of the Rules of the Bengal Civil Fund that the following propositions will be proposed at the Half-Yearly Meeting of Subscribers to the Civil Fund to be held in Calcutta in the month of January 1874 :—

I.—That no surplus be declared or distributed, and that no scheme for increase of benefits or reduction of subscriptions be allowed to come into force until after reference to a professional Actuary; provided that any benefits that may be distributed shall have retrospective effect from the 1st April 1873.

II.—That in referring to the Actuary for a valuation of the Fund, he be supplied with information showing in detail the grounds for apprehending a future decrease in the average gross salaries of Subscribers during their term of service, and that his advice be obtained as to the surplus which should reasonably remain undistributed as a margin to ensure the solvency of the Fund while maintaining the present benefits and present rates of subscription.

In the event of the above resolutions being carried, it will be further moved "that a Committee, representing all grades of the Service, be appointed to assist the Managers in giving effect to the second resolution."

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following further Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as now settled by them, is published by order of His Excellency the Governor General :—

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Land-Revenue in the North-Western Provinces was referred, have considered the amended Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to present this Final Report.

Note by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, dated 24th February 1873.
From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces, No. 1930 A, dated 6th September 1873, and enclosures.
Memorandum by E. Atkinson, Esq.
" by H. Hobart, Esq., dated 12th May 1873.
" by C. Currie, Esq., " 17th "
Remarks by C. W. Carpenter, Esq., " 21st "
Note by E. Buck, Esq., " 23rd "
Remarks by R. M. Edwards, Esq., " 24th "
Note by J. R. Reid, Esq., " 27th "
Memorandum by F. C. Chapman, Esq., " 29th "
Note by Bábu Gangápershád of Bareli, dated 26th May 1873.
Note by His Highness the Mahárájá of Jaypur.
Memorial from the Zamindárs of Jaunpur.
Note by Hon'ble E. C. Bayley, dated 20th September 1873.

2. We have altered the definition of 'mahál' so as to render our intention clearer, and we have omitted as useless the definition of 'tenant.'

3. We have made the power of the Collector of the District to transfer cases from his own file clearly extend to all cases whether arising under the provisions of the intended Act or otherwise.

4. We have enabled the Local Government to devote a portion of the patwári rate to the payment of charges incurred for the supervision, maintenance and correction of the patwáris' records.

5. We have empowered (clause thirty-nine) the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, from time to time, to make general rules regarding the mode in which the revenue demand is to be assessed.

6. We have provided (clause forty-six) that in the case of a mahál held by co-sharers in severalty, the Settlement Officer shall distribute the assessment among the co-sharers.

7. In clauses 47, 49 and 51 we have altered the allowance to the person excluded from settlement to an allowance not less than 5 nor more than 15 per cent. on the proposed assessment.

8. In clause 64 we have provided that the Settlement Officer shall record the instalments of rent and the respective dates fixed for their payment, and any other matter which, by the rules to be framed under clause 255, he may be directed to record.

9. In clause 65 we have provided for consolidating with rent the cesses paid by tenants of land, whether revenue-free or assessed to revenue. We have also declared that the Settlement Officer shall record a list of all other cesses levied in accordance with village-custom, if generally or specially sanctioned by Government, and that the Local Government may impose on the collection of any cesses so sanctioned conditions as to conservancy, police, &c., connected with the village, bázár or fair in or on account of which the cesses are levied.

10. We have transferred to the Rent Act the clauses (70, 71 and 74) relating to tenants at fixed rates, privileged tenants and occupancy-tenants.

11. In clauses 72 and 76 we have reduced to ten years the term for which the rent of privileged tenants and occupancy-tenants shall be fixed in all districts. This alteration has been made because the majority of us, having regard to the weighty opinions given in favour of shortening the term, think it the more prudent course.

12. We have extended clause 78 (as to the joinder of tenants in suits for enhancement or abatement) to suits for commutation of rent.

13. We have made it clear that the clause relating to the commutation of rent in kind to money-rent applies to cases in which the rent is paid by rates varying with the crop, or partly in such way and partly in kind, or on the estimated value of a portion of the crop.

14. We have provided that clause 83 (as to resumption of rent-free grants) shall not apply to cases where land is held rent-free under a judicial decision or to cases where land held rent-free has been purchased for a valuable consideration, and a resumption of such land has been barred by Act No. X of 1859, section twenty-eight, or by the Indian Limitation Act, second schedule, No. 130.

15. As to the partition of lands held in severalty, we have provided that the aggregate revenue of the new mahâls shall not exceed the revenue assessed on the mahâl immediately before partition.

16. We have declared that no partition shall be disallowed on the ground of incompactness except with the sanction of the Board of Revenue.

17. We have enabled the Board, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, to make rules as to the instalments, &c., by which the revenue is to be paid.

18. We have expressly declared that no interest shall be demanded on arrears of revenue.

19. As to sales of land for arrears of revenue, we have followed Act I of 1845 in declaring that certain leases shall not be deemed to be 'incumbrances' within the meaning of clause 165.

20. We have empowered the Collector of the District to postpone such sales, reporting such postponements to the Commissioner.

21. In the case of sales of land other than that on which the arrear accrued, we have provided (clause 188) that no incumbrances created or contracts entered into by the defaulter in good faith shall be rendered invalid by such proceedings.

22. To the list of persons held "disqualified to manage their own lands" we have added persons declared by the Local Government, on their own application, toe b disqualified.

23. In clause 213 we have required the officer making an investigation under the clauses therein mentioned, where the evidence is not taken down in full by him, to record a memorandum of the substance of the evidence of each witness.

24. As to reference to arbitration, we have excluded cases provided for by clauses 113 and 116 from those which a Settlement Officer may refer without the parties' consent.

25. We have also provided that the officer making the reference shall fix the amount to be allowed for the expenses of the arbitration, and direct by and to whom they shall be paid.

26. In clause 239 we have excluded the Civil Courts from taking cognizance of the amount of any rate or cess to be assessed under any Act for the time being in force, on any mahâl or share of a mahâl

27. We have added to the schedule of repealed enactments so much of Regulation III of 1803 as has not been repealed, and section twenty-six of Regulation V of 1803.

28. We have altered section two of Act XL of 1858, so as to exclude from the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts proprietors of estates not assessed to revenue who are under the protection of the Court of Wards.

29. We have for the present confined the operation of the intended Act to the regulation parts of the North-Western Provinces. We have made several changes in arrangement and wording, and we recommend that the Bill as amended should be passed. But we are of opinion that it has undergone such alterations as to render its re-publication desirable.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Land-Revenue and the jurisdiction of Revenue Officers in the North-Western Provinces.

[AS RE-AMENDED BY THE SELECT COMMITTEE.]

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to land-revenue and the jurisdiction of Revenue Officers in the North-Western Provinces of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873:"

Local extent.

It extends to all the territories for the time being under the government of the Lieutenant-Governor of the said Provinces except those specified in the first schedule hereto annexed;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

Enactments repealed.

2. The Regulations and Acts mentioned in the second schedule hereto annexed are repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof.

But all rules prescribed, appointments made, powers conferred, and notifications published under any such enactment, and all other rules (if any) now in force and relating to any of the matters hereinafter dealt with, shall be deemed to have been respectively prescribed, made, conferred and published under this Act.

Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,

'Mahál.' (1.) "Mahál" means—

(a) any local area held under a separate engagement for the payment of the land-revenue, and for which a separate record-of-rights has been framed, and

(b) any local area of which the revenue has been assigned or redeemed, and for which a separate record-of-rights has been framed.

'Collector of the District.' (2.) "Collector of the District" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue administration of a District:

'Commissioner.' (3.) "Commissioner" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue administration of a Division:

'Rent.' (4.) "Rent" means whatever is to be paid, delivered or rendered by a tenant on account of his holding, use or occupation of land:

Sír-land.' (5.) "Sír-land" means—

(a) land recorded as sír at the last settlement of the district in which it is situate, and continuously so recorded since; or,

(b) land continuously cultivated by the proprietor himself, with his own stock, or by his servants, or by hired labour, for twelve years; or,

(c) land recognized by village custom as the special holding of a co-sharer, and treated as such in the distribution of profits or charges among the co-sharers:

'Annual value.' (6.) "Annual value" means double the amount of the revenue, or, in the case of mahále permanently assessed or exempt from the payment of revenue, double the amount that would be assessable on such mahále if they were liable to assessment or revision of assessment:

'Incumbrance.' (7.) "Incumbrance" means a charge upon or claim against land arising out of private contract:

'Agricultural year.' (8.) "Agricultural year" means a year commencing on the first day of July, and ending on the thirtieth day of June:

'Revenue Court.' (9.) "Revenue Court" means all or any of the following authorities, (that is to say) all members of the Board of Revenue, Commissioners, Collectors, Assistant Collectors, Settlement Officers, Assistant Settlement Officers and Tahsíldárs:

'Board.' (10.) "Board" means the Board of Revenue of the North-Western Provinces:

'Minor.' (11.) "Minor" means a person who has not completed his age of eighteen years.

CHAPTER II.

CONSTITUTION AND POWERS OF REVENUE OFFICERS.

Chief controlling authority in revenue matters.

4. The chief controlling authority in all matters connected with the revenue of the said territories is vested in the Board, subject to the Local Government.

Subject to the orders of the Local Government, the Board shall sit in any place in the North-Western Provinces that it thinks fit, and it shall have the powers conferred by Chapter VII of this Act on Commissioners and Collectors.

Appointment of Members of Board.

5. The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, shall appoint, and may from time to time remove, the members of the Board.

Power to distribute business.

6. With the previous sanction of the Local Government, and subject to rules which it may from time to time prescribe, the Board may distribute its business and make such territorial division of its jurisdiction amongst its members as to the Board may seem fit.

Orders of Member to be orders of Board.

All orders made or decrees passed by a Member of the Board in accordance with such distribution or division shall be held to be the orders or decrees (as the case may be) of the Board.

Alteration or reversal of orders.

7. No decree or order coming under the consideration of the Board on appeal or on being called for or reported for orders, shall be altered or reversed without the concurrent judgment of two Members of the Board.

Reference to Local Government in case of difference of opinion.

8. When the Members of the Board are equally divided in opinion as to the order to be made in any matter coming under their consideration otherwise than on appeal, the question regarding which there is such division shall be referred for decision to the Local Government.

Power of Board to review and alter its orders and decrees.

9. The Board may review, and may rescind, alter or confirm, any order made by itself, or by any of its Members in the course of its non-judicial business.

But no decree passed by it judicially shall be so reviewed except on the application of a party to the cause within ninety days from the passing of the decree, or, if good cause be shown, within any longer period.

Members not empowered to alter each other's orders.

A single Member vested with all or any of the powers of the Board shall not have power to alter or reverse a decree or order passed by the Board or by any Member other than himself.

Power to authorize Member to exercise powers of Board.

10. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, the Local Government may authorize any Member of the Board to perform or exercise, either generally or in any particular locality, all or any of the duties and powers imposed and conferred on the Board.

Commissioners of Division.

11. The Local Government shall appoint in each Division a Commissioner, who shall within his Division exercise the powers and discharge the duties conferred and imposed on a Commissioner of Division under this Act, or under any other law for the time being in force, and who shall, subject to the control of the Board, exercise authority over all the Revenue Officers in his Division.

Collector of the District.

12. The Local Government shall appoint in each District an officer, who shall be the Collector of the District, and shall exercise throughout his District all the powers and discharge all the duties conferred and imposed on a Collector or an Assistant Collector by this Act or any other law for the time being in force.

The Local Government may confer on any Assistant Collector in charge of a Sub-division of a District all or any of the powers of a Collector of a District, and all powers so conferred shall be exercised subject to the control of the Collector of the District.

Assistant Collectors.

13. The Local Government may appoint to each district as many other persons as it thinks fit to be Assistant Collectors of the first or second class.

All such Assistant Collectors and all other persons employed in collecting the land-revenue or in maintaining revenue-records shall be subordinate to the Collector of the District.

Power to alterlimits of Divisions, &c., and to form Sub-divisions.

14. The Local Government may from time to time alter the limits of any Division, District or Tahsíl, and may divide any District into Sub-divisions, and from time to time alter the limits of such Sub-divisions.

All existing tahsíls shall be Sub-divisions of districts until they are so altered.

Assistant Collector in charge of Sub-division of District.

15. The Local Government may place any Assistant Collector of the first class in charge of one or more Sub-divisions of a District, and may at any time remove him therefrom.

Such Assistant Collector shall be called an Assistant Collector in charge of a Sub-division of a District, and shall exercise the powers conferred upon him by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force, subject to the control of the Collector of the District.

The Local Government may, from time to time, delegate its powers under this section to the Collector of the District, and may revoke such delegation.

Subordination of Revenue Officers.

16. Every officer of a Sub-division of a District employed in collecting the land-revenue or in maintaining revenue-records shall be subordinate to the Assistant Collector (if any) in charge of such Sub-division, subject to the general control of the Collector of the District.

Conferring of powers.

17. In conferring powers under this Act, the Local Government may empower persons by name, or classes of officials generally, by their official titles.

Transfer of cases to subordinates.

18. The Collector of the District, or any Assistant Collector in charge of a Sub-division or a District, or Officer in charge of a Settlement, may make over any case, or class of cases, arising under the provisions of this Act or otherwise for enquiry or decision from his own file to any of his subordinates competent to deal with such case or class,

Power to withdraw cases from subordinates.

or may withdraw any such case or class of cases from any Revenue Officer subordinate to them respectively, and may deal with such case or class themselves, or refer it for disposal to any other such Revenue Officer competent to deal with the same.

Power to vary and cancel powers.

19. The Local Government may vary or cancel any order conferring powers under this Act.

Collector of the District in case o temporary vacancy.

20. If the Collector of the District dies, or is otherwise disabled from performing his duties, the officer who succeeds temporarily to the chief executive administration of the District in revenue matters shall be held to be the Collector of the District under this Act until the Local Government appoints a successor to the Collector so dying or otherwise disabled, and such successor takes charge of his appointment.

Powers of officers transferred to another district.

21. Whenever any person holding an office in the service of Government, who has been invested with any powers under this Act in any district is transferred to an equal or higher office of the same nature within another district, he shall, unless the Local Government otherwise directs, be held to be invested with the same powers in the district to which he is so transferred.

Appointment of Tahsíldárs.

22. Tahsíldárs shall be appointed by the Board, subject to such rules as to qualification or otherwise as the Local Government may make under section two hundred and fifty-five.

Power to form and alter patwáris' circles.

23. The Collector of the District, or the Settlement Officer, with the sanction of the Board, may arrange all the villages of such district in patwáris' circles, and may, from time to time, alter the limits of such circles.

But no such arrangement or alteration shall be final unless and until it has been sanctioned by the Board.

Appointment of patwárí to each circle.

24. A patwárí shall be appointed to each circle, whether the mahál in such circle are assessed to revenue or not.

Nomination and appointment of patwáris to fill vacancies.

25. On the occurrence of a vacancy by the death or dismissal of a patwárí or otherwise, the proprietors of the circle in which the vacancy has occurred, or the persons standing in their place, shall in accordance with local custom nominate a successor, who shall be appointed by the Collector of the District or Settlement Officer, or Assistant Collector.

Which nominee to be appointed in case of disagreement.

26. In case of disagreement as to the nominee, the Collector or Settlement Officer or Assistant Collector shall ascertain the local custom, if any, and shall appoint the person nominated in accordance therewith.

Where no such custom can be ascertained, the Collector, Settlement Officer, or Assistant Collector shall appoint the nominee of those proprietors who represent the largest amount of annual value in the circle, or of the persons standing in their place.

If a mahál is held under direct management, or if the proprietor be under the charge of the Court of Wards, the Collector of the District, or Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division, shall be held to be the proprietor for the purpose of nominating a patwárí under this section.

Appointment of patwárí in case of failure or neglect of person entitled to nominate.

27. If the persons in whom the nomination is vested neglect to nominate a successor to the patwárí within fifteen days from the occurrence of the vacancy, the Collector of the District, Settlement Officer or Assistant Collector shall call on them by notice to make the nomination, and if they fail to do so within fifteen days from the receipt of notice, the Collector shall make the appointment.

Procedure in case of nomination of unfit person.

28. If the person or persons in whom the nomination is vested nominate a man disqualified by any cause to perform the duties of a patwárí or in the nomination neglect to follow the local custom, the Collector of the District, Settlement Officer or the Assistant Collector shall refuse to appoint the nominee; and if no fit person be nominated within fifteen days from the date of the notification of such refusal, he shall himself appoint a person to the vacant office.

Preference to member of patwárí's family.

Provided that the Collector of the District, Settlement Officer or Assistant Collector, in making the appointment under this and the last preceding section, shall always give preference to any member of the late patwárí's family, not disqualified by reason of minority or otherwise to perform the duties of the office.

Payment of patwáris.

29. A rate may be imposed by order of the Collector of the District or the Settlement Officer, on the annual value or on the cultivated area of all the mahále composing the circle of each patwárí, or partly in the one way, and partly in the other, for defraying the salary of such patwárí, and any charges incurred on account of any additional establishment required for the proper supervision, maintenance and correction of the patwárí's records.

Fixing amount of rate.

30. The amount of the rate to be imposed under section twenty-nine in any District or Sub-division of a District, shall be determined by the Board under the orders of the Local Government:

Provided that such rate shall not exceed three per cent. on the annual value of the rated mahál, and that the amount to be imposed on each mahál shall be fixed in the temporarily settled districts for the term of settlement, and in permanently-settled districts for thirty years, or such shorter period as the Local Government may direct.

Collection of rate.

31. The rate shall be collected with the revenue, and shall, in case of default, be recoverable by the same process as arrears of revenue.

Salaries of patwáris.

32. The amount of the salaries of the patwáris shall be fixed from time to time by the Board under the orders of the Local Government.

Appointment of Kánúngos and filling vacancies among them.

33. One or more Kánúngos may be appointed in each tahsíl for the proper supervision, maintenance and correction of the patwáris' records.

In case of a vacancy in the office of a Kánúngo, preference shall be given to some duly qualified member of a family in which the office of Kánúngo of the tahsíl or any part thereof is hereditary.

If no such qualified member can be found, then one of the patwáris of the tahsíl shall, if duly qualified, be appointed to the vacancy, and failing any person duly qualified among them, some other fit and competent person shall be appointed thereto.

Amount of Kánúngos' salaries.

34. The amount of the salaries of the Kánúngos shall from time to time be fixed by the Local Government.

Kánúngos and patwáris to be public servants, and their records public records.

35. Every Kánúngo and patwárí, and every person appointed temporarily to discharge the duties of any such officer, shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, and all official records and papers kept by any such officer shall be held to be public records and the property of Government.

CHAPTER III.

SETTLEMENT.

Notification as to settlement.

36. Whenever the Local Government thinks that any local area liable to be brought under settlement shall be so brought, it shall publish a notification specifying such area and declaring whether the settlement is to include the assessment of the land-revenue or the preparation of the revenue records or both.

Settlement to be deemed in progress until closing notified.

37. Such local area shall be held to be under settlement from the date of the notification published under section thirty-six until the issue of another notification declaring settlement operations to be closed therein.

Settlements now in progress brought under operation of Act.

Every district or local area under settlement at the time of the passing of this Act, shall be held to be under settlement within the meaning of this section without the issue of the notification prescribed by section thirty-six.

Appointment and powers of Settlement Officers.

38. The Local Government may from time to time appoint an officer to be in charge of the settlement of one or more districts, or part of a district, and as many Assistant Settlement Officers as to it may seem fit; and such officers shall exercise the powers conferred upon them by this Act so long as such district or districts or part of a district is or are under settlement.

Local Government to issue rules as to mode of assessment and to fix period of settlement.

39. The Local Government shall from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, frame and issue rules regarding the mode in which the revenue demand is to be assessed.

Powers of Settlement Officers as to erection of boundary-marks and decision of disputes.

40. When any district, or part of a district, is under settlement, the Settlement Officer shall have power to call upon all proprietors, by proclamation to be stuck up in some conspicuous place in each village, to erect within fifteen days such boundary-marks as he may think necessary to define the limits of their villages, mahâls, or fields; and in default of their compliance within the time specified in the notice, he may cause such boundary-marks to be erected, and he shall recover the cost of the erection from the proprietors, as if it were an arrear of revenue.

In case of dispute concerning any boundary-marks, the Settlement Officer shall decide such dispute on the basis of possession, or may refer it to arbitration, as provided for in section two hundred and eighteen to section two hundred and twenty-nine (both inclusive).

Power of Settlement and Survey Officers to enter on lands.

41. All Settlement Officers and all officers in charge of a survey made in connection with the revenue, and their assistants, servants, agents and workmen, may do all acts necessary for any purpose connected with the settlement or survey, as the case may be.

Power to require attendance of persons concerned.

42. The Settlement Officer may order all persons, whose presence is in his opinion necessary for the purposes of settlement or survey, to attend at any specified time and place, and to produce any written document in their possession or power; and all such persons shall be legally bound to obey such order.

With whom settlement to be made.

43. The settlement shall be made with the proprietor of the land; or, if the proprietor have transferred possession of his land to a mortgagee or conditional vendee, then with such mortgagee or vendee.

Settlement of mahâl in possession of lunatic or minor.

If, at the time of settlement, a mahâl or any share thereof, be in the possession of a lunatic, minor, or other person incapable of making a contract, the settlement shall be made with his guardian or manager on his behalf.

Power to make joint settlement with several proprietors or their elected representatives.

44. When several persons hold a mahâl, the Settlement Officer shall have power to make a joint settlement with all such persons, or with their representatives elected according to the custom of the mahâl.

Framing and reporting proposals of assessment.

45. Whenever the Settlement Officer frames proposals of assessment he shall report them through the Commissioner to the Board in accordance with the rules made under section two hundred and fifty-five and after receipt of the orders of the Board thereon, and subject to such orders, he shall declare to the persons with whom the settlement is to be made the assessment proposed for their mahâls.

Declaration of assessment to persons concerned.

Such declaration shall be made on a date to be notified by proclamation at the tahsîl in which such mahâls are situated.

Effect of agreement to assessment proposed.

46. If the persons with whom the settlement is to be made agree to the assessment so proposed, they shall become liable from the date of such agreement, or from such subsequent date as the Board directs, to pay such assessment, and in mahâls in which the land or part of the land is held in severalty the Settlement Officer shall distribute such assessment on the lands so held.

Enforcement o custom as to re-distribution of land and adjustment of revenue of shares.

47. In any mahâl where, by the established custom, the land or the amount of revenue payable by each sharer is subject to periodical re-distribution or re-adjustment, the Settlement Officer may, on application of the co-sharers, enforce such re-distribution or re-adjustment according to the established custom of the mahâl.

Exclusion of person declining or failing to accept settlement.

48. If the person to be settled with refuse to accept the assessment offered by the Settlement Officer, or fail to accept such assessment within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section forty-five, the Settlement Officer shall report the case to the Board, and the Board may direct that the person so refusing or failing be excluded from the settlement for such term not exceeding fifteen years from the date of such direction, as the Board shall fix. And the Collector, with the previous sanction of the Board may either farm the mahâl or hold it under direct management during such term or any part thereof.

Allowance to person excluded.

In such case, the person so excluded, shall be entitled (subject to the orders of the Board) to an allowance of not less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the proposed assessment.

Procedure in case of some of several proprietors refusing assessment.

49. If in a pattîdârî or imperfect pattîdârî mahâl some of the co-sharers refuse or fail within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section forty-five to accept the proposed assessment, the shares of the persons so refusing or failing shall be dealt with under the provisions of section forty-eight, and they shall receive an allowance as laid down in that section in proportion to their respective shares in the mahál.

Farm of shares of proprietors refusing.

Provided that the farm of such shares shall be offered in the first instance to those proprietors who have accepted the proposed terms.

Adjustment of rent of the sír-lands of proprietors of estate farmed under section 48 or 49.

50. Any proprietor of a mahál, or a portion of a mahál, who may be excluded from settlement under section forty-eight or forty-nine shall be entitled to hold his sír-land as a privileged tenant, and the rent to be paid by him for such land during such exclusion shall be fixed by the Settlement Officer accordingly.

Provided that the difference between the rent so fixed, and the rent which such proprietor would be liable to pay, if he were not a privileged tenant, together with any allowance assigned to him under section forty-eight or forty-nine shall not be less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the assessment proposed by the Settlement Officer.

Offer of settlement to excluded proprietor on expiry of term of farm.

51. On the expiration of the term fixed under section forty-eight, the settlement of such mahál or portion shall be offered by the Collector of the District to the person then entitled to be settled with in respect of such mahál, or portion at such assessment for the remainder of the term of settlement of the district as the Board may direct.

Procedure on refusal.

And if such person refuse to accept the offer, the Collector of the District shall report such refusal to the Board, and such person may be excluded from settlement for such period not exceeding the term of the settlement of the District as the Board may direct, and shall then receive the allowance to which he would be entitled if sections forty-eight and forty-nine applied to his case. And the rent to be paid by him as a privileged tenant for his sír-land shall be fixed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector in accordance with the North-Western Provinces Rent Act.

Power to direct which of several parties having separate and differing interests shall be admitted to settlement;

52. Whenever several persons possess separate heritable and transferable proprietary interests in any mahál, such interests being of different kinds, the Settlement Officer may, under the rules for the time being in force, determine

(a) which of such persons shall be admitted to engage for the payment of the revenue, due provision being made for securing the rights of the others, and

and to prescribe distribution of profits.

(b) the manner and proportion in which the nett profits of the mahál shall be allotted to the several persons possessing separate interests as aforesaid for the term of the settlement.

Power to make sub-settlement with inferior proprietor in behalf of superior proprietor of mahál coming under section 52.

53. If in any mahál coming under the provisions of the preceding section, the separate properties bear to each other the relation of superior and inferior, and the settlement be made with the party possessing the superior right, the Settlement Officer may make, on behalf of the superior proprietor, a sub-settlement with the inferior proprietor, by which such inferior shall be bound to pay to the superior an amount equal to the Government demand in respect of the mahál, together with the share of the profits thereof allotted to the superior proprietor under section fifty-two.

Exclusion of inferior proprietor from sub-settlement in case of refusal of terms.

Provided that, if the inferior proprietor refuse to agree to the terms of such sub-settlement, the mahál shall be made over to the superior proprietor for the term of settlement.

Allowance.

And in such case the inferior proprietor shall hold as a privileged tenant the land (if any) cultivated by him at the date of such refusal, and the superior proprietor shall pay him such annual allowance as when added to the difference between the rent fixed for such land and the rent which the inferior proprietor would be liable to pay therefor if he were not a privileged tenant, shall not be less than five, or more than fifteen per cent. of the profits allotted to him under section fifty-two.

Assessment on inferior proprietor when settlement made with him.

54. If the settlement of a mahál be made with the inferior proprietor, the amount to be paid by him shall be fixed by the Settlement Officer at such a sum as may be equal to the Government demand in respect of such mahál, together with the share of the profits allowed to the superior proprietor under section fifty-two; and in this case the share of the superior proprietor shall be realized as revenue, and paid to him from the Government Treasury.

Power to make arrangements for the benefit of persons possessing rights which do not entitle them to settlement.

55. If in any mahál there exist persons possessing proprietary rights therein which are not of such a nature as to entitle their possessors to settlement, the Settlement Officer may make such arrangements as shall secure such persons in possession of their existing rights, or of an equivalent thereto.

This may be done

(a) by the formation of a sub-settlement on behalf of the proprietors with such persons for any lands actually in their possession, or,

(b) in mahále held as joint undivided property and where the said rights are rights to receive from the tenants any money-payment or portion of the agricultural produce, by assigning, in lieu thereof, the proprietary right in a certain portion of the mahál, the profits of which are equivalent in the opinion of the Settlement Officer to the said payment or portion:

(c) in such other way as shall maintain the persons referred to in the first clause of this section in the enjoyment of, or of an equivalent to, their existing rights.

Separate settlement of waste-land in excess.

56. When the waste-land belonging to, and included at the previous settlement within the boundaries of, any mahál assessed to the payment of revenue is so extensive as, in the opinion of the Settlement Officer, confirmed by the Board, to exceed the requirements of the owner of such mahál with reference to pastoral or agricultural purposes, such officer may make a separate settlement of the waste-land which he considers to be so in excess, and shall offer such waste-land to the owner of the mahál to which it belongs, at such assessment and for such term, not exceeding the period of settlement of the mahál, as the Board may order.

If the owner of the mahál accepts such offer, the Settlement Officer shall make the settlement of such waste-land accordingly, and on the expiration of the term of such settlement, a further settlement of such waste-land shall be offered on such terms as the Board directs to the person entitled to be settled with in respect thereof.

Allowance to owner of mahál refusing offer of settlement.

If the owner of such mahál refuses such offer, the Settlement Officer shall mark off the quantity so in excess, and declare it to be a separate mahál, and at the disposal of Government. Provided that there shall be allowed to the owner of the mahál to which the waste-land originally belonged such annual sum as the Board may direct, being not less than five and not more than ten per cent. on the nett revenue realized by Government from such waste-land.

Procedure as to waste-land not included in any mahál at previous settlements.

57. Any waste-land which has neither been judicially declared to be part of any mahál, nor included within the boundaries of any mahál at any previous settlement, shall be marked off by the Settlement Officer, and he shall record a proceeding declaring such land to be the property of Government, and cause a proclamation to that effect to be stuck up in the District Revenue Court and in the office of the tahsíl in which such land is situated, and shall call on all persons having any claims on such land to make the same within three months from the date of the proclamation.

Such proclamation shall be held to be an advertisement of the disposal of such land within the meaning of Act No. XXIII of 1863 (to provide for the adjudication of claims to waste-lands, section one, and any person having claims to such land must proceed according to the provisions of that Act.

Procedure as to waste-land unclaimed or adjudged to belong to Government.

58. If no claim is made to the proprietary right of such waste-land, or if such waste-land is decided to be the property of Government, but the proprietor of the adjoining mahál proves that he has theretofore enjoyed the use of such land for pastoral or agricultural purposes, the Settlement Officer may assign to such mahál so much of such waste land as he may consider requisite for such purposes, and he shall mark off the remainder and declare it to be the property of Government.

Settlement of waste-land adjudged to belong to claimant.

59. If the claimant obtain a decree under the provisions of the said Act No. XXIII of 1863, for the whole or part of such waste-land, the Settlement Officer may deal with the land to which a title is so established under the provisions of section fifty-six.

Confirmation of settlement and revision of assessment.

60. No settlement shall be considered final until it has been confirmed by the Local Government.

The Local Government shall at some time before confirming the settlement fix the period for which the settlement is to be made.

Such period shall be fixed with reference to the agricultural year.

The assessment may be revised, if the Local Government so directs, at any time before it is confirmed, and in such case the revised assessment shall be proposed to the proprietors, and the provisions of sections forty-three to fifty-one (both inclusive) shall apply.

RECORD-OF-RIGHTS.

Framing of record-of-rights.

61. Whenever the Local Government thinks that a record-of-rights in land, whether permanently settled, temporarily settled, or revenue-free, should be prepared, for any specified area, it shall issue a notification to that effect, and such notification shall remain in force until another notification is issued, declaring the operations in such area to be closed.

Register and statement to be included in record.

62. The Settlement Officer shall frame for each mahál a record containing a list of

(a) all the co-sharers,

(b) all other persons occupying any portion of the land therein, or who is in possession of any heritable or transferable interest in such land, or receiving rent in respect thereof,

(c) the nature and extent of the interest held therein by each of such co-sharers and other persons, and

(d) all persons holding land free of rent, or revenue-free.

List of persons holding rent-free or at fixed rent.

63. The record shall also specify the persons (if any) holding land at a rent fixed by grant or by contract, or on condition of service or otherwise, and all other tenants in the mahál, the name and caste of each, the area of their holdings, and all conditions of their tenure.

Settlement of disputes as to entries in record.

64. All entries in the record made under sections sixty-two and sixty-three shall be founded on the basis of actual possession, and all disputes regarding such entries, whether taken up by the Settlement Officer of his own motion or upon the complaint of the party concerned, shall be investigated and decided by him on that basis. And all persons not in possession, but claiming the right to be so, shall be referred by him to the proper Court.

Arrangements of co-sharers.

65. The Settlement Officer shall also record the arrangement made by himself or agreed to by the co-sharers,

(a) for the distribution of the profits derived from sources common to the proprietary body,

(b) for fixing the share which each co-sharer is to contribute of the Government revenue and of the cesses levied under any law for the time being in force, and of the village expenses,

(c) as to the manner in which lumberdars or co-sharers are to collect from the cultivators,

(d) the instalments of rent and the respective dates fixed for their payment, and

(e) any other matters which he may be directed to record under rules framed under section two hundred and fifty-five.

Cesses to be recorded.

66. All cesses payable by tenants on account of the occupation of land assessed to revenue and taken into account in such assessment, or which, in the case of land not assessed to revenue, would have been taken into such account had the land been assessed, or in lieu of which proprietary rights have been assigned under section fifty-five, clause (b), shall be consolidated with the rent payable by them.

A list of all other cesses levied in accordance with village custom shall, if generally or specially sanctioned by the Local Government, be recorded by the Settlement Officer, and no cesses not so recorded shall be enforced in any Civil or Revenue Court.

The Local Government may from time to time impose on the collection of any cesses so sanctioned, such conditions as to conservancy, police or other establishments connected with the village, bázár or fair in or on account of which the cesses are levied, as it thinks fit.

Record in case of mahál in which rights and interests are in dispute.

67. If it appear to a Settlement Officer that there exist in any mahál under settlement any disputes relative to any of the matters which he is bound to record, under section sixty-five or section sixty-six, he may of his own motion, and without complaint being made, investigate and determine such disputes in accordance with the existing village custom, and frame the record accordingly.

Particulars to be stated in list of tenants.

68. In framing the list of tenants mentioned in section sixty-three the Settlement Officer shall state as to each tenant the following particulars:—

(a) Whether, under the provisions contained in the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, he is a tenant holding at fixed rates, or a privileged tenant, or an occupancy-tenant, or a tenant without a right of occupancy:

(b) The rent which the landholder and the tenant then admit to be payable by the latter:

(c) If he be a tenant without a right of occupancy, the number of years during which he has held the land then in his possession:

(d) Any other condition of the tenure, whether contained in a written lease or otherwise.

Determination of class of tenants and rent payable by each.

69. In case of any dispute respecting the class or tenure of any tenant, the Settlement Officer shall decide according to the principles laid down in sections five, seven and eight of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873.

In case of any dispute regarding the rent payable by any tenant, the Settlement Officer shall decide according to the principles hereinafter laid down.

Enhancement of rent of privileged tenants.

70. If the proprietor apply to the Settlement Officer to enhance the rent of a privileged tenant, the Settlement Officer shall enhance the rent of such tenant to a rate which shall be not less than two and not more than four annas in the rupee below the rate fixed by the Settlement Officer for land of a similar quality with similar advantages held by occupancy-tenants in the same circle or tahsíl.

Rate at which such rent shall be fixed.

71. If no such application is made, the rent of the privileged tenant shall be fixed at the rate paid by him for the agricultural year next before the settlement.

Provided that if he apply under section seventy-three as an occupancy-tenant for an abatement of the rent previously paid by him, his rent may be abated, but not below the rate at which it would be fixed if he were merely an occupancy-tenant.

Determination of rent by Settlement Officer.

72. If a landholder apply to enhance the rent previously paid by any of his occupancy-tenants, or, if an occupancy-tenant apply for an abatement of the rent previously paid by him, or, if a dispute exists as to the rent to be paid by an occupancy-tenant,

the Settlement Officer may fix the rent to be paid by such tenant either by reference to the standard of the rent-rate sanctioned by the Board for purposes of assessment for similar land, with similar advantages, or by reference to the customary rate of rent for similar land, with similar advantages, in the circle or tahsíl in which the holding of such tenant is situate.

Power to commute rent in kind to money rents.

73. In all cases in which rents have heretofore been paid in kind, or on the estimated value of a portion of the crop, or by rates varying with the crop, or partly in one of such ways and partly in another or others of such ways, application to commute such rent to a fixed money rent may be made to the Settlement Officer either by the land-holders or by any privileged tenant, or an occupancy-tenant.

Procedure on receiving application to commute.

74. On receipt of such application the Settlement Officer shall deal with the case as if it were an application under section seventy or seventy-two, and shall determine the sum to be paid in commutation in accordance with the provisions of those sections.

Joinder of tenants in suits for enhancement or determination of rent.

75. Whenever an application for enhancement or abatement or commutation of rent, against or by any number of tenants, is brought before a Settlement Officer, such tenants may be sued or may sue collectively: and it shall be no ground for dismissing or refusing to hear the application that such tenants are wrongly joined as plaintiffs or defendants, provided all such tenants cultivate in the same mahál;

Decree when to be passed in suits for enhancement.

but no order shall be passed in such case in which enhancement, abatement or commutation of rent is claimed, unless the officer making such order is satisfied that every tenant has had an opportunity to appear and make objection to the claim preferred against him.

Decree what to specify.

76. Every decree passed in any such case shall specify the extent to which each of the tenants named on the decree shall be affected thereby.

Rent from what date payable. Bar to enhancement.

77. The rent determined by order of the Settlement Officer shall be payable from the first day of July next following the date of the order of the Settlement Officer, and shall not be liable to enhancement for ten years from such first day of July.

Exceptions.

But this rule, so far as relates to enhancement, shall not apply—

(a) to land which has been gained by alluvion after the date of such order;

(b) to additions made since the date of such order to the tenant's holding;

(c) to land of which the productive powers have been increased otherwise than by the agency or at the expense of the tenant after the date of such order.

Powers of Local Government as to commutation-suits.

78. The Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette,

(a) declare the provisions of section seventy-three, seventy-five, seventy-six and seventy-seven applicable to any district or portion of a district not under settlement;

(b) declare what officers are empowered to hear and decide applications under section seventy-three in such district or portion of a district, and lay down rules for their guidance;

(c) withdraw any notification previously published under this section.

Resumption of rent-free grants.

79. And whereas all grants for holding land exempt from the payment of rent which have been made since the first day of December 1790, by any authority other than that of the Governor General in Council were declared by Bengal Regulation XIX of 1793, section ten, to be null and void; and such Regulation also provides that no length of possession shall be considered to give validity to any such grant, either with regard to the property in the soil or the rents of it, it is hereby further enacted as follows:—

Disposal of applications to resume grants.

Applications by the proprietors to resume such grants or to assess rent on the land shall, when the district in which the land is situate is a district under settlement, be made to the Settlement Officer, who may make such order thereon as he deems just.

Saving of certain lands held rent-free.

80. Nothing in section seventy-nine applies to either of the following cases,

(a) where land is previously to the passing of this Act held rent-free under a judicial decision,

(b) where previously to the passing of this Act land held rent-free has been purchased for a valuable consideration and its resumption has been barred by Act No. X of 1859, section twenty-eight, or by Act IX of 1871, second schedule, No. 130.

Validity of grants which grantor has expressly agreed not to resume.

81. Grants of land held under a written instrument by which the grantor expressly agrees that the grant shall not be resumed shall be held valid as against him (but not as against his representatives after his death) during the continuance of the settlement of the district in which the land is situate, which was current at the date of the grant.

When rent-free tenure confers proprietary right.

82. Where any land has been for fifty years or upwards, and still is held rent-free and by at least two successors to the original grantee, such holding shall be deemed to confer on the holder a proprietary right.

Nothing in the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, shall bar the right to make an application under this Act to assess to rent land held rent-free.

Saving of liability for Government revenue.

83. No length of rent-free occupancy of any land, nor any grant of land made by the proprietor, shall release such land from its liability to be charged with the payment of Government revenue.

Sections 70 and 72, to apply.

84. In assessing rent under sections seventy-nine and eighty the Settlement Officer shall be guided by the provisions of sections seventy and seventy-two so far as they apply.

Form of register of revenue-free tenures.

85. The Settlement Officer shall record all revenue-free tenures in such form of register as the Board from time to time prescribes.

Resumption in certain cases of land held revenue-free.

86. The Settlement Officer shall enquire into the case of all lands released, conditionally or for a term, from the payment of revenue, and shall assess such lands if it appear to him that the conditions have been transgressed, or the term has expired.

Title to hold free to be proved.

87. Any person claiming land free of revenue not recorded as revenue-free, shall be bound to prove his title to hold such land free of revenue.

Report to Government where title proved.

88. If he prove his title to the satisfaction of the Settlement Officer, the case shall be reported to the Local Government whose orders thereon shall be final.

Assessment and settlement on failure of proof.

89. If the title be not so proved, the Settlement Officer shall proceed to assess the land, and to make the settlement of it with the person in actual possession as proprietor.

Form and attestation of record-of-rights.

90. The Board shall from time to time prescribe the form in which the record to be made under the provisions of this Chapter shall be drawn up, and the manner in which it shall be attested.

Presumption as to entries.

91. All entries in the record so made and attested shall be presumed to be true until the contrary is proved.

Power to invest officer with Settlement Officer's powers.

92. At any time during the currency of a settlement the Local Government may invest any officer with all or any of the powers of a Settlement Officer under this Act within such limits, and with such restrictions, and for such period, as it thinks fits;

but not so as to enable him to enhance the total amount of revenue payable on account of any mahál except in respect of land added thereto or becoming liable to payment of revenue since the confirmation of the settlement.

No officer so invested shall alter the classification of tenants made under this Act except on the application of a party concerned.

CHAPTER IV.

REGISTRATION AND MAINTENANCE OF RECORDS.

Collector to maintain record-of-rights,

93. The Collector of the District shall keep and maintain the record-of-rights;

and register changes,

and he shall from time to time cause to be registered all changes that may take place, and anything that may affect any of the rights or interests recorded;

and correct errors.

and shall correct any errors which the parties interested admit to have been made in the record.

Power to order which registers shall be kept. Changes to be duly authorized.

94. The Board shall order such registers to be kept up as may be necessary for the purposes of the last preceding section; and no such changes shall be recorded without the order of the Collector of the District or of some officer duly authorized (either generally or specially) by him in this behalf.

Power to prescribe fees for mutations.

95. The Local Government may prescribe proper fees for mutations in the registers: provided that no fee for a single mutation shall exceed one hundred rupees.

Levy of fees. Appropriation.

Such fees shall be levied from the person in whose favour the mutation is made and shall be expended in such manner as the Local Government thinks fit.

Successions to be notified

96. All persons succeeding to any proprietary right in a mahál, or the profits thereof whether by inheritance, purchase, gift, or other form of transfer, shall notify the same immediately after it has taken place to the tahsíldár of the tahsíl in which the mahál is situated, and the tahsíldár shall report such notice to the Collector of the District or the Assistant Collector.

Procedure on notification.

97. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, on receiving such report, shall make such enquiry as appears necessary to ascertain the truth of the alleged succession to, or transfer of, the property, and if the succession or transfer appears to have taken place, he shall record the same in the register:

Saving of rights of other persons interested.

Provided that no such entry shall be held to affect the rights of any other person who may claim and establish in any Civil or Revenue Court any interest in the land to which the entry has reference.

Notification in case of minority or other disqualification.

98. If the person so succeeding is a minor or otherwise disqualified, the guardian or other person who has charge of his property shall make the notification required by section ninety-six.

Fine for neglect to notify.

99. Any person neglecting to make the notification required by sections ninety-six and ninety-eight within three months from the date of the transfer having taken place shall be liable, at the discretion of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, to a fine not exceeding five times the amount of the fee which would otherwise have been payable under section ninety-five.

Power to declare and record party in possession in case of dispute.

100. If in the course of inquiry made under section ninety-seven a dispute regarding the possession of the property arises, and the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector is unable to satisfy himself as to which party is in possession, he shall ascertain by summary enquiry who is the person best entitled to the property, and shall put such person in possession, and make the necessary entry in the record accordingly, subject to any order that may be subsequently passed by the Civil Court.

Registry of transfers of certain interests in land.

101. The transfers of all interests in land other than those referred to in section ninety-six shall be recorded by the Kánúngo and patwárí in such manner as the Board from time to time directs;

Enquiry in disputed cases.

and all disputed cases shall be reported to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who shall make such enquiry as may be necessary to ascertain the truth, and cause the record to be amended accordingly.

Annual enquiry as to revenue-free grants.

102. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall enquire annually into the cases of all land released conditionally or for a term from the payment of revenue.

If the condition be broken, he shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division to the Board for orders, and if the term has expired, or (where the grant is for the life of the grantee) if the grantee has died, he shall assess the land and report his proceedings through the Commissioner of the Division to the Board for sanction.

Inspection of records.

103. All records kept under this Act, shall be open to public inspection at such hours and on such conditions as to fees or otherwise as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe.

PARTITION AND UNION OF MAHÁLS.

Partitions.

104. Partition is either perfect or imperfect.

'Perfect partition.'

'Perfect partition' means the division of a mahál into two or more mahále.

'Imperfect partition.'

'Imperfect partition' means the division of a mahál into two or more properties, jointly responsible for the revenue assessed on the whole mahál.

Persons entitled to perfect partition.

105. Any recorded co-sharer in a mahál, and any person in whose favour a decree has been passed by any Civil Court awarding to him the proprietary right in a portion of a mahál, whether such portion consists of a fractional share in the whole or a part of the mahál, or of specific lands, is entitled to claim perfect partition of his share.

Any two or more recorded co-sharers may claim that their shares be divided from the other shares by a perfect partition, and be held by them as a single mahál.

Applications for perfect partition.

106. Applications for perfect partition are to be made in writing to the Collector of the District or the Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division of the District in which the mahál is situated;

and shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the record, showing the share held by the applicant in the mahál.

Provision as to estates situated in more than one district;

Provided that, if the mahál be situated in two or more districts, the application may be made in any one of those districts, and the partition shall be made by such one of the Collectors of those districts as the Board may direct.

and as to estates in more than one Sub-division.

107. If the mahál is situated in two or more Sub-divisions of a District, the partition shall be made by such one of the Assistant Collectors respectively in charge of such Sub-divisions as the Collector of the District may direct.

Notification of application.

108. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, on receiving an application for partition shall, if the application be in order and not open to objection on the face of it, publish a notification of the same at his office, and at some conspicuous place on the mahál to which the application relates,

Notice to co-sharers not joining.

and shall serve a notice on all such of the recorded co-sharers in the mahál as have not joined in the application, requiring any co-sharer in possession who may object to the partition to appear before him to state his objection, either in person or by a duly authorized agent, on a day to be specified in the notice, not being less than thirty or more than sixty days from the date on which such notice was issued.

Notification when alone sufficient.

Where, from any cause, notice cannot be personally served on any co-sharer, the notification shall be deemed sufficient notice under this section.

Power to refuse partition when objection admitted.

109. If, on or before the day specified, any objection be made to the partition by any co-sharer in possession, and the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, on a consideration of such objection, be of opinion that there is any good and sufficient reason why the partition should be absolutely disallowed, he may refuse the application, recording the grounds of his refusal.

Procedure if question of title be raised.

110. If the objection raise any question of title, or of proprietary right, which has not been already determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may either decline to grant the application until the question in dispute has been determined by a competent Court, or he may proceed to inquire into the merits of the objection.

In the latter case the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, after making the necessary inquiry and taking such evidence as may be adduced, shall record a proceeding declaring the nature and extent of the interests in the actual possession of the party or parties applying for the partition, and any other party or parties who may be affected thereby.

Reference to arbitrators.

The procedure to be observed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector in trying such cases shall be that laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure for the trial of original suits, and he may refer any question arising in such case to arbitration, and the provisions of Chapter VI (relative to arbitrators) of the same Code shall apply to such references.

Collector's decision equivalent to decision of Civil Court.

111. All orders and decisions passed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector under the last preceding section, for declaring the rights of parties, shall be held to be decisions of a Court of Civil Judicature of first instance, and shall be open to appeal to the District or High Court, under the rules applicable to regular appeals to those Courts.

Appellate Court may stay partition.

Upon such appeal being made, the District or High Court, as the case may be, may issue a precept to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector desiring him to stay the partition pending the decision of the appeal.

Special appeal to High Court.

112. From every decision passed under section one hundred and eleven by a District Court, a special appeal shall lie to the High Court, under the rules for the time being in force relating to special appeals to that Court.

113. When it has been decided to make a partition under this Chapter, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may give the parties the option of making the partition among themselves, or of appointing arbitrators for the purpose; or he shall make the partition himself or cause it to be made by any Assistant Collector subordinate to him.

Option to parties to make partition themselves or to appoint arbitrators.

If arbitrators are appointed, the provisions of sections two hundred and eighteen to two hundred and twenty-nine, both inclusive, shall apply.

114. In making partitions, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector and any person appointed by him shall have the same powers to enter on the land under partition for marking out the boundaries, surveying the mahál, and other purposes, as have been conferred on Settlement Officers under Chapter III.

Power to enter on land for purposes of partition.

115. Where there are no lands held in common, the lands held in severalty by the applicant for partition shall be declared a separate mahál, and shall be separately assessed to the Government revenue.

Partition of lands held only in severalty.

116. Where some of the lands are held in common, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall allot to the applicant for partition his share of such lands in accordance with village custom, if any such exist.

Partition of lands, some of which are held in common.

If no such custom exist, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall make such division as may secure to the applicant his fair portion of the common lands.

117. The portion of the common lands falling by such partition to the share of the applicant shall be added to the land held by him in severalty, and the maháls thus formed shall be assessed and declared separate maháls.

Formation of separate maháls from shares allotted in partition.

118. In making partitions under sections one hundred and fifteen to one hundred and seventeen, the Collector or Assistant Collector shall give effect to any transfer of lands held in severalty forming part of the mahál agreed to by the parties, and made previous to the declaration of the partition.

Transfers to be effectuated in making partition.

119. Where all the lands are held in common, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall make such a partition as may secure to the applicant his fair share of the mahál.

Partition where all lands held in common.

120. In all cases each mahál shall be made as compact as possible: Provided that, except with the sanction of the Board, no partition be disallowed solely on the ground of incompactness.

Maháls to be compact; partition not to be disallowed for incompactness.

121. If in making the partition it be necessary to include in the mahál assigned to one sharer, the land occupied by the dwelling-house or other building in the possession of another co-sharer, such other co-sharer shall be allowed to retain it, with any buildings thereon, on condition of his paying a reasonable ground-rent for it to the sharer into whose portion it may fall.

Rule when dwelling-house of one sharer is included in mahál assigned to another.

The limits of such land, and the rent to be paid for it, shall be fixed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector.

122. No sír-land belonging to any co-sharer shall be included in the mahál assigned on partition to another co-sharer, unless with the consent of the co-sharer who cultivates it, or unless the partition cannot otherwise be conveniently carried out.

Rule as to sír-land of one sharer being included in mahál assigned to another.

If such land be so included, and after partition such co-sharer continue to cultivate it, he shall be an occupancy-tenant of such land, and his rent shall be fixed by order of the Collector of the District or of the Assistant Collector.

123. Tanks, wells, water-courses and embankments shall be considered as attached to the land for the benefit of which they were originally made.

Rule as to tanks, wells, water-courses and embankments.

In cases in which, from the extent, situation or construction of such works, it is found necessary to continue them to the joint property of the proprietors of two or more of the maháls into which the mahál may be divided, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall determine the extent to which the proprietors of each mahál may make use of the said works, and the proportion of the charges for repairs of such works to be borne by such proprietors respectively, and the manner in which the profits, if any, derived from such works, shall be divided.

124. Places of worship and burial-grounds, held in common previous to the partition of a mahál, shall continue to be so held, unless the parties otherwise agree among themselves. In such cases they shall state in writing the agreement into which they have entered, and such writing shall be filed with the record.

Rule as to places of worship and burial-grounds.

125. The amount of revenue to be paid by each portion of the divided mahál shall be determined by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, provided that the aggregate revenue of the new maháls shall not exceed the revenue assessed on the mahál immediately before partition, Determination of revenue payable by each division of a mahál.

and the proprietors of the new maháls shall be held liable for the portions of the revenue severally assessed on their maháls, whether new engagements be taken from them or not.

Liability of proprietors.

126. The Board shall make rules for determining the costs of partitions under this Act, and the mode in which such costs are to be apportioned:

Power to make rules as to costs.

Provided that the cost of surveying a mahál, when such survey is necessary for the purpose of partition, shall be paid rateably by all the co-sharers of the mahál, according to their shares therein.

Cost of survey.

Case may be struck off for default as to costs.

127. If the costs to be paid by the applicant for partition are not paid within a time to be fixed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, the case may be struck off the file.

Power to stay partition.

And if at any stage of the proceedings there appears to be any reason for stopping the partition, the Collector of the District may of his own motion, or on the report of the Assistant Collector making the partition, stay the partition and order the proceedings to be quashed.

Partitions to be made or confirmed by Collector, and notified to parties.

128. Every partition shall either be made by the Collector of the District, or if made by an Assistant Collector be reported to the Collector of the District for his sanction and confirmation;

and on completion of a partition the Collector of the District shall publish a notification of the fact at his office and at some conspicuous place on each of the new mahâls, or in the village of which they form part;

When to take effect.

and it shall take effect from the first day of July next, after the date of such notification.

Appeal to Commissioner from orders of Collector.

129. An appeal against the decision of the Collector of the District making or confirming a partition, shall lie to the Commissioner within one year from the date on which such partition takes effect.

Power to order new allotment of revenue on proof of fraud or error in first distribution.

130. Where the public revenue is fraudulently or erroneously distributed at the time of the partition, the Local Government may within twelve years from the time of discovery of the fraud or error order a new allotment of the public revenue upon the several mahâls into which the mahâl has been divided, on an estimate of the assets of each mahâl at the time of the partition, to be made conformably to the best evidence and information procurable respecting the same.

Making of imperfect partitions.

131. Imperfect partition shall be carried out according to the provisions of the preceding sections, so far as they are applicable:

Provided that no application for imperfect partition shall be entertained unless the consent of all the recorded co-sharers in the mahâl be first obtained.

Civil Courts barred from entertaining applications for partition.

132. No Civil Court shall entertain any suit or application for the partition of a mahâl.

Union of mahâls originally part of same village.

133. If two or more revenue-paying mahâls have originally formed portion of the same village, the proprietors shall be entitled to have such mahâls united and to hold them as a single mahâl.

Application for such union.

134. Every application for the union of such mahâls shall be made in writing to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division of the District in which the mahâls are situate.

How to be dealt with.

135. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, as the case may be, see no objection, he shall comply with the application, and cause the necessary entries to be made in the records of his office, reporting the case to the Commissioner.

Application of Act to partition or union of revenue-free mahâls.

136. The provisions of this Chapter so far as they are applicable, may be applied by the order of the Collector of the District to the partition or union of mahâls held free of revenue.

MAINTENANCE OF BOUNDARIES.

Power of Collector and subordinates to enter and survey land, mark boundaries, and settle disputes.

137. The Collector of the District, Assistant Collectors and their subordinates shall have power to enter upon and survey land, and to demarcate the boundaries of mahâls, villages or fields.

Obligations of owners as to boundary-marks.

138. All owners of mahâls, villages or fields are bound to maintain and keep in repair at their own cost the boundary-marks lawfully erected thereon.

Penalty for erasing, removing, or injuring marks.

139. Any person convicted before a Collector of the District or Assistant Collector of wilfully erasing, removing or damaging such boundary-marks, may be ordered by the convicting officer to pay such sum, not exceeding fifty rupees for each mark so erased, removed or damaged, as may be necessary to defray the expense of restoring the boundary-marks so erased, removed or damaged, and of rewarding the informer through whom the conviction was obtained.

Who to be charged for re-erection and repair when offenders not discoverable.

140. Whenever the person erasing, removing or damaging any such mark cannot be discovered, or if for any other reason it is found impracticable to recover from him the sum which he has been so ordered to pay, the mark shall be re-erected or repaired at the charge of the owner or owners of such one or more of the conterminous fields or mahâls, as to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector seems fit.

Powers of Collector as to repair of boundary-marks.

141. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may decide on the basis of possession all disputes concerning boundaries, and may at any time direct the owners of mahâls, villages or fields, by written notice served upon them,

(a) to cause proper boundary-marks to be erected on such mahâls, villages or fields,

(b) to repair the boundary-marks lawfully erected on such mahâls, villages or fields.

In default of their compliance with such direction within fifteen days from the date of the service of the notice, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall cause such boundary-marks to be erected or repaired, as the case may be, and shall charge the cost of such erections or repairs to the owners of the conterminous villages, fields or mahâls, in such proportion as he thinks fit.

Recovery of fines and costs.

142. All fees, fines, costs and other sums ordered to be paid under this Chapter shall be recoverable as an arrear of revenue.

CHAPTER V.

COLLECTION OF LAND-REVENUE.

Responsibility for revenue.

143. In the case of every mahâl the entire mahâl and all the proprietors jointly and severally shall be responsible to Government for the revenue for the time being assessed on the mahâl.

Board may make rules as to payment of revenue

144. The Board may, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, from time to time, make rules as to the instalments by which, and the persons, places and times to whom and at which, the revenue payable in respect of any land shall be paid.

Until the issue of such rules the said revenue shall be paid in such instalments to the persons and at the times and places by which, to whom and at which it is now paid.

Arrear. Defaulter.

145. Any sum not so paid becomes thereupon an arrear of revenue and the person from whom it is due becomes a defaulter.

No interest shall be demanded on any arrear of land-revenue.

Lumberdar when included as defaulter.

If the settlement has been made with a lumberdar on behalf of the proprietary body, both the lumberdar and the co-sharer or co-sharers from whom the arrear is due shall be deemed defaulters.

Certified account to be evidence as to arrear.

146. A statement of account certified by the tahsíldár shall be conclusive evidence of the existence of the arrear, of its amount, and of the person who is the defaulter.

Process for recovery of arrears.

147. An arrear of revenue may be recovered by the following processes:—

(a) by serving a writ of demand (dastak) on the defaulter;

(b) by arrest and detention of his person;

(c) by distress and sale of his moveable property;

(d) by attachment of the share, or pattí, or mahâl, in respect of which the arrear is due;

(e) by transfer of such share or pattí, to a solvent co-sharer in the mahâl;

(f) by annulment of the settlement of such pattí, or of the whole mahâl;

(g) by sale of such pattí or of the whole mahâl.

When writs may issue.

148. Writs of demand may be issued on or after the day following that on which the arrear accrues.

Power to frame rules as to writs.

The Board shall, from time to time, frame rules for the issue of such writs, and fix the costs recoverable from the defaulter as an arrear of revenue, and direct by what officer such writs shall be issued.

Arrest and detention of defaulter.

149. At any time after an arrear becomes due, the defaulter may be arrested and detained in custody for fifteen days, unless the arrear, together with the costs of arrest, is sooner paid.

The Board may, from time to time, declare by what officers or class of officers the powers of arrest conferred by this Act may be exercised.

Distress and sale of his moveable property.

150. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may, whether the defaulter has been arrested or not, distrain and sell his moveable property, with the exception of the implements of husbandry and cattle actually employed by him in agriculture, and, in the case of an artizan, of his tools.

Exceptions.

Power to attach defaulter's land and take it under direct management.

151. When an arrear of land revenue has become due, the Collector of the District may, in addition to or instead of any of the other processes before specified, cause the share or pattí, or mahâl, in respect of which the arrear is due, to be attached and taken under the management of himself or any agent whom he appoints for that purpose.

Powers and obligations of manager

152. The Collector of the District or the agent so appointed shall be bound by all the engagements which existed between the person or persons who immediately before the attachment was or were in possession of the land attached and the subordinate proprietors or tenants, if any,

and shall be entitled to manage the land attached, and to receive all rents and profits accruing therefrom to the exclusion of such person or persons, until the arrears of land-revenue due therefrom have been satisfied, or until the Collector of the District restores to the management thereof the person or persons whose interest has been attached.

Application of surplus profits.

153. All surplus profits of the land attached, beyond the cost of such attachment and management, including the payment of the current revenue, shall be applied in defraying the said arrear;

Limit to term of attachment.

and no land shall be attached for the same arrears for a longer term than five years from the first day of July next after the attachment; provided that, if the arrear be sooner liquidated, the land shall be released and the surplus receipts (if any) made over to the proprietor.

Transfer of defaulter's share to co-sharers

154. When the arrear is due in respect of a share or pattí of a mahâl, the Collector of the District may, with the previous sanction of the Board, transfer such share or pattí for a term not exceeding fifteen years from the first day of July next after the date of the sanction to any or all of the other co-sharers, on condition of their paying such arrear and on such terms as the Board in each case may think fit.

Liability of co-sharers not affected.

This procedure shall not affect the joint and several liability of the co-sharers of the mahál in which it is enforced.

When report may be made to Board and settlement annulled.

155. When any arrear of land revenue is due and the Collector of the District is of opinion that the processes hereinbefore provided are not sufficient for the recovery of such arrear, he may, in addition to or instead of all or any of the other processes mentioned in section one hundred and forty-seven, report the matter to the Board, and the Board may thereupon order the existing settlement of the share or pattí or mahál, in respect of which the arrear is due, to be annulled.

Exception of certain arrears.

The provisions of this section shall not be put in force for the recovery of any arrear of land-revenue which may have accrued on land,

(a) while under attachment under section one hundred and fifty-one, or

(b) while under the charge of the Court of Wards.

When settlement annulled, Collector may manage land himself, or by agent, or let it in farm.

156. When the settlement of any land has been annulled, the Collector of the District may, with the previous sanction of the Board, either manage the land himself or through an agent, or he may let it in farm to any person willing to accept the same, for such term and on such conditions as may be sanctioned by the Board:

Provided that the term for which land may be so held or farmed be not longer than fifteen years from the first day of July next after the date of such annulment.

Suspension of contracts.

And no contracts made by the persons who immediately before the annulment of the settlement were in possession of the lands comprised therein, or by the persons through whom they respectively claim, relating to such lands, shall, during such term, be binding on the Collector of the District, or his agent, or lessee.

Proclamation of attachment or annulment of settlement.

157. When the Collector of the District attaches any land under section one hundred and fifty-one, or when the settlement of any land has been annulled under section one hundred and fifty-five, he shall make public proclamation thereof on the mahál.

Payments thereafter to defaulter not to discharge payer.

158. No payment made after such proclamation on account of rent or any other asset of the mahál, to any person other than the Collector of the District or his agent, or lessee, shall be credited to the person making such payment, or relieve him from liability to payment to the Collector of the District, his agent or lessee.

Payments to defaulter in anticipation of due date.

159. No payment made to the defaulter, in anticipation of the usual period for the payment of the rents shall, without the special sanction of the Collector, be credited to the person making the same in account with the Collector of the District or with the person to whom he gives possession.

Recovery of revenue due from lessee.

160. When any land has been farmed for arrears of revenue, any balance of revenue due from the farmer may be recovered from him or his surety as an arrear of revenue under the provisions of this Act.

Suspension of responsibility of co-sharers for revenue of portion of mahál as to which settlement is annulled.

161. Whenever the settlement of a portion of a mahál is annulled under section one hundred and fifty-five the joint responsibility of the co-sharers for the revenue of such portion of the mahál shall be in abeyance until a new settlement of such portion is made under section one hundred and sixty-two.

Offer of settlement to proprietor on expiry of period for which land is farmed or taken under management.

162. After the expiration of the period for which any land has been farmed, or held pursuant to section one hundred fifty-six under direct management for the recovery of an arrear of revenue, the Collector of the District shall offer to the person entitled to be settled with under section forty-three a new settlement, on such conditions as the Board may direct, for the remainder of the term of the settlement of the district; and if he refuse such offer, the Collector of the District may (with the previous sanction of the Board) farm the land to some other person, or hold it under direct management under the provisions of sections forty-eight, forty-nine, and fifty.

Power to sell by auction defaulter's share, &c.

163. When an arrear of land-revenue has become due and the Collector of the District is of opinion that the other processes hereinbefore provided are not sufficient for the recovery of such arrear, he may, in addition to, or instead of, all or any of such other processes and subject to the provision hereinafter contained and with the previous sanction of the Board, sell by auction the pattí or mahál in respect of which such arrear is due.

Bar to sale for certain arrears.

Provided that no land shall be sold—

(a) for any arrear which may have accrued while it was under the charge of the Court of Wards, or was so circumstanced that the Court of Wards might have exercised jurisdiction over it under the provisions of section one hundred and ninety-two, clauses (a), (b), (c), (d), or (e);

(b) for any arrear which may have accrued while it was under attachment under section one hundred and fifty-one;

(c) for any arrear which may have accrued while it was held under direct management by the Collector of the District, or in farm by any other person, under sections forty-eight, forty-nine, one hundred and fifty-six, or one hundred and sixty-two.

Land to be sold free of incumbrances.

164. Land sold under the last preceding section shall be sold free of all incumbrances, and all grants and contracts previously made by any person other than the purchaser in respect of such land shall become void as against the purchaser at the auction-sale.

Contracts void against purchaser.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies—

(a) in districts or portions of districts permanently-settled, to farms granted in good faith at fair rents, and for specified areas by a former proprietor for terms not exceeding twenty years, under written leases duly registered;

(b) in all districts, to lands held under bonâ fide leases at fair rents, temporary or perpetual, for the erection of dwelling-houses, or manufactories, or for mines, gardens, tanks, canals, places of worship, burying grounds, such lands continuing to be used for the purposes specified in such leases.

165. On the receipt of the sanction of the Board to the sale of any land, the Collector of the District shall issue a proclamation, in the vernacular language of the District, of the intended sale, specifying the time and place of sale,

Procedure in effecting sale.

and (when the land to be sold is a mahál or part of a mahál paying revenue to Government) the revenue assessed upon it, together with any other particulars he may think necessary.

166. When the land is sold for arrears of revenue due thereon, the proclamation shall declare that the land is to be sold free of any incumbrance except the farms and leases (if any) mentioned in section one hundred and sixty-four.

Proclamation of sale.

Such proclamation shall be made at the head-quarters of the tahsíl in which the land is situate, and also in the village of which it is a part.

167. A written notice of the intended sale and of the time and place thereof shall be affixed in the office of the Collector of the District, and where the Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division in which the land is situate has a separate office then also in such office, and a copy of such notice shall be served on the defaulter.

Notification of sale.

168. The sale shall be made either by the Collector of the District in person or by an Assistant Collector specially appointed by him in this behalf.

Time when sale may be made.

No such sale shall take place on a Sunday or other authorized holiday, or until after the expiration of at least thirty days from the date on which the said notice thereof has been affixed in the office of the Collector of the District, and proclamation of the sale has been made in the village in which the land is situate.

The Collector of the District may from time to time postpone the sale, reporting such postponement to the Commissioner.

169. If the defaulter pay the arrear in respect of which the land is to be sold at any time before the day fixed for the sale, to the person appointed by Government under section one hundred and forty-four to receive payment of the land-revenue assessed on such land, or to the Collector of the District, or the Assistant Collector in charge of the Sub-division of the District in which the land is situate, the sale shall be stayed.

When sale may be stayed.

170. The person declared to be the purchaser shall be required to deposit immediately twenty-five per cent. on the amount of his bid, and in default of such deposit the land shall forthwith be again put up and sold.

Deposit by purchaser.

Re-sale in default of deposit.

171. The full amount of purchase-money shall be paid by the purchaser before sunset of the fifteenth day from that on which the sale of the land took place, or, if the said fifteenth day be a Sunday or other authorized holiday, then on the first office day after such fifteenth day;

Purchase-money when to be paid.

and in default of payment within such period, the deposit, after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale, shall be forfeited to Government, and the property shall be re-sold, and the defaulting purchaser shall forfeit all claim to the property, or to any part of the sum for which it may be subsequently sold.

Effect of default.

172. If the proceeds of the sale which is eventually made be less than the price bid by such defaulting purchaser, the difference shall be leviable from him under the rules contained in the Code of Civil Procedure for enforcing payment of money in satisfaction of a decree of Court.

Liability of purchaser for loss by re-sale.

173. Every re-sale of land in default of payment of the purchase-money shall be made after the issue of a fresh notice in the manner prescribed for original sales.

Notification before re-sale.

174. Every sale of land under this Act shall be reported by the Collector of the District to the Commissioner of the Division.

Sale to be reported to Commissioner.

175. At any time within thirty days from the date of the sale, application may be made to the Commissioner of the Division to set aside the sale on the ground of some material irregularity or mistake in publishing or conducting it;

Application to set aside sale.

but no sale shall be set aside on such ground unless the applicant proves to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that he has sustained substantial injury by reason of the irregularity or mistake complained of.

176. On the expiration of thirty days from the date of the sale, if no such application as is mentioned in the last preceding section has been made, or if such application has been made and rejected, the Commissioner of the Division shall make an order confirming the sale;

Order confirming or setting aside.

and if such application be made and allowed, the Commissioner shall make an order setting aside the sale.

Every order made under this section shall be final.

Bar of claims against Government.

177. If no such application be made within the time allowed by section one hundred and seventy-five, all claims founded on the irregularity or mistake complained of shall as against the Government be barred.

Nothing herein contained shall preclude the institution of a suit in a Civil Court for the purpose of setting aside a sale on the ground of fraud.

Refund of purchase-money when sale set aside.

178. Whenever the sale of any land is set aside, the purchaser shall be entitled to receive back his purchase-money, with or without interest, in such manner as the Commissioner of the Division thinks fit.

Certificate to purchaser when sale becomes absolute.

179. After a sale of land has been confirmed in manner aforesaid, the Collector of the District in which the land is situate shall put the person declared to be the purchaser into possession of the land and shall grant him a certificate, to the effect that he has purchased the land to which the certificate refers, free of every incumbrance, and such certificate shall be deemed to be a valid transfer of such land.

Bar of suit against certified purchaser.

180. The certificate shall state the name of the person declared at the time of sale to be the actual purchaser; and any suit brought, whether in a Civil or Revenue Court, against the certified purchaser on the ground that the purchase was made on behalf of another person not the certified purchaser, though by agreement the name of the certified purchaser was used, shall be dismissed with costs.

Application of proceeds of sale.

181. When a sale of land under this Act has been confirmed, the proceeds of the sale shall be applied in the first place to defraying the expenses of the sale and to the payment of any arrears due in respect of such land at the date of the confirmation of such sale, and recoverable as an arrear of land-revenue, and the surplus (if any) shall be paid to the person whose land has been sold;

or, if the land sold were held in shares, then to the co-sharers collectively, or according to the amount of their recorded interests, at the discretion of the Collector of the District.

Surplus not to be paid to creditors, nor retained by Government, except under order of Court.

182. Such surplus shall not (except under an order of a Civil Court) be payable to any creditor of the person whose land has been sold, nor shall it (except under a like order) be retained in the Government Treasury.

Liability of purchaser for revenue.

183. The person named in the certificate of title as purchaser of any land shall be liable for all instalments of land-revenue becoming due in respect of such land subsequently to the date of the confirmation of the sale.

Pre-emption by co-sharers when land sold is a pattí of a mahál.

184. Where any land sold under section one hundred and sixty-three is a pattí of a mahál, any registered co-sharer, not being himself in arrear with regard to such land, may, if the lot has been knocked down to a stranger, claim to take the said land at the sum last bid:

Provided that the said demand of pre-emption be made on the day of sale, and before the officer conducting the sale has left the office for the day, and provided that the claimant fulfil all the other conditions of the sale.

Payment under protest and suit for recovery.

185. Whenever proceedings are taken under this Chapter against any person for the recovery of any arrear of revenue, he may pay the amount claimed under protest to the officer taking such proceedings, and upon such payment the proceedings shall be stayed,

and (subject to the pecuniary limitations prescribed by law) the person against whom such proceedings were taken may sue the Government for the amount so paid in any Civil Court situate in the district where such proceedings were taken;

and in such suit, the plaintiff may, notwithstanding section one hundred and forty-six, give evidence of the amount which he alleges to be due from him.

Proprietor of mahál attached, &c., holding sír-land therein, to be recorded as privileged tenant.

186. Any proprietor of a mahál or portion of a mahál that is attached, transferred, held under direct management, farmed, or sold under the provisions of this Act, who may hold sír-land in such mahál or portion, shall be recorded as a privileged tenant of such sír-land; and the rent to be paid by him for such land shall be fixed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector accordingly.

Power to proceed against interest of defaulter in property other than that in respect of which default is made.

187. If the arrear cannot be recovered by any of the above processes, and the defaulter owns any other mahál, or any share in any other mahál, or any house, or interest in a house, the Collector of the District may proceed against such mahál, share, house or interest as if it were the land on account of which the revenue is due, under the provisions of this Act:

Provided that no other interests save those of the defaulter alone shall be so proceeded against, and no incumbrances created or contracts entered into by him in good faith shall be rendered invalid by such proceeding.

Tenure of land under expired settlement until new settlement is made.

188. If the term for which any settlement has been made expires before a new settlement is made, all persons with whom a settlement has been made, who continue after the expiration of such term to occupy the land comprised in the expired settlement shall, until a new settlement is made, hold the said land upon the conditions of the expired settlement.

Provisions applied to arrears due at commencement of Act.

189. The provisions of this Act with regard to the recovery of arrears of revenue shall apply to all arrears of land-revenue and sums of money recoverable as arrears of land-revenue and due when this Act comes into force.

Assessment of alluvial land.

190. All land added by alluvion to a mahál is liable to assessment. Such land may be assessed and settled under rules to be framed under section two hundred and fifty-five.

CHAPTER VI.

COURT OF WARDS.

Board to have powers of Court of Wards.

191. The Board shall have the powers of a Court of Wards for the superintendence of the persons and property of all proprietors of mahále or parts of mahále who are disqualified for the management of their own lands, or who are put under the charge of the Collector of the District by order of a Civil Court under the provisions of any Act for the time being in force.

Proprietors when disqualified for management of their lands.

192. Proprietors shall be held disqualified to manage their own lands when they are

(a) females deemed by the Local Government incompetent to manage their estates;

(b) minors;

(c) idiots;

(d) lunatics;

(e) persons otherwise rendered incapable by physical defects or infirmities from managing their own estates;

(f) persons disqualified in the opinion of the Local Government by vice or bad character from managing their estates;

(g) persons declared by the Local Government, on their own application, to be disqualified from managing their estates.

Power to Court of Wards to decline superintendence.

193. The Court of Wards may, in its discretion, assume or refrain from assuming the superintendence of the person or property of any disqualified proprietor, and may at any time release any person or property from its superintendence.

Proviso as to person or property placed under superintendence.

Provided that such person or property has not been placed under the Court of Wards by any competent authority, whose order is necessary for his or its release.

Collector to report what proprietors are disqualified.

194. The Collector of the District shall ascertain and report to the Court of Wards from time to time what proprietors may come within the description of disqualified landholders under section one hundred and ninety-two;

and the Court of Wards shall, on receipt of the report of the Collector, make such order as may seem to them expedient.

Power to enforce this Chapter without report.

195. Nothing in section one hundred and ninety-four shall prevent the Court of Wards or the Local Government from putting the provisions of this Chapter in force without any report from the Collector.

Report to Government when Court of Wards' right of superintendence is disputed.

196. If, in any case not specially provided for by any law in force for the time being, the right of the Court of Wards to assume or retain the superintendence of the person and property of a disqualified proprietor is disputed by such proprietor, or, if he be a minor, by some person on his behalf, the case shall be reported to the Local Government, whose orders thereon shall be final.

Appointment, removal and control of managers and guardians.

197. The Court of Wards may appoint managers of the property of disqualified proprietors; and, if such proprietors be minors, idiots or lunatics, the Court of Wards may appoint guardians for the care of their persons, and may remove and control such managers and guardians.

Proprietors may appoint guardians for their heirs, if disqualified, by will executed and attested in manner required by the Indian Succession Act, 1865; but such appointment shall not be valid till confirmed by the Court of Wards.

Powers of Court of Wards as to male minors within jurisdiction.

198. The Court of Wards may direct where all male minors under its jurisdiction shall reside for the purpose of education or otherwise.

Powers of manager.

199. The manager appointed by the Court of Wards shall have power to collect the rents of the land entrusted to him as well as all other money due to the disqualified proprietor, and to grant receipts therefor;

and he may, subject to the control of the Court, grant or renew such leases and farms, not being for a longer period than five years, as may be necessary for the good management of the property.

Duties of manager.

200. The manager shall manage the property committed to him diligently and faithfully for the benefit of the proprietor, and shall in every respect act to the best of his judgment for the proprietor's interest as if the property were his own.

Powers of Court of Wards as to property under its charge.

201. The Court of Wards shall have power to give such leases or farms of the whole or parts of the property under its charge, and to mortgage or sell any part of such property, and to do all such other acts, as it may judge to be most for the benefit of the property and the advantage of the disqualified proprietors.

Exercise of their powers by Court of Wards through others.

202. The Court of Wards may exercise all powers conferred on it by this Act through the Collectors of the Districts in which any part of the property of its Wards may be situated, or through any other person whom it may appoint for such purpose.

Suits by and against proprietors under guardianship.

203. All disqualified proprietors whose property is in charge of the Court of Wards, and for whom guardians have been appointed, shall sue and be sued by and in the name of their guardians:

Provided that no such suit shall be brought by any such guardian without the previous sanction of the Court of Wards.

Rules relating to managers.

204. Every manager appointed by the Court of Wards shall—

(a) give such security as the Court of Wards thinks fit, duly to account for what he shall receive in respect of the rents and profits of the property for which he is appointed;

(b) pass his accounts at such periods and in such form as the Court of Wards directs;

(c) pay the balance due from him thereon;

(d) apply for the sanction of the Court of Wards to any act which may involve the property in expense not previously sanctioned by such Court;

(e) be entitled to such allowance as the Court of Wards thinks fit for his care and pains in the execution of his duties;

(f) be responsible for any loss occasioned to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence.

CHAPTER VII.

PROCEDURE OF REVENUE COURTS.

Place for holding Court.

205. A Commissioner of a Division may hold his Court at any place within his Division that he thinks fit.

A Collector of a District, an Assistant Collector (whether in charge or not in charge of a Subdivision of a District), or a Settlement Officer or Assistant Settlement Officer, may hold his Court at any place within the limits of the District to which he is appointed.

A Tahsíldár may hold his Court at any place within the limits of his tahsíl.

Hearing and decision. Notice to parties.

Every hearing and decision shall be in open Court, and the parties or their authorized agents shall have due notice to attend.

Power to summon persons to give evidence and produce documents.

206. Any officer mentioned in section two hundred and five shall have power to summon any person whose attendance he considers necessary for the purpose of any investigation, suit, or other business before him.

All persons so summoned shall be bound to attend either in person or by an authorized agent, as such officer may direct, and to state the truth upon any subject respecting which they are examined or make statements, and to produce such documents and other things as may be required.

Summons to be in writing signed and sealed.

207. Every summons shall be in writing in duplicate, and shall be signed and sealed by the officer issuing it or by such person as he empowers in this behalf,

Mode of service.

and shall be served by tendering or delivering a copy of it to the person summoned, or, if he cannot be found, by affixing a copy of it to some conspicuous part of his usual residence.

Service in district other than that of issuer.

208. If his usual residence be in another district, the summons may be sent by post to the Collector of that District, who shall serve it in accordance with the preceding section.

Procedure for procuring attendance of witnesses.

209. In any suit instituted before any officer mentioned in section two hundred and five, if either party desires the attendance of witnesses, he shall follow the procedure prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure, section one hundred and fifty-one.

Hearing in absence of party neglecting to attend, and ex parte order.

210. Whenever any party to the suit or matter under investigation neglects to attend on the day specified in the summons, the suit or matter may be heard and determined in his absence, and an order passed by default, or ex parte, as the case may be.

No appeal from ex parte order.

211. No appeal shall lie from an order passed ex parte, or by default.

Re-hearing on proof of good cause for non-appearance.

But in all such cases, if the party against whom judgment has been given appears either in person or by agent (if a plaintiff within fifteen days from the date of such order, and if a defendant, within fifteen days after any process for enforcing the judgment has been executed, or at any earlier period), and shows good cause for his non-appearance, and satisfies the officer making the order that there has been a failure of justice, such officer may, upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as he thinks proper, re-investigate the case and alter or rescind the order according to the justice of the case:

Order not to be altered without summons to adverse party.

Provided that no such order shall be reversed or altered without previously summoning the party in whose favour judgment has been given to appear and be heard in support of it.

Mode of taking evidence in certain cases.

212. In all cases coming under sections one hundred, one hundred and two, one hundred and nine, one hundred and ten, one hundred and twenty-three, and one hundred and thirty-nine, the evidence shall be taken down in full in writing in the language in ordinary use in the district, by or in the presence and hearing and under the personal superintendence and direction of the officer making the investigation, and shall be signed by him.

In cases in which the evidence is not taken down in full in writing by the officer making the investigation, he shall, as the examination of each witness proceeds, make a memorandum of the substance of what such witness deposes; and such memorandum shall be written and signed by such officer with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

If such officer is prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so.

The Local Government may declare what shall, for the purpose of this section, be deemed to be the language in ordinary use in any district.

Taking evidence given in English. Translation to be on record.

213. When the evidence is given in English, such officer may take it down in that language with his own hand, and an authenticated translation of the same in the language in ordinary use in the district shall be made and shall form part of the record.

214. In all cases other than those specified in section two hundred and twelve such officer may either cause the evidence to be taken down in full as aforesaid, or may make a memorandum in his vernacular language of the substance of the evidence of each witness as the examination of such witness proceeds.

Taking evidence in other cases.

Such memorandum shall be written and signed by such officer with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

Memorandum to be in writing signed.

215. All decisions under this Act shall be written by the officer passing the same in his own handwriting, and shall be explained by him in open Court to the parties or their agents.

Writing and explanation of decisions.

216. Every notice under this Act may be served, either by tendering or delivering a copy thereof to the person on whom it is to be served;

Mode of serving notices.

or, if such person is a proprietor of land, to his agent,

or by affixing a copy thereof to some conspicuous place on the land to which such notice refers.

217. No such notice shall be deemed void on account of any error in the name or designation of any person referred to therein, unless when such error has produced substantial injustice.

Notice not void for error.

REFERENCE TO ARBITRATION.

218. A Commissioner of a Division, a Collector of a District, an Assistant Collector of the first class, a Settlement Officer, an Assistant Settlement Officer may, with the consent of the parties, by order, refer any dispute before him to arbitration,

Power to refer to arbitration.

and except in the cases provided for by sections one hundred and ten, and one hundred and thirteen, a Settlement Officer, or Assistant Settlement Officer, may, by order, refer the dispute to arbitration without the consent of the parties,

Reference to arbitration.

and a Tahsíldár invested with the powers described in sections one hundred and thirty-seven to one hundred and forty-one (both inclusive) may, with the consent of the parties, refer to arbitration any dispute arising before him respecting the matters mentioned in the same sections.

219. In referring any such dispute to arbitration, the officer making the reference shall specify, in the order of reference, the precise matter submitted to the arbitrators, and such period as he may think reasonable for the delivery of the award;

What to be specified in order of reference.

and he may from time to time extend such period.

220. The parties to the case may each nominate either one or two arbitrators, provided that each party shall nominate the same number;

Appointment of arbitrators.

and a third or fifth arbitrator (as the case may be) shall be appointed by the officer making the reference.

And in cases when a Settlement Officer or Assistant Settlement Officer refers a dispute without the consent of the parties he shall, if they refuse to nominate arbitrators under the first paragraph of this section, nominate three or five arbitrators as he thinks fit.

221. Every officer making a reference under this chapter may, on good cause shown, excuse any person from serving as an arbitrator, and may call on the party who nominated such person to nominate another in the place of the person so excused.

Power to excuse arbitrator from serving and to call for nomination of substitute.

222. If an arbitrator die, desire to be discharged, or refuse or become incapable to act, the party who nominated him shall nominate another person in his place.

Nomination of new arbitrator in place of one dying or failing to act.

223. If in any of the cases provided for by section two hundred and twenty-one or section two hundred and twenty-two, any party fail for a week to nominate in manner aforesaid, the officer making the reference shall appoint some person to act as arbitrator.

Nomination by Collector when parties fail.

The arbitrators shall determine and award concerning the matters referred to them for arbitration; and the parties disputing, and all persons claiming through them respectively, shall abide by and perform the award of the arbitrators.

224. If the arbitrators require the presence of the parties, or any other persons whose evidence may be necessary, they shall apply to the officer making the reference, who shall summon such parties or persons;

Summoning parties to give evidence.

and all such parties or persons shall be bound to attend, either in person or by agent, as the arbitrators may require, and to state the truth and to produce such documents and other things as may be required before the arbitrators.

Obligation of persons summoned.

225. The award shall be made in writing under the hands of the arbitrators and shall be submitted by them to the officer making the reference, who shall cause notice to be served on the parties to attend and hear the award.

Preparation and submission of award.

226. The officer making the reference may remit the award or any of the matters referred to arbitration to the reconsideration of the same arbitrators,

In what cases award or subject of arbitration may be remitted to arbitrators.

(a) if the award has left undetermined some of the matters referred to arbitration, or if it determine matters not referred to arbitration;

(b) if the award is so indefinite as to be incapable of execution;

(c) if an objection to the legality of the award is apparent upon the face of the award;

227. No award shall be liable to be set aside except on the ground of corruption or misconduct of all or any of the arbitrators.

Grounds on which award may be set aside.

Any application to set aside an award shall be made within ten days after the day appointed for hearing the award.

Application to set aside.

228. If the officer making the reference does not see cause to remit the award or any of the matters referred to arbitration for reconsideration in the manner aforesaid,

Decision according to award.

and if no application has been made to set aside the award,

or if he has refused such application,

he shall decide in accordance with the award of the majority of the arbitrators, and shall fix the amount to be allowed for the expenses of the arbitration and direct by and to whom, and in what manner, the same shall be paid.

229. Such decision shall not be open to appeal, and shall be at once carried out;

Bar to appeal and suit in Civil Court.

and no Civil Court shall entertain any suit for the purpose of setting it aside or against the arbitrators on account of their award.

ENFORCEMENT OF DECISIONS.

230. Any officer mentioned in section two hundred and five may execute all decisions made by him under the provisions of this Act, in cases wherein a specific sum of money is adjudged to be due, or any costs or damages are awarded, by levying the same by any process in use for the recovery of an arrear of revenue or rent.

Execution of decisions made by Commissioner, &c.

231. In cases wherein possession of immoveable property is adjudged, the officer making the award may deliver over possession in the same manner, and with the same powers in regard to all contempts, resistance and the like, as may be lawfully exercised by the Civil Courts in execution of their own decrees.

Delivery of possession of immoveable property.

POWERS OF COLLECTORS.

232. Collectors of the District may, in addition to their own powers, exercise all the powers conferred by this Act on Assistant Collectors.

Powers of Collectors of District.

233. An Assistant Collector in charge of a Subdivision of a District shall, as such, have the following powers:—

Powers of Assistant Collectors in charge of Subdivisions.

(1.) To refer cases for enquiry or decision to his subordinates, under section eighteen:

(28.) To distrain and sell moveable property of defaulters, under section one hundred and fifty.

(29.) To assess alluvial lands, under sections one hundred and ninety:

(30.) To fix the rent to be paid for their sír-land by proprietors of mahâls which have been attached, transferred, held under direct management, farmed or sold under the provisions of this Act:

(31.) To exercise any other jurisdiction or authority which by this Act is expressly attributed to Assistant Collectors.

Powers of Assistant Collectors of first class not in charge of Sub-divisions.

234. Assistant Collectors of the first class, not in charge of Sub-divisions of Districts shall exercise all or any of the powers conferred on Assistant Collectors of the first class in charge of Sub-divisions, in such cases or class of cases as the Collector of the District may from time to time refer to them for disposal.

Powers of Assistant Collectors of second class.

235. All Assistant Collectors of the second class shall have power to investigate and report on such cases as the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector in charge of a Sub-division of a District may from time to time commit to them for investigation and report.

POWERS OF SETTLEMENT OFFICERS.

Powers of officers in charge of settlement.

236. Officers in charge of a settlement may exercise all the powers conferred by or under this Act on Settlement Officers, but none but an officer in charge of a settlement or an Assistant Settlement Officer specially empowered by Government shall have power—

(1.) To frame proposals for assessment, under section forty-five.

(2.) To distribute the assessment, under section forty-six.

(3.) To re-distribute land or revenue, under section forty-seven.

(4.) To exclude proprietors from settlement for refusal to engage, under sections forty-eight and forty-nine.

(5.) To adjust the rent of excluded proprietors under section fifty.

(6.) To make a sub-settlement, under section fifty-three.

(9.) To resume and assess rent-free tenures, under sections seventy-nine and eighty.

(10.) To resume and assess revenue-free land, under section eighty-six.

(11.) To decide claims to hold land-revenue-free, under sections eighty-eight and eighty-nine.

Powers of Assistant Settlement Officers.

237. All other powers conferred on Settlement Officers by this Act shall be exercised by Assistant Settlement Officers under such restrictions as the officer in charge of a settlement may from time to time impose.

Investing of Settlement Officers with powers for partition and union.

238. The Local Government may invest any Officer in charge of a Settlement with all the powers of a Collector of a District, and any Assistant Settlement Officer with the powers of Assistant Collectors within such limits and with such restrictions and for such period as it thinks fit.

Matters excepted from cognizance of Civil Courts.

239. No Civil Court shall take cognizance of any of the following matters:—

(a) Claims by any person to any of the offices mentioned in sections twenty-four and thirty-three or to any emolument appertaining to such office, or in respect of any injury caused by his exclusion therefrom:

(b) The right of any person to be settled with, or the validity of any engagement with Government for the payment of revenue, or the amount of revenue, cess or rate to be assessed on any mahâl, or share of a mahâl under this or any other Act for the time being in force:

(c) Any claims connected with or arising out of any process enforced on account of neglect or refusal to accept the assessment or terms of sub-settlement proposed by the Settlement Officer:

(d) The formation of the record-of-rights,

the preparation, signing, or attestation of any of the documents contained therein, or the notification of settlement:

(e) The determination of the class of a tenant or the rent payable by him, or the period for which such rent is fixed under this Act.

(f) The distribution of the land or allotment of the revenue of a mahâl by partition; or

(g) Any matters provided for in sections fifty-two to fifty-nine (both inclusive):

(h) Any matters provided for in sections eighty-six to eighty-nine (both inclusive.)

(i) Claims connected with, or arising out of, the collection of revenue, (other than claims under section one hundred and eighty-five,) or any process enforced on account of an arrear of revenue:

or on account of any sum which is by this or any other Act realizable as revenue.

(j) Claims to set aside a sale for arrear of revenue other than claims under section one hundred and seventy-seven.

(k) Any matter falling within the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, or on which the jurisdiction of that Court is actively exercised, except for the purpose of recovering mahâls committed by that Court to the charge of the Collector of the District.

In all the above cases, jurisdiction shall rest with the revenue authorities only.

CHAPTER VIII.

APPEALS.

Appeal to Collector of District.

240. An appeal shall lie from any order passed by any Assistant Collector of the first or second class, whether in charge of a Sub-division or not, to the Collector of the District.

Appeal to officer in charge of the settlement.

An appeal shall lie from any order passed by an Assistant Settlement Officer to the officer in charge of the settlement Appeal to Commissioner of Division.

241. An appeal shall lie to the Commissioner of the Division from any order passed by the Collector of a District or an officer in charge of a settlement, or from any declaration or distribution of assessment under section forty-five, forty-six or forty-seven.

Appeal to Board.

242. Subject to the provisions of section two hundred and forty-eight, an appeal shall lie to the Board from any order passed under this Act by the Commissioner of a Division.

Limitation of appeal.

243. No appeal under section two hundred and forty shall be brought after the expiration of thirty days from the date of the order complained of.

No appeal under section two hundred and forty-one shall be brought after the expiration of sixty days from the date of the order complained.

No appeal under section two hundred and forty-two shall be brought after the expiration of ninety days from the date of the order complained of.

Time to be excluded.

244. In computing the period prescribed for an appeal under this Chapter, the day on which the order complained of was pronounced, and the time requisite for obtaining a copy of such order, shall be excluded.

Provision where Court is closed.

245. Whenever a Court is closed on the last day of any period provided in this Act for the presentation of any memorandum of appeal, or for the deposit or payment of any money in or into Court, the day on which the Court re-opens shall be deemed to be such last day.

Admission of appeal after period of limitation.

246. Any appeal under this Chapter may be admitted after the period of limitation prescribed therefor when the appellant satisfies the officer or Board to whom or to which he appeals, that he had sufficient cause for not presenting the appeal within such period.

Saving of orders expressly made final.

247. Nothing in this Chapter applies to orders expressly made final by this Act or to appeals under section one hundred and twenty-nine.

Commissioner's order when not appealable, but subject to revision.

248. In any appeal to the Commissioner of a Division from an order passed by the Collector of the District or Settlement Officer on an appeal from an order of an Assistant Collector of the first or second class, or of an Assistant Settlement Officer, the Commissioner's order shall not be appealable, but shall be subject to revision by the Board under sections two hundred and fifty one and two hundred and fifty-three.

Powers of Appellate Court.

249. The Appellate Court may either allow or summarily reject the appeal:

If it allow the appeal, it may reverse, modify or confirm the order of the Lower Court, or it may direct the Court to make such further investigation or take such additional evidence as it may think necessary.

Power to suspend execution of order of Lower Court.

250. In any case in which an appeal is allowed, the Appellate Court may, pending the order on appeal, direct the execution of the order of the Lower Court to be suspended.

CHAPTER IX.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Power of Board to call for and examine record of case or proceedings of subordinate Revenue Court.

251. The Board may call for and examine the record of any case, or the proceedings of any Revenue Court subordinate to it, for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of any order passed, and as to the regularity of the proceedings of such Court.

Power of Commissioner, Collector, and Settlement Officer to call for records and proceedings.

252. The Commissioner, or the Collector of a District, or the Settlement Officer, may call for and examine the record or proceedings of any Revenue Court subordinate to him respectively, for the purposes mentioned in section two hundred and fifty-one;

Report to Board.

and if he is of opinion that the proceedings taken or order passed by such subordinate officer should be modified, cancelled, or reversed, he shall report the case with his opinion thereon for the orders of the Board.

Power of Board in cases called for or reported.

253. If in any case, whether called for by the Board or reported for orders, it appears to the Board that any order or proceedings should be modified, cancelled, or reversed, it may pass such order thereon as it thinks fit.

Power to Board to make rules.

254. The Board may, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make and issue general rules for regulating the practice and procedure of their own Court, or of any Revenue Court subordinate to them, not otherwise provided for by law.

Power of Local Government to invest tahsíldárs with certain powers to make rules.

255. The Local Government may invest any tahsíldár with the powers described in sections one hundred and thirty-seven to one hundred and forty-one (both inclusive), and may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act,

(a) regulating the assessment of land gained by alluvion, or the decrease of the assessment of a mahál in consequence of diluvion;

(b) for the guidance of Settlement Officers in fixing rent under section seventy or section seventy-two and section seventy-four:

All such rules shall be published in the North-Western Provinces Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

The Board of Revenue, subject to the sanction of Government, may from time to time make rules consistent with the Act, for

(c) prescribing the duties to be performed respectively by tahsíldars, kánúngos, and patwáris;

(d) regulating the appointment of tahsíldars and officers inferior to them in rank, their duties, punishment, suspension, and dismissal;

(e) prescribing the manner in which Settlement Officers shall report for sanction the rates and method of assessment and the amounts they propose to assess;

(f) generally for the guidance of all persons in matters connected with the enforcement of this Act.

Amendment of Act XL of 1858.

256. In Act No. XL of 1858 (for making better provision of the persons and property of minors in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal) section two shall be read as if for the words "estates paying revenue to Government" the words "mahále assessed to revenue or held revenue-free" were substituted.

Note by the Hon'ble E. C. Bayley, dated 20th September 1873.

We the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the recovery of Rent in the North-Western Provinces was referred, have considered the amended Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to present this Final Report.

2. We have made the amendments in the Penal Code, the Mofussil Small Cause Courts Act, and Act XVIII of 1871, which will be necessitated by the repeal of Act X of 1859.

3. We have altered the definition of "mahál" so as to render our meaning more distinct and we have omitted the definition of 'tenant,' and have supplied the omission by alterations in the body of the Bill.

4. In the case of privileged tenants, who shall have lost or parted with their rights before the passing of the proposed Act, we have barred the acquisition of such rights—

(a) in lands sub-let by an occupancy-tenant or a tenant at fixed rates:

(b) in sír-land let by a sharer in the village other than the person who has acquired the rights so lost or parted with.

5. We have prevented the acquisition of a right of occupancy under the twelve years' rule by any tenant holding under a written lease of any kind, and by his sub-lessee.

6. We have reduced to ten years the term for which the rent of a privileged or of an occupancy-tenant may be fixed. This alteration has been made because the majority of us, having regard to the weighty opinions given in favour of shortening the term, think it the more prudent course. We have also added to the grounds on which a landholder may at the expiration of such term claim an enhancement, the increase (if any) in the value of the produce of the land.

7. We have made the provisions as to applications for the ejectment of tenants applicable to farmers or lessees on the termination of their leases.

8. We have embodied the provisions of Act XIV of 1863, as to the exercise of the power of distress by sharers in joint undivided maháls.

9. We have transferred the five paragraphs relating to suits for enhancement, compensation for illegal dispossession, for the recovery of the occupancy of land of which a tenant has been illegally dispossessed, for abatement, and for leases or counterparts, from clause 90 to clause 94, the object being to bring questions of this class entirely within the cognizance of the Revenue authorities.

10. We have provided for the enforcement of orders passed on applications made under clause 94, and have declared that they shall have the same effect as judgments of the Civil Courts.

11. We have provided a period of limitation of six months for applications for compensation for illegal dispossession, and for the recovery of the occupancy of land of which a tenant has been illegally dispossessed.

12. We have enabled the Collector of the District to withdraw and transfer any case or class of cases under the proposed Act.

13. In the case of a decree for ejectment for damaging land, we have empowered the Court to allow the tenant to repair the damage within one month, or to order him to pay compensation, and have declared that if the damage be repaired or compensation paid, the decree shall not be executed.

14. We have barred appeals from orders made under clause 182 for admitting appeals.

15. We have made several changes in the wording and arrangement, and we recommend that the Bill thus amended be passed.

SCHEDULE.—Forms.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the recovery of Rent in the North-Western Provinces.

[AS RE-AMENDED BY THE SELECT COMMITTEE.]

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the recovery of Rent in the North-Western Provinces of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873:"

Local extent.

It extends to the territories for the time being under the government of the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, except the Districts described in the second schedule hereto annexed; and so far as regards the amendments of the Indian Penal Code and Act No. XI of 1865 it extends to the whole of British India;

But nothing herein contained applies to land for the time being occupied by dwelling-houses or manufactories, or appurtenant thereto.

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

Acts repealed.

2. Act No. X of 1859 (to amend the law relating to the recovery of Rent in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal), Act No. XIV of 1863 (to amend Act X of 1859), and Act XXII of 1872 (to explain and amend Act No. X of 1859) are hereby repealed. But such repeal shall not legalize any practice which immediately before the passing of this Act was unlawful.

Illustration (a) to the Indian Penal Code, section nineteen, and Act No. XI of 1865, section fifty-two, shall be read as if, for "Act X of 1859" the words and figures, "the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873," were substituted. And section fifteen of Act No. XVIII of 1871 (for the levy of rates on land in the North-Western Provinces) shall be read as if for "section twenty-three of Act No. X of 1859, and in section one of Act No. XIV of 1863" the words and figures "section ninety of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873," were substituted, and as if for "Act No. X of 1859 and Act No. XIV of 1863" the words and figures "the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, 1873," were substituted.

Acts amended.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

Interpretation-clause.

'Mahál.' (1.) 'Mahál' means—

(a) any local area held under a separate engagement for the payment of land-revenue, and for which a separate record of rights has been framed:

(b) any local area of which the revenue has been assigned or redeemed, and for which a separate record of rights has been framed.

'Rent.' (2.) 'Rent' means whatever is to be paid, delivered or rendered by a tenant on account of his holding, use or occupation of land:

'Landholder.' (3.) 'Landholder' means the person to whom a tenant is liable to pay rent.

'Sír-land.' (4.) 'Sír-land' means—

(a) land recorded as sír at the last settlement of the District in which it is situate, and continuously so recorded since;

(b) land continuously cultivated by the proprietor himself, with his own stock, or by his servants, or by hired labour, for twelve years;

(c) land recognized by village-custom as the special holding of a co-sharer, and treated as such in the distribution of profits or charges among the co-sharers.

'Collector of the District.' (5.) 'Collector of the District' means the chief officer in charge of the Revenue Administration of the District.

'Commissioner.' (6.) "Commissioner" means the Chief Officer in charge of the Revenue Administration of a Division.

'Board.' (7.) "Board" means the Board of Revenue for the North-Western Provinces.

'Civil Jail.' (8.) 'Civil Jail' means the civil jail of the District, and includes any place appointed by the Local Government for the confinement of prisoners under sentence of any Court constituted under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF LANDHOLDERS AND TENANTS.

Persons holding land at fixed rent without change since permanent settlement to continue to hold at such rates.

4. In the permanently settled districts persons who possess a permanent transferable interest in land, and who are intermediate between the proprietor of a mahál and the occupants, and who hold (otherwise than under a terminable lease) at a fixed rent which has not been changed from the time of the Permanent Settlement, shall continue to hold at such rent.

Tenants at fixed rates.

5. All tenants in districts or portions of districts permanently settled, who hold lands at fixed rates of rent which have not been changed since the Permanent Settlement, shall have a right of occupancy at those rates, and shall be called "tenants at fixed rates."

Presumption where rent of land not changed for 20 years.

6. Whenever in any suit to which the provisions of section four or section five apply, it is proved that the rent at which land is held has not been changed for a period of twenty years next before the commencement of the suit, it shall be presumed that the land has been held at that rent from the time of the Permanent Settlement, unless the contrary be shown, or unless it be proved that such rent was fixed at some later period.

Privileged tenants.

7. Every tenant in a village who, before the passing of this Act, has lost or parted with his proprietary rights in that village, or whose ancestors from whom he might have inherited such rights have lost or parted with the same rights since the introduction of British rule, in any of the ways following, namely,

(1.) by sale for arrears of revenue;

(2.) by sale in execution of a decree of a Civil or Revenue Court; or

(3.) by agreement with his or their co-sharers, or by gift, sale, exchange or mortgage:

shall have a right of occupancy, at favourable rates, in land actually cultivated by him in such village at the date of the passing of this Act.

This right shall not be acquired—

(a) in land sublet by an occupancy-tenant or a tenant at fixed rates,

(b) in sír-land let by a sharer in the village other than the person who has acquired the right so lost or parted with.

Every person who may hereafter lose or part with his proprietary rights in any mahál in any of the ways above-mentioned shall have a right of occupancy at favourable rates in the land held by him as sír at the date of such loss or parting.

Persons having such rights of occupancy shall be called "privileged tenants," and shall have all the rights of occupancy-tenants.

Occupancy-tenants.

8. Every tenant who has actually occupied or cultivated land continuously for twelve years has a right of occupancy in the land so occupied or cultivated by him.

Such tenants shall be called "occupancy-tenants."

The occupation or cultivating of the father or other person from whom the tenant inherits, shall be deemed to be the occupation or cultivating of the tenant within the meaning of this section:

Tenants barred from right of occupancy.

Provided that no tenant shall acquire under this section a right of occupancy—

(a) in land which he holds from an occupancy-tenant, or from a privileged tenant, or from a tenant holding at fixed rates;

(b) in sír-land;

(c) in land held by him in lieu of wages.

Time excluded from reckoning period necessary for acquiring right of occupancy.

Provided also that when a tenant actually occupies or cultivates land under a written lease without having a right of occupancy in such land, the period of twelve years necessary for acquiring a right of occupancy therein by him or any one claiming under him shall begin on the expiration of the term of such lease. If during the currency of such lease he ceases to occupy the land comprised therein, and sublets it to another, no right of occupancy in such land shall be acquired by the sub-lessee during the currency of the lease.

Rights under sections 7 and 8 when transferable.

9. The right of tenants at fixed rates shall be heritable and transferable. No other right of occupancy shall be transferable by grant, will or otherwise, except as between persons who have become by inheritance co-sharers in such rights.

When any person entitled to such last mentioned right dies, the right shall devolve as if it were land: provided that no collateral relative of the deceased who did not then share in the cultivation of his holding shall be entitled to inherit under this section.

Determination of class of tenure of tenant.

10. On the application of any tenant to have his class of tenure determined, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall determine the class to which he belongs, namely,

whether he is a tenant at fixed rates,

or a privileged tenant,

or an occupancy-tenant,

or whether he is a tenant without a right of occupancy.

Bar to enhancement of rent of tenants at fixed rates.

11. The rent paid by tenants at fixed rates shall not be liable to enhancement.

Enhancement in case of privileged and occupancy-tenants.

12. The rent paid by privileged and occupancy-tenants shall not be liable to enhancement, except—

(a) by a written agreement registered under the Indian Registration Act, 1871, or recorded before the patwárí of the village or the kánúngo: or

(b) by order of a Settlement Officer passed under the law for the time being in force: or

(c) by order under this Act.

Grounds of enhancing rent of occupancy-tenants.

13. Where the rent of any occupancy-tenant has not been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer under the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873, or by an order under this Act, or where the rent has been fixed by any such order, but the term for which it has been fixed has expired, the landholder may apply to enhance the rent of such tenant on one of the following grounds and on no others:—

(a) that the rate of the rent paid by such tenant is below the prevailing rate payable by the same class of tenants for land of similar quality with similar advantages,

(b) that the value of the produce has, or the productive powers of the land have, been increased otherwise than by the agency or at the expense of the tenant;

(c) that the quantity of land held by the tenant has been proved by measurement to be greater than the quantity for which rent has been previously paid by him.

Selection of villages for comparison.

Whenever the district or tahsíl, or other local area in which such land is situated, has been divided by the Settlement Officer into circles of like capacity and soil, the land of similar quality, with similar advantages, shall, for the purpose of this section, be selected from the same circle.

When the Settlement Officer has not so divided the district or other local area as aforesaid, the land regarding which the application has been made shall be compared with land of similar quality and with similar advantages, in the same tahsíl or in a tahsíl immediately adjacent.

Enhancement of rent of privileged tenants.

14. Where the rent of any privileged tenant has not been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer under the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873, or by an order under this Act, or where the rent has been fixed by such order, but the term for which it has been fixed has expired, the landholder may apply to enhance the rent of such tenant as if he were an occupancy-tenant, provided that if his rent be raised, such rent shall not be less than two annas, or more than four annas, in the rupee below the rate which he would have to pay if he were an occupancy-tenant.

Abatement in like cases.

15. Where the rent of any privileged tenant or occupancy-tenant has not been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer under the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873, or by an order under this Act, or where the rent has been fixed by such order, but the term for which it has been fixed has expired,

the tenant may apply for an abatement of his rent on one of the following grounds, and on no others:—

(a) that the area of the land held by him has been diminished by diluvion or otherwise:

(b) that the value of the produce has, or the productive powers of such land have, been decreased by any cause beyond his power.

Time of enhancement or abatement where rent of privileged or occupancy tenant has been fixed by order under this Act.

16. Where the rent of any privileged or occupancy-tenant has been fixed by an order under this Act, such rent shall not be liable to be enhanced or abated until the expiration of ten years from the date on which such order took effect, or until the conclusion of the period of settlement of the District, or until the revision of the settlement of the District by order of the Local Government, whichever of the said three events first occurs.

Grounds of enhancement and abatement where rent has been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer or under this Act.

17. Where the rent of any privileged or occupancy-tenant has been fixed by order of a Settlement Officer under the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873, or by an order under this Act, the landholder may apply to enhance the rent of such tenant during the currency of the term for which the rent has been so fixed, on one of the following grounds, and on no others:—

(a) that the area of the tenant's holding has been increased by alluvion or otherwise;

(b) that the productive powers of the land held by the tenant have since the date of the order been increased otherwise than by the agency or at the expense of the tenant,

And the tenant may apply for abatement of his rent on one of the following grounds and on no others:

(c) that the area of the land held by him has been diminished by diluvion or otherwise;

(d) that the productive powers of such land have been decreased by any cause beyond his control.

Grounds of enhancement or abatement of rent of tenant at fixed rates.

18. In the case of a tenant at fixed rates, the landholder may apply to enhance his rent on the ground that the area of the land in his holding has been increased by alluvion or otherwise, and the tenant may apply for abatement of his rent on the ground that the area of the land in his holding has been diminished by diluvion or otherwise.

Day before which applications for enhancement or abatement must be made.

19. Applications for enhancement or abatement of rent must be made on or before the fifteenth day of November next before the year commencing on the first day of July from which the rent is to be enhanced or abated,

Orders when to take effect.

and all orders for enhancement or abatement shall take effect from the first day of July next following the date of the order.

Consideration of caste of tenant in determining rate.

20. In determining, under this chapter, the rate of rent payable by any tenant, his caste shall not be taken into consideration, unless it is proved that, by local custom, caste is taken into account in determining such rate.

Tenants-at-will.

21. No tenant-at-will of land shall be liable to pay rent in excess of the rent (if any) payable by him in the previous year ending on the thirtieth day of June, unless the landholder and tenant have agreed as to the rent to be paid to the former by the latter, and such agreement has been recorded by the patwárí of the village or the kánúngo of the pargana in which such land is situate.

Rent of privileged or occupancy-tenant fixed by agreement.

22. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, when the rent of any privileged or occupancy-tenant has been fixed by agreement between the parties, such rent shall not be liable to enhancement or abatement for such term as may be agreed on.

(a.)—Leases.

Lease to which tenant is entitled.

23. Every tenant is entitled to receive from the landholder, and may at any time during the continuance of his holding, apply for a lease containing the following particulars:—

(a) the quantity of land held by him, and where the fields have been numbered in a Government survey, the number of each field:

(b) the amount of annual rent payable for such land:

(c) the instalments in which, and the dates on which, such rent is to be paid:

(d) any special conditions of the lease:

(e) if the rent is payable in kind, or is calculated on a valuation of the produce, the proportion of produce to be delivered, the mode of valuation, and the time, manner, and place of delivery.

Tenants at fixed rates.

24. Tenants at fixed rates are entitled to receive leases at such rates.

Privileged and occupancy-tenants.

25. Privileged and occupancy-tenants are entitled to receive leases at the rates hitherto paid by them, or determined in accordance with the provisions of the Act.

Leases to which other tenants are entitled.

26. All other tenants are entitled to leases only on such terms as may be agreed upon between them and the landholders.

Landholder granting lease entitled to reciprocal engagement.

27. Every landholder who grants a lease is entitled to receive a reciprocal engagement from the tenant, executed by the tenant, and conformable with the terms of the lease.

The tender to any tenant of a lease, such as he is entitled to receive, shall entitle the landholder to receive a reciprocal engagement from such tenant.

Lease for period exceeding term of landholder's engagement.

28. If any lease be granted, or if any agreement be entered into by any landholder fixing the rent of land for any period exceeding the term of his own engagement with Government for his land, such lease or agreement shall, on the expiration of the term aforesaid, be void at the option of either party.

Resumption of rent-free grants.

29. a. And whereas all grants for holding land exempt from the payment of rent which have been made since the first day of December 1790, by any authority other than that of the Governor-General in Council, were declared by Bengal Regulation XIX of 1793, section ten, to be null and void; and such Regulation also provides that no length of possession shall be considered to give validity to any such grant, either with regard to the property in the soil or the rents of it, it is hereby further enacted as follows:—

Applications to resume.

b. Applications by the proprietor to resume such grants or to assess rent on the land, shall be made to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and, subject to rules to be made under section two hundred and three, shall be dealt with as other applications under this Act.

Validity of grants which grantor has expressly agreed not to resume.

c. Grants of land held under a written instrument, by which the grantor expressly agrees that the grant shall not be resumed, shall be held valid as against him (but not as against his representatives after his death) during the continuance of the settlement of the district in which the land is situate, which is current at the date of the grant.

When rent-free tenure confers proprietary right.

d. Where any land has been for fifty years or upwards, and still is held rent-free and by at least two successors to the original grantee, such holding shall be deemed to confer on the holder a proprietary right.

e. Nothing in the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, shall bar the right to make an application under this Act to assess to rent land held rent-free.

f. Nothing in this section shall apply to either of the following cases:—

(1) Where land is previously to the passing of this Act held rent-free under a judicial decision,

(2) Where previously to the passing of this Act land held rent-free is purchased for a valuable consideration, and resumption thereof has been barred under Act No. X of 1859, section twenty-eight, or under the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, schedule II, No. 130.

(b.)—Relinquishment and Ejectment.

Relinquishment of land by tenant.

30. Every tenant not holding under a lease shall continue liable for the rent of the land in his holding for the ensuing year, unless on or before the first day of May in any year he gives notice in writing to the landholder, or his recognized agent, of his desire to relinquish such land on the thirtieth day of June next ensuing, and relinquishes it accordingly; or unless it has been let to any other person by such landholder or agent.

Service of notice through tahsíldár, if landholder or agent refuse to receive it.

31. If the landholder or his agent refuse to receive such notice, or if he receive it but refuses to sign a receipt for the same, the tenant may make an application to the tahsíldár, who shall thereupon cause the notice to be served on such landholder or agent, the tenant paying the costs of service.

Mode of serving notice.

32. The notice shall, if practicable, be served personally on the landholder or his agent; but if the landholder or his agent cannot be found, or if he evades service of the notice, service may be made by affixing the notice at his usual place of residence, or, if he does not reside in the district wherein the land is situate, at the chaupál, or other conspicuous place in the village where the land is situate.

Where the delay in serving the notice is owing to the fault of the landholder or his agent, the notice shall be deemed to have been served at the first attempt to serve it.

Liability of tenant to pay interest on arrear and to be ejected.

33. When an arrear of rent remains due from any tenant, he shall be liable to pay interest on such arrear at one per cent. per mensem; and if the arrear remains due on the thirtieth day of June, to be ejected from the land in respect of which the arrear is due:

Bar to ejectment without decree.

No tenant at fixed rates, privileged tenant, occupancy-tenant, or tenant holding under a lease, the term of which has not expired, shall be ejected otherwise than in execution of a decree or order under the provisions of this Act.

Ejectment not to be decreed for certain acts or omissions.

No ejectment of a tenant or cancelment of a lease shall be decreed on account of any act or omission of the tenant which is not detrimental to the land in his occupation, or which is not inconsistent with the purpose for which the land was let.

Ejectment of tenant with right of occupancy, or holding under unexpired lease.

34. If the landholder desire to eject a tenant at fixed rates, a privileged tenant, an occupancy-tenant, or a tenant holding under an unexpired lease, against whom a decree for arrears has been passed and remains unsatisfied, he may, after the expiration of the year, ending on the thirtieth day of June, in which such arrears accrued, apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who shall, on receiving such application (subject to the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, and of section one hundred and sixty-one of this Act) cause a notice to be served on the tenant, stating the amount due under the decree, and informing the tenant that if he does not pay such amount into Court within fifteen days from receipt of the notice, he will be ejected from his land.

If such amount be not so paid, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may eject the tenant.

Such notice shall be deemed to be a process for enforcing the decree of arrears of rent within the meaning of section one hundred and twenty-seven.

Service of notice on tenant for limited period.

35. If the landholder desire to eject a tenant not having a right of occupancy, or any other tenant holding only for a limited period, after the determination of his tenancy, he may cause a written notice of ejectment to be served on such tenant under the provisions of this Act.

36 The notice of ejectment shall be written in the vernacular language and character of the district:

Contents of notice.

it shall specify the land from which the tenant is to be ejected;

and it shall inform him that he must vacate such land on or before the first day of May next following; or that, if he means to contest the right to eject him, he must apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector for that purpose on or before that date.

37. The notice shall be issued and served through the office of the tahsíldár on or before the first day of April, and the landholder shall pay the cost of service: it shall be served personally on the tenant, if practicable; but if he cannot be found, service may be made by affixing the notice to his usual place of residence.

Mode of serving notice.

38. The tenant, on whom such notice has been served, may, on or before the first day of May next after the service, make an application to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, contesting his liability to be ejected.

Effect of failure of tenant to institute suit to contest liability to ejectment.

When such an application is made, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall proceed to determine the question between the parties, as in the case of an application by a landholder to eject a tenant.

If no such application is made, the tenancy of the land in respect of which the notice has been served shall be held to cease on the first day of May next after the service; unless, after the service the landholder authorises the tenant to continue in the occupation of the land.

39. If the landholder require assistance to eject the person whose tenancy is alleged to have ceased under the provisions of section thirty-eight he may apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector for such assistance before the ploughing for the kharíf harvest commences; and the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall order the ejectment of such tenant if he is satisfied—

Procedure to enforce ejectment.

(a) that the notice was duly served on such tenant under section thirty-seven;

(b) that he has not been authorised by the landholder to continue in occupation;

(c) that the tenant has not made the application mentioned in section thirty-eight; or

(d) that if such application has been made, the question has been determined adversely to the tenant.

Provided that no such application for the ejectment of a farmer on the determination of a lease shall be received if the lease be of the kind in which an advance has been made by the leaseholder, and the proprietor's right of re-entry at the end of the term is contingent on the repayment of such advance either in money or by the usufruct of the land. In all such cases the landholder must proceed by suit in the Civil Court.

40. If the landholder allow the tenant, on whom the notice of ejectment has been served, or against whom any proceedings in ejectment under section thirty-nine have been taken, to remain in occupation of the land, and to prepare it for the kharíf harvest, the proceedings shall become void.

Notice of ejectment when void.

41. Any tenant ejected in accordance with the provisions of this Act, shall be entitled to any growing crops or other ungathered products of the earth belonging to the tenant, and growing on the land at the time of his ejectment,

Rights of ejected tenant.

and to use the land for the purpose of tending and gathering in such crops or other products, paying adequate rent therefor.

Provided that, if the landholder desire to purchase such crops or other products, he may tender their price to the tenant; and thereupon the right of the tenant to such crops and other products, and to use the land for the purpose aforesaid, shall cease.

Effect of tender by landlord of payment for crops.

In the case of a dispute under this section, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may, on the application of the landlord or tenant, award the rent and price so payable; and the amount of such award, or of any tender accepted under this section, shall be recoverable as an arrear of rent by suit under this Act.

Power to determine rent and price.

42. Wherever rent is taken by division of the produce in kind, or by estimate or appraisement of the standing crop, or other procedure of a like nature, requiring the presence both of the cultivator and landholder, either personally or by agent,

Application by tenant for officer to divide produce or appraise crop.

if either landholder or tenant personally, or by agent, neglect to attend at the proper time, or if there is a dispute as to the amount or value of the crop, an application may be presented to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, requesting that a proper officer be deputed to make the division, estimate, or appraisement.

On receiving such application, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall issue a written notice to the opposite party or his agent to attend, on the date, and at the time specified in the notice, and shall depute an officer before whom such division, estimate, or appraisement shall be made.

Procedure on such application.

If on or before the date appointed, the dispute have not been amicably adjusted, three residents of the village or neighbourhood shall be appointed assessors; one by each of the parties, and one by the officer deputed to divide the grain or estimate or appraise the crops, and the officer deputed shall decide the amount of rent payable by their award, and shall give to the party applying a written authority to divide the grain or cut the crops.

Provided that if either party fail to attend, the officer deputed shall nominate an assessor on his behalf.

The officer deputed shall report his proceedings to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who shall determine the amount of costs properly incurred under this section, and the share of the costs to be paid by either party.

(c.)—Compensation for Improvements made by Tenants.

Tenants' right to compensation for improvements.

43. If any tenant, or any person from whom he has inherited or purchased, make any such improvements on the land in his possession as are hereinafter mentioned, neither he nor his representative shall be ejected from the same land without payment of compensation for such improvements.

Explanation.—The word "improvements" as used in this section means works by which the annual letting value of the land has been, and at the time of demanding compensation continues to be, increased, and comprises—

(a) tanks, wells and other works for the storage, supply or distribution of water for agricultural purposes,

(b) works for the drainage of land, for the reclaiming of land from floods, or from erosion or other damage by water,

(c) the reclaiming, clearing, or enclosing of lands for agricultural purposes,

(d) the renewal, or re-construction of any of the foregoing works, or alterations therein, or additions thereto.

When rent-free tenure confers prop[illegible]

Basis of, and mode of making, compensation.

44. Such compensation may, at the option of [illegible] upwards, and [illegible] free an[illegible] by at least two suc[illegible] the landholder or his repre[illegible] sentative, be made—

1*st.*—by payment in money;

2*nd.*—by the grant of a beneficial lease of the land, by the landholder or his representative, to the tenant or his representative;

3*rd.*—partly by payment in money, and partly by the grant of such lease as aforesaid.

Settlement of difference as to amount or value of compensation.

45. In case of difference as to the amount or value of the compensation tendered, either party may apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector stating the matter in dispute, and requesting a determination thereof.

On receiving such application, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall

(a) cause notice thereof to be served on the other party,

(b) take such evidence as the parties or either of them may adduce,

(c) make such further inquiry as the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may deem necessary, and

(d) determine the amount of the payment, or the terms of the lease, or both.

Considerations in determining compensation.

46. In determining the amount or value mentioned in section forty-five or the terms of such lease, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall take into account any assistance given to the tenant by the landholder either directly in money, material or labour, for the purpose of making such improvements, or indirectly by allowing the tenant to hold at a favourable rate of rent.

(d.)—Compensation for wrongful Acts and Omissions.

Right of tenant to compensation for exactions in excess of rent or for withholding receipt.

47. Every tenant from whom any sum is exacted in excess of the rent specified in his lease or payable under the provisions of this Act, and every tenant from whom a receipt is withheld for any sum of money paid by him as rent, shall be entitled to recover from the landholder compensation not exceeding double the amount so exacted or paid.

Contents of receipt.

Receipts for rent shall specify the period or crop on account of which the rent is acknowledged to have been paid;

and any refusal to make such specification shall be held to be a withholding of a receipt.

Damages for extorting payment of rent by duress.

48. If payment of rent, whether the same be legally due or not, is extorted from any tenant by illegal confinement or other duress, he shall be entitled to recover from the person guilty of such extortion such compensation, not exceeding the sum of two hundred rupees, as the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector thinks reasonable.

Liability [illegible] of the tenant when [illegible] detrimental [illegible] liability to punishment for extortion not affected.

An award of compensation under this section shall not bar or affect any penalty or punishment to which the person guilty of such extortion may be subject under the Indian Penal Code.

(e.)—Deposit of Rent in Government Treasury.

Deposit of amount tendered by tenant and refused.

49. If any tenant tenders to the landholder full payment of the rent due from him, and if the amount so tendered be not accepted, and a receipt for the amount forthwith granted, the tenant may thereupon apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector for leave to deposit such amount in his Court to the credit of the landholder.

Form and verification of application.

50. The application to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall be as nearly as may be in the form (A) in the first schedule hereto annexed, and shall be verified in the manner prescribed for the verification of plaints under section one hundred and three:

Penalty for false statement.

and the person making the verification shall be punishable, if the application contain any averment which he knows or believes to be false, or does not know or believe to be true.

Notice to issue on deposit being made.

51. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall receive the amount which the tenant desires to deposit, and shall thereupon issue to the person to whose credit it has so been deposited, a notice in English or the vernacular language of the district in the form (B) in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

And such deposit shall in all questions between the landholder and the tenant be deemed to be a payment made by the tenant to the landholder on account of the rent.

Mode of serving notice.

52. Such notice shall be served through the tahsíldár upon the person to whom it is addressed, or upon his recognized agent.

In their absence the notice shall be affixed at the chaupál, or other conspicuous place in the village in which the land for which the rent is due is situate.

Payment to person served with notice on his application.

53. If at any time before the expiration of three years from the date of the deposit the person on whom such notice is served, or his recognized agent, appears and applies that the money in deposit be paid to him, it shall be paid accordingly, unless it has been repaid or paid in accordance with the provisions next hereinafter contained.

Refund to depositor.

54. If no application be made by such person or his recognized agent, the sum shall be repaid to the depositor on the expiration of three years from the date of the deposit.

And at any time before the expiration of such period, on the joint application of the depositor and the person to whose credit the said sum was deposited, such sum shall be paid in such manner as the joint applicants desire.

CHAPTER III.

DISTRESS.

Produce of land hypothecated for rent.

55. The produce of all land in the occupation of a tenant shall be deemed to be hypothecated for the rent payable in respect of such land;

Recovery of arrears by distress.

and when an arrear of rent is due from any cultivator, the person entitled to receive rent immediately from him may, instead of suing for the arrear as hereinafter provided, recover the same by distress and sale of the produce of the land in respect of which the arrear is due, under the rules contained in this Chapter.

Bar to distress of produce covered by security.

56. Provided always that, when a tenant has given security for the payment of his rent, the produce of the land for the rent of which security has been given, shall not be liable to be distrained:

Sharer not entitled to distrain.

Provided also, that no sharer in any mahál shall have power to distrain upon any tenant unless he is entitled to collect the whole rent from such tenant.

Provided also, that no sharer in a joint undivided mahál shall exercise such power otherwise than through a manager authorised to collect the rents of the whole mahál on behalf of all the sharers therein: Provided also, that in pattídárí mahále distress shall be made only through a lumberdár, or where the rent of a pattí is not collected by a lumberdár through the pattídár who is entitled to collect the rent.

No distress for overdue arrear, nor, without agreement, for excess over past year's rent.

57. A distress shall not be made for any arrear which has been due for a longer period than one year;

nor for the recovery of any sum in excess of the rent payable for the same land in the preceding year, unless the rent has been enhanced under the provisions hereinbefore contained, or unless the cultivator has agreed to pay such excess and such agreement has been attested before the patwárí or kánúngo.

Distress by managers under Court of Wards, &c.

58. The power to distrain conferred by sections fifty-five and fifty-six may be exercised by managers under the Court of Wards, and other persons lawfully entrusted with the charge of immoveable property;

and also by the agents employed by such persons as aforesaid, in the collection of rent, if expressly authorized by power-of-attorney in that behalf:

Liability for illegal act.

If any wrongful act is committed by any such agent, under colour of the exercise of the said power, such agent and his principal shall be jointly and severally liable to make compensation for such act.

Written authority to servants employed to distrain.

59. When any person, empowered to distrain property under section fifty-five, section fifty-six, or section fifty-eight, employs a servant or other person to make the distress, he shall give him a written authority for the same, and the distress shall be made in the name of the person giving such authority.

Standing crops and crops gathered liable to distress.

60. Standing crops and other ungathered products of the earth, and crops or other products when reaped or gathered, and deposited in any threshing-floor or place for treading out grain or the like, whether in the field or within a homestead, may be distrained by persons invested with power to distrain under the provisions of this Act.

Exception.

But no such crops or products, other than the produce of the land in respect of which an arrear of rent is due, or of land held under the same engagement, and no grain or other produce after it has been stored by the cultivator, and no other property whatsoever, shall be liable to be distrained under this Act.

Defaulter to be served with written demand and account.

61. Before or at the time when a distress is made under this Act, the distrainer shall cause the defaulter to be served with a written demand for the amount of the arrear, together with an account exhibiting the grounds on which the demand is made.

The demand and account shall, if practicable, be served personally on the defaulter; or, if he abscond or conceal himself, so that they cannot be so served, shall be affixed at his usual place of residence.

Mode of service.

62. Unless the amount of the demand is immediately paid or tendered, the distrainer may distrain property as aforesaid equal in value, as nearly as may be, to the amount of the arrear and the costs of the distress; and shall prepare a list or description of the said property, and deliver a copy of the same to the owner, or, if he be absent, affix it at his usual place of residence.

Distress to be proportionate to arrear.

List of property to be prepared and copy served on owner.

63. Standing crops and other ungathered products may, notwithstanding the distress, be reaped and gathered by the cultivator, and may be stored in such granaries or other places as are commonly used by him for the purpose.

Standing crops, &c., when attached, may be reaped and stored.

If the cultivator neglect to do so, the distrainer shall cause the said crops or products to be reaped or gathered, and in such case shall store the same either in such granaries or other places as aforesaid, or in some other convenient place in the neighbourhood.

In either case the distrained property shall be placed in the charge of some person appointed by the distrainer for the purpose.

Crops or products which from their nature do not admit of being stored, may be sold before they are cut or gathered, under the rules hereinafter provided; but in such case, the distress shall be made at least twenty days before the time when the crops or products or any part of the same are fit for cutting or gathering.

Sale of products which cannot be stored.

64. If a distrainer is opposed, or apprehends resistance, and desires to obtain the assistance of a public officer, he may apply to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who may, if he thinks necessary, depute an officer to support the distrainer in making the distress.

Assistance to distrainer opposed or apprehending resistance.

65. If at any time after property has been distrained and before the day fixed for putting it up to sale as hereinafter provided, the owner of the property tender payment of the arrear demanded of him, and of the expenses of the distress, the distrainer shall receive the same, and shall forthwith withdraw the distress.

Distress to be withdrawn on tender of arrear and expenses before sale.

66. Within five days from the time of the storing of any distrained crops or products,

Application for sale.

or if the crops or products do not from their nature admit of being stored, within five days from the time of making the distress,

the distrainer shall apply for sale of the same to the officer for the time being authorized by the Local Government to sell distrained property within the tahsíl in which they are situate.

67. The application shall be in writing and shall contain—

Contents of application.

(a) an inventory or description of the property distrained,

(b) the name of the defaulter and his place of residence,

(c) the amount due, and the date of the distress, and

(d) the place in which the distrained property is deposited.

Together with the application, the distrainer shall deliver to the said officer the fee for the service of a notice upon the defaulter as hereinafter provided.

Deposit of cost of service of notice.

68. Immediately on receipt of the application the said officer shall send a copy of it to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector;

Procedure on receipt of application.

and shall serve a notice in the form (C) contained in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect, on the person whose property has been distrained, requiring him either to pay the amount demanded, or to institute a suit to contest the demand before the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector within the period of fifteen days from the receipt of the notice.

He shall at the same time send to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, for the purpose of being put up in his office and in the office of the tahsíldár, a proclamation fixing a day for the sale of the distrained property, which shall not be less than twenty days from the date of the application; and shall deliver a copy of the proclamation to the peon charged with the service of the notice, to be put up by him in the place where the distrained property is deposited.

The proclamation shall contain—

(a) a description of the property,

and shall specify—

(b) the demand for which it is to be sold, and

(c) the place where the sale is to be held.

69. If a suit is instituted before the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector in pursuance of the aforesaid notice, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall send to the officer referred to in section sixty-six, or, if so requested, shall deliver to the owner of the distrained property, a certificate of the institution of such suit;

Suspension of sale on receipt of Collector's certificate of institution of suit.

and on such certificate being received by, or presented to, the said officer, he shall suspend the sale.

70. A person whose property has been distrained in manner hereinbefore provided, may institute a suit to contest the demand of the distrainer immediately after the distress, and before the issue of notice of sale.

Suit to contest distrainer's demand before issue of notice of sale.

When such suit is instituted, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall proceed in the manner prescribed in the last preceding section.

If, thereafter, application for the sale of the property is made to the said officer, he shall send a copy of the application to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and suspend further proceedings, pending the decision of the case.

Distress when to be withdrawn.

71. The person whose property has been distrained may, at the time of instituting any such suit as aforesaid, or at any subsequent period, execute a bond with a surety, binding himself to pay whatever sum may be adjudged to be due from him, with interest and costs of suit;

and when such bond is executed, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall give to the owner of the property a certificate to that effect, and, if so requested, shall serve the distrainer with notice of the same;

and upon such certificate being presented to the distrainer by the owner of the property, or served on him by order of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, the property shall be released from distress.

When sale may be proceeded with.

72. On the expiration of the period fixed in the proclamation of sale, if the institution of a suit to contest the demand of the distrainer has not been certified to the said officer in manner hereinbefore provided, he shall, unless the said demand, with such costs of the distress as shall be allowed by him be discharged in full, proceed, in manner hereinafter mentioned, to sell the property or such part of it as may be necessary to satisfy the demand with the costs of distress and sale.

Place of sale.

73. The sale shall be held at the place where the distrained property is deposited, or at the nearest place of public resort, if the said officer is of opinion that it is likely to sell there to better advantage.

Manner of sale.

The property shall be sold by public auction, in one or more lots, as the officer holding the sale may think advisable;

Withdrawal of distress when demand and costs satisfied.

and if the demand with the costs of distress and sale be satisfied by the sale of a portion of the property, the distress shall be immediately withdrawn with respect to the remainder.

If fair price be not offered, sale may be postponed and shall be then completed.

74. If, on the property being put up for sale, a fair price (in the estimation of the officer holding the sale) be not offered for it, and the owner of the property, or some person authorized to act on his behalf, apply to have the sale postponed until the next day, or the next market-day, if a market be held at the place of sale, the sale shall be postponed until such day and shall be then completed whatever price may be offered for the property.

Payment of purchase-money.

75. The price of every lot shall be paid for in ready money at the time of sale, or as soon thereafter as the officer holding the sale thinks necessary;

Sale on default.

and, in default of such payment, the property shall be put up again and sold.

Certificate to purchaser.

When the purchase-money has been paid in full, the officer holding the sale shall give the purchaser a certificate, describing the property purchased by him and the price paid.

Deduction from proceeds of costs of sale.

76. From the proceeds of every sale of distrained property under this Act, the officer holding the sale shall make a deduction at the rate of one anna in the rupee on account of the costs of the sale, and shall send the amount so deducted to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector.

Payment of distrainer's expenses.

He shall then pay to the distrainer the expenses incurred by the distrainer on account of the distress, and of the issue of the notice and proclamation of sale prescribed in section sixty-eight, to such amount as, after examination of the statement of expenses furnished by the distrainer, he thinks proper to allow.

Discharge of arrear with interest.

The remainder shall be applied to the discharge of the arrear for which the distress was made, with interest thereon up to the day of sale;

Surplus.

and the surplus (if any) shall be delivered to the person whose property has been sold.

Sale officers and employees prohibited from purchasing.

77. Officers holding sales of property under this Act, and all persons employed by or subordinate to such officers, are prohibited from purchasing either directly, or indirectly, any property sold by such officers.

Report of irregularities by distrainer.

78. Officers holding sales under this chapter are required to bring to the notice of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector any material irregularities committed by distrainers under colour of this Act;

Postponement of sale, and report to Collector when defaulter has not received due notice.

and if, in any case, on proceeding to hold any such sale the officer holding it find that the owner of the property has not received due notice of the distress and intended sale, he shall postpone the sale and report the case to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, who shall thereupon

Order of Collector.

direct the issue of another notice and proclamation of sale under section sixty-eight, or pass such other order as he thinks fit.

Levy of charge when sale officer attends, and no sale takes place.

79. When an officer goes to any place for the purpose of holding a sale under this Act, and no sale takes place, either for the reason stated in section seventy-eight, or because the demand of the distrainer has been previously satisfied, no intimation of such satisfaction having been given by the distrainer to such officer, the charge of one anna in the rupee on account of expenses shall be leviable and shall be calculated on the estimated value of the distrained property.

Recovery from owner.

If the distrainer's demand be not satisfied until the day fixed for the sale, the charge for expenses shall be paid by the owner of the property, and may be recovered by the sale of such portion thereof as may be necessary.

Recovery from distrainer.

In every other case it shall be paid by the distrainer and may be recovered by attachment and sale of his property under the warrant of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector:

Limit to charge.

Provided that in no case shall a larger amount then ten rupees be recoverable under this section.

Order of sale when amount adjudged due.

80. When a suit has been instituted to contest the demand of a distrainer, and the property has not been released on security, if the demand or any portion of it is adjudged to be due, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall issue an order to the officer authorizing the sale of the property;

Second proclamation of sale.

and on the application of the distrainer, within five days from the receipt of such order by the officer, such officer shall publish a second proclamation in the manner prescribed in section sixty-eight, fixing another day for the sale of the distrained property, which shall not be less than five nor more than ten days from the date of the proclamation;

Sale on failure to pay debt and costs.

and, unless the amount adjudged to be due with the costs of distress be paid, shall proceed to sell the property in the manner hereinbefore provided.

In suit to contest his demand, distrainer to prove arrear.

81. In all suits instituted to contest the distrainer's demand he shall be required to prove the arrear in the same manner as if he had himself brought a suit for the amount under the provisions hereinafter contained.

Recovery of amount decreed in favour of distrainer.

If the demand or any part thereof is found to be due, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall make a decree for the amount in favour of the distrainer, and such amount may be recovered by sale of the property, as provided in the last preceding section, if the distress has not been withdrawn;

and if any balance remain due after such sale, by execution of the decree against the person and any other property of the defaulter, or if the property have been released on security, by execution of the decree against the person and property of the defaulter and of his surety.

Compensation in case of vexatious distress.

If the distress is adjudged to be vexatious or groundless, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, besides directing the release of the distrained property, may award such compensation to the plaintiff as the circumstances of the case require.

Suit by person claiming property distrained for arrears alleged to be due from another.

82. If any person claim as his own, property which has been distrained for arrears of rent alleged to be due from any other person, the claimant may institute a suit against the distrainer and such other person, to try the right to the property, in the same manner and under the same conditions as to the time of instituting the suit and to the consequent postponement of sale, as a person whose property has been distrained for an arrear of rent alleged to be due from him, may institute a suit to contest the demand.

Release of property on security being given.

When any such suit is instituted the property may be released upon security being given for the value of the same.

Order of Collector when claim dismissed.

If the claim is dismissed, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall make an order for the sale of the property, or for the recovery of the value thereof, as the case may be, for the benefit of the distrainer.

Decree for release and compensation when claim upheld.

If the claim is upheld, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall decree the release of the distrained property with costs, and such compensation (if any) as the circumstances of the case require:

Saving of prior claim of person entitled to rent of land.

Provided that no claim to any produce of land liable to distress under this Act, which at the time of the distress may have been found in the possession of a defaulting cultivator shall bar the prior claim of the person entitled to the rent of the land, nor shall any attachment in execution of a judgment of any Civil Court prevail against such prior claim.

Procedure where right to distrain is claimed by other than distrainer.

83. If in any case in which property has been distrained for an arrear of rent, and a suit has been instituted to contest the demand, the right to distrain for such arrears is claimed by or on behalf of any person other than the distrainer, on the ground of such other person being actually and in good faith in the receipt and enjoyment of the rent of the land, such other person shall be made a party to the suit, and the question of the actual receipt and enjoyment of the rent by him before and up to the time of the commencement of the suit shall be enquired into, and in deciding the suit the result of such inquiry shall be taken into consideration.

Saving of right to sue in Civil Court.

Provided that the decision of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall not affect the right of any person who may have a legal title to the rent of the land, to establish his title by suit in the Civil Court if instituted within one year from the date of the decision.

Persons prevented from suing in time to save property from sale, may sue for damages.

84. If any person whose property has been distrained for the recovery of a demand not justly due, or of a demand due or alleged to be due from some other person, is prevented by any sufficient cause from bringing a suit to contest the demand or to try the right to the property, as the case may be, within the period allowed by section ninety-three, and his property is in consequence brought to sale, he may, nevertheless, institute a suit under this Act to recover compensation for the illegal distress and sale of his property.

Wrongful acts of distrainer.

85. If any person empowered to distrain property, or employed for the purpose under a written authority by a person so empowered, distrain or sell, or cause to be sold, any property for the recovery of an arrear of rent alleged to be due, otherwise than according to the provisions of this Act, or if any distrained property is lost, damaged, or destroyed by reason of the distrainer not having taken proper precautions for the due keeping and preservation thereof, or if the distress is not immediately withdrawn when it is required to be withdrawn by any provision of this Act,

the owner of the property may institute a suit under this Act to recover compensation for any injury which he has thereby sustained through any act or omission mentioned in the former part of this section.

Suit by owner against person distraining or selling without authority.

86. If any person not empowered to distrain property under sections fifty-five, fifty-six or fifty-eight, nor employed for the purpose under a written authority by a person so empowered, fraudulently distrains or sells or causes to be sold any property under colour of this Act, the owner of the property so distrained or sold may institute a suit under this Act to recover compensation from such person for any injury which the plaintiff has sustained from the distress or sale,

Penalty in addition to damages.

and the defendant shall be held to have committed criminal trespass, and shall be subject to the penalties provided for that offence in addition to any damages which may be awarded against him in such suit.

Limitation of suits under sections 84, 85, 86.

87. Provided that every suit instituted under any of the three last preceding sections shall be commenced within the term prescribed by section ninety-three.

Procedure in case of resistance of distress.

88. If any person resists a distress of property duly made under this Act, or forcibly or clandestinely removes any distrained property, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, upon complaint being made within fifteen days from the date of such resistance or removal, shall cause the person accused to be arrested and brought with all convenient speed before the Collector or Assistant Collector, who shall, if possible, proceed forthwith to try the case.

If the case cannot be at once heard, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may, if he think fit, require the party arrested to give security for his person, and, in default of such security, may commit him to the civil jail until the case is tried, and if the offence be proved and the offender be the owner of the property concerned, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall order him to be imprisoned in the civil jail for six months, or until the whole arrear due to the distrainer, with all expenses and costs, is paid or levied under warrant of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector by distress and sale of the property of the offender.

If the offender be not the owner of the property, he shall make good to the distrainer the value of the same, and shall further be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, or in default of payment thereof, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a period not exceeding two months.

Proceedings of officers subject to revision and orders of Collector.

89. All proceedings of officers under this chapter shall be subject to the revision and orders of the Collector of the District.

CHAPTER IV.

PROCESS.

Mode of serving process.

90. Every process issued by a Collector of a District or Assistant Collector under this Act shall be under his seal and signature, and shall be served or executed by the Názir, or by such other officer as the Collector of the District or the Assistant Collector may direct, at the cost of the party at whose instance it is issued.

Deposit before issue.

The amount of such cost, and, in the case of summons to a witness, the sum required for his travelling expenses, shall be deposited in Court before the process is issued :

Power to direct service free of charge.

Provided that, if in any case the Collector of the District or the Assistant Collector is satisfied that a party is unable to pay the cost of any necessary process, he may direct such process to be served free of charge.

Punishment for resistance of process.

91. Any resistance or opposition to the lawful process of a Collector of the District or Assistant Collector under this Act may be punished by him according to the provisions of the law for the time being in force for the punishment of resistance or opposition to the processes of the courts of civil justice.

Power to issue summons and warrant.

When, in any such case, the offender is not present, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may summon him to answer to the charge: and if after due service of the summons he fail to attend, may issue a warrant for his apprehension.

CHAPTER V.

JURISDICTION OF COURTS.

Suits cognizable by Revenue Courts only.

92. Except in the way of appeal as hereinafter provided, no Courts other than Courts of Revenue shall take cognizance of any dispute or matter in which any suit of the nature mentioned in this section might be brought,

and such suits shall be heard and determined in the said Courts of Revenue in the manner provided in this Act, and not otherwise:

(a) for arrears of rent on account of land or on account of any rights of pasturage, forest-rights, fisheries or the like;

(b) to eject a tenant for any act or omission detrimental to the land in his occupation or inconsistent with the purpose for which the land was demised, or

(c) to cancel a lease for the breach of any condition binding on the tenant, and which by law, custom or special agreement, involves the forfeiture of the lease;

(d) for the recovery of any overpayment of rent, or for compensation under sections forty-seven or forty-eight;

(e) for compensation for withholding receipt for rent paid;

(f) for contesting the exercise of the powers of distress conferred on landholders and others by this Act, or any thing purporting to be done in the exercise of the said power, or for compensation for wrongful acts or omissions of a distrainer;

(g) suits by lumberdárs for arrears of Government revenue, payable through them by the co-sharers whom they represent, and for village-expenses and other dues for which the co-sharers may be responsible to the lumberdár;

(h) suits by co-sharers for their share of the profits of a mahál, or any part thereof, after payment of the Government revenue and village-expenses, or for a settlement of accounts;

(i) suits by muáfídárs, or assignees of the Government revenue, for arrears of revenue owing to them, as such muáfídárs or assignees;

(j) suits by taluqdárs and other superior proprietors, for arrears of revenue due to them as such.

Limitation of suits.

93. Suits for arrears of rent or revenue or, for a share of the profits of a mahál, or of village-expenses or other dues, shall not be brought after three years from the day on which the arrears or share became due:

Suits relating to distress shall not be brought after three months from the day on which the right to sue accrued:

All other suits may be brought within one year from the day on which the right to sue accrues, unless otherwise specially provided for in this Act.

The day on which the arrears become due or the day on which the right to sue accrues (as the case may be) shall be excluded in computing the periods of limitation prescribed by this section.

Applications cognizable by Revenue Courts only.

94. No Courts other than Courts of Revenue shall take cognizance of any dispute or matter on which any application of the nature mentioned in this section might be made: such applications shall be heard and determined in the said Courts in manner provided under this Act, and not otherwise:—

(a) Application to determine the nature and class of a tenant's tenure, under section ten.

(b) Application by a landholder, or his agent, to compel a patwári to produce his accounts relating to land.

(c) Application to resume rent-free grants under section twenty-nine, and to assess to rent land previously held rent-free.

(d) Application from a landholder to eject a tenant, under section thirty-four or section thirty-five.

(e) Applications made by a tenant, under section thirty-eight.

(f) Application from a landholder under section thirty-nine for assistance to eject a tenant.

(g) Application from a tenant or landholder to determine the value of any standing crop, or ungathered products of the earth, belonging to the tenant and being on the land at the time of his ejectment, under section forty-one.

(h) Application by a landholder to determine rent payable for land used by a tenant for the purpose of tending or gathering in the crop, under section forty-one.

(i) Application by a landholder or tenant for assistance in the division or appraisement of a standing crop, under section forty-two.

(j) Application by a landholder or tenant to determine compensation for improvements of land.

(k) Application by a tenant for leave to deposit rent.

(l) Application for enhancement of rent.

(m) Application for compensation for wrongful dispossession.

(n) Application for the recovery of the occupancy of any land of which a tenant has been wrongfully dispossessed.

(o) Application for abatement of rent.

(p) Application for leases or counterparts, and for the determination of the rates of rent at which such leases or counterparts are to be delivered.

Points of procedure relating to applications.

95. (a.) All applications under section ninety-four shall be made in the district in which the land, crops or products referred to is or are situate, and may, with the consent of the parties, be referred to arbitration under sections two hundred and seventeen to two hundred and twenty-eight (both inclusive) of the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873.

(b.) All orders passed on applications under this section shall be proved in the same manner, and when proved shall have the same effect as judgments of the Civil Courts.

(c.) In cases wherein a specific sum of money is adjudged to be due, or any costs or damages are awarded, all such orders may be executed by any process in use for the recovery of an arrear of revenue or rent.

(d.) In cases wherein possession of immoveable property is adjudged, the officer making the award may deliver over possession in the same manner, and with the same power, in regard to contempts, resistance, and the like, as may be lawfully exercised by the Civil Courts in execution of their own decrees.

(e.) Applications under heads (m) and (n) of section ninety-four shall not be brought after six months from the date of the wrongful dispossession.

Local Government may invest officers with Assistant Collector's powers, and withdraw them.

96. The Local Government may invest any officer with the powers of an Assistant Collector of the first or second class under this Act, and may at any time withdraw such powers.

Suits and applications cognizable by Collectors.

97. Assistant Collectors of either class shall have, as such, power to try suits and applications of the following descriptions:—

(a) suits for arrears of rent on account of land or on account of any rights of pasturage, forest-rights, fisheries or the like;

(b) suits for compensation for withholding receipt for rent paid, under section forty-seven;

(c) suits to contest the exercise of the powers of distress conferred on landholders and others by this Act, or anything purporting to be done in exercise of the said powers, or for compensation for wrongful acts or omissions of a distrainer;

(d) suits by lumberdárs for arrears of Government revenue, payable through them by the co-sharers whom they represent, and for village-expenses and other dues, for which the co-sharers may be responsible to the lumberdár;

(e) suits by muáfídárs or assignees of the Government revenue, for arrears of revenue owing to them as such muáfídárs or assignees;

(f) applications by a landholder, or by an agent employed by a landholder, to compel the production of accounts by patwáris;

(g) applications by a tenant or landholder to determine the value of any standing crops or ungathered products of the earth, and being on the land at the time of his ejectment, under section forty-one;

(h) applications by a landholder to determine the amount of rent payable by a tenant using land for the purpose of tending or gathering in crops, under section forty-one;

(i) applications by a landholder or a tenant for assistance in the division or appraisement of standing crops, under section forty-two;

(j) suits by taluqdárs or other superior proprietors for arrears of revenue due to them as such.

(k) applications by tenants for leave to deposit rent.

Additional suits and applications cognizable by Assistant Collectors, first class.

98. Assistant Collectors of the first class, in addition to the suits and applications specified in section ninety-seven, shall have power to try suits and applications of the following descriptions:—

(a) suits to eject a tenant for any act or omission detrimental to the land in his occupation, or inconsistent with the purpose for which the land was let;

(b) suits to cancel a lease for any breach of any condition binding on the tenant;

(c) applications by a landholder to eject a tenant with right of occupancy, under section thirty-four;

(d) applications under section thirty-eight by a tenant contesting notice of ejectment;

(e) applications by a landholder under section thirty-nine, for assistance to eject a tenant on whom notice of ejectment has been served;

(f) applications for compensation for illegal dispossession;

(g) applications by a landholder or tenant to determine the amount to be paid as compensation for improvements;

(h) suits for the recovery of any over-payment or rent or for compensation, under section forty-seven or section forty-eight;

(i) suits by co-sharers for their recorded shares of the profits of a mahál or any part thereof, after payment of the Government revenue and village-expenses, or for a settlement of accounts;

(j) applications to recover the occupancy of any land from which a tenant has been illegally dispossessed by the landholder.

Additional suits cognizable by Collector, first class, specially empowered.

99. In addition to the powers specified in sections ninety-seven and ninety-eight, an Assistant Collector of the first class specially empowered by Government in this behalf shall have power to try the following applications:—

(a) applications for enhancement of rent of a privileged or an occupancy-tenant;

(b) applications for abatement of rent;

(c) applications under section twenty-nine for the resumption of rent-free grants, or for the assessment to rent of land hitherto held rent-free;

(d) applications for leases or counterparts, and the determination of the rates of rent at which such leases or counterparts are to be delivered;

(e.) applications to determine the nature or class of a tenant's tenure.

Power to make over cases.

100. The Collector of the District, or any Assistant Collector in charge of a sub-division of a district, or officer in charge of a settlement, may make over any case, or class of cases for inquiry and decision, from his own file, to any of his subordinates competent to deal with such case or class of cases under the provisions of this Act.

Power to withdraw cases.

101. Collectors of Districts, and Assistant Collectors in charge of sub-divisions of Districts, and officers in charge of a settlement, may, respectively, withdraw any case or class of cases from any Officers subordinate to them, and may deal with such case or class of cases themselves, or refer it for disposal to any other such Revenue Officer competent to deal with the same under the provisions of this Act.

Exercise by Collector of District of powers conferrible on Assistant Collector.

102. The Collector of the District may exercise

(a) all powers given by this Act to Collectors of Districts,

(b) all powers which by this Act are conferred, or can be conferred, on Assistant Collectors.

Investment of officer in charge of sub-division with powers of Collector of District.

The Local Government may invest any officer placed in charge of a sub-division of a district with all or any of the powers conferred by this Act on a Collector of a District.

CHAPTER VI.

PROCEDURE IN SUITS UP TO JUDGMENT.

Place where suits to be instituted.

103. Suits under this Act shall be instituted in the District in which the subject of the suit, or some part thereof, is situate,

Mode of instituting suits. Contents of plaint or statement of claim.

and all such suits shall be commenced by presenting to the Court a plaint or statement of claim, which shall contain—

(a) the name, description and place of abode of the plaintiff;

(b) the name, description and place of abode of the defendant, so far as they can be ascertained;

(c) the subject-matter of the claim, and its amount or value computed according to the Court Fees Act, 1870; and

(d) the date on which the right to sue accrued.

Managers of estates to be deemed landholders.

104. For the purpose of suing or being sued under this Act, the managers of estates, whether held under the Court of Wards or under direct management, shall be deemed to be landholders.

Suits by sharers in a mahál.

105. No co-sharer in an undivided property shall in that character be entitled separately to sue a tenant under this Act unless he is authorized to receive from such tenant the whole of the rent payable by such tenant.

Statement by whom to be presented.

106. The statement of claim shall be presented by the plaintiff, or by an agent duly authorized on his behalf, who has personal knowledge of the facts of the case, or by an agent accompanied by a person who has such knowledge.

Verification of statement.

The statement of claim shall be subscribed and verified at the foot by the plaintiff or his agent in the manner following, or to the like effect:—

"I, A. B., do declare that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief."

False averment.

If the statement contains any averment which the person making the verification knows or believes to be false, or does not know or believe to be true, he shall be punishable according to the law for the punishment of giving or fabricating false evidence.

Document relied on by plaintiff to be presented with statement.

107. If the plaintiff rely in support of his claim on any document in his possession, he shall deliver the same to the Court at the time of presenting his statement of claim.

Admission afterwards.

Unless such document be so delivered or its non-production be sufficiently excused, or unless the Court see fit to extend the time for producing the same, it shall not afterwards be admitted.

Procuring production of document in possession of defendant.

108. If the plaintiff require the production of any document in the possession or power of the defendant, he may, at the time of presenting his statement of claim, deliver to the Court a description of the document, in order that the defendant may be required to produce the same.

Statement in suits for arrears of rent.

109. If the suit be for the recovery of an arrear of rent, revenue, share of profit, village-expenses, or other due under section ninety-two, the statement shall specify the name of the village and estate, and of the pargana or other local division in which the land is situate:

and, if the suit be for an arrear of rent alleged to be due from any tenant, the summons shall also specify the quantity of land, and (where fields have been numbered in a Government survey) the number of each field, and yearly rent of the land; the amount (if any) received on account of the year for which the claim is made; and in all cases coming under this section the statement shall specify the amount in arrear, and the time in respect of which it is alleged to be due.

Statement in suits for ejectment.

110. If the suit be for the ejectment of a tenant, from any land, the statement shall describe (as circumstances may require) the extent, situation and designation of the land; and, if necessary for its identification, shall set forth it boundaries.

Return or amendment of statement.

111. If the statement of claim do not contain the several particulars hereinbefore required to be specified therein, or be not subscribed and verified as hereinbefore required, the Court may return the statement to the plaintiff, or, at its discretion, allow it to be amended.

Issue of summons.

112. If the statement of claim be in proper form, the Court, except as otherwise hereinafter specially provided, shall direct the issue of a summons to the defendant,

Order for personal attendance or appearance by agent.

and if the plaintiff require the personal attendance of the defendant, and satisfy the Court that such attendance is necessary, or the Court of its own accord require such attendance, the summons shall contain an order for the defendant to appear personally on a day to be specified in the summons.

If the plaintiff or the Court does not require the personal attendance of the defendant, the summons shall order the defendant to appear either personally or by an agent duly authorized on his behalf, who has personal knowledge of the subject, or is accompanied by a person who has such personal knowledge.

Fixing of day to be specified in the summons.

113. The day to be specified in the summons shall be fixed with reference to the state of the file and the distance that the defendant may be or be supposed to be at the time from the place where the Court is held,

and the summons shall order the defendant to produce any document in his possession or power of which the plaintiff demands inspection, or upon which the defendant relies in support of his defence.

Order to produce documents.

It shall also direct him to bring with him his witnesses, if they are willing to attend without issue of process, and shall be in the form D contained in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

Order to bring witnesses.

114. The summons shall be served by delivering a copy thereof to the defendant personally when practicable;

Mode of serving summons.

or, if the copy cannot be delivered to the defendant personally, by affixing copy of the summons to some conspicuous part of his usual residence, and also affixing a copy of the same in the Collector's Office.

115. If the summons be served by delivering a copy to the defendant personally, the Názir shall endorse on the summons the fact of such service.

Endorsement on summons.

If personal service be not effected, the Názir shall endorse on the summons the reason of not serving it personally, and how it has been served.

116. If the usual residence of the defendant be in another district, the summons, together with the cost of the service thereof, shall be sent by the public post to the Collector of such District, who shall issue the summons, and return the same, after service, with the prescribed endorsement, to the officer by whom it was transmitted to him.

Service of summons in another district.

117. The amount of the cost of serving the summons,

Deposit of cost of serving summons or warrant.

or, if a warrant be issued as provided in the next succeeding section, of serving the warrant, shall in all cases be deposited in Court by the plaintiff within such time before the issue of such summons or warrant as is fixed by the Court issuing the process.

If the said amount be not so deposited (except in cases in which the Court in exercise of the discretion reserved to it in section eighty-eight allows the summons to be issued gratis), the case shall be struck off the file of suits;

Effect of failure to deposit.

but in such case the plaintiff may present another plaint at any time within the period allowed by the rules herein contained for the limitation of suits.

118. a.—If in any suit against a tenant for the recovery of an arrear of rent, or in any suit for the recovery of an arrear of revenue, or a share of profits or village-expenses or other dues, the plaintiff desires a warrant of arrest to be issued against the defendant, such defendant being resident within the district in which the suit is instituted, the plaintiff shall present, with his statement of claim, an application for the issue of such warrant.

Procedure when plaintiff desires issue of warrant of arrest.

b.—When such application is presented, the Court shall examine the plaintiff or his agent, according to the law for the time being in force in relation to the examination of witnesses, and inspect the documents adduced by him in support of his claim; and if primâ facie it appear to the Court that the claim is well founded, and that, if a summons be issued, the defendant will abscond instead of appearing to answer the claim, the Court may issue a warrant for his arrest.

c.—The Court shall fix a reasonable time for the return of the warrant, and the officer entrusted with the service thereof shall, at the time of arresting the defendant, deliver to him a notice addressed to the defendant containing the particulars of the claim, and requiring the defendant, if he contest the claim, to bring with him any document upon which he relies in support of his defence.

d.—Every warrant issued and notice delivered under this section, shall be respectively in the forms E and F in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

119. If a defendant be arrested under the warrant of arrest, he shall be brought with all convenient speed before the Court, and the Court shall commit him to custody, unless he deposit in Court such sum as may be specified in the notice.

Procedure after arrest of defendant.

120. When a defendant is brought before the Court under warrant, the Court shall with all convenient speed proceed to try the case in the manner hereinafter provided;

Procedure when defendant is brought before Court under warrant.

and if the suit cannot be at once adjudicated, the Court may, if it think fit, require the defendant to give security for his appearance whenever the same may be required at any time whilst the suit is pending, or until execution of the final decree which may be passed thereon, and may commit him to the civil jail to be there detained until he furnishes such security or deposit such sum as the Court orders.

The security-bond shall be in the form G contained in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

Form of security-bond.

121. If the defendant cannot be arrested under the warrant, the Court, on the application of the plaintiff, shall either postpone the case for such period as to it seems proper, in order that the plaintiff may apply within the said period for another warrant to be issued for the arrest of the defendant, or shall forthwith issue a proclamation, to be affixed in its own office and at the residence of the defendant, appointing a day for the hearing of the case, which shall not be less than ten days from the date of the publication of the notice, at the residence of the defendant.

Procedure when defendant cannot be arrested under warrant.

If the defendant appear in pursuance of the proclamation, he shall be dealt with as provided in the last preceding section.

Compensation for arrest applied for without reasonable cause.

122. If it appear to the Court that the arrest of the defendant was applied for without reasonable cause, the Court may, in its decree, award to him such sum not exceeding one hundred rupees as it may deem a reasonable compensation for any injury or loss which he has sustained by reason of such arrest, or of his detention in jail during the pendency of the suit.

Consequence of neither party appearing on day fixed.

123. If on the day fixed by the summons or proclamation for the appearance of the defendant, or on any subsequent day to which the hearing of the case may be adjourned prior to the recording of an issue for trial as hereinafter provided, neither of the parties appear in person or by an agent, the case may be struck off, with liberty to the plaintiff to bring a fresh suit, unless precluded by the rules herein contained for the limitation of suits.

Judgment by default.

Decree upon admission of claim.

124. If on any such day the defendant only appear, the Court shall pass judgment against the plaintiff by default, unless the defendant admit the plaintiff's right to the relief which he claims, in which case the Court shall proceed to give judgment for the plaintiff upon such admission without costs:

Proviso.

Provided that such judgment, if there be more than one defendant, shall be only against the defendant who makes the admission.

If plaintiff only appear, Court may proceed ex parte.

125. If on any such day the plaintiff only appear, the Court, upon proof that the summons or proclamation has been duly served according to the provisions of this Act, shall proceed to examine the plaintiff or his agent, and after considering the allegations of the plaintiff, and any documentary or other evidence adduced by him, may either dismiss the case or postpone the hearing of it to a future day for the attendance of any witness the plaintiff may wish to call, or may pass judgment ex parte against the defendant.

If defendant appear on adjourned hearing, Court may allow him to be heard in answer.

126. If the defendant appear on any subsequent day to which the hearing of the suit is postponed under the last preceding section, the Court may, upon such conditions, if any, as to costs or otherwise as it thinks proper, allow the defendant to be heard in answer to the suit as if he had appeared on the day fixed for his attendance.

No appeal from judgment ex parte or by default;

127. No appeal shall lie from a judgment passed ex parte against a defendant who has not appeared, or from a judgment against a plaintiff by default for non-appearance.

but Court may revive suit and alter or rescind decree.

But in all such cases if the party against whom judgment has been given appears, either in person or by agent, if a plaintiff, within fifteen days from the date of the Court's order, and, if a defendant, within fifteen days after any process for enforcing the judgment has been executed, or at any earlier period, and shows good and sufficient cause for his previous non-appearance, and satisfies the Court that there has been a failure of justice, the Court may, upon such terms and conditions as to costs or otherwise as it thinks proper, revive the suit and alter or rescind the decree, according to the justice of the case.

Adverse party to be summoned.

But no decree shall be reversed or altered without previously summoning the adverse party to appear and be heard in support of it.

Examination and cross-examination of parties.

128. When both parties appear in person or by agent on the day named in the summons, or upon any subsequent day to which the hearing of the case may be adjourned, for sufficient reason to be recorded by the Court, the Court shall proceed to examine such of the parties as may be present, and either party or his agent may cross-examine the other party or his agent.

Examination and cross-examination of agents.

129. If either of the parties be not bound to attend personally, any agent by whom he appears or any person accompanying such agent, may be examined and cross-examined in like manner as the party himself would have been if he had attended personally.

Defendant may file written statement.

130. At the time of the examination, the defendant may, if he think fit, file a written statement in his defence.

Mode of examination.

131. The examination of the parties or their agents or such other persons as aforesaid shall be according to the law for the time being in force relative to the examination of witnesses.

The substance of the examination shall be reduced to writing in the vernacular language of the presiding officer, and shall be filed with the record.

Witness produced may be examined.

132. If either of the parties produce a witness on such day, the presiding officer may take the evidence of such witness.

Document relied on by defendant to be produced at first hearing.

133. If the defendant rely on any document in support of his defence, he shall deliver the same into Court at the first hearing of the suit:

and unless such document be so delivered, or its non-production be sufficiently excused, or unless the presiding officer see fit to extend the time for delivering the same, it shall not afterwards be admitted.

Decree after examination, if no further evidence is required.

134. If after the examination required by section one hundred and twenty-eight, and also the examination of any witness who may attend to give evidence on behalf of either of the parties, and after a consideration of the documentary evidence adduced, a decree can be properly made without further evidence, the Court shall make its decree accordingly.

Party to attend in person when his agent is unable to answer.

135. If on such examination as aforesaid either party be absent and his agent be unable to answer any material question relating to the case which the Court is of opinion that the party whom he represents ought to answer, and is likely to be able to answer if interrogated in person, the Court may postpone the hearing of the case to a future day, and direct that the party whose agent was unable to answer as aforesaid shall attend in person on such day;

Judgment or order if he fail to appear.

and if such party fails to appear in person on the day appointed, the Court may pass judgment as in case of default, or make such other order as it deems proper in the circumstances of the case.

Procedure when parties at issue on question requiring evidence.

136. If on such examination as aforesaid it appear that the parties are at issue on any question upon which it is necessary to hear further evidence, the Court shall declare and record such issue, and shall fix a convenient day for the examination of witnesses and the trial of the suit; and the trial shall take place on that day, unless there be sufficient reason for adjourning it, which reason shall be recorded by the Court.

Parties to produce witnesses or procure attendance by summon.

137. The parties shall produce their witnesses on the day of trial, and if either party require assistance to procure the attendance of a witness on such day, either to give evidence or to produce a document, he shall apply to the Court in sufficient time before the day fixed for the trial, to enable the witness to be summoned to attend on that day; and the Court shall thereupon issue a summons requiring such witness to attend.

Provisions regarding attendance, examination, &c., of witnesses.

138. The law and rules for the time being in force relating to the evidence of witnesses, for procuring the attendance of witnesses and the production of documents, and for the examination, remuneration and punishment of witnesses, whether parties to the case or not, in cases before the Civil Courts, shall, except so far as may be inconsistent with the provisions herein contained, apply to suits under this Act.

Case to be struck off if neither party appears.

139. If on the day fixed for the trial of any issue neither of the parties appear, the case may be struck off, with liberty to the plaintiff to bring a fresh suit, unless precluded by the rules herein contained for the limitation of suits.

Trial of issue ex parte.

If on any such day one only of the parties appear, the issue may be tried and determined in the absence of the other party, upon such evidence as may be then before the Court.

Provisions to apply when suits are instituted or defended on behalf o landholders by agents.

140. When suits under this Act are instituted or defended by authorised agents employed in the collection of rent or management of land, in the name and on the behalf of the landholders by whom they are so employed, all the provisions of this Act, by which the personal appearance or attendance of parties to a suit is or may be required, shall be applicable to such agents;

and anything which, by this Act, is required or permitted to be done by a party in person, may be done by any such person as aforesaid.

Processes served on such agents.

Processes served on any such agent shall be as effectual for all purposes in relation to the suit, as if the same had been served on the landholder in person:

and all the provisions of this Act relative to the service of processes on a party to the suit shall be applicable to the service of processes on such agent.

Personal attendance of female plaintiff or defendant when not required.

141. A female plaintiff or defendant shall not be required to attend in person, if she be of a rank or class which, according to the custom and manners of the country, would render it improper for her to appear in public.

Parties may employ agents or mukhtárs;

142. Any party to a suit may employ an authorized agent or mukhtár to conduct the case on his behalf:

Personal attendance when not excused.

But the employment of such agent or mukhtár shall not excuse the personal attendance of the plaintiff or defendant, in cases where his personal attendance is required by the summons, or any order of the Court;

Fee for agents not chargeable as costs.

and no fee for any agent or mukhtár shall be charged as part of the costs of suit in any case under this Act, unless the Court certify that, under the circumstances of the case, such fee is proper to be allowed.

Court may grant time or adjourn hearing.

143. The Court may in any case grant time to the plaintiff or defendant to proceed in the prosecution or defence of a suit, and may also, from time to time, in order to the production of further evidence, or for other sufficient reason to be recorded by the Court, adjourn the hearing of any case, to such day as to it may seem fit.

Court may cause local enquiry and report, or may itself enquire.

144. The presiding officer may, at any stage of a case, cause a local inquiry and report respecting the matter in dispute to be made by any officer subordinate to it, or by any other officer of Government, with the consent of the authority to whom such officer is subordinate, or may himself proceed to the spot, and make such local inquiry in person.

Provisions applied to such enquiry.

The provisions of the law for the time being in force relative to local inquiries by Amíns or Commissioners, under orders of the civil courts, shall apply to any local inquiry made by any officer under this section, and, so far as they are applicable, to inquiries made by the presiding officer of the court in person.

Record in case of enquiry by Court.

In the latter case the presiding officer, after completing the inquiry, shall record such observations as appear to him appropriate, and the observations so recorded shall form part of the proceedings in the suit.

Defendant may pay admitted debt and cost into Court.

145. The defendant in any suit under this Act may pay into Court such sum of money as he thinks a full satisfaction for the demand of the plaintiff, together with the costs incurred by the plaintiff up to the time of such payment, and such sums shall be paid to the plaintiff.

Plaintiff chargeable with subsequent costs if he proceed and recover no further sum.

If the defendant deposit less than the sum claimed and the plaintiff elect to proceed in the case, and ultimately recover no further sum than has been paid into Court, the plaintiff shall be charged with any costs incurred by the defendant in the suit after such payment.

No interest to plaintiff after date of deposit by defendant.

146 No interest shall be allowed to a plaintiff on any sum paid by the defendant into the Court from the date of such payment, whether such sum be in full of the plaintiff's claim, or fall short thereof.

In suits where right to receive rent is disputed, third person who has received it to be made a party.

147. When in any suit between a landholder and a tenant under this Act, the right to receive the rent of the land or tenure cultivated or held by the tenant is disputed on the ground that some third person has actually and in good faith received and enjoyed such rent before and up to the time when the right to sue accrued, such third person may be made a party to the suit, and the question of such receipt and enjoyment of the rent by such third person may be enquired into, and the suit shall be decided according to the result of such enquiry:

Saving of right to sue in Civil Court to prove title to rent.

Provided that the decision of the Court shall not affect the right of either party entitled to the rent of such land, to establish his title by suit in the Civil Court, if instituted within one year from the date of the decision.

Court may order tenant to repair damage caused by certain acts or omissions.

148. Whenever a decree is given for the ejectment of a tenant, or the cancelment of his lease, on account of any act or omission by which the land in his occupation has been damaged, or which is inconsistent with the purpose for which the land has been demised, the Court may, if it think fit, allow the tenant to repair such damage within one month from the date of the decree, or order him to pay such compensation, or make such other order in the case, as the Court thinks fit, and if such damage be so repaired, or compensation paid, or order obeyed, the decree shall not be executed.

Delivery of judgment.

149. Every judgment under this chapter shall be pronounced in open Court.

Language and contents.

150. The judgment shall be written in the vernacular language of the presiding officer and shall contain the reasons for the same, and shall be dated and signed by the presiding officer at the time it is pronounced:

When it may be in English.

Provided that the judgment may be written in English, if the presiding officer is able to write a clear and intelligible decision in that language.

Power to hold Court in any place within district.

151. Every officer invested with powers under this Act may hold a Court for hearing and determining suits under this Act in any place within the limits of the district to which he is appointed.

Every hearing shall be in open Court, and the parties to the suit or their authorized agents shall have due notice to attend in such place.

CHAPTER VII.

PROCEDURE IN EXECUTION OF DECREE.

Mode of executing decree for ejectment of tenant.

152. If the decree be for the ejectment of any tenant from land occupied by him, the decree shall be executed by giving the possession or occupancy of the land to the person entitled by the decree thereto.

Magistrate to give it effect in case of opposition.

If any opposition is made to the execution of the order for giving such possession or occupancy, by the party against whom the order is made, the Magistrate on the application of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, shall give effect to the same.

Power to order detention in, or commitment to, civil jail, in certain cases.

153. If the decree or order be for the payment of arrears of rent, or of money, or for the delivery of papers or accounts, and the defendant has been committed to jail, or appear in Court pursuant to the conditions of any security-bond given under section one hundred and twenty, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may order that he be detained in, or committed to, the civil jail, unless he immediately pay into court the amount of the decree with costs, or otherwise comply with the terms of the decree or order.

Process against surety on failure to deliver judgment-debtor into custody.

154. If the judgment-debtor has given security for his appearance, and is not present when judgment is pronounced, and the surety fails to deliver him into custody when required so to do, process of execution may be taken out against the surety in the same manner as if a decree for the amount due by the debtor had been passed against the surety.

Process of execution against person or property, but not both.

155. A writ of execution may be issued against either the person or the property of a judgment-debtor;

but process shall not be issued simultaneously against both person and property.

Applications on which it may issue.

Such writ may be issued on the oral application of the judgment-creditor, his agent, or mukhtár, made at the time the decree is passed, or thereafter, upon the written application of the judgment-creditor, his agent, or mukhtár.

Form of writ of execution.

Writ of execution against the person or moveable property of a debtor shall be in the form H or I contained in the first schedule hereto annexed, or to the like effect.

Execution against moveable property.

156. Any moveable property required to be seized under an execution shall, if practicable, be described in a list to be furnished by the judgment-creditor;

but, if the creditor is unable to furnish such list, he may apply for a general attachment of the debtor's effects, to the amount of the judgment and costs.

In either case, the property to be seized shall be pointed out to the officer entrusted with execution of the process by the creditor, or his agent:

Articles excepted from attachment.

Provided that no implements of husbandry, or cattle actually employed in agriculture, or tools of artisans, shall be attached under this section.

Date and duration of writs.

157. Every writ of execution shall bear date on the day on which it is signed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and shall continue in force for such period as he may direct (not being more than sixty days) calculated from such date.

Second and successive writs.

158. Second and successive writs of execution may be issued by order of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector on the application of the judgment-creditor, after the expiration of the period fixed for the continuance in force of a previous warrant.

After one year execution not to issue without notice to party concerned.

159. Process of execution shall not be issued upon any judgment without previous notice to the party against whom execution is applied for, if, when application for the issue of the process is made, a period of more than one year shall have elapsed from the date of the judgment, or from the date of the last previous application for execution.

Execution not to issue against heir or representative of deceased party without notice.

160. Execution on a judgment shall not issue against the heir or other representative of a deceased party, unless notice to appear and be heard have been previously served on such heir or other representative.

No process of execution after three years, if judgment be for sum not exceeding 500 rupees.

161. No process of execution shall be issued on a judgment under this Act, after the lapse of three years from the date of such judgment, unless the judgment be for a sum exceeding five hundred rupees;

Regulation of period in such cases.

in which case the period within which execution may be had shall be regulated by the general rules in force in respect to the period allowed for the execution of decrees of the Civil Court.

Procedure in execution of writ against person.

162. If a writ issue for taking any person in execution, the officer charged with the execution of the writ shall bring him with all convenient speed before the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector.

If such person does not then deposit in Court the full amount specified in the writ, or make such arrangement for the payment of the same as is satisfactory to the judgment-creditor, or satisfy the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector that he has no present means of paying the same amount,

the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall send him to the civil jail there to remain for such time as may be directed by a warrant addressed to the keeper of the jail, unless in the meantime he pays the full amount, for the payment of which he is liable under the decree:

Limit of imprisonment.

Provided that the time for which a debtor may be confined in execution of a decree under this Act, shall not exceed three months when the amount decreed (exclusive of costs) does not exceed fifty rupees,

or six months when such amount does not exceed five hundred rupees,

or two years in any other case.

No person to be imprisoned a second time under same judgment.

163. Any person once discharged from jail shall not be imprisoned a second time under the same judgment.

When further liability extinguished.

If the amount due under the decree do not exceed one hundred rupees, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may declare such discharged person absolved from further liability under that decree.

When not extinguished.

In other cases the discharge shall not extinguish the liability of the discharged person under the decree, or exempt any property belonging to such person from attachment in execution of the same.

Diet-money to be deposited at time of issue of warrant.

164. Every person applying for the issue of a warrant of arrest under section one hundred and eighteen, or suing out process of execution against the person of any judgment-debtor, shall deposit in Court, when the warrant issues, diet-money for thirty days at such rate not exceeding two annas per diem, as the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may direct, unless for any special reason he directs that deposit be made at a higher rate, which shall not exceed four annas per diem.

Effect of non-payment of diet-money in advance during imprisonment.

165. Payment of diet-money at the same rate shall be made previously to the commencement of each succeeding month of the imprisonment, on failure of which the party confined shall be discharged.

166. All diet-money spent in providing subsistence for any prisoner shall be added to the costs in the suit,

Diet-money spent to be costs in suit.

and any diet-money not so spent shall be returned to the person who deposited the same.

Refund of remainder.

167. In executing a writ of execution against the moveable property of a debtor liable under this Act, the officer charged with the execution of the writ shall prepare a list of the property pointed out by the judgment-creditor, and shall publish a proclamation, specifying the day upon which the sale is intended to be held, together with a copy of the said list, at the intended place of sale and at the residence of the debtor.

Procedure in executing writ against moveable property.

A copy of the said proclamation and list shall be sent to the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and shall be affixed in his office.

168. No moveable property taken in execution under this Act shall be sold before the expiration of ten days next after the day on which such property is so taken.

Time to elapse before sale of moveable property.

Until such sale the property shall be deposited in some fit place, or it may remain in custody of some fit person approved by the officer executing the writ.

Custody meanwhile.

The provisions of sections seventy-three to seventy-seven (both inclusive) so far as the same are applicable, shall apply to sales under this section.

Provisions applied to sale.

169. No irregularity in publishing or conducting a sale of any moveable property under an execution shall vitiate such sale,

Sale not vitiated by regularity in publishing or conducting it.

but any person injured by such irregularity may recover compensation for such injury by suit in the Civil Court:

Right to sue for compensation.

Provided that such suit be brought within one year from the date of sale.

Limitation.

170. In the execution of any decree for the payment of money under this Act, if satisfaction of the judgment cannot be obtained by execution against the person or moveable property of the debtor, the judgment-creditor may apply for execution against any immoveable property belonging to such debtor, and such property may be sold under the rules contained in the North-Western Provinces Land Revenue Act, 1873, regulating the sale of land for arrears of land-revenue, but without prejudice to the incumbrances (if any) to which it is subject.

In executing decrees for money, when execution may be applied for against immoveable property.

171. If the immoveable property against which execution is applied for be other than a mahál, or share of a mahál, process shall be issued in the same manner as for the attachment and sale of moveable property: and the provisions of sections one hundred and sixty-seven, one hundred and sixty-eight, and one hundred and sixty-nine shall be applicable.

Process when the immoveable property is not a mahál.

172. When such property is a mahál, or a share of a mahal, the decree shall be sent for execution to the Collector of the District in which such property is situate,

Process when it is a mahál.

and if the judgment-debtor satisfies the Collector of the District that there is reasonable ground to believe that the amount of the judgment-debt may be raised by mortgage of the property, or by letting it on lease, or by disposing by private sale of a portion of the property or any other property belonging to the judgment-debtor, the Collector of the District may, on the application of the judgment-debtor, postpone the sale for such period as the Collector of the District thinks proper to enable the judgment-debtor to raise the amount,

and if the judgment-debtor satisfies his creditor, the execution shall be stayed, and the Collector shall report the fact to the Court by which the decree was made.

But if the judgment-debtor fails to satisfy his creditor within the period so fixed, the Collector of the District shall cause an accurate rent-roll of the property to be prepared, and ascertain the annual income derivable therefrom.

173. If in the opinion of the Collector of the District such income is sufficient to pay off the judgment-debt with interest at six per cent. per annum, within any period not exceeding fifteen years from the date of the decree, he may transfer the property to the judgment-creditor, or if the judgment-creditor refuse to take it, to some other person, or he may hold it under his own management, for such period not exceeding fifteen years, as may be sufficient for the recovery of the debt with interest as aforesaid, and on such conditions as to the payment of such debt and interest as he deem expedient.

Power to transfer property to judgment-creditor.

Orders passed under this section shall be subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Division and the Board, but shall not be open to appeal to the Civil Court.

174. If in the opinion of the Collector of the District the recovery of the debt under section one hundred and seventy-three is impossible, or if the sale of the property appear to him advisable on other grounds, he shall report the case for orders to the Board.

Report of case to Board.

175. On the receipt of such report, the Board may make, or cause to be made, any further endeavours for the recovery of the debt under the provisions of section one hundred and seventy-three, as to it may seem practicable.

Procedure on receipt of report.

176. If it appear to the Board that the debt cannot be recovered under section one hundred and seventy-three, or if the sale of the property appear to it advisable on other grounds, it shall order the property to be sold, in which case the sale shall be made under the rules in force for the sale of land for arrears of land revenue, but without prejudice to the incumbrances (if any) to which such property may be subject.

Power to order sale of property.

177. If before the day fixed for any sale of any property under this Act, a third party appear before the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector, and claim a right or interest to or in any of the property, he shall examine such party or his agent, according to the law for the time being in force relative to the examination of witnesses,

Examination of third party claiming interest in property.

and, if he see sufficient reason for so doing, may stay the sale of such property.

Stay of sale.

178. The Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may adjudicate upon such claim, and make such order as he thinks fit between the claimant and the plaintiff and defendant in the original suit.

Adjudication of such claims.

In trying such claim, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector shall be guided by the rules contained in this Act, so far as they may be applicable.

Rules applied.

179. If the claimant fail to establish his right to the property taken in execution, the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector may, at the time of disposing of the case, order him to pay to the judgment-creditor the costs of the proceedings on the claim, and also such sum as he thinks sufficient to cover any loss of interest or damage which the judgment-creditor may have sustained by reason of the postponement of the sale of the property.

Compensation awardable against claimant failing to establish right.

180. No appeal shall lie from any order passed under section one hundred and seventy-eight or section one hundred and seventy-nine by the Collector of the District.

No appeal from order under sections 178, 179.

But the party against whom the same is given may bring a suit in the Civil Court to establish his right at any time within one year from the date of the order:

Right to sue in Civil Court

Provided that, if the order be for the sale of the property taken in execution, the suit shall not be for the recovery of such property, but shall be for compensation from the judgment-creditor by whom it was brought to sale.

Proviso.

CHAPTER VIII.

APPEALS.

(a).—From Decrees in Suits.

181. In suits under this Act, tried and decided by a Collector of a District or an Assistant Collector of the first class, if the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed one hundred rupees, his judgment shall be final, and not open to revision or appeal, except as hereinafter provided.

Judgment of Collector final where amount, or value of property in suit does not exceed 100 rupees.

182. All decisions of the Assistant Collector of the second class in suits mentioned in section ninety-two shall be appealable to the Collector of the District, whose order thereon shall (subject to the provisions of section one hundred and eighty-eight) be final where the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed one hundred rupees.

Appeal from decision of Assistant Collector of second class.

183. The petition of appeal shall be presented to the Collector of the District within thirty days from the date of the decree.

Time for presentation.

184. The Collector of the District may either dismiss the petition or may fix a day for hearing the appeal, and in that case shall cause notice of the same to be served on the respondent in the manner hereinafter prescribed for the service of summons.

Procedure on appeal.

If, on the day fixed for hearing the appeal, or any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the appellant does not appear in person or by an agent, the appeal may be dismissed for default.

If the appellant appears and the respondent does not appear in person or by an agent, the appeal may be heard ex parte.

185. If an appeal be dismissed for default of prosecution, the appellant may, within fifteen days from the date of the dismissal, apply to the Collector of the District to re-admit the appeal,

Re-admission of appeal.

and if it be proved to the satisfaction of the Collector of the District that the appellant was prevented by any sufficient cause from appearing when the appeal was called on for hearing, the Collector of the District may re-admit the appeal.

186. After hearing the appeal, the Collector of the District shall give judgment in the manner hereinbefore prescribed for giving judgment in original suits.

Judgment in appeal.

187. In suits in which the judgment of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector is final as provided in section one hundred and eighty-one, he may, upon the application of either party, if preferred within thirty days from the date of the decision, order the rehearing of a suit, upon the ground of the discovery of new evidence or matter material to the issue of the case, which the applicant had no knowledge of, or could not produce, at the time of trial.

Re-hearing of suits not open to appeal.

188. An appeal shall lie to the District Judge from the decision of the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector of the first class, Appeal to District Judge.

in all suits mentioned in section ninety-two in which the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds one hundred rupees, or in which the proprietary title to land has been determined between parties having conflicting claim thereto:

Provided that where the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit exceeds five thousand rupees, the appeal shall lie to the High Court.

Appeal to High Court.

189. The rules for the time being in force in regard to the time within which appeals from the decisions of Civil Courts may be received, and to the manner in which such appeals are heard and determined, and to all proceedings which may be had in respect of such appeals, shall be applicable to appeals to the District Judge or High Court under this Act.

Rules as to time of presentation, &c., to apply.

190. The decisions of District Judges passed in regular appeal under this Act, shall be open to special appeal to the High Court, in the same manner, and subject to the same rules, as the decisions of District Judges passed in regular appeal are open to special appeal under the Code of Civil Procedure and the Indian Limitation Act, 1871.

Special appeal to High Court from District Judge.

(b).—Appeals from Orders.

(1) Assistant Collectors of the second Class.

191. An appeal to the Collector of the District shall lie from all orders passed by an Assistant Collector of the Second Class under this Act, other than orders passed in the course of a suit and relating to the trial thereof.

Appeal from Assistant Collector of second class.

(2) Assistant Collectors of the first Class.

192. An appeal to the Commissioner of the Division shall lie from all orders passed by an Assistant Collector of the first Class, Appeal from orders of Assistant Collectors of first Class on certain application under section 98.

(a) on applications under section ninety-eight, where the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds one hundred rupees,

(b) on applications under section ninety-nine.

193. An appeal to the Collector of the District shall lie from all other orders passed under this Act by an Assistant Collector of the first Class, except—Appeal from other orders of Assistant Collector of the first Class.

(a) orders on applications mentioned in section ninety-seven;

(b) orders on applications mentioned in section ninety-eight;

(c) orders passed in the course of a suit and relating to the trial thereof.

194. The orders of an Assistant Collector of the first class on the following applications shall be final—

Final orders of Assistant Collector of first class.

(a) applications mentioned in section ninety-seven;

(b) applications mentioned in section ninety-eight, where the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed one hundred rupees.

(3) Collector of the District.

195. An appeal to the Commissioner of the Division shall lie from orders passed by the Collector of the District, Appeal from certain orders of Collector of District.

(a) under section ninety-eight, when the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds one hundred rupees,

(b) under section ninety-nine.

In all other cases orders under this Act passed by the Collector of the District shall be final, subject to review by the Commissioner of the Division or the Board.

(4) Commissioner of the Division.

169. Save as provided by section one hundred and ninety-seven the orders of the Commissioner of the Division shall be final, subject to review by the Board.

Finality of orders of Commissioner of Division.

197. An appeal from the decisions of the Commissioner of Division on appeals against orders passed by the Collector of the District or Assistant Collector on the applications mentioned in section ninety-nine shall lie to the Board, except where the Commissioner of the Division dismisses the appeal.

Appeal to Board from his orders on applications mentioned in section ninety-nine.

In such case the provisions of section one hundred and ninety-eight shall apply.

198. The Board may at any time call for any case which has came before any Commissioner of Division, or any Court subordinate to him, and pass such orders thereon, consistent with this Act, as the Board thinks fit.

Power of Board to call for cases and pass orders thereon.

199. No appeal shall be brought to the Collector of the District after the expiration of thirty days, or to the Commissioner of the Division after the expiration of sixty days, or to the Board of Revenue after ninety days from the date of the order complained of.

Time for appealing.

200. Any appeal under this Act may be admitted after the period of limitation prescribed therefor when the appellant satisfies the officer to whom he appeals that he had sufficient cause for not presenting the appeal within such period.

Admission of appeals after prescribed period.

No appeal shall lie against an order under this section admitting an appeal.

CHAPTER IX.

MISCELLANEOUS.

201. In computing the period of limitation prescribed for any suit under this Act, the day on which the right to sue accrued shall be excluded.

Time to be excluded in computing limitation period.

In computing the period of limitation prescribed for any appeal under this Act, the day on which the judgment or order complained of was pronounced and the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree or order appealed against shall be excluded.

Rule as to last day for presentation or deposit, when Court is closed on such day.

202. Whenever a Court is closed on the last day of any period provided in this Act for the presentation of any memorandum of appeal, or for the deposit or payment of any money in or into Court, the day on which the Court re-opens shall be deemed to be such last day.

Power of Local Government to make rules.

203. The Local Government may from time time make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) for the guidance of officers in determining the rent payable by privileged tenants under sections fourteen, fifteen and seventeen,

(b) for the guidance of officers assessing rent under section twenty-nine,

(c) as to the dates on which instalments of rent shall fall due.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Power of Board to make rules.

The Board of Revenue, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act,

(d) as to the procedure to be followed on all applications under section ninety-four,

(e) as to the reference of suits and such applications to arbitration,

(f) and generally for the guidance of all persons in matters connected with the enforcement of this Act.

Instalments when to be deemed in arrear.

204. When the Local Government has made a rule fixing the date on which instalment of rent shall fall due, no such instalment shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be in arrear unless it remains unpaid after the date fixed by such rule.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

MEMO. BY COLONEL F. H. RUNDALL. R. E., INSPECTOR GENERAL OF IRRIGATION WORKS ON THE GODAVERY DELTA WORKS.

In the Godavery Delta, besides the Head-works, I inspected the following canals :—

	Miles.
The Junction from Samulcotta to Coconada ...	8
„ Samulcotta Canal	26
„ Ellore	46
„ Nursapoor	44
„ Gunnarum	34
„ Coconada	32
	190

The Anicut was in excellent order, as likewise were all the head-works, with the exception of the undersluice aprons, which require to be strengthened. I would suggest the addition of another retaining wall to these structures with a view to prevent the excessive action which takes place on the rough stone apron. The river bed, both immediately above and below the weirs, appears to me to have been greatly improved, and to be much less obstructed with irregular sand-banks than it used to be. During the floods of last year a heavy scour took place in the Dowlaishwaram Branch, which will require to be carefully watched so as to prevent any parallel current being formed along the south end of the weir. In the other branches the depth of the upper pool was more uniform. Surveys have been taken for several years now, which show the annual changes in the river above the weir. These are very instructive, and enable the Engineers at once to detect and guard against any important or dangerous action. The volume of water passing down the river on the 6th January was 12,896 cubic feet per second. The total capital outlay on the weir, 4,000 yards long and its attendant head-works, has been Rs. 12,27,403. The repairs during the last five years have averaged Rs. 25,250, or a little over 2 per cent.

Of the canals, the Junction and Samulcotta were in very good order; but from the latter not having been closed for clearance for several years, shoals have formed at its head and in a few other places. It is proposed to clear it out during the present season.

On the Coconada Canal, the new first-class locks and other improvements sanctioned by the Government of India in 1870 are approaching completion. The manner in which the new waste weirs had been constructed is, in my opinion, objectionable. Some of the Madras Officers have of late years introduced the construction of cisterns instead of the previously customary level flooring on which to receive the overfall; but the cisterns have been made by raising a wall at the end of the apron, instead of depressing the floor to below the level of the canal bed. The consequence is, that a second overfall is created, which acts injuriously on the rough stone-apron beyond, and the cistern-wall itself, from being placed too close to the main wall of the weir, has been swept away. In localities where dressed-stone is procurable and inexpensive, the cistern-formation, which is quite right when inferior material alone is available, appears to me unnecessary. The object is to provide a cushion of water to receive the overfall; but as a very small depth on the apron answers the purpose of a cushion, and that depth is obtained when less than a foot passes over the crest, so long as that depth only is passing, very little force is exerted. When that depth is exceeded, the cushion of water also rapidly deepens. The tow-paths and embankments in the upper portion of this canal yet require to be put in order.

The Ellore Canal, the high-level line in the Western Delta, is the only one in the Godavery District in an unsatisfactory state. The present District Engineer, Colonel Fischer, is well aware of this, but from its being the most important line of navigation, it is very difficult to find a season in which it is possible to close it without seriously interfering with trade requirements. During the past year, the Canal Districts were visited with extraordinary rains, as much as 8 inches having it is said, on one occasion fallen in five hours, and having been both preceded and followed by heavy rain. The Ellore Canal in consequence suffered considerably in both the Godavery and Kistna sections, more particularly in the latter. The syphons got choked and did not carry off the drainage, and hence the banks of the canal were severely breached. It will be necessary, therefore, to provide additional escapes. It is intended, I was told by Colonel Fischer, to take this canal in hand this season. Much of the soil through which it is excavated is favourable to the growth of weeds and rushes, which have been allowed to extend to so great an extent as to seriously affect the navigation. There was a mistake made originally—for which I am partly answerable myself—in throwing the banks too far back, and allowing too great a width of berm to be submerged. It is this berm which has encouraged the growth of the rushes and weeds. I was surprised, however, to find how little the canals generally were troubled with them, notwithstanding the low velocity which is maintained.

The importance of the Ellore Canal as a line of navigation is very great. It is literally thronged with boats and rafts. The town of Ellore, which had for some years fallen to decay, is now one of the busiest marts in the District. I counted 78 boats on the day I passed through it, all busy loading or discharging. It is the principal entrepôt to which produce from the Nizam's dominions is brought either for shipment to Coconada, or conveyance to Bezwada and the Kistna District generally. There is a very extensive tract of cultivation beneath it now, where formerly, before its construction, only a poor and precarious crop was raised. By means of these high-level canals there is a continuous line of water-communication from Cocanada to Nizampatam, the respective ports of the two Districts, 166 miles in length.

The line next in importance is the Nursapoor Canal, which branches off at about 8 miles from the head of the Western Delta and runs to its extremity, being connected with the tidal portion of the Godavery at Nursapoor, and with the tidal River Oopootair, which separates the Godavery and Kistna Deltas, and to which a canal from the old Station of Masulipatam will eventually be brought.

In 1871 the Government of India sanctioned estimates to the amount of Rs. 13,04,640 for completing the system of irrigation and navigation in the Western Delta. Amongst these estimates was a new cut, with a double lock from the head of the Ellore Canal, to re-place the old structure by which boats were passed into the Akeed Line. The earth-work on this cut had been completed, and the lock well advanced when I inspected the works. It is hoped this link will be opened before the end of the current official year. In the same estimate were included new first class locks for the Nursapoor Canal. Two of these, with their respective waste weirs, had been finished, and a third was being commenced. The canal itself is in very good order, with the exception of the towing-path on the left bank, which requires to be raised and strengthened. Since I last saw this work, the avenues have grown up and add greatly to its ornamental appearance. Upwards of 100,000 acres are irrigated from this canal and its branches.

The Gunnarum Canal runs along the margin of the Central Delta to the great aqueduct which conveys water to the island of Nuggarum, one of the most fertile parts of the Delta, and where sugarcane is largely cultivated. The aqueduct which has now been furnished with towing-paths protected by a neat iron-railing is in good order. The bed of the river above the aqueduct appears to have silted up considerably, and is of more uniform section than formerly. The dangerous deep channel which used to run close under the left wing-wall has been diverted. The Main Canal through Nuggarum is in excellent order, but the portion above the acqueduct, and between it and the second lock, requires attention, especially on the river bank side, on which there has in places been considerable erosion.

A good deal yet remains to be done to the Central Delta. Plans and estimates for the completion of the remaining works are now under preparation. When they, together with those which have already been sanctioned for the Eastern and Western Deltas, have been carried out, this great project may be said to be completed. It will, however, be some years before this is the case, for there is considerable difficulty now experienced in obtaining labour, for which there is great demand in several directions.

There is also an insufficiency of carrying plant, which has not of late years been kept up to a proper point of efficiency. The present District Engineer has done what he could towards supplying the deficiency and putting the boats into better order, but many of them are so old, that they cannot be used much longer. The slow progress which has been made on these works has lately been commented on both by the Government of India and the Secretary of State. In order, therefore, to ensure their being carried on more vigorously than hitherto, it will be necessary to increase the number of boats at the District Engineer's disposal. On examining the quantity of material to be carried annually, and the means available for the purpose, I came to the conclusion that at least 15 new boats of 50 tons each were required, and I would, therefore, suggest that this number be either obtained from England, or be built on the spot, whichever may prove to be the quickest method.

The supply of stone in the Dowlaishwaram quarries is now apparently nearly exhausted, while the general quality of the stone is inferior. I think the time has come for new quarries to be opened higher up the river where there is an inexhaustible supply, and where stone could be obtained probably quite as cheaply as from Dowlaishwaram, notwithstanding the additional distance that it would have to be transported by the river. With a view to these quarries being worked, I would suggest the retention of the steamer Shamrock, which is a vessel of light draught, in preference to despatching her to Burmah, as was lately ordered in the Agriculture, Revenue and Commerce Department—a measure which, I think, would be accompanied with a considerable amount of risk and danger even under the most favourable circumstances.

I examined the steamers now at Dowlaishwaram, and append a description of the state in which they at present are. The only vessel which can be properly spared is the Prince, and this the Madras Government has, I believe, made over to the Master Attendant at Cocanada for employment in the harbour.

There are six dredgers, for all of which there is ample work, but from an insufficiency of punts, they can neither be worked continuously or as economically as they should be. There ought to be at least 60 punts, or 10 to each dredger, whereas there are only at present 32 punts in all, and these are often diverted from their proper work to carry stone. If systematically employed, the dredgers would obviate in many cases the necessity for closing the canals for clearance, and would prevent obstructions to navigation by at once removing shoals that often unavoidably form at certain points in every canal.

The dredgers are essentially part of the plant required for the annual repairs, and the cost of working them should be provided from the grant under that head. The 28 punts required to make up the full number which should be attached to each dredger should be supplied at once by an assignment for Tools and Plant. Their dimensions are 60 feet long by 10 feet beam and 2 feet deep, and they should be made of iron.

There are two dredgers also specially provided for harbour work, and if the full number of punts be attached to them, and the tug steamer, which was originally built for the purpose, regularly employed, they would effectually keep the approach to the Coconada River clear and maintain a deep channel at all times of tide from the mouth of the river to the shipping. An assignment of Port or Local Funds should provide for the expense of this essential work, for Coconada has now become an important sea town, in whose prosperity and in the efficiency of whose harbour the whole district is intimately interested. The great progress which it has made within the last 30 years is best understood by those who have known and watched its growth in that period, while the statement of the trade carried on there, which will be adverted to in another part of this Note, will be sufficient evdience generally of the importance to which the port has attained.

It is matter for regret that measures recommended 20 years ago for its preservation were not carried out, for the result of leaving it uncared for has been a gradual shifting of the anchorage to the north-ward until it is now over 3 miles instead of being only 1 mile from the mouth of the Coconada River. I believe that if the branches of the Godavery which discharge into the Bay had been closed, and the river confined to its main outlet, the silting up of the Bay would have been stopped, and Point Godavery extended further north would have enclosed and sheltered a still greater area than at present, while the anchorage would have remained where it was at that time.

The degree of prosperity to which the Godavery Works have raised the District has already exceeded what were then considered the over-sanguine expectations of its projector, and from being one of the poorest and most neglected of the Madras Provinces, it now contributes to the Imperial Exchequer a revenue only second to that of Tanjore. There has been much controversy on this point, and many doubts expressed as to the results of these works being as great as represented. I have, therefore, thought it advisable to collect as many statistics as possible, regarding which there could be no doubt, and will now proceed to notice them seriatim.

First, with reference to the irrigated area, it will be seen from the accompanying statements prepared by the Revenue Officers of the District, that it amounts to 4,97,197 acres. The area entered as watered in the Zemindaries, however, cannot yet be accepted as reliable, for no Revenue Survey has as yet been made in those Estates, and in some instances, as in the Neddavole and Baharzully Estates, a composition rate has been accepted, so in all probability the area in such Estates is much larger than what the amount paid when divided by a water-rate of Rs. 4 per acre exhibits.

There is likewise still no real check exercised by the Irrigation Department of the returns which are furnished by the Village Revenue officials, but it is believed that those returns exhibit a fair approximation to the truth. The Subordinate Establishment attached to the District Engineer for the distribution of the water is also utilised in supervising the execution of repairs, and is too weak, and of too insufficient a character to be useful in ascertaining independently the irrigated area. It does not even attempt to classify the crops, and the so-called check which it is supposed to exercise is not made till the end of the irrigating season. As probably not more than 5 per cent. of the whole area is cultivated with other than paddy-crops, the clasification of the various garden products would not be very laborious.

No reports are furnished of each season's operations beyond what are contained in the Collectors' Annual Statement to the Board of Revenue. It would certainly tend to keep Government and the public better informed if special Revenue Reports, somewhat similar to those rendered by the Irrigation Department in Northern India, were furnished by the Irrigation Officers in Madras.

Included in the above-mentioned irrigated area, 84,027 acres of rent-free and zemindary lands are said to have received irrigation before the anicut project was commenced, and they are, therefore, exempted from water-rates. Out of a total water assessment of Rs. 18,73,484, Rs. 3,36,059 are written off, leaving a balance of Rs. 15,37,425 as the actual sum realized under that head during the year 1870-71.

The gross revenue of the District from all sources has risen since the year 1845, in which the improvements were commenced, from Rs. 20,49;046 to Rs. 53,84,395 in 1870-71.

The trade at the Ports has in the same interval increased from Rs. 12,96,253 to Rs. 78,22,676, that is—

In Exports from Rs. 9,07,774 to Rs. 59,21,558.

And in Imports from Rs. 3,88,479 to Rs. 19,01,118.

In 1869-70 the trade, it will be seen, was Rs. 1,10,26,565. The fluctuation is owing apparently to the reduction in the current value of the articles exported, especially in that of cotton. The above sums are exclusive of bullion, which varies considerably.

The number of vessels and tonnage visiting the Port in 1870-71 were as follows :—

	No.	Tonnage.
British	131	1,07,162
Foreign	47	21,080
Native	385	48,444
TOTAL ...	563	1,75,694

This prosperity in trade is no doubt owing in large measure to the facility and cheapness of communication afforded by so many lines of navigable canals permeatig the Delta. The extent to which they are used will be evident from the statement which shows the number of boats passing through the Head Locks. In the past year these amounted to 13,113 laden boats, measuring 337,117 tons, and 15,852 empty boats, making a total of 28,965 boats, or a rate of 80 boats per day. In this the intermediate traffic, which does not pass through the Head Locks and of which there is a large quantity, is not included. The number of boats registered in 1871 were—

	No.
Cargo boats	1,221	average 27·8	tons
Passenger "	82	" 57	passengers.
Pleasure "	50	"
TOTAL ...	1,353

From which license fees, amounting to Rs. 39,324, were levied.

I am unable to give the return of the timber-rafts, as they were not complete, but, as noticed before, the timber trade is very large.

The outlay on the Godavery Delta works may thus be summarized—

	Rs.
Capital—
Anicut	12,27,403
Main and distribution channels	33,99,761
Tools and Plant	3,50,039
Compensation for land	15,200
	49,92,404
Establishment and Contingencies	16,81,109
TOTAL ...	66,73,513

The repairs have amounted to Rs. 23,91,796 in 22 years, being at the rate of Rs 1,08,718 or 1·7 per cent. per annum.

Last year the repairs amounted to Rs. 1,30,436, and the irrigated area to 497,007 acres. The charge per acre, therefore, was 0·262 of a rupee, or 4·2 annas nearly.

The Conservancy establishments as marginally detailed cost Rs. 40,248 or ·081, and the share of Executive establishment is stated to be Rs. 25,000, thus making the total charge Rs. 0·393, or Rs. 0-6-4 per acre.

	Rs.
For Irrigation ...	2,023
" Navigation ...	1,321
	3,354 per month.
	12
Total ...	40,248 per annum.

I am inclined to think that the allowance for repairs has been cast too low, and that for a proper maintenance of the works, the above rate per acre is barely sufficient. If increased to 8 annas, it will still be moderate.

The receipts last year under the three following heads were—

			Rs.
Water-rates	...	...	15,37,425
Boat licenses	..	.. ...	39,324
Plantations, &c.	...	... ...	19,891

Repairs		... 1,30 436
Share of Executive establishment		... 25,000
			2,01,339
		Net receipts ...	13,96,301

To the above has to be added the amount by which the land revenue has annually increased in consequence of the works.

The average collections for five years prior to the commencement of the improvements is shown in the District Engineer's Statement as Rs. 17,57,000; those for the year 1871-72, after deducting the above-mentioned sum for water-rate, were Rs. 27,29,000, showing a net increase of Rs. 8,72,000. If this sum be added to the above net receipts of Rs. 13,95,300, the annual increase of revenue directly due to the works will be Rs. 22,67,300, or over 33½ per cent.

A traveller along the Godavery Canals cannot fail to be struck with the number of passenger boats. Not less than 82 of these were registered last year, licensed to carry on an average 57 passengers. Supposing that, on an average, there were only 30 people per boat, the passenger traffic would amount to 2,400 people carried daily. The average distance travelled by each person, probably, being not less than 20 miles, the daily traffic will be represented by 48,000 people, and the yearly traffic by 17,520,000 passengers through one mile. The price at which they are carried is 12 miles for one anna. Similarly, assuming the distance traversed 40 miles, the ton mileage of the goods would be 13,484,680 tons.

There can be no doubt but that these results have fully borne out the far-sightedness of Sir Arthur Cotton in insisting upon the paramount importance for inter-communications of the cheapest character. Sanguinely as he was wont to look forward to the time when the Godavery Canals should be covered with traffic, I doubt whether even he expected that within so short a time traffic could develop to the extent it has done. Certainly the results in that District convey an important lesson in the designing of Irrigation projects which are intended to affect large tracts of country where expensive land carriage has hitherto formed the only means of transport.
